Evans never zeroed in on the Day Care issue

Editor: I must everyone to know that I'm not carrying on a personal vendetta with Pete Evans, but address him as the chief rep. of ASI Gov't, and include ASI Gov't in what I say. And if being concerned with having a good ASI Gov't puts me on an ego trip, then I've got plenty of company.

In Evans's reply to me, there were insults and carrying on about his not raising tuition, I did not accuse him of this. I said, "What students pay if tuition is added at Poly?" In this statement I was referring to possible ASI fees raised in the proposed Day Care Center that if approved would be used by a few and funded by the entire student body. It would raise the tuition higher. The idea didn't occur in the reply concerning the Center. I also saw no reply to my issue of Poly's parking citation money being concern a change in consciousness in the magazine of the management to point out the cruise of the issue. The idea, as I see it, is not that women are deserting their husbands and families in an attempt to liberate themselves, but more importantly that women and men alike desire little thought to the idea of marriage.

The idea of marriage, as a romantic dependency, is best exemplified by a Carly Simon song popular last year: "You pay that we can keep our love alive—hope, all I know is what I see—the couples cling and clame—and drawn in love's deverb—you say we'll soon be like two birds through the clouds—but soon you'll cage me on your shell—"I'll never learn to be just me first—by myself—well, okay it's time we moved in together—and raised a family of our own you and me—"WELL THAT'S THE WAY I ALWAYS HEARD IT SHOULD BE—you want to marry me—"we'll marry" We must be a society of masochists to so eagerly bite into a piece of poisoned pie. And that is the crue of the issue Surprisingly enough, many women in the movement still harbor hopes of a good marriage. Although a faction either tried and failed, or rejected marriage for various and sundry reasons, many women have little change in consciousness on the matter.

Ad sales jobs now available

Jobs are available for people interested in working after-school. The Mustang Daily is a seven-member board to make decisions such as the 13 percent commission on what they sell.

Sign-ups will be taken today after September 28, and after school with staff advisor Loren Nicholson in Graphic Arts Room 328.

by BARBARA FLYNN

This romantic dependency phenomenon, which is so happy ended, plateauing in our society, leaves little question as to why the divorce rate is so high. Marriage has been forced upon us as the ultimate experience, to be a happy ending for all at the women who dangle desperate demands of eyes, as it is something is missing, and there's no hope you're going to find it by reading it. "Marriage" is for better or worse, and it's time we looked for the worst. In a society as flexible as ours, with an increasing life span, adjustments must be made. Some will choose marriage contracts, some will choose to marry at all, and some will choose to marry at all. What they choose is not the point. The point is that it will have to be an individual consideration, which will be necessary to eliminate desperation in luring a spouse. "Marriage" may seem like an easy answer to marriage difficulties. It isn't. A much simpler alternative would be to consider all sides of the institution in terms of the individual involved.

It's high time we realized there is no stereotyped answer for millions of individuals. Nor is there a stereotyped cause for marriage. Cell phones, however, thinking must be a prerequisite to any relationship. Marriage is a whole new ball game.

Troupe shows Shakespeare not all dull and educational

by WINNIE ROBBINS

The New Shakespeare Company of the United States performing Shakespeare's plays with vigorous vitality, enthusiasm, and talent.

Last Friday and Saturday this San Francisco company who believes that Shakespeare is in no way out of date appeared in "As You Like It" and "Romeo and Juliet." The Fine Arts Commission of the city declared this performance which was held in the Little Theater.

Under the exciting direction of Margaret Rume, the company proved that Shakespeare does not have to be "dull, boring, and educational."

Most of the twenty-five members of the company are between 20 and 37 years old. All of the actors succeeded in their attempts to perform Shakespeare as they believe his plays were performed for Elizabethan audiences: direct, involving, and, above all, with humor, flavor, and spontaneity as the only order.

Very definite order prevails, though, when it comes to the duties of production which include stage managing, wrestling, and the problems of publicity and promotion. All of these duties are shared by the actors. The financial rewards the actors and actresses derive are minimal. They are artists devoted to their art, that of acting.

Maria Barron who played Phebe in "As You Like It" seems to express the company's feeling concerning their art: "Acting should involve people, give the audience something.

The New Shakespeare Company does indeed give of themselves, like no other company I have seen.

Outstanding performances were given by Kevin Gardner who moves with the grace of a bird in flight and the force of a man many times his size. Gardner has the ability to get caught up in the parts he plays. He doesn't portray the befuddled Orlando or the lovelorn Rosaline, rather he is Orlando and Rosaline. Connia West is at once, lovely and forgetful; Susan Sabatini is a dynamic, little-in-size actress who has great command of the stage.

The audience favored the company's production with much laughter and applause. It turns out that the company favors us for they have proposed San Luis Obispo as the site of an annual Renaissance Fair in conjunction with the Mozart Festival which takes place in early August.

If you are interested in performing or planning a Renaissance Fair come to a Fine Arts Commission meeting. Meetings are held every Tuesday in CU 216 at 7:19 p.m.

Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke, in his report to the trustees, welcomed Frank P. Adams, Robert F. Beaver, Roy T. Brophy and Mrs. C. Stewart Ritchie, the four Reagan appointees.

In other trustee action, criteria to be used in determining which state colleges will become state universities were approved and will now be submitted to the Coordinating Council for Higher Education for approval.

The board authorized the Committee on Educational Policy to act on behalf of the board during the period of March 10 through July 10 in changing the name of campuses.

William Langendorf, vice chancellor, told the trustees he was "pretty sure" that 11 of the state colleges would be designated as universities and five would not be, according to a report in the Telegram-Tribune.

Drug program money sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Myles J. Ambrose, special assistant attorney general for drug abuse law enforcement, said Monday the Justice Department will ask for $3.7 million to finance a special program in 23 cities and regional areas to combat heroin traffic.

The program, already in progress in New York City, is the first in which the coordinated efforts of federal, state, and local law enforcement officials will be used.

Special teams will begin operations in other target cities immediately, Ambrose said. The number and composition will vary according to population and the number of addicts, and the primary goal will be to disrupt street traffic in heroin.

"We want to make it difficult for addicts to get heroin, and reduce its availability so that youngsters can't experiment with it," Ambrose said.

Letters remain

A substantial number of letters to the editor remain in Mustang Daily files from Winter Quarter. These letters will be published only if the authors of the respective letters agree. Daily office is in Graphic Arts, Room 218.

New Riders of the Purple Sage

New Riders trot into the sunset

by MALCOLM STONE

The New Riders of the Purple Sage rode onto campus Sunday night with a country rock sound that so pleased most of the listeners that they did not overpay. The response of most people I talked to afterward was “they were pretty good.” The New Riders have a way to go before they make the complete transition from an innocent group to country rock stars. Warning up for the Grateful Dead must have been a deadening experience, because the New Riders were injured from an identity problem. They lack a certain something that makes the audience one with the artists, and all of their musical skills cannot overcome the nagging feeling you’d enjoy on the album at home just as much. It is a prevailing truth in the music business that anything a performer can take from another artist and make his own is right on, but the New Riders apologized too often for doing someone else’s tune. No apologies were necessary since they did not attempt to imitate other groups, just played enjoyable music.

They covered a lot of ground from Lee Hazlewood to Chuck Berry and offloaded no one. Some of the songs were “Hello Mary Lou,” “I Don’t Need No Doctor,” Willie and the Hand Jive,” “Hasty” and “The Last Lonely Eagle.”

The warmup group for the New Riders was California Express, a “bluegrass” group. They performed numbers like “Break My Mind,” “Cryin’ Woman,” and “The New Old Kentucky Home,” a tune that must make Stephen Foster queasy. The California Express set the tone of the evening with a lowkeyed style which saw the audience one on the album at home just as much.

‘Soledad Brothers’ are innocent, jury decides

San Francisco (UPI) — An all-white Jury of nine women and three men Monday found the two surviving “Soledad Brothers,” innocent of killing a prison guard in a case linked by the state with that of Angela Davis.

The jury returned the verdict a day after Judge S. Lee Vavrus refused to accept their report that they were deadlocked and sent them back for further deliberations. The jury had the choice of verdicts of murder one manslaughter in arriving at their decision, and rejected all of them.

The two defendants and their attorneys threw their arms around each other when the verdict was announced just before noon.

Evans challenges Chandler about rights

Time and place directive applies to Initiatives

by KATHLEEN HEALY
Managing Editor

"On Friday night, March 10, two students were violated of their first amendment rights...the repression was based on legitimate information and a false interpretation of existing regulations."

"...the seriousness of the crime far overshadowed many that carry stiff penalties...you lay regulations on us like napkins in Vietnam."

Savings from U.C. Berkeley—No—It's AS Press. Pete Evans setting us with a double-barreled shotgun full of anger when students were barred from soliciting signatures in the college theater.

The hassle began, according to Dean of Students Everett Chandler, when students tried to obtain signatures for the marijuana initiative in the lobby of the college theater, after a performance by the San Francisco Mime Troupe.

"After several individuals stated to the theater manager that they were being bothered by the petitioning group, he asked them to go outside the building, which they did," Chandler wrote in a letter to Marking Daily Editor Paul Simon.

On March 10, Chandler was informed of the incident and decided that the President's Directive Regarding Use of State College Buildings and Grounds did apply to the situation.

An open line of the directive requires that "students not part of a recognized organization must obtain the written approval of the Dean of Students, or his designee, the Administrative Vice President," Chandler said.

Approval of the time, manner and place for gathering signatures had not been obtained, so Chandler told the theater staff that a citation for a misdemeanor could be issued if the group returned.

That evening the students returned and were informed that campus security would be called if they did not leave. The group left and one petitioner, Norman Stone, talked to Evans about the problem.

Evans and Stone called Chandler that night to complain about the restriction.

"I explained to both of them that I believed the president's directive to be applicable."

"In response to their charge that such interpretation violated the first amendment constitutional rights, I informed them that I would check with the legal counsel of the chancellor's office early Monday morning. March 13," Chandler wrote.

"Evans, in a letter to Pres. Robert Kennedy and Chandler, asked if the state can regulate time, place and manner about petitions, especially initiatives for the ballots, how in hell are we (remember all?) ever to realize a viewpoint popular with them but not the government?"

Chandler discussed the issue with attorney Robert Henry, who said that in his opinion the directive applied.

"Petitioners do not have absolute freedom to seek signatures without regard for the rights of the people," said Chandler.

Talkers top at Hayward; winners at San Diego

Quarter break started off with Winterfest for the Mustang Club team, with members traveling to tournaments in San Diego and at the University of California at San Diego.

Four students attended the individual Events Championship tournament at San Diego State College on March 17 and 18. The four competed against approximately 80 other students from 10 colleges and universities. All four won awards at the tournament.

Diane Young took first place in lower division persuasive speaking. Her speech on Beethoven was first and second place in every tournament she attended.

Upinder Dhanas took second place in the senior division expository speaking. Dhanas's speech dealt with the art of writing.

Fourth place in impromptu speaking went to Steve Doyle. Doyle spoke on various topics including women's liberation and family life in America.

Patricia Brown, competing in her first year of feminism, made the semi-final round in novice persuasive speaking and oral interpretation. Miss Brown won two superior certificates for her presentations on educational television and man's awareness.

In most debate tournaments, no analysis of debate in- terests are given to Gegard. One of the members missed his plane.

Spring tryouts for comedy set

Auditions for the Speech Department's Spring Quarter production, "You Can't Take It with You," are scheduled for Thursday in Main, Speech, and Drama Room 311.

According to Robin Lake, director of the 1960 comedy, the cast calls for 8 men and 7 women. "You Can't Take It with You," which was written by George Kaufman and Moss Hart, deals with a family—"The Van"—as they develop a new play. The comedy is one of the most successful plays the Kaufman-Hart team wrote.

Field events give track team second at relays

by MALCOLM STONE

The Mustang track team lived up to its billing as a big meet team Saturday when it survived mishaps to tie Idaho State for second place in the college division of the Easter Relays.

Sacramento State won it with 39 points while Idaho and the Mustangs deadlocked at 30 apiece. The University of Southern California surprised no one by scoring 82 points and running off with the university title.

Steve Simmons, Mustang head coach, was pleased with the team's overall performance, especially since he was convinced before the season it would be strong in that type of meet.

"The team is young, but I think they're making good progress," Simmons said. "I thought they did a good job under the circumstances."

The "circumstances" included some tough breaks for the Mustangs. The first problem was John Haley, the team's top sprinter, who was out with an ankle injury. Then in the two-mile relay Bob Chance was tripped when the man ahead of him fell down, and he lost an opportunity to finish in scoring position. "He did a good job of getting up and coming in," Simmons said.

Simmons filed a protest after the 440-yard relay when one of the Westmont runners crossed into the Mustangs' lane and spiked out. Kenny Gold. "Gold got cut up that way, but the protest was not allowed because the lane judges said they did not see it."

Gold's foot was so bad Simmons had to scratch his mile relay team.

Simmons had concentrated his recruiting efforts for this season in the field events, and his efforts paid off even more when the track events fell through. He was as pleased as he said, "I'm going to do more in that area."

Tom Murphy and Randy Zimmer finished first and third in the high jump. Murphy won on fewer misses at 6-4 and Zimmer topped 6-4. Murphy's jump equaled the winning height in the university division, and Zimmer's would have been good enough for second.

Bob Jennings who has not worked out much, because of his basketball duties, won the triple jump at 46-11½. Simmons said his timing and step were off, but he won on "just natural ability."

Sophomore guard Pinky Williams goes high for lay-in during season game. Williams is one of three Mustangs chosen to All-conference first team.

Three on top cage team

Senior Sam Cash of UC Riverside and senior Paul McDaniel of Valley State were voted co-players of the year and rounded out the list of top players.

Jackson, who was voted player of the year for the 1971-72 season, ended the season with a 25.8 scoring average in conference competition. Jennings, who made the second team last year, scored 17.9 points a game while Williams averaged 16.4 points in his first year of varsity play.

The CCAA basketball season finished in a three-way tie between the Mustangs, Valley State, and UC Riverside, who was later named the league champion by the executive board.

Riverside's All-American Cash will compete in the Annual East-West Coaches All-America game at Dayton, Ohio April 1.

Riverside and senior Paul McDaniel will compete in the Annual East-West Coaches All-America game at Dayton, Ohio April 1.

Cash is one of two college division players invited to the contest, the other being Travis Grant of Kentucky State. Cash becomes the first CCAA player ever invited to an All-Star basketball game of this stature.
