PREPARATIONS FOR 40TH POLY ROYAL NEAR COMPLETION; STUDENTS "CATCH THE SUN"

Thousands of Cal Poly students are preparing to "catch the sun and never let it go" as they get ready for the 40th annual Poly Royal to be held on Friday and Saturday (April 28-29). The phrase is the slogan for the college's unique open house.

In 48 academic departments, detailed displays will give insight into the curricula offered in Cal Poly's seven instructional schools, which serve nearly 12,000 students.

The 374-acre center of the 5,169-acre campus will be crammed with aspects of Poly Royal - food concessions, boat and sports car shows, international students displaying the wares of their countries, special interest groups relating information on ecology, water skiing, crafts, student activities, religion and square dancing, and folk singing in a coffee house.

Opening Ceremony at 10:30

Poly Royal, 1972, will begin with an opening ceremony in the College Union Plaza at 10:30 a.m. on Friday. Even before the opening ceremony, the campus will be alive with activity. The popular Poly Royal Horse Show begins in Collet Arena at 9 a.m. and high school Mathematical wizards from throughout California will be registering for the math contest at 8 a.m.

Immediately following the opening ceremony, displays will open in the 44 educational buildings on the center of the campus. The outlying agricultural units -- livestock, dairy, horses, ornamental horticulture, and crops -- will also be open for inspection.

The first of three Poly Royal Rodeo performances will be held in Collet Arena at 2 p.m. on Friday. Other performances will be at 7 p.m. on Friday and 2 p.m. on Saturday. The rodeo will feature Cal Poly's national championship team.

Cal Poly students manning booths at the annual student carnival on the Grand Ave. parking lot will join in laughter with the small fry who toss rings, throw darts, and in other ways attempt to win prizes. Faculty and students will fill the grandstand to cheer on their entry in the annual turtle races of the Rally Club.

Poly Royal visitors can begin early on Saturday with a horse show underway by 8 a.m. and a pancake breakfast, sponsored by the Cal Poly Circle K Club, being served beginning at 8 a.m. on the lawn adjacent to the college theater. Exhibits in the 48 academic departments will be open from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. on Saturday.

A new event, a tractor-pulling contest, will begin at 9 a.m. on an unpaved area near the Grand Avenue entrance to the campus. Farmers will put their favorite wheeled tractor against increasing heavy loads in the contest which is a modern day version of the horse-pulling contest.

Also added to the list of attractions for this year is a dean's cow-milking contest. Deans of Cal Poly's instructional schools will demonstrate their prowess at extracting milk in the special contest in the Dairy Judging Pavilion at 10:30 a.m. on Saturday.

The Poly Royal barbecue will be served in Poly Grove from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Food also will be available at the College Dining Hall and at a wide variety of concession stands on campus.

The 40th annual Poly Royal will draw to a close at a western dance and a new event, an "Over-30 Bunch" dance on Saturday evening. The later event has been especially designed for alumni and visiting parents whose offspring are engaged in activities planned for the younger generation.

The dance, in Crandall Gym, will feature the Collegians dance band and will cost $1 per person. The Alucalipoli, faculty members who are Cal Poly graduates, will host the dance.

Randy Dettmer of Las Fuentes, a fifth-year architecture major, is general superintendent for this year's Poly Royal, a student planned and implemented "Country Fair on a College Campus." More than 2,000 students are involved in planning and preparing the exhibits and special events.

POLY ROYAL CLASS GUIDELINES NOTED

Dale W. Andrews (Academic Vice President) has noted that guidelines relative to Poly Royal, which have been in effect for a number of years, will apply this year. They provide that "Classes scheduled during the Poly Royal period (12 noon, Thursday, April 27, through Saturday, April 29) may be deferred. Although classes will not be held, all students and staff are expected to participate fully in preparation of and participation in the Poly Royal exhibits and events. These days are not considered academic holidays."
CAL POLY RECOMMENDED FOR UNIVERSITY STATUS

Cal Poly is one of 13 institutions definitely recommended for university status in an action to be considered by a key higher education meeting being held today (Tuesday, April 25) in San Francisco.

The Committee on Educational Policy of the Trustees of the California State University and Colleges is scheduled to act on a resolution that designates 13 state colleges as meeting specific criteria at compliance levels necessary to achieve university status.

The resolution includes changing the name of California State Polytechnic College to California Polytechnic State University, San Luis Obispo. Action by the committee will need to be confirmed by the California Coordinating Council on Higher Education.

President Robert E. Kennedy said last week that he believes the Coordinating Council will undoubtedly confirm the action of the Trustees' Committee on Educational Policy.

Other institutions listed on the committee's agenda for university status are: California State College, Fullerton; California State College, Hayward; California State College, Long Beach; California State College, Los Angeles.

Also, Chico State College, Fresno State College, Sacramento State College, San Diego State College, San Fernando Valley State College, San Francisco State College, San Jose State College, and California State Polytechnic College, Pomona.

Eleven of the 13 institutions recommended meet all 5 criteria established for university status. Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo, is among these 11. Two colleges which meet only four criteria have also been recommended.

Both the CSUC Board of Trustees and the Coordinating Council have agreed to an exception on the requirement for earned doctorate degrees among over 50 per cent of the full time regular faculty. The exception applies to schools of agriculture, architecture, and engineering, in recognition of the polytechnic emphasis of Cal Poly.

SPECIAL ACADEMIC SENATE ELECTION PLANNED NEXT WEEK

A special election to select one faculty member from each school of the college to serve on the Academic Senate's recently-established Ad Hoc Committee on Professional Responsibility will be held next Tuesday (May 2), according to a statement from Howard Rhoads (Crop Science Department), chairman of the senate. One member from the professional consultative services of the college will also be chosen during the election.

Rhoads said the faculty members will receive instructions on how to cast their votes from Election Committee representatives in the various Schools. He urged all faculty to vote.

The new committee was established by a vote of the Academic Senate at a special meeting held on April 11. Its purpose is to provide a review by a peer group for faculty members who may be charged with having violated professional responsibility. Such cases would be reviewed under the Statement of Professional Responsibility which was approved during a campus-wide referendum in February, 1971.
CANDIDATES FOR FACULTY POSITIONS SOUGHT BY TWO DEPARTMENTS

Candidates for two teaching positions on the teaching faculty are presently being sought by departments of the college, according to L. R. Voss (Director of Personnel Relations). Those interested in learning more about the positions, or in applying for any of them are invited to contact the appropriate school dean or department head. Cal Poly is an Affirmative Action employer. Brief descriptions of the available positions read:

Lecturer ($705-$1524), Agricultural Engineering Department, School of Agriculture and Natural Resources. Duties and responsibilities include full time teaching in engineering surveying and possibly one other subject area. Applicants must possess a BS degree in agriculture, civil engineering, or land surveying, and must have practical or teaching experience in surveying. Position is a sabbatical leave replacement for 1972-73 academic year with possibility for a second one-year appointment. Ethnic minority candidates and women are encouraged to apply.

Intermediate Instructor ($777-$992). Women's Physical Education Department, School of Human Development and Education. Duties and responsibilities include teaching any or all of the following activity classes: body mechanics, apparatus gymnastics, rhythmic gymnastics, and badminton. Applicants should have completed a master's degree and have at least two years of experience. Position for the Summer Quarter, 1972, only.

POTTERY TWO EXHIBIT SCHEDULED TO OPEN ON SUNDAY

The Pottery Two exhibit is continuing in Room 221 of the Julian A. McPhee College Union through Monday, May 5. It is open from 10 a.m. to 12 noon, 2 to 4 p.m., and 7 to 9 p.m. each weekday, and 1 to 4 p.m. on weekends. The public is invited, admission is free. The exhibit is sponsored by the Cal Poly Pottery Club. It includes local, as well as national, artists' efforts. Entries were judged by Paul Soldner, one of the nation's most popular pottery jurists.

SUGGESTIONS SOLICITED BY COLLEGE UNION GOVERNORS

Tony Turkovich, chairman, College Union Board of Governors, says the board is considering establishment of a banking facility in the Julian A. McPhee College Union. The board is soliciting input from faculty, staff, and students as to the kinds of banking services needed. Suggestions should be submitted to the board in care of Turkovich, College Union Box 1.

The supporting documents for the university name change indicate that Cal Poly ranks fifth among the new universities (after San Jose, San Diego, Long Beach, and Fresno) in the number of nationally-accredited professional programs. Cal Poly has 10 accredited programs, San Jose has 15, and the others 11 each.

Cal Poly is 11th among the 13 proposed universities in enrollment, with 12,107 students in 1971. In number of master's degrees granted in 1970-71, Cal Poly ranks tenth, with 315 degrees.

The polling of the coordinating council following the committee's action is expected to take a week or ten days for completion. A definite date for formalization of the name changes has not been announced.
BUSES WILL PROVIDE POLY ROYAL SERVICE

Six buses will provide free campus transportation for visitors to Cal Poly during Poly Royal on Friday and Saturday (April 28-29), according to Randy Dettmer, general superintendent of the annual open house.

The free bus system was announced by Dettmer as a means of reducing traffic congestion and improving access to the events and displays which are attended by some 60,000 persons during the two-day event.

Most campus parking lots will be open to visitors, but vehicle traffic on inner campus streets will be restricted, Dettmer said. The buses will serve three general areas of the campus and stops will each be within easy radius of major Poly Royal instructional exhibits and activities.

Two buses will transport visitors from near the Farm Shop up Campus Way to the displays and activities of the Beef Unit, Ornamental Horticulture Unit, and the Horse Unit and Horse Show.

A third bus will transport guests from the parking lots near the Food Processing Building past the entrance to the Collet Arena and rodeo activities, to the outlying farm units of the campus, including the Crops, Poultry, Dairy, and Swine Units.

The Outer Perimeter Rd. route will originate at the Grand Ave. parking lot, proceed along the Perimeter Rd. to the Food Processing Building, and return with a loop that will include the College Union Plaza and Graphic Arts Building among scheduled stops.

Three buses on the Grand Ave.-Perimeter Road route will be provided by the 1498th Transportation Company, commanded by Lt. Gary Fowler of the California National Guard at Camp San Luis Obispo. Student tour guides will be aboard all buses to inform and assist campus visitors.

The three routes will be in operation from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday and from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday.

Dettmer said members of the college faculty and staff will be permitted to enter the campus when reporting for assigned duties. A map showing all three bus routes will be included in the special Poly Royal edition of Mustang Daily being readied by students of the Journalism Department.

EXHIBIT WILL CONTINUE THROUGH MAY 1 IN LIBRARY FOYER

"Printed Nostalgic Ephemera," the personal collection of Paul A. Karlen, a graphic communications major, is attracting delighted interest in the Dexter Library foyer. Hundreds of items are included, plus a three-dimensional collage of symbolic parodies that coincide with the applications of pop art.

Karlen's background in printing, art, and advertising led him to start collecting printed materials that correlated in style and had historical relationships. The oldest items date back to pre-Civil War days; post cards and old money up to the 1950s. The exhibit is sponsored by the Cal Poly Crafts Club and will be held over until Monday (May 1) for Poly Royal visitors to enjoy.
PROJECT ON CONSUMER, HOMEMAKING EDUCATION BEGUN AT CAL POLY

An educational development project that could result in improved consumer and homemaking education in schools throughout California has begun at Cal Poly. Known as Project MATCHE (Management Approach to Teaching Consumer and Homemaking Education), the program is being conducted by the Home Economics Department under terms of a $46,650 contract with the California State Department of Education.

Principal purpose of the project, according to Mrs. Ruth O'Reilly, Head of the Home Economics Department, is to update and improve the effectiveness of the state's programs for preparing high school teachers of consumer and homemaking education.

"Through Project MATCHE we are seeking to develop a model of pre-service teacher education for consumer-homemaking educators," Dr. O'Reilly explained. "If we can do this our graduates should be able to incorporate the consumer approach to their courses and succeed in helping students in economically-depressed areas cope with money and home problems.

"They should also be able to teach home economics-related occupational classes and programs, and establish and sponsor Future Homemakers of America chapters as a means of creating valuable real-life experiences in dealing with money and home management problems," Dr. O'Reilly added.

The project is perhaps best described as one using modern systematic management techniques to develop and test a model teacher education curriculum for use in homemaking education.

The first phase of the program, during which the curriculum is being developed, focuses particular attention on specific, measurable outcomes. Dr. O'Reilly said a task force composed of members of Cal Poly's Home Economics faculty, is using the assistance of a local advisory committee, as well as educators and administrators from across the nation, to develop the modernized curriculum.

The second phase of Project MATCHE will see the model curriculum tested under highly-controlled conditions to verify its effectiveness. That effort will be carried out sometime next year under terms of a yet-to-be developed contact with a qualified educational research organization.

The final phase of the project will see the model curriculum returned to the Cal Poly Home Economics Department for implementation in its teacher preparation programs.

COLLEGE AND UNIVERSITY ADMINISTRATIVE VACANCIES LISTED

Information on administrative positions at other colleges and universities, for which applications are currently being sought, is available in the college Placement and Financial Aid Office, Adm-213, 546-2501. Positions presently listed there include:

California State University and Colleges, Los Angeles -- Dean of Continuing Education Programs, salary $20,856 to $25,368 annually, five years of increasingly responsible experience and an earned doctor's degree are required, application deadline is May 8.

Fresno State College -- Director of Community Relations, salary and qualifications not listed.
PLANNING STUDENTS STUDY MORRO BAY WATER SHEED

Those Cal Poly students walking the back roads and noting every furrow, cut and fill are just "Learning By Doing" in a planning course. The students, 33 men and women enrolled in city and regional planning, are working under the direction of three professors in the School of Architecture and Environmental Design.

One of their instructors, Francis Hendricks, explained that farmers and ranchers who may be suspicious of the students, are invited to cooperate in the study. Hendricks, along with Edward J. Ward and Fritz Nigg, is working with the class to study the hills and vales of the Morro Bay Water Shed.

The study requires field trips by 11 teams of 3 students each. Each team goes out and tries to find modifications to the environment created by humans. Equipped with clip boards, area maps, and notation forms, the students take note of every well, bridge, cut and paved area, cultivation or structure located within the Water Shed area.

Hendricks said the area in the survey excludes all incorporated cities. Data is being collected on the water shed area bounded on the north of Morro Bay along Cuesta Ridge on the east through Camp San Luis Obispo, and south along the Irish Hills to Montana de Oro.

Students ranging the area have instructions to remain on public roads and to enter private land only with the owner's permission and public lands with permission of the responsible agency.

SUPPORT STAFF VACANCIES ANNOUNCED BY PERSONNEL OFFICER

Five vacancies on the support staff of the college have been announced by S. Milton Piuma (Staff Personnel Officer). Descriptions of these positions and other vacancies are posted on the bulletin board located outside the Personnel Office, Adm-110, 546-2236. Those interested in applying for any of the positions should contact the Personnel Office to obtain an application. Cal Poly is an Affirmative Action employer. The positions are:

Clerical Assistant II-B ($492-$599), Home Economics Department, School of Human Development and Education. Duties and responsibilities include taking dictation and typing for department head and 10-member faculty, maintaining student folders, general filing, answering inquiries of students and prospective students, and acting as office receptionist. Applicants must have passed the General Clerical Test, be high school graduates, type 45 wpm, take shorthand at 90 wpm, and have one year general office experience.

Clerical Assistant II-B ($492-$599), General Office, Business Affairs Division. Duties and responsibilities include typing, shorthand, machine dictation, telephone dictation, Xeroxing and general office support for all campus areas. Applicants must have passed the General Clerical Test, be high school graduates, type 45 wpm, take shorthand at 90 wpm, and have one year general office experience.

Administrative Assistant I ($863-$1048), Director of Business Affairs Office, Business Affairs Division. Duties and responsibilities include assisting with various administrative tasks such as interpreting policies and implementing new programs and procedures; making special studies and preparing reports; evaluating new programs and procedures; and preparing materials for various manuals and other publications. Applicants must have the equivalent to graduation from college, and two years of experience in a responsible capacity in an operating or staff organization.

Technical Assistant II ($556-$676), Home Economics Department, School of Human Development and Education. Duties and responsibilities include ordering and receiving groceries for foods laboratories, issuing equipment and supplies for laboratories, keeping equipment in working order, maintaining records for grocery accounts, setting up laboratories, and taking inventory. Applicants must be college graduates in home economics.

Student Affairs Assistant III ($950-$1155), Admissions Office, Student Affairs Division. Duties and responsibilities include assisting with the development of articulation agreements with California community colleges and other governmental agencies; preparing periodical publications; arranging on-campus meetings of students and personnel from other campuses; supervising the evaluations office and a staff of eight employees. Applicants must have graduated from college and have a master's degree with at least three years of administrative supervisory experience.

FORMER EL CORRAL MANAGER IS DEAD

Duke Hill, who served as manager of El Corral College Store from 1955 until his retirement in 1967, died sometime during the week of April 10, according to information received on campus recently. He was residing in Arizona at the time of his death.

Typewritten copy intended for the next issue of Cal Poly Report must be received prior to 12 noon Friday, April 28, in the Office of Information Services, Administration-210.
LIBRARY QUESTIONNAIRE BEING DISTRIBUTED THIS WEEK

A questionnaire designed to assist the members of the faculty in evaluating the collections and services of the College Library is being distributed this week to all the members of the faculty via the departmental library representatives, according to an announcement received this week.

The questionnaire was prepared by the Subcommittee on Library Utilization and Collection Development of the Faculty Library Committee with the help of the librarians. Members of this subcommittee are Carleton Winslow (School of Architecture and Environmental Design) and Erling Breckan (Business Administration Department).

Both the Faculty Library Committee and Library staff members are emphasizing the importance of the questionnaire and are urging that all the members of the faculty will give their support by completing and returning it promptly. Completed questionnaires should be returned to L. Harry Strauss (Director of the College Library) at the Library by May 8.

NAME OF FOREIGN LANGUAGES AND LINGUISTICS DEPARTMENT WILL CHANGE

The name of the Foreign Language and Linguistics Department of the School of Communicative Arts and Humanities will be changed to Foreign Languages Department on Sept. 1, 1972, according to information received from Jon M. Ericson (Dean of Communicative Arts and Humanities), who said the change was being made in order to more accurately reflect the academic responsibilities of the department.

Dean Ericson pointed out that all linguistics courses carry English Department designations. As a result, the "linguistics" faculty, who were members of the English faculty until 1970, have, in effect, remained in the English Department as far as their workload is concerned.

Four members of the Foreign Language and Linguistics Department faculty who work in the area of linguistics will be returned to the English faculty on Sept. 1. They are Gloria Jameson, who has been acting head of the department since its formation; Charles Lindamood, Robert Lint, and Habib Sheik.

EXTENSION COURSE PROPOSALS STILL BEING RECEIVED

The final date for receipt of Request to Offer Extension Course forms proposing Cal Poly Extension courses for the Fall Quarter, 1972, in the Continuing Education Office has been extended to Thursday (April 27), according to an announcement from Don M. Morris (Associate Dean for Continuing Education). They had originally been due yesterday (Monday, April 24).

Dr. Morris also reported that courses offered by Cal Poly Extension have been averaging about 30 per quarter and that about 50 percent of those have met minimum enrollment. More than 1,000 individual course enrollments have been recorded exclusive of duplicates and more than 800 enrollments in extension courses provided under a specially funded project.
STUDENT ELECTION WILL CLOSE LATE TODAY

A two-day, campus-wide election during which members of Cal Poly's student body are electing officers of the Associated Students, Inc., and Student Affairs Council representatives for 1972, will come to a close late today (Tuesday, April 25), but the final result may not be known for several days.

That's because of recent changes in the bylaws of the ASI, which provide that officers will be elected by a majority vote this year. This is in contrast to recent years when a preferential system, in which voters indicated first, second, and third choices for the various candidates.

This year, a successful candidate must get one vote more than half of all the votes cast. In the event no one gets a majority, a run-off election will be held in early May.

Candidates for the four elected offices of the student corporation are:

- President - Robin Baggett, Pete Evans, and Paul Tokunaga.
- Vice President - Denny Johnson, Jim R. Patterson, and Jeanne Wiles.
- Secretary - Max Boveri, Laura Lampson, and Susan Markley.
- Chief Justice of the Student Court - John Lange and Frisco White.

The candidacy of Evans for re-election marks the first time in ASI history that an incumbent has sought re-election to the highest office. Once before a chief justice was re-elected when he ran for a second term of office without opposition.

INTERDISCIPLINARY SYMPOSIUM SERIES

A program of interdisciplinary bi-monthly discussions by faculty and interested students has been organized to exchange intellectual ideas and views on selected academic topics. These meetings are informal, brown-bag lunch affairs.

The first in this series was held on April 7, when Carl E. Lutrin (Social Sciences Department) discussed "The Arnheiter Affair: A Study in Bureaucratic Pathology." The second discussion dealt with "Business Decision-Making and Social Responsibility" by Rol Rider (Business Administration Department).

Upcoming symposia will include "Reflections on British Local Government" by William M. Alexander (Head of the Social Sciences Department) on May 5 in Ag-241, "Sex in Cebu" by Leo Finard (Social Sciences Department) on May 19 in Ag-241, and "A Novelist's View of the Current Malise: The World of Walker Percy" by Martin Luschei (English Department) on June 2 in Math-152.

Suggestions for further topics should be sent to Carl Lutrin, Social Sciences Department.

NEXT STAFF CLUB LUNCHEON SLATED MAY 4

The next luncheon meeting of the Cal Poly Staff Club will be held at 12 noon on Thursday, May 4, in the Staff Dining Room. Topic for the program will be the Future Farmers of America.
John R. Healey (Head of the Journalism Department) spoke to the Atascadero Historical Society on April 21 on the Journalism Department's Wall of Fame of California newspaper editors. Healey told about the Wall of Fame, which includes original newspapers of the 26 editors named to the Hall of Fame of the California Press Association, and gave a brief history of some of the editors and their newspapers.

James R. Emmel (Head of the Speech Department), Keith Nielsen (Speech Department), and Richard E. Miller (Counseling Center) were all participants in cross-cultural communication workshops held in Soquel recently. Drs. Emmel and Nielsen attended the workshop held April 6-9, and Dr. Miller served as a facilitator for the workshop held on April 14-16. Carl Rogers, the noted psychologist, attended the workshops and participated in many of the discussion groups. The three-day workshops were sponsored by the Center for the Study of the Person.

Thomas Lukes (Food Industries Department) gave a paper titled "Nutritive Sweeteners Update" at the first annual Western Food Processing Industry Conference. More than 600 persons from all over the Western United States and Canada attended the event, which took place last month at the University of California at Davis.

Irving P. Babow (Social Sciences Department) presented a paper titled "Office Workers Organize: Upgrading Downgraded Work," at the Pacific Sociological Association meeting in Portland on April 13. Authored with Francis Babow, Dr. Babow's paper was presented before the meeting's section on the sociology of occupations and professions.

Dennis K. Ruthenbeck (College Union Building Manager) attended a special pre-conference seminar held in conjunction with the 1972 Conference of the Association of College Unions-International in St. Louis, Mo., on March 26-29. Topic for the seminar was "Planning and Building a College Union."

Bianca Rosenthal and Verlan H. Stahl (both Foreign Language and Linguistics Department) attended the annual convention of the California Foreign Language Teachers Association on April 14-16 in San Diego. Featured speakers for the convention were State Superintendent of Public Instruction Wilson Riles and State Assemblyman John Stull.

Frank J. Hendel (Aeronautical Engineering Department) discussed the reasons he believes the nation's Space Shuttle program should be based at Vandenberg Air Force Base, during the April 7 meeting of the San Luis Obispo Exchange Club. The talk was based on reasons presented by Dr. Hendel to President Richard M. Nixon prior to announcement of the decision to split the Space Shuttle program between Cape Kennedy in Florida and Vandenberg, which is located near Lompoc.

Ralph Collins (Education Department) served as chairman of the Western Association of Schools and Colleges accreditation team which visited the Royal High School in Simi on April 10-12. Dr. Collins, a member of the Cal Poly faculty since 1955, has served on similar teams a number of times during the past several years.

James L. Fitts (History Department) attended the annual meeting of the Medieval Academy of America and the Medieval Association of the Pacific in Los Angeles on April 13-14. Topics explored included the relationship of religious beliefs and law to politics, the roles of women, symbols, crime, and the family in medieval life, and the values derived from the study of the medieval scene.

George W. LaBar (Biological Sciences Department) is the co-author of a paper titled "Further Ultrasonic Tracking Studies of Homing Cutthroat Trout (Salmo Clarki) in Yellowstone Lake" which appeared in the January, 1972, number of the Transactions of the American Fisheries Society. Dr. LaBar, who joined the Cal Poly faculty in 1970, wrote the paper with James D. McCleave of University of Maine.

Mrs. Helen Kelley (Journalism Department) gave an illustrated talk before the April 4 meeting of the San Luis Obispo Camera Club. Subject of her remarks was photo composition. Examples of Mrs. Kelley's work, as well as that of some of her students, were exhibited during the meeting. Philip Bromley (Agricultural Management Department) is president of the club and presided over the meeting which took place at C. L. Smith School.

David R. Harrow and George J. Suchand (both Social Sciences Department) presented an after-dinner lecture before a meeting of the Central Coast Council for the Social Sciences in the Staff Dining Room on April 20. Title of their presentation was "Focus on Geography: Key Concepts and Teaching Strategies."

SIGNUPS BEING RECEIVED FOR POLY ROYAL ART AND CRAFT SALE

Signups will be received this (Tuesday, April 25) evening from persons wishing to have their materials displayed during the Poly Royal Art and Craft Sale. Warrants batched by department may be picked up at the Cashier's Office, and those picked up on an individual basis will be available in the Business Affairs Division Office, Adm-114.

Typewritten copy intended for the next issue of Cal Poly Report must be received prior to 12 noon Friday, April 28, in the Office of Information Services, Administration-210.
PROGRAM FOR CHICANO HERITAGE OBSERVANCE LISTED

Chicano students at Cal Poly are busy completing arrangements for a Chicano Heritage Week program, which will be launched with a fashion show on Sunday (April 30) at 7 p.m. in Chumash Auditorium of the College Union. The week-long observance, sponsored on campus by MEChA, a Chicano students organization, includes cultural films, speakers, an art exhibit, and a banquet and dance.

The Association of Mexican-American Educators in Santa Maria is co-sponsoring the banquet on Friday, May 5, and the dance on Saturday night, May 6. Both will be held in the Veterans Memorial Building in Santa Maria. Tickets for the banquet, to be held at 1 p.m., are $2.50 per person. They will be on sale at the College Union Information Desk at Cal Poly in advance. Tickets for the dance also are $2.50 each. They will be available at the door only.

Special speakers for the week include Ponce Javier Ruiz, who works with the Community Legal Services in East Los Angeles, and Raul Ruiz, editor of La Raza magazine and a recent candidate for El Partido de la Raza Unida, a Chicano political party. Ponce Javier Ruiz will speak in the College Union Plaza at Cal Poly on Thursday, May 4, and Raul Ruiz will speak in Room 220 of the College Union at 10 a.m. on Friday, May 5.

Alurista, a Chicano movement poet from San Diego, will recite his own writings in an appearance in the Cal Poly Theater at 7 p.m. on Wednesday, May 3, and art work by Chicanos will be on display in the Library on campus throughout the week. Admission for all of the events held on campus will be free and the public is invited.

SPECIAL POLY ROYAL HOURS ANNOUNCED FOR LIBRARY

Special operating hours for the various facilities and services of the College Library during the Poly Royal period were announced last week. The Library will close at 5 p.m. on Thursday (April 27), but will maintain regular hours on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday (April 28-30). The Government Documents and Special Collections Sections, the Curriculum Library, and the Reserve Room will be closed from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Friday. They will be used for the Poly Royal Mathematics Contest during that time.
