VISTA GRANDE TO OPEN IN JANUARY

Members of the campus community will get their opportunities for on-campus restaurant service when the university's recently-completed Vista Grande dining facilities goes into service.

As outlined by Al Amaral, (Executive Director, Cal Poly Foundation) initial use of the new building will be for a full line of meals served by waitresses in the restaurant and for banquets and other catered meals in the cafeteria area.

John Lee (Foundation Food Services Director) said the 135-seat restaurant, which also includes a 17-seat service counter, will be open from 7 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily. The menu is expected to include a la carte dishes as well as complete breakfasts, luncheons, and dinners.

He said a "grand opening" observance, possibly including some special meal offerings, is being planned for some time late in January.

Amaral pointed out that Vista Grande's other dining room, a 200-seat unit with adjacent cafeteria service lines, will initially be used for banquets, buffet luncheons and dinners, and other meals connected with workshops and conferences, activities of the Cal Poly University Club and Cal Poly Women's Club.

Other student, staff, and faculty groups affiliated with the university will also have the use of the cafeteria dining room for activities involving meal services.

Amaral said a portion of the university's student meal services program will undoubtedly be transferred to the new cafeteria dining room in Vista Grande some time later in the year.

He explained that the use of the cafeteria portion of the new structure for banquet and catering services for the campus community on a trial basis through the end of the Spring Quarter will provide time to iron out any of the problems that normally accompany the opening of such a facility.

Amaral said both the restaurant and cafeteria areas of the 19,600 square foot building are expected to complement the existing campus dining complex in its goal of providing meal services for Cal Poly's students, faculty, and staff and guests of the university.

Vista Grande was constructed by H.A. Ecklin and Associates of Salinas under a $1.1 million contract. Design was by Keeble and Rhoda, a firm of architects with headquarters in Monterey. In addition to the cafeteria dining room and the restaurant, the building has kitchens to support both of the larger dining areas.

Construction of the new Cal Poly dining facility was financed with non-state monies through a federal interest subsidy grant. Vista Grande is located on campus at the corner of Grand Ave. and Mountain Ln. adjacent to the campus residence halls located along Grande Ave. and Perimeter Rd.

L.A. AG DIRECTOR TO VISIT

Ronald Regan, Director of Agriculture and Environmental Science, Los Angeles City Schools, will describe the ornamental horticulture program in the Los Angeles schools at a meeting in Agricultural Engineering Room 123 at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday (Dec. 5).

WANTED -- 40 WOMEN -- ALL AGES -- TO GET INTO THE ACT

Robin Lake (Speech) is recruiting 40 women for his colleague, J. Murray Smith (Speech) in anticipation of Smith's return from leave and the Speech Department production of Clare Booth Luce's comedy, The Women, which Smith will direct.

Lake says the unusual casting of the 1936 feminist movement play will provide acting opportunities for students, staff, faculty and wives of all ages. Tryouts for the production will be held on the first Monday and Tuesday of the Winter Quarter, on Jan. 8 and 9 from 7:30 p.m. in Music, Speech, Drama, Room 212. Those attending will be asked to read a variety of roles from the play; scripts will be provided and no experience is necessary. Lake says most of the parts are small "cameo" roles in only 2 or so of the 12 scenes, and so give cast members excellent opportunities for sampling the experience of acting. Scripts on reserve in the library are recommended reading before the tryouts.

Since the production is under Drama 331, 2 units of credit are available; however, course registration is by addition only. Information is available from Lake, MSD, Ext. 2486.

NEXT "CAL POLY REPORT" DUE JAN. 9

This issue of Cal Poly Report will be the last of 1972. Publication by Information Services will resume with the issue of Jan. 9. Season's Greetings
Mayor John Lindsay announces the fifth year of the New York City Urban Fellowships Program. Twenty young men and women will be selected to serve full-time internships as Urban Fellows beginning Sept. 1973. Fellows will have responsibilities in administrative problem solving, research, policy planning, and other matters. Stipends of $4,000 plus travel are awarded but the sponsoring university should be willing to grant some academic credit for the experience, waive all tuition, and if possible, grant an additional $500 to the recipient. Details and application forms are available in this office. The deadline is Jan. 31, 1973.

Applications are due Jan. 1, 1973, for undergraduate research training (summer) at the Oak Ridge Associated Universities, including the Oak Ridge National Laboratory. The competition is open to all students majoring in the physical, life, and environmental sciences, engineering, and mathematics. The program is designed for college juniors who will be seniors in 1973-74.

Appointments generally begin in June and last ten weeks. A minimum stipend of $90/week is paid, and travel up to $120. Students selected for the Savannah River Laboratory are paid slightly more. Details and application forms are available in this office. Please tell your best students about this program.

We also have a limited amount of information about the Atomic Energy Commission's programs for faculty: Summer Research Participation, and Laboratory Graduate participation. The deadline for both of these programs is also Jan. 1, 1973.

The 10th Annual Fellowship Competition of the Printing, Publishing, and Packaging Industry has a deadline of Feb. 1, 1973, for seniors who expect to attend graduate school in the fall of 1973. The stipends are for $3,000 and are for students from several disciplines (for example, the sciences, engineering, business technology) who "plan to seek employment at the professional and management or education level of the graphic communications industries." Application forms are available in this office.

The National Science Foundation has a new program called Experimental R&D Incentives. The goal is "to provide experimental evidence concerning various incentives which the Federal Government might use to increase the application and use of science and technology in the civil sector." Informal proposals are encouraged, and may be sent to:

There is no deadline.
The National Science Foundation has announced a new program: Planning Grants for the Formation of New Research Groups in Telecommunications Policy Formation. About 8 one-year planning grants will be made. The deadline is March 1, 1973. This office has a copy of Notice No. 45 (Nov. 24, 1972) which gives details.

The Joseph Henry Jackson Award and the James D. Phelan Award are for the encouragement of young authors. Both awards are for $2,000, and applications are due by Jan. 15, 1973. Some details are available in this office, or write for the forms to The San Francisco Foundation Awards Office, Room 1602, 425 California Street, San Francisco, 94104. In general, the entries must be fiction, non-fictional prose, poetry, or drama.

The NSF has a new program to support research on the Societal Impact of Computers. Such studies may be concerned with organizations or with individuals. Guidelines and priorities will be developed during the remainder of the year, and a few grants may be made. Suggestions about the program, or inquiries may be sent to:

The National Institute of Mental Health has an interesting program called NIMH New Careers. The goals are:

1. To facilitate the interdisciplinary training of new types of mental health personnel.
2. To assist psychiatry, psychology, social work, nursing, and other training institutions; community agencies, community mental health centers; and hospitals to initiate and expand training programs for mental health new careerists.

The Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education (WICHE) has a program called "An Internship Program in the Humanities" and is designed to provide students with a chance to complete a practical project that relates to their field in the humanities. Each college or university is asked to sponsor or help support an intern, or to help WICHE find a community agency that may be able to act as sponsor. The full cost is $1,800, of which $1,100 is a stipend for the intern, but WICHE has some money from the National Endowment for the Humanities which may reduce the cost to $900.

The definition of humanities seems to be broad, since the brochure refers to such programs as energy resources, surveys, air pollution abatement, special programs for the education of the handicapped, and others.
