PERFORMANCES OF LUCE PLAY SCHEDULED FEB. 22-24

Directed by Murray Smith (Speech Communication), the play will be a presentation of the Speech Communication Department. Curtain time will be 8 p.m. with each performance in the Cal Poly Theatre.

Q. How are Financial Aid funds for students distributed on campus?

A. In the Spring of 1970 the State legislature enacted legislation (SB-19) which stipulated that all disbursements to students from student body funds must be coordinated through, and approved by, the financial aid director on each campus. In an effort to assure the most effective use of financial aid resources Chancellor of The California State University and Colleges, Glenn S. Dumke, directed all campus presidents to take steps to extend the intent of SB-19 to all student aid resources, regardless of source. Included are all student grants, tax exemption stipends, scholarships, fellowships, loans, work-study, other financial aid-related employment, and any other financial benefits (such as veterans' benefits) which are awarded, administered, or controlled by any department or office of the university. The aim is to see that all available financial assistance is distributed, on a priority basis, to the neediest students. At Cal Poly, the president has directed that all the above resources awarded, administered, or controlled by any department of the university be systematically reported to the campus Financial Aid Office, Adm-107, 546-2972.
