ARIZONIAN APPOINTED TO COORDINATE ETHNIC STUDIES PROGRAM

Appointment of Richard A. Martinez of Tucson, Ariz., to coordinate ethnic studies and direct educational opportunities programs at Cal Poly was announced last week by President Robert E. Kennedy. Dr. Kennedy said Martinez would begin his new duties with start of the Fall Quarter in mid-September.

A native of Tucson and graduate of schools and the University of Arizona in that city, Martinez will assume responsibility for administration and coordination of Cal Poly's interdisciplinary Ethnic Studies Program. He will work directly with members of the college teaching and administrative faculty, students, and representatives of the community, and will head the college's Ethnic Studies and Ethnic Studies Advisory Committees.

Martinez is presently working as field coordinator and supervisor with responsibility for the entire State of Arizona for "Operation SER," a federally funded program providing on-the-job training opportunities for minority and low-income group people. It is operated by Jobs for Progress, Inc.

(The initials "SER", which stand for "service employment redevelopment" and also spell the Spanish verb translated "to be" provide the keynote for the program, which is active throughout the Southwestern United States. Primary emphasis of the SER program is on helping the individual determine the type of work he is best suited for and securing on-the-job training as a means of locating permanent or regular employment.)

STANISLAUS STATE COLLEGE PRESIDENT NAMED TO CAL POLY FACULTY

A nationally known psychologist and musical conductor just concluding a six-year-long second career as a college president will join the Music Department faculty at Cal Poly in mid-September. Alexander Capurso, who will leave his duties as president of Stanislaus State College in Turlock, Aug. 31, will become a full-time member of the Cal Poly faculty Sept. 15.

Upon announcement of his resignation as second president of the state college in Turlock last September, Dr. Capurso, 59, indicated his personal desire to return to his "prime personal mission -- teaching." "This is the logical time to make the change since the initial phase of the educational and construction program at Stanislaus State is completed," the native of Philadelphia said.

Cal Poly President Robert E. Kennedy, who announced appointment of Dr. Capurso to the college faculty, credited him with outstanding leadership during his six years at the San Joaquin Valley-area college. "He made a significant personal contribution to the college's development," Dr. Kennedy continued.

DR. CAPURSO NAMED TO CAL POLY FACULTY (Continued from Page 1)

A graduate of University of Kentucky, from which he received a bachelor's degree in music and the humanities, the master's degree in psychology and the humanities, and the doctor's degree in psychology, Dr. Capurso became president of Stanislaus State in 1963 when the college was but two years old. Since that time the college, one of 19 California State Colleges, has moved from temporary facilities into new permanent buildings and its student body has grown to nearly 2,000.

Dr. Capurso is equally well-known for his work in the areas of the psychology and philosophy of music, aesthetics, music therapy, and social psychology. Himself a performing musician who learned to play the violin in early childhood, the president of Stanislaus State College served as conductor of the University of Kentucky, director of the School of Music at Syracuse, and member of the faculty for various periods of time at Ohio State University, University of Kansas, and University of Wisconsin.

Immediately prior to becoming president of Stanislaus State, Dr. Capurso was a member of the faculty and administrative staff at San Francisco State College. He was associate chairman and coordinator of graduate studies for that college's Creative Arts Division and conducted a study of fine arts programs of the California State Colleges during a leave from his duties at San Francisco State.

Dr. Capurso Widely Honored

In addition to his duties as president of the state college at Turlock, the veteran of nearly 35 years of work with college and university students was chairman of the systemwide artists and lectures series of the California State Colleges during 1966 and Committee on Cultural Affairs of the American Association of State Colleges and Universities during 1967 and 1968.

Dr. Capurso, a member of a number of professional groups including the American Psychological Association, the American Council on Education, and the Association for Higher Education, is the author of a number of articles, particularly on musical and psychological relationships, for professional journals and books.

A certified psychologist in both California and New York, the president of Stanislaus State College has also received many honors. He was elected "distinguished professor" by the faculty of the College of Arts and Sciences at University of Kentucky in 1944, received the honorary Doctor of Music Degree from Philadelphia Musical Academy in 1957, named to the University of Kentucky Alumni Hall of Fame in 1966, and received the honorary Doctor of Laws Degree from Oklahoma City University in 1968. Since announcement of his resignation from his post at Stanislaus State, Dr. Capurso has been honored by resolutions of commendation issued by that college's students and alumni, and by the Assembly of the State of California.

The new Cal Poly faculty member and his wife, Martha, are the parents of a daughter, Vita, starting her third year as a major in home economics at Cal Poly this fall, and a son, John, presently on active duty as a member of the Air National Guard. Dr. and Mrs. Capurso, who will begin duties as an elementary teacher with the San Luis Coastal Unified School District this fall, will make their home in San Luis Obispo.
WOMEN'S P E WORKSHOP IN FULL SWING

More than 300 persons are participating in the 20th annual California Physical Education Workshop for Women in Secondary Schools being held on campus, August 3-15. An outstanding program has been arranged for the workshop which is jointly sponsored by Cal Poly, the California Association for Health, Physical Education, and Recreation, and the California State Department of Education.

Resource topic for the 1969 workshop, according to chairman Beverly Bowman of Bakersfield, is "The Pursuit of Excellence." Sessions on that topic are scheduled daily throughout the two-week program. Enrollment for the workshop is open to qualified persons working in the field of physical education or related fields and is not open to undergraduates. Professional credit will be earned by those who attend.

Martinez is a graduate of University of Arizona, from which he received both his bachelor's and master's degrees in Spanish with additional work in both speech and education. While an undergraduate, he was a member of the university's nationally ranked baseball team, which won a total of 108 games and lost but 41 during the three years he played. An outfielder who played professional baseball in the minor league systems of the Cleveland Indians and the California Angels, Martinez was a quarterback on the University of Arizona freshman football team before deciding to give baseball his full attention.

At Cal Poly, Martinez, a 25-year-old Mexican-American who graduated from Tucson's Pueblo High School, will head an Ethnic Studies Program based on an interdisciplinary approach. Announced by the college last spring, it includes a total of 44 courses offered by various departments of the college's five instructional schools. Typical of the courses are "Teaching the Culturally Deprived Child," "Afro-American Literature," "Latin-American History," "History of East Asia," "American Minorities," "Ethnic Music of the World," and "Culture of the Brown American Pre-School Child."

The Cal Poly program was developed by a college-wide Ethnic Studies Committee headed by Bruce E. Tjaden (Home Economics Department), acting coordinator of ethnic studies for the past six months, and assisted by the Ethnic Studies Advisory Committee composed of members of the college student body and residents of the local area. Tjaden, a part-time member of the college faculty and acting coordinator of the Ethnic Studies Program while a search for a person to fill the coordinator's post on a regular basis was being conducted, will return to his teaching duties.

Cal Poly's Educational Opportunity Program consists of a combination of financial aid along with counseling and tutorial assistance for participating students of American Indian, Mexican-American, or Black origin. The program, which had 22 students participating during 1968-69, is budgeted for 70 during the forthcoming academic year.

Martinez and his wife, Jackie Lynn, have a two-year-old son and are expecting the addition of another child to their family this fall. They intend to make their home in San Luis Obispo.
NEW PRESS PROVIDES FLEXIBILITY FOR PRINTING LABORATORIES

Flexibility, long a key word in operations of the Printing Technology and Management Department received new emphasis recently with the addition of Speed-Flex business forms press to the department's laboratory equipment. Donated to the college by the Lane-Miles Standish Company of Portland, Ore., the new addition is valued at $5,000, according to Roderick W. Carruthers (Head of Printing Technology and Management Department).

The new press, a two-color, web-fed rotary rubber-plate press, manufactured by Western Gear Corporation, is the first of its kind to be used in the college's printing laboratories and has been completely cleaned and overhauled by students since its arrival on campus, Carruthers reported.

The Speed-flex press is capable of delivering 18,000 impressions per hour in multiple color and printed on both sides. The advantage of the press, Carruthers said, is its web feed capabilities. The press accepts a 13½-inch-wide roll of paper instead of individual sheets of paper. Rather than receiving and printing one sheet of paper at a time, it is capable of printing 400 feet of paper per minute from the roll. Accessories for the press make it capable of numbering, drilling holes, inserting carbon sheets, glueing, and/or printing a third color -- all at 400 feet per minute.

SALARY INCREASES EFFECTIVE JULY 1

Executive Order No. 74, issued late last month by Chancellor of the California State Colleges Glenn S. Dumke, assured employees of the college system that the late passage of the 1969-70 Budget Act would not interrupt regular payroll procedures and that salary increases included in the act would be retroactive to July 1. Pay warrants for the July pay period, which were distributed last week, should reflect these actions.

BALTIMORE GRIDDERS OPEN CAMPUS TRAINING SESSIONS

What techniques are used by professional football's "coach of the year" and his staff in preparing the defending National Football League champions for the 1969 season? The answer to that question and many others concerning behind the scenes preparations in the world of professional football are being exhibited in Mustang Stadium where the Baltimore Colts are in the midst of a two-week-long series of pre-season practice sessions.

Coach Don Shula and his charges arrived on campus yesterday (Monday, Aug. 4) and immediately began preparation for their Saturday (Aug. 9) evening encounter with the Oakland Raiders of the American Football League. That contest will take place in the Oakland Coliseum.

The Colts, who opened their 1969 exhibition season with a 26-6 victory over the San Diego Chargers of the AFL in San Diego last Saturday evening, are scheduled to continue their practice sessions next week. STUDENT RECOMMENDATION RESULTS IN TEMPORARY CHANGE IN PARKING LOT USE

A recommendation to President Robert E. Kennedy from the Summer Interim Committee of the Associated Students, Inc., has resulted in temporary changes in usage of two parking lots and part of a third. Under the revised temporary assignment of the parking facilities, students, as well as members of the faculty and staff of the college, will be able to park in the lots.

Affected by the change, which will continue through close of the present summer Quarter, are all of the Agricultural Engineering Building (E-14) and Music, Speech, and Drama Building (S-7) parking lots and the southern-most portion of the lot (S-2) adjacent to the Student Health Center. Lots E-14 and S-7 had been assigned to faculty and staff parking in their entirety, while Lot S-2 was a combination faculty/staff and student lot. The spaces located immediately adjacent to South Perimeter Road in Lot S-2 will continue to be reserved for faculty and staff use.

President Kennedy's approval of the SIC recommendation of temporarily revised use of parking facilities followed intensive study of the level of usage of parking spaces in the lots by Business Management Division personnel.
