DINING HALL ADDITION DRAWINGS APPROVED BY TRUSTEES

The College Dining Hall will have an increased capacity of approximately 750 students per meal by next fall. Trustees of the California State Colleges approved preparation of working drawings for an extension of the existing student dining room during their meeting in Sacramento last Wednesday (Jan. 27). The Cal Poly Foundation, operators of campus food services, will finance the extension.

E. Douglas Gerard (Acting Executive Dean) says the extension will provide an additional 4,400 square feet of floor space. It is being designed by Joseph Esherick and Associates of San Francisco, architects for the Julian A. McPhee College Union which is now under construction. The project is estimated to cost $143,400. Gerard says it is hoped the project will be out for bids in April.

With the expected addition, the dining hall complex will permit the seating of approximately 1,600 persons at one time.

INSTRUMENTAL, VOCAL MUSIC PROGRAMMED FOR COLLEGE HOUR CONCERT

A concert of both vocal and instrumental music will be offered by the Music Department Thursday (Feb. 5) at 11 a.m. in the campus theater. The Women's Glee Club, Collegiate Quartet, and the Majors and Minors, all student vocal groups, and the Collegians, an instrumental group, will combine their talents to produce a variety of musical sound. All four will be conducted by Harold P. Davidson (Head of the Music Department).

The 87-member Women's Glee Club has chosen a selection of songs ranging from early American hymns to the currently popular If You Go Away for its portion of the program. The Collegiate Quartet specializes in popular and folk music, while the Majors and Minors, consisting of 12 men, take special delight in their renditions of traditional barbershop harmony melodies. The Collegians, a 16-piece dance and modern concert band, will include Aquarius, a popular selection from the musical play Hair, in its portion of the program.

Admission to Thursday's concert will be free and faculty, staff, and students as well as the public are invited to attend.

FEBRUARY HOLIDAY ARRANGEMENTS EXPLAINED BY PERSONNEL OFFICE

A reminder from the Personnel Office that the month of February has two state holidays which are scheduled as workdays at Cal Poly. Since Thursday, Feb. 12 (Lincoln's birthday), and Monday, Feb. 23 (in lieu of Feb. 22, Washington's birthday), are regular workdays, all employees except academic-year personnel will receive compensating time off for working on these days.
MUSTANG CAGERS, WRESTLERS SLATE ROAD CONTESTS

Road contests that will see the wrestlers in action in the Northwest and the cagers in the San Joaquin Valley will occupy the efforts of Cal Poly varsity basketball and wrestling teams in the major sports action of the week. The Mustang matmen open a week-long tour that will see them in action six times, today (Tuesday, Feb. 3), while the green and gold clad cagers have a two-game trip scheduled for the weekend.

Coach Vaughan Hitchcock's grapplers own a 10-2 won-lost record as they open their whirlwind tour of Oregon, Washington, and British Columbia. They chalked up dual-match victories over San Fernando Valley State College (46-0), Biola College (35-2) University of New Mexico (26-8), and Cal Poly, Pomona (35-0), last week. Cal Poly teams have now won 82 consecutive matches against California college and university teams since Hitchcock became head coach in 1962.

The Mustang matmen open their tour of the Northwest with a match against University of British Columbia this afternoon. They will also meet Western Washington College (tonight), University of Washington (tomorrow, Wednesday, Feb. 4), Portland State College (Thursday, Feb. 5), University of Oregon (Friday, Feb. 6), and Oregon State University (Saturday, Feb. 7) before returning home.

After splitting a pair of road games in last week's action in Southern California, Head Coach Neale Stoner's Mustang basketball varsity will journey to Central California for a pair of non-league contests this weekend. Friday will find them in Fresno for a return match against Fresno State College's Bulldogs, and the following evening will find them in Turlock for an encounter with Stanislaus State College's roundballers.

The Mustang cagers defeated California State College at Fullerton 84-76 in a California Collegiate Athletic Association game and lost 85-72 to University of California at Irvine in a non-league game last week. They now own an 11-7 won-lost mark for the 1969-70 campaign.

ARCHITECTURE LECTURE SCHEDULED FOR THURSDAY EVENING

Arthur B. Gallion, city and regional planner, and former dean of the School of Architecture at the University of Southern California, will deliver a public lecture on campus Thursday (Feb. 5) evening. Scheduled for 8 p.m. in the Engineering Auditorium (formerly Air Conditioning Auditorium), the program on which Gallion will appear is one in a series being sponsored by the School of Architecture and the student chapter of the American Institute of Architects. Admission will be free.

REVISED GUIDELINES FOR VOCATIONAL EDUCATION GRANTS ISSUED BY U S O E

The U.S. Office of Education has issued revised guidelines for its State Vocational Education Programs, according to George G. Clucas (Director of Research and Development). The new guidelines, which were reported in a special supplement to the Jan. 7 issue of Federal Register, also included information about USOE's vocational education research program. Half of the funds for the research program is dispersed by agencies of the various states and half is reserved for direct grants from the National Center for Educational Research and Development. Additional information may be obtained by consulting Federal Register or by contacting the Research and Development Office, Adm-307, 546-2630.
STATE WATER PROBLEMS WILL BE PROGRAM TOPIC

Members of the faculty, staff, and student body, as well as Central Coast residents, will have an opportunity to learn about California's water situation from a man who has participated in designing many major dams serving the Sacramento and San Joaquin Valleys. James J. Doody, southern California district engineer for the State Department of Water Resources, will be the speaker for the School of Agriculture Speaker's Night program in the campus theater at 8 p.m. on Wednesday (Feb. 4).

While working with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Doody worked on design of the Isabella, Folsom, and Pine Flat Dams. After joining the State Department of Water Resources in 1957, he worked on plans for the Oroville Dam. All four dams provide water for irrigation and domestic use in California. As an officer in the U.S. Navy Seabees (construction battalion) during World War II, Doody served in Africa, Europe, Asia, and the South Pacific.

The student agricultural council of the college has issued an invitation that any interested person may attend the program, free of charge.

TALK BY AL CAPP SLATED FOR FEB. 20

Al Capp, the cartoonist-creator of Li'l Abner, will speak on campus on Friday, Feb. 20, beginning at 8 p.m., in the Men's Gym. Capp is one of the best-read, best-paid, and most widely celebrated humorists in America. In addition to his famed Li'l Abner comic strip, Capp is also a contributor to NBC Radio's Monitor weekend program, and delivers lectures throughout the country.

Tickets for the Feb. 20 program, being sponsored by the College Program Board Speakers Forum Committee of the Associated Students, Inc., are $1 for students and $2 for the general public. They are expected to go on sale Feb. 11 in the Temporary College Union Building and at several off-campus locations.

TICKETS FOR C S E A EVENT SELLING RAPIDLY

Tickets for the Cal Poly Chapter 97, California State Employees Association "Las Vegas Night" party, to be held Feb. 14 in the Camp San Luis Obispo Officers Club, are going fast.

The $3 ticket entitles the holder to a ship's round of beef or shrimp jambalaya dinner, plus dancing and gaming. Each guest will receive $500 in non-negotiable bills of a variety of denominations which may be exchanged at the gaming tables for more or less of the same kind of funny money. Dancing will be to the music of the casino band.

The affair starts at 7 p.m. with a get-acquainted hour, followed by buffet dinner at 8 p.m. Dancing and gaming begin at 9 p.m. Tickets are now available in all areas of the campus from ticket sellers identified by yellow flags emblazoned in red, "Las Vegas Night."

Typewritten copy intended for the next issue of Cal Poly Report must be received prior to 12 noon Friday, Feb. 6, in the Office of Information Services, Adm-210.
CASTING FOR DRAMA PRODUCTION ANNOUNCED BY DIRECTOR

Casting for the Speech Department's production of Peter Weiss' play Marat/Sade, which is slated to open a five-night run in the Cal Poly Theater Feb. 12, has been completed according to an announcement made last week by its director Stuart Sutton. The lead roles are being rehearsed by J. Murray Smith (Speech Department) and Robert Travis, a senior majoring in architecture at the college. Smith will play the Marquis de Sade while Travis will play the part of Jean Paul Marat.

Other leading parts will be played by Wendy Fleshman, a sophomore majoring in biological sciences; Victoria Snead, a sophomore social sciences major; and John Rodrigues, a graduate student in education. Miss Snead has the role of Simonne, while Rodrigues will play the Herald and Miss Fleshman, Charlotte Corday.

The Weiss play's action takes place in the asylum of Charenton in the year 1808. Sade, himself an inmate in the asylum, has written a play to be performed for the director of the asylum, his wife, and his daughter by its inmates. The play within the play concerns itself with the assassination of Marat.

Sutton has the assistance of Robert Knowles as technical director and scene designer, and Mrs. Barbara Ratcliffe as costume designer for the campus production of Marat/Sade. Sutton joined the Speech Department faculty last September after teaching experience at San Francisco State College and Santa Rosa Junior College. He formerly worked professionally at New York City's Circle in the Square Theater and Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts. Mrs. Ratcliffe is the wife of Ronald V. Ratcliffe (Music Department), and Knowles, a veteran of many campus productions at the college, is a senior majoring in history.

After the opening performance of Marat/Sade on Feb. 12, other stagings are planned for the evenings of Feb. 13, 14, 20, and 21, all on the Cal Poly Theater stage. Curtain time each evening will be 8:30 p.m. General admission tickets for all performances, priced at $1.50 for adults and $1 for students, will be sold at the theater box office prior to each evening's performance.

DATES FOR BUSINESS SEMINAR LISTED BY SPONSORING GROUPS

Plans for the fourth in a series of annual business seminars, during which business and industrial leaders from throughout the nation address Cal Poly students, were announced by the sponsoring organizations last week. Featured during the fourth annual Cal Poly Business-Agricultural-Industrial Seminar, Feb. 19-20, will be panel discussions on a variety of topics concerning management, marketing, and industrial relations.

Expected to join members of the college student body and faculty for the event, according to Michael Luna, a spokesman for the student committee in charge of arrangements, are some 30 business and industrial executives.

Joint sponsors of the seminar are Cal Poly's Society for the Advancement of Management chapter, Agricultural Business Management Club, and Industrial Technology Society. In addition to students of the college's Business Administration, Agricultural Management, and Industrial Technology Departments, whose students are members of the sponsoring student organizations, students of the entire Cal Poly student body are being invited to participate in the Feb. 19-20 event.
