Banks aren’t only places to cash checks

Get any spare change? If not, it might be worthwhile to know where you can get some, or rather, where you can cash a check in this town.

The first thing that pops into most people’s minds when you’re talking about cashing checks is the bank. But what do you do when you don’t have the means to go to a bank, or when the bank is closed or, even worse, when it’s lunch hour and teller lines are backing up their second circuit or the second building?

If you’re a student and you’re not on campus, you’re in business. Any currently enrolled student can cash a check for up to $80 at the Cashier’s Office in the Union upon presentation of an A-ID card and current registration card.

But if you’re a student and you’re not on campus, you best be probably one of the three branches of Cork ‘n Bottle Liquor Stores. If anything, Cork ‘n Bottle tends to cater to students. Any student from either this university or from Cuesta College with a cashier for up to $80 or for $80 over the amount of purchase. This figure, of course, may dwindle depending upon the amount of cash the individual store has on hand. Occasionally, they’ll ask to see your driver’s license, but as a general rule, the only identification required is an A-ID card.

The cash-checking procedure for non-students involves a lot more red tape. The manager then runs a check on this information, whether it be everything checks out, the applicant is in a legal category and his worries are over.

Another place to cash a check, regardless of whether of not you’re a student, is Jordan’s. Anyone who wants to cash a check through the Cashier’s Office (ID number) can. Of course, anyone with a check guard has a better chance of cashing a check here. It’s not possible to cash a check through check cashing policy, but here, if you’re not a student, you’d better make sure the amount of purchase. Jordan’s won’t even unless you have an A-ID card with you. In fact, some businesses do write a check for the amount of purchase at Jordan’s, they will ask to see some sort of credit card.

(Continued on Page 5)

TO STUDENTS WITH CAMPUS IDS SOME LOCAL MERCHANTS SAY YES, OTHERS REFUSE THE RISK

To students with campus cards, some local merchants say yes, others refuse the risk.

By JOAN CAMPBELL

Here’s a fairly flexible check-cashing policy, but here again, regardless of whether or not you’re a student, it’s Jordan’s. Anyone who wants to cash a check through the Cashier’s Office (ID number) can. Of course, anyone with a check guard has a better chance of cashing a check here. It’s not possible to cash a check through check cashing policy, but here, if you’re not a student, you’d better make sure the amount of purchase. Jordan’s won’t even unless you have an A-ID card with you. In fact, some businesses do write a check for the amount of purchase at Jordan’s, they will ask to see some sort of credit card.

(Continued to Page 5)

Two SAC seats vacant

In Wednesday election

A special election will be held Wednesday, January 31, due to the recent resignation of Margaret Ballantine, Human Development and Education and SAC revises service awards

The Awards Committee which was voted out of existence by the 1971-72 Student Affairs Council was voted back into existence at a recent meeting of this year’s SAC.

 Duties of the committee are to select recipients of the Mustang Award, Honorary Mustang Award, Senior Mustang Award, and Gold Key Activity Awards. Applications for all these awards are available in the Activities Planning Center.

Ray Righthetti, Engineering and Technology. Mark Zachery is the candidate running for the representative from Human Development and Education and the School of Engineering and Technology. Polling booths will be located at the University Union, the Engineering building, and the Business Administration and Education building.

According to Laird, the order was passed in an attempt to make the draft more equitable. The National Guard, in past years was an excess of volunteer units, but never using dollars in maintaining the Guard and Reserve, but the order to keep the amount of purchase. Jordan’s won’t even unless you have an A-ID card with you. In fact, some businesses do write a check for the amount of purchase at Jordan’s, they will ask to see some sort of credit card.

(Continued to Page 5)

Tuition is knocking at the California university and college door once again this time as a tax on units taken. These units are required for a degree. The trustees of the university and college system are considering recommending legislation that would extend Selective Service beyond the draft. The draft was in past years an income for many Americans to enlist in the Reserves and

Trustees consider tuition for excess units taken

Tuition is knocking at the California university and college door once again this time as a tax on units taken. These units are required for a degree. The trustees of the university and college system are considering recommending legislation that would extend Selective Service beyond the draft. The draft was in past years an income for many Americans to enlist in the Reserves and

Prof to discuss USSR politics

Dr. Paul E. Zinder, professor of political science at UC Davis, will lecture on the politics and government of Soviet Russia in the Chumash Auditorium at 11 a.m. Tuesday.

Zinder has lectured and written extensively on Soviet politics. He has authored five books and numerous articles in professional journals and magazines. He also is a regular panelist on the weekly “West Week” panel on KQED-TV, San Francisco.

Zinder received his doctorate in political science in 1968 and taught at Columbia University before joining the University of California in 1971.

The lecture is one of a series of academic enrichment presentations sponsored by the Office of Academic Affairs and the Athletics Department. The public is invited to attend. No admission will be charged.
Black demands fizzle in SAC election

There's nothing surprising about a mid-year Student Affairs Council election—weekly meetings and long hours of government work conflicting with classes and the urge to graduate someday take their toll of representatives each year.

But the surprise this year is the battle for two SAC seats will be as dull as it has been in past years.

Just two weeks ago, over 50 blacks trooped into a SAC meeting.

"Here's nothing surprising about a mid-year Student Council election," said Fred Johnson, Spartan Daily reporter.

"But the surprise this year is that the battle for two SAC seats will be as dull as it has been in past years."

They were there to demand an apology from all the personnel and officers to the members of the black community. "They were there to demand an apology from all the personnel and officers to the members of the black community," said Fred Johnson, Spartan Daily reporter.

Just two weeks ago, over 50 blacks trooped into a SAC meeting. They were there to demand an apology from all the personnel and officers to the members of the black community. "They were there to demand an apology from all the personnel and officers to the members of the black community," said Fred Johnson, Spartan Daily reporter.

Brad Beitler supported in race for SAC post

Editor: Unanimous to most students on this campus a special election is going to be held Wed., Jan. 31. This election is being held in order to elect new SAC representatives— to fill the vacancies that now exist. One school that is affected by this election is the School of Engineering and Technology. Of the three people running for this office, one in particular stands out: Brad Beitler. Brad has long been associated with student government and more importantly has been a member of SAC as a representative from Engineering and Technology. He has repeatedly demonstrated his ability to be a responsible representative. The Student Affairs Council is one of the most important groups on this campus and is only as effective as its members. Brad Beitler is effective and would be an excellent SAC member. Vote Brad Beitler on Jan. 31 for excellent representation on SAC and Engineering Technology.

Robert K. Chappell
SAC member

Editorial policy

Letters to the editor about any topic are welcome. Letters should be typed and must be signed. Brief letters to Graphic Arts 220 and put them in the editor's mailbox.

Letters to the editor about any topic are welcome. Letters should be typed and must be signed. Brief letters to Graphic Arts 220 and put them in the editor's mailbox.

Letters to the editor about any topic are welcome. Letters should be typed and must be signed. Brief letters to Graphic Arts 220 and put them in the editor's mailbox.

Letters to the editor about any topic are welcome. Letters should be typed and must be signed. Brief letters to Graphic Arts 220 and put them in the editor's mailbox.
MOVIE REVIEW

Gaggle of grabbers

by Rick Goulart

Lorraine Howard

Who's Who picks Dean of Women for meritorious achievement award

Dean of Women Lorraine Howard is slowly surprising herself and others with national distinction of her meritorious achievements.

"No one was more surprised than I was, and still am," said Mrs. Howard. "They somehow find out about you and then all of a sudden, there you are." Mrs. Howard has been a dean on campus since 1964. Besides related administrative assignments, she does vocational and educational counseling for both men and women students.

The selection principle for "Who's Who" is based on meritorious achievement in any field. Persons sketched in the books include leading executives and officials in government, business, education, religion, the press, civic affairs, fine arts, law, professional and collegiate athletics, top figures in contemporary art and music, science, and persons responsible for the latest developments in science.

Mrs. Howard received her Ph.D. from Oregon State University. She is a member of Omicron Nu (National Home Economics Society), Phi Kappa Phi (National Scholastic Honor Society) and Kappa Delta (National Scholastic Education Honor Society). She holds a secondary credential in California and Oregon, a standard designated service credential with a specialization in pupil personnel development, a certificate in marriage, family and child counseling.

Noisy, empty stomach?
Try a quick breakfast

by RONDI WALD

It grows nearly seriatim, startingly, begging for at least a small morsel of food. But patience is the key word.

Few college students have the time or desire to feed that neglected thing on their way to class. Besides, it's too early to think about things like that.

The morning hours drag by and the growing increases in volume and intensity, only to echo in the empty walls.

By midmorning most students will finally have assuaged or assailed, their stomachs with some kind of food. And breakfast remains an alien word.

A morning meal does not have to be time consuming and involved as so many mistakenly assume. "A slice of toast, or a bowl of cereal, or cottage cheese and fruit, or a bowl of soup, or leftover meat are only a few of the quickies besides a fried egg that are nutritious."

Marketers have caught onto the breakfast battle and made many items available for the 10 minutes person. Frozen waffles, french toast and even TV breakfasts are a saving on time.

For the two minute person there are still the breakfast drinks, ready made for the

The near king of imaginative fantasy, Irwin Allen, who has brought us the film rendition of "The Lost World" and "Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea" plus the television sequel to "Voyage." "Lost in Space," "Time Tunnel" and "Land of the Giants," now brings to the screen a slick melodrama in "The Poseidon Adventure," at the Madonna Plaza Theatre.

"Poseidon" is an adventure in the travel form, an old-fashioned thriller in the "Airport" tradition.

You sexually feel the agonies of the passengers of the B. S. Poseidon on its last voyage, when it is hit by a massive tidal wave and capsized somewhere in the mid-Atlantic. The plight of a handful of passengers, making their way to the bottom of the ship above them, is caught in the rising water line, is the film's basic concern.

"The Poseidon Adventure" displays the talents of 19 Academy Award winners. The acting never quite reaches perfection. In its time, with the film's true script that is one long cliché. Still, noteworthy performances are given by Gene Hackman and Shelley Winters, who has vowed on doctor's orders never again to gain as much weight as in recent film, is the movie's scene stealer.

The film sports some spulent sets, some constructed especially for the film and others filmed on the Queen Mary in Long Beach. But "Poseidon's" greatest asset is its special effects. They are down right awesome and are surely to win an Oscar for A. D. Flowers and L. B. Abbott. Be careful of the film's suspense element. It is the type of movie that tears at your stomach lining.

In its second week at the Obispo is "The New Centurians," portraying the life of a cop (Rex Reason) from his rookie days onward. The film is gutted with fantasy. It is not believable but has some hilarious slapstick by Dean Jones at the Fremont.

Senior projects livened by Internship program

The thought of a senior project brings a shudder to most students. The idea of a senior project on this campus. But for social science majors, the expected frugality may be a real necessity. The Social Science Department's Internship Program has helped make senior projects more relevant and interesting, at least that's the opinion of many participating students.

In addition to handling senior project requirements, the program can also be used to fulfill special problems and work experience classes.

The program, according to student coordinator Tina Lewis, began last spring. About 30 students were placed in working positions with many local agencies. Although the students are not paid, they receive units credit depending on the class in which they are enrolled.

The program, which involves approximately 40 students, can be easily tailored to fit the individual student's desires.

Diane Gold spends 18 hours a week working at the San Luis Obispo County Probation Department. Although she is primarily interested in the legal experience aspect, Miss Gold has also used her Internship for her senior project.

She plans to remain in the for three quarters and is still in the training portion of the program. Eventually, she will be involved in family counseling with the hopes she hopes will lead to a similar career.

Ann Bitten is enrolled in the program for one quarter, to gather information for her senior project.

Mrs. Bitten spends hours a week at the San Luis Obispo County Library. She says that the program, put her in an enjoyable environment she hadn't expected. She feels her senior project is "more practical," and too, that it is a great help in the library and probation department.

"The interns' duties are as varied as their employers' Some do research, surveys and budgets. Others are still in training, and some deal directly with people.

"The student must first complete an application which gives basic information and employer preferences. Applicants are available the student will probably be placed in the position requested. The program is open primarily to junior and seniors.

"For more information contact Miss Lewis at 642-3888 or faculty coordinator Dr. George Chase at 646-3767 or Dr. Allen Bette at 646-3684.

Check-cashing in San Luis

(Continued from Page 1)

On occasion, Safeway will cash checks several dollars over the amount of purchase, but as manager Clifford Hanson said, "We're in business to sell food, not to cash checks."

There are many more stores in San Luis Obispo that will cash your check, but the one mentioned here are the main ones.

If you plan to do a little travelling, however, and expect to cash a check cut of torn, it would be to your best advantage to obtain a check guarantee card from your bank, for nowadays, that card carries more weight than just about any other identification imaginable.

---

Daddi Dixon's

257 Madonna Rd.

646-6060

Daddi Dixon has the lowest prices in Central California on RCA TV's and Stereos

Also, RCA 16" color $228.88 w/stand
Matmen dominate foes to claim two victories

Mustang wrestlers easily outclassed their opponents in sweeping a pair of wins over UCLA, SM, and the University of Riverside, 66-47, at Riverside on Friday, 9-27, in a crucial conference game. The University of San Diego dumped the Mustangs, 75-48, 34 hours later.

The Bakerfield loss smothered all hopes the matmen had of repeating as conference champions. Facing a must win situation with a 1-4 league mark, the Mustangs could not keep pace with the 17th-ranked Roadrunners in the final minutes, ending up with just 1:38 remaining.

The Wheelers started off as if to do it all again. Thompson and Barnhart's win gave the Mustangs a nine-point lead with just 1:14 to go and painted the opening stanza.

Just after an Ellis Porter jump shot for Bakerfield and a Funky Williams' charity shot, Bakerfield shot into the lead with nine points to take a 32-23 lead on a couple of handles by Ross. The score ensued until the Mustangs mounted a second thrust in the closing moments.

The key reason for the loss ongoing from the old shortening of the Martin Luther King Jr. varsity tilt at 1:41 p.m. Saturday's battle as the 17th-ranked Roadrunners played against 204 at a pair of points for his 4:01 riding time. Morgan is now 16-0-1, undefeated grappler had take two takedowns, two two-pointers to win the 400-yard two events, the aquamen were never down after two weekend all-conference selection led all six points, giving the Mustangs a slight 31 to 27 lead. Star forward John Parker made a three-point play that gave the Mustangs a nine-point lead with just 1:14 to go in the opening stanza.

Despite being tied, the Mustangs saw their hopes dwindle with six straight Roadrunner points, giving the Bakerfield a 35-46 advantage with just 1:38 remaining. From here it was all over as the cagers mounted a second thrust in the closing moments.

The key reason for the loss ongoing from the old shortening of the Martin Luther King Jr. varsity tilt at 1:41 p.m. Saturday's battle as the 17th-ranked Roadrunners played against 204 at a pair of points for his 4:01 riding time. Morgan is now 16-0-1, undefeated grappler had take two takedowns, two two-pointers to win the 400-yard two events, the aquamen were never down after two weekend all-conference selection led all six points, giving the Mustangs a slight 31 to 27 lead. Star forward John Parker made a three-point play that gave the Mustangs a nine-point lead with just 1:14 to go in the opening stanza.

Despite being tied, the Mustangs saw their hopes dwindle with six straight Roadrunner points, giving the Bakerfield a 35-46 advantage with just 1:38 remaining. From here it was all over as the cagers mounted a second thrust in the closing moments.