Thursday's Laos news might be prisoners of war in Laos, the Dismayed that the Communist Defense Department said Friday and has demanded "more In... the last roster of surviving POWs
W. Fredheim.

"It doesn't appear to us that WA8HINQTON (UPI) -
"We had expectations of The Pentagon Is con...
"Many new forces are being formed like the Consumer Assemblywoman, March Feng (D-14th District), who spoke on "Consumer Affairs and Protection" in Chumash Auditorium Thursday evening.
"The California consumer has one of the highest standards of living in the world and with more and more to offer the consumer there are many difficult choices," said Mrs. Feng. A conference of the Department of Consumer Affairs has also helped," said Mrs. Feng. According to Mrs. Feng, many legislative bills designed to protect the consumer have not been passed in recent years but the changing mood of the consumer will lead to the passage of more and more consumer protection.

"There are two-and-a-half billion dollars worth of repairs each year on almost 16 million autos in California and it is estimated that in at least one third of all repairs there is some form of deception."

"There are two-and-a-half billion dollars worth of repairs each year on almost 16 million autos in California and it is estimated that in at least one third of all repairs there is some form of deception." Mrs. Feng.

"Consumer legislators and private inspectors are working together for items that are a fair cost, of good quality and presented in an honest manner," said Mrs. Feng. Mrs. Feng cited four legislative bills that she feels are crucial for consumer protection. They deal with unfair pricing, non-fault insurance, mail fraud and negligence or fraud can be conclusively raised slightly in 1972.

The prize would have been worth $160,000 in 1972, but it is presumably be raised slightly in 1973.

If the committee selects a candidate for the award, the winner will be announced next November and presented the award Dec, 16.

Tired of rain?

Soggy burrow yields sunshine

Ernest, San Luis Obispo's notorious groundhog, made his annual appearance at dawn Friday. On hand to greet him were many anxious flood victims.

Despite a muddy and somewhat soggy for coal, Ernest popped up with bright eyes and a bushy tail. His prediction, thanks to the ominous grey cloud cover, is for an early spring and lots of sunshine.

This forecast has been supported by groundhogs across the nation from Hampden, Massachusetts to Quakertown, Pennsylvania. Many local residents solemnly celebrated the prediction later in the day including Ernest who was reported to have stayed up for hours before retiring back to his den.

Flood disaster aid is rejected by government

The federal government Friday rejected an appeal by the city of Los Angeles for disaster aid in the wake of the Jan. 18 flood. According to the Office of Emergency Preparedness, practically everyone need hope that San Luis Obispo homeowners will receive federally-insured low interest loans although the bank could receive for "standard" federally-backed loans.

The announcement was received approximately 1:30 p.m. Friday by Administrator Richard Miller who later said, "I'm just sick about the situation but I feel we haven't by any means exhausted our options."

Prior to the rejection the federal small business Administration was able to decide on its own whether an area was eligible for emergency assistance loans. Los Angeles was dependent upon a decision by the OEP, according to Congressman Bert Talcott.

Talcott indicated Friday that the refusal could not be blamed on anything that San Luis Obispo city or county officials did or did not do.

Assemblywoman warns buyers

"War" tickets

Tickets for the "War" concert Feb. 16 will be on sale at the Union Information Desk today at noon. Admission for students is $1.00 for general admission and $3.00 for reserved seats, while tickets for the general public are $3.50 and $6.50.
If the Senate likes it, so should SAC

A broken computer and too many early morning hours of work combined forces to amputate Friday's editorial somewhere in the middle.

By popular request (the editor's), the editorial is reprinted today as it should have read.

When a U.S. senator dies, he is replaced by a governor's appointee—rarely by a new election.

When a Student Affairs Council member bows out, the ASI sets an election date, bans the polls for seven hours and produces a democratically-selected replacement.

The idea is to fill a SAC seat with a student who is representative of all other students in his school. But reality doesn't quite live up to the idea.

An election was held Wednesday to fill vacant SAC seats for the schools of Engineering and Technology and Human Development and Education.

The engineering school, which has an enrollment of over 2,000, had a voter turn-out of 157 students. Out of close to 1,500 students, human development mustered 13 voters.

Apathy of students is a well-worn subject, hardly worth mentioning. But what does deserve mention and much consideration is ASI's persistent head-bumping against the stone wall of such apathy.

Mark Zachary, ran unopposed in the human development race. Someone should have taken the hint that Mark Zachary would undoubtedly win, even if only by the virtue of 13 votes. He should have been appointed as a SAC representative by his council. That could hardly be less democratic than his landslide mandate by 13 students.

The SAC seat in the engineering school was more hotly contested by three candidates. Though Brad Bletler won by a healthy dozen votes, it is ironic to note that more students voted against him (or for the other two candidates) than voted for him. And that doesn't sound too democratic.

A council appointment here, too, would have sufficed.

Though it is written that elections shall be held to replace SAC members during the year, rules have been known to be rewritten.

Elections that don't produce particularly representative winners and that cost ASI in terms of manpower and materials are of questionable worth.

Students affairs Council should direct their attention to changing the system so that the school councils could use its discretion to hold an election in the case of a controversial contest.

As Bob Walters (advisor to the Elections Committee) says: "Why not just appoint them?"

If it's good enough for the Senate, than it should be good enough for SAC.

It was CU, is now UU; maybe it should be JM

It's what to call that big concrete building, once called the College Union, I wish to add some more brilliance.

As a member of the infamous board of governors, I have heard every possible reason to call it every possible thing you can imagine. To this point I wish to add this: Is the name really important?

Shakespeare said something about a rose once; the same thought applies here. Whatever it is called it is still the same place.

Let's try the new name for a while and if you don't like it, call it whatever you want. Personally, I would like to start a movement to nickname it the J.M. for Julian McPhee who it was named after to start with.

If you still don't like what the board of governors decided, become one. Applications are available at the information desk in the J.M.
Speaker to electrify

This university’s chapter of the Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers (IEEE) will host a guest speaker this Thursday, Feb. 8.

Mr. G.G. Wedekind of Underwriters Laboratories will speak on a Friday at 4 p.m. in Home Economics 114, and again at 7:30 p.m. in Science 207.

Wedekind’s first speech is directed mainly to Home Economics students and is intended to help the women learn how to choose the best and safest electrical equipment in the home... a business,” said Tim Haney, president of this university’s IEEE, which is sponsored by the international organisation of

Assemblywoman Fong warns the consumer...

(Continued from Page 1)

...bill that deals with mail order fraud that is now law.

“The bill requires that mail order businesses... conform to... within six weeks and they need... and perhaps not look for refunds.”

Mrs. Fong ended her talk by saying, “We have a way to go on consumer protection and... to help consumers get the best goods,” said Mrs. Fong.

In 1973 Mrs. Fong introduced a bill that deals with mail order fraud that is now law. The bill requires that mail order businesses... conform to... within six weeks and they need... and perhaps not look for refunds.”

Mrs. Fong ended her talk by saying, “We have a way to go on consumer protection and... to help consumers get the best goods,” said Mrs. Fong.

In 1973 Mrs. Fong introduced a bill that deals with mail order fraud that is now law. The bill requires that mail order businesses... conform to... within six weeks and they need... and perhaps not look for refunds.”

Mrs. Fong ended her talk by saying, “We have a way to go on consumer protection and... to help consumers get the best goods,” said Mrs. Fong.

In 1973 Mrs. Fong introduced a bill that deals with mail order fraud that is now law. The bill requires that mail order businesses... conform to... within six weeks and they need... and perhaps not look for refunds.”

Mrs. Fong ended her talk by saying, “We have a way to go on consumer protection and... to help consumers get the best goods,” said Mrs. Fong.

In 1973 Mrs. Fong introduced a bill that deals with mail order fraud that is now law. The bill requires that mail order businesses... conform to... within six weeks and they need... and perhaps not look for refunds.”

Mrs. Fong ended her talk by saying, “We have a way to go on consumer protection and... to help consumers get the best goods,” said Mrs. Fong.

In 1973 Mrs. Fong introduced a bill that deals with mail order fraud that is now law. The bill requires that mail order businesses... conform to... within six weeks and they need... and perhaps not look for refunds.”

Mrs. Fong ended her talk by saying, “We have a way to go on consumer protection and... to help consumers get the best goods,” said Mrs. Fong.

In 1973 Mrs. Fong introduced a bill that deals with mail order fraud that is now law. The bill requires that mail order businesses... conform to... within six weeks and they need... and perhaps not look for refunds.”

Mrs. Fong ended her talk by saying, “We have a way to go on consumer protection and... to help consumers get the best goods,” said Mrs. Fong.

In 1973 Mrs. Fong introduced a bill that deals with mail order fraud that is now law. The bill requires that mail order businesses... conform to... within six weeks and they need... and perhaps not look for refunds.”

Mrs. Fong ended her talk by saying, “We have a way to go on consumer protection and... to help consumers get the best goods,” said Mrs. Fong.

In 1973 Mrs. Fong introduced a bill that deals with mail order fraud that is now law. The bill requires that mail order businesses... conform to... within six weeks and they need... and perhaps not look for refunds.”

Mrs. Fong ended her talk by saying, “We have a way to go on consumer protection and... to help consumers get the best goods,” said Mrs. Fong.

In 1973 Mrs. Fong introduced a bill that deals with mail order fraud that is now law. The bill requires that mail order businesses... conform to... within six weeks and they need... and perhaps not look for refunds.”

Mrs. Fong ended her talk by saying, “We have a way to go on consumer protection and... to help consumers get the best goods,” said Mrs. Fong.

In 1973 Mrs. Fong introduced a bill that deals with mail order fraud that is now law. The bill requires that mail order businesses... conform to... within six weeks and they need... and perhaps not look for refunds.”

Mrs. Fong ended her talk by saying, “We have a way to go on consumer protection and... to help consumers get the best goods,” said Mrs. Fong.

In 1973 Mrs. Fong introduced a bill that deals with mail order fraud that is now law. The bill requires that mail order businesses... conform to... within six weeks and they need... and perhaps not look for refunds.”

Mrs. Fong ended her talk by saying, “We have a way to go on consumer protection and... to help consumers get the best goods,” said Mrs. Fong.

In 1973 Mrs. Fong introduced a bill that deals with mail order fraud that is now law. The bill requires that mail order businesses... conform to... within six weeks and they need... and perhaps not look for refunds.”

Mrs. Fong ended her talk by saying, “We have a way to go on consumer protection and... to help consumers get the best goods,” said Mrs. Fong.

In 1973 Mrs. Fong introduced a bill that deals with mail order fraud that is now law. The bill requires that mail order businesses... conform to... within six weeks and they need... and perhaps not look for refunds.”

Mrs. Fong ended her talk by saying, “We have a way to go on consumer protection and... to help consumers get the best goods,” said Mrs. Fong.

In 1973 Mrs. Fong introduced a bill that deals with mail order fraud that is now law. The bill requires that mail order businesses... conform to... within six weeks and they need... and perhaps not look for refunds.”

Mrs. Fong ended her talk by saying, “We have a way to go on consumer protection and... to help consumers get the best goods,” said Mrs. Fong.

In 1973 Mrs. Fong introduced a bill that deals with mail order fraud that is now law. The bill requires that mail order businesses... conform to... within six weeks and they need... and perhaps not look for refunds.”

Mrs. Fong ended her talk by saying, “We have a way to go on consumer protection and... to help consumers get the best goods,” said Mrs. Fong.

In 1973 Mrs. Fong introduced a bill that deals with mail order fraud that is now law. The bill requires that mail order businesses... conform to... within six weeks and they need... and perhaps not look for refunds.”

Mrs. Fong ended her talk by saying, “We have a way to go on consumer protection and... to help consumers get the best goods,” said Mrs. Fong.

In 1973 Mrs. Fong introduced a bill that deals with mail order fraud that is now law. The bill requires that mail order businesses... conform to... within six weeks and they need... and perhaps not look for refunds.”

Mrs. Fong ended her talk by saying, “We have a way to go on consumer protection and... to help consumers get the best goods,” said Mrs. Fong.
 After losing to the nation's best wrestling team in Iowa State, Mustang wrestlers swept through five top teams of the College Division last week.

The three wins on the grapplers' Midwestern tour included a 57-4 win over sixth-ranked Northern Iowa, a 20-3 victory over fifth-rated Mankato State and a 9-4 win over fourth-rated Dakota State. The wins over Mankato State and South Dakota State came in a double dual match Saturday at the Minnesota college.

The Mustangs' "Big Three" of Larry Morgan, Allyn Cooke, and Glen Anderson—all of whom are competing in the East-West Wrestling Classic tonight at Lehgh University in Pennsylvania—continued their winning ways with three victories in the three matches.

Morgan stayed undefeated when he bested Northern Iowa's Ken Snyder, 5-4. He took a 7-3 decision over his Mankato State opponent and a 7-1 verdict against South Dakota State.

Anderson breezed through his three matches. He decided Northern Iowa's Mark Fox, 5-1, and then took a 5-0 win over his South Dakota State man. Anderson also collected an 18-4 decision in his Mankato State match to stay undefeated.

Cooke prevailed in his match with unbeaten Larry Goodnature of Mankato State. The Mustang took a 6-4 decision. Cooke also beat Larry Matin of Northern Iowa, 6-5, and decided his South Dakota opponent 1-2.

Gary McBride and Keith Anderson also won their three matches while Fred Stewart won two and drew his third match.

McBride edged Northern Iowa's Dave Nicol, 8-4, after being nearly pinned and behind five times, a reversal in the second period and collected four penalty points in his win.

Junior forward Lamar Anarson hangs in the air and forces a cold snooting slump and a betrays cagers Poor shooting

"NAI fast break opened up another 10-point deficit for the Mustangs and provided the visitor with the winning margin.

High point scorers for the Mustangs were Pinky Williams with 16, 14 in the first half, and John Parker with 16. Bob Jennings added 15. Billy Jackson sat on the bench seen uniform with a sore knee.

Poor shooting

betrays cagers

Mustang cagers will try to snap a cold snooting slump and a betrays cagers Poor shooting

The age-old institution of the university dump may soon cease to exist according to Donald Vert, procurement and support officer.

The university is now contracting with the San Luis Garbage company from the campus at Nico's expense to earn his en- point. He also collected a pair of 6-0 decisions over South Dakota State and South Dakota State.

Leland took a 13-0 win over Jay Mueller at Northern Iowa, a 6-0 win over South Dakota State and an 18-0 win over Manitoba.

Stewart drew with Iowa's Randy Lammas, 12, to take a 4-1 win over South Dakota State and a 4-0 win over South Dakota State.

University dump

Mercantile.

University dump

Mercantile.

Mercantile.