They said they would continue to have periodic exchanges of views in order to ensure that the agreement and its protocols are strictly and scrupulously implemented.

Motorola rep speaks today

Engineering-sponsored opportunities at the Governmental Electronics of Motorola will be discussed by Progressive Paul Critchfield on campus Thursday. The divo se but exclusively electronic-oriented firm, in Scottsdale, Arizona serves domestic and international defense and space communities with high technology, high quality equipment.

To schedule an interview, interested engineers should contact the Placement Office.

In keeping with the campus master plan, construction of a new building for the School of Architecture, which was featured in the fall issue of "View", is scheduled to start early this summer.

The site for the new three-story facility is northwest of Engineering West. To make room for it, the Agricultural Education building will be demolished. According to Executive Dean Douglas Gerard, 67 permanent parking spaces located around the building will also have to be removed.

The structure is to be partially financed by a federal grant in addition to $2.5 million in state capital outlays. The money has already been committed, Gerard said.

Philips said rooms in other buildings, particularly Engineering West, would continue to be used by the architecture school.

New report on the environmental impact of the building would be put before the Area Council next week. The statement said the project would have no significant negative impact on the environment.

The council, consisting of city and county government representatives, acts as a liaison between the Environmental Protection Agency and the school. The council has no jurisdiction over the project.

No specific dollar figure was indicated and any U.S. aid funds would have to be approved by Congress. Nor was there any hint of restrictions on the use of the money such as a prohibition on rebuilding military installations heavily damaged by the U.S. bombing, especially the important to channel American dollars into rebuilding the war-scarred Communist nation severely damaged by the Indochina war.

Bruce Petryvsky lumberjacks admitted that they had been given the day off to testify for their employers, who were in the audience to coach and supervise the testimony.

This kind of thing is beginning to irk many people, who are urging Congress to better regulate our forests. The timber barons' high-handedness over the public's national forest may be coming to an end.

U.S. spending explained

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government's $1.8 billion spending this year to help the communities solve their desegregation problems will include substituting children's television programs, dropout counseling and planning student transfers between city and suburb, it was learned Wednesday.

The U.S. Office of Education plans to publish rules next week outlining how it intends to spend the money authorized by the Emergency School Aid of 1972. United Press International obtained a copy of the rules Wednesday.

Potentially the most controversial project detailed in the $1 million package disclosed Wednesday was an $11.4 million planning fund for desegregation of a metropolitan area involving more than one school district.
Police war is ending

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon said Wednesday that the nation is on its way to winning the war against air and water pollution, but he said he would ask Congress to pass 19 pieces of legislation to help make the victory complete.

Particularly important, he told the nation in a radio speech, is a comprehensive attack on the energy crisis. Americans, he said, "must face up to a stark fact: We are now consuming more energy than we produce."

And while promising leadership and standards from the federal government, Nixon said the central role in cleaning up the environment must still be played by state and local government, and by industry.

Nixon planned to outline his natural resources legislative requests Thursday in a message to the House and Senate. He did not speak during the radio address of specific proposals, except to say that 19 pieces of legislation which failed to pass Congress last year would be reintroduced.

"Now, in 1973, I can report that America is well on the way to winning the war against environmental degradation—well on the way to making our peace with nature," he said.

"Day by day our air is getting cleaner. In virtually every one of our major cities, the level of air pollution are declining," he added. "Month by month our water pollution problems are also being conquered, our noise and pesticide problems are yielding to new initiatives, our parklands and protected wilderness areas are increasing."

He specifically defended his decision not to spend $6 billion in congressionally approved funds to build sewage treatment plants, saying "More money would not buy us more pollution control facilities but only more expensive ones."

Nixon's budget labeled as misplaced concern

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's proposed cutbacks in funds for manpower would leave manpower programs 8 per cent short of the funds originally proposed for the current fiscal year.

The chairman of the National Urban Coalition, Bel M. Lownwits, agreed with Wirt* and said he could not understand why the military budget was not being cut this year.

"What a tragic, final irony it would be if we could somehow find funds to reconstruct cities we have bombed half a world away, yet declare ourselves powerless to rebuild our own," Lownwits said.

In another reference to Vietnam, Lownwits said the death of the Office of Economic Opportunity had become to the poor "a very serious breach of trust" and "a symbol of surrender—a symbol that their government had agreed to capitulate in the war on poverty without requiring the kind of peace with honor we have insisted on for Vietnam."

Another witness, deputy New York Mayor Edward K. Hamilton, said the federal government will have committed "a very serious breach of trust" if it cuts back on programs for the cities after promising those programs would remain intact if the cities supported revenue sharing.

A SALUTE TO BLACK HERITAGE WEEK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirt* Wednesday condemned as "misplaced human concern." President Nixon's proposed cutbacks in funds for training the unemployed, unskilled, handicapped and young.

"What we Nixon is really saying is that we shouldn't as a matter of policy and choice, move ahead in the areas of social concern," Wirt* said.

Wirt*, who served under Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson when many present manpower programs were begun, testified at House Senate Joint Economic Committee hearings on the Nixon budget and economic plans.

Wirt* said it was wrong to cut back programs for the unemployed, the handicapped and teenagers while failing to exercise economy elsewhere in government.

"To suggest cutting these programs—but increasing military expenditures and leaving—seems to me bad business, MISGUIDED GOVERNMENT, misplaced human concern," he said.

Black Heritage Week

Friday, February 11, 1973 - Page 0
WASHINGTON (UPI) -

Racially mixed marriages, especially between black men and white women, increased sharply in the 1960's in the United States, the Census Bureau said Wednesday.

Between 1960 and 1970, the number of interracial marriages with black husbands more than doubled—18,418 compared to 7,884 in the previous decade. The bureau counted only couples married for the first time and not divorced since then.

The number of white men with black wives—7,365—rose from 8,066 in the 1960's.

While on the increase, interracial couples still constituted a minuscule proportion of American families. In 1970, only seven in 10,000 marriages were racially mixed, compared to four in 10,000 in 1960.

The total of intact black-white marriages, regardless of the year when they took place, was 64,788 in 1970. Of those, 41,323 were composed of black husbands and 23,465 of white husbands.

An Electric Power Institute has been formed at this university with the initial funding coming from the electrical industries. Pres. Robert E. Kennedy announced the formation of the institute last week. Kennedy said the Electric Power Institute will sponsor seminars, workshops, and conferences directed toward practicing engineers, faculty, and students actively concerned with the field of electric power.

"The Electric Power Institute will complement the university's interest in strong career education programs," said Kennedy.

According to the Dean of the Electronic and Electrical Engineering Dept., Dr. Robert Valpey, both the school and industry stand to gain.

"We are getting financial and moral aid from the electrical industries," Valpey said. "They expect this workshop to involve an exchange of information."

Valpey said that industry will be benefitted because of this formation of an electric program on the west coast.

Electrical Engineering Dept. Head Dr. Evan R. Owen said, "We think the institute is a hook of an addition." "I think it will enhance our program. The electric companies are not and will not dictate our program. I think that they are willing to give us confidence in this program."

Owen also said that $44,000 has already been donated for the Institute by industry, and that the amount will reach, no doubt, $80,000 in the future.

One of the originators of the institute idea, and institute Director Dr. Saul Goldberg said, "We have enough money to operate the Institute for four or five years." After and during that time he said that there should be additional financial aid from both industry and the government.

One of the first activities of the new institute will be sponsorship of a High-Voltage Direct Current Transmission Workshop to be held April 8 and 9 on this campus. This tutorial workshop will be primarily for engineers in the electric power field.

Poly Royal booth deadline is approaching

Poly Royal 1972 is getting closer, and proof is in the many deadlines recently set by the Poly Royal Board. Any campus group interested in running a concession during this year's Poly Royal should pick up an application form in the Activities Office and return it to All Box 18 before March 6.

Involvement in the Friday night carnival requires that a completed application form be turned in before March 7. The limited number of carnival spaces will be filled on a first come, first serve basis.

Exhibit applications are being accepted now and should be turned in as soon as possible to secure a position in the Poly Royal calendar of events.

All participation in this year's weekend fair requires a form E and this form as well as the various application blanks are available in the Activities Office.

All forms should be turned into All Box 18 before the above deadlines.

Any questions can be answered by calling the Poly Royal Office at 646-6088.

U.S. continues Laos bombing

VIETNAM (UPI) — Laooj government sources expressed increased optimism Wednesday that a cease-fire with the Communists was imminent. U.S. warplanes launched a new, larger-scale offensive as a show of force.

The bombing, by U.S. Air Force B-52s and F-111s, was the largest for weeks, the command said. U.S. helicopter gunships have been called in to bomb Communist targets every day since the Vietnam cease-fire went into effect Jan. 27.
Members of the child development classes work with the children of the Sierra Child Care Center.

Who’s Teaching Whom?

The Day Care Children's Center located behind the library in Sierra Hall offers a valuable educational opportunity for the pre-school children of faculty, student and staff.

The Center is a learning experience for the child with a program including singing, creative dancing, arts and crafts, flannel board stories, and acquaintances with natural science.

The children are between the ages of two and five and allow their faculty and student parents to pursue an academic program of classes. The parent is charged a minimal fee for the service according to a sliding scale of yearly income and the number of children.

The enrollment number varies but at the present is about 40. The Center has qualified personnel and Child Development class 100 assist with the little ones.

Mrs. Alvah Davis, center director, said “we want to get away from the concept of thinking of the Children's Center as a baby sitting service. Rather, it is an opportunity for the child to participate in an educational program and interact with others.”

The Center urges volunteers and interested parents to contact them for further information at 446-4738 or stop by Sierra Hall and watch the Center in action.
