Campus Counseling Center to offer rap session on everyday hassles

by JOHN PRESS

For those students who are married or living together, "Couples Relationships" might help you learn and understand more about your mate. "Abuse Identity," led by Christine Camacho, will examine the Chinese culture and attempt to bring out problems concerning Chicanos on this campus.

Finally, for those who don't really know what they want to do with their lives, Career Development may help you decide what jobs they would like after graduating. This could offer help for students who know they want to change majors, but don't know what to switch to.

There are usually eight to ten students in a group session lead by a staff member of the Counseling Center. The groups meet once or twice a week, and Dr. Alberti said they try working the sessions around students' schedules.

Interested students should sign up at the Counseling Center with Mrs. Orona. One may enroll for all other groups at the Counseling Center. The sessions will start next week, but some students may sign up through April 6.

Anyone with a question or problem may call the Counseling Center at 387-8911 on weekdays from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. A 24-hour service, which would refer afterburners, is Roundhouse or Hotline to an on-duty counselor's number, is a current project.

All contacts are confidential.

The contract for construction of an 11,000 squarefoot addition to the Student Health Center was recently awarded to Don Greene Contractor, Inc., of Santa Barbara.

ZIPpy change for University

The assignment of 1967 to this University's own ZIP Code number was announced by San Luis Obispo postmaster Edward F. Gearhart. Use of the ZIP Code number will allow the post office to improve mail service.

While the transition is in effect, the mail will be delivered to both 93401 and 93407.

Executive Dean E. Douglas Gerard said that a new structure will provide facilities for additional doctors' offices, examination rooms, X-ray and other treatment areas.

When combined with the current Health Center, it is expected to provide medical services for the university's master planned enrollment of 18,000 full-time equivalent students.

The addition, which will adjoin the present center on the north, is being financed with monies derived from the health service fees paid by students.

A portion of Campus Way and the parking lot located between the present Health Center and the Mechanical Engineering Building will be closed to allow for the building site and storage areas needed to support the construction project.

Dean Gerard said that the closure of Campus Way means that three other traffic routes will also be closed.

People who travel California Blvd, Foothill Blvd, and Grand Ave will have to enter the campus by alternate routes, through either California Blvd, or Grand Ave. These routes will be temporarily closed because of the construction on Campus Way.

The new structure was designed by Robert Alexander and Associates of Los Angeles and estimated to cost $1,000,000. The bid for the work, at $899,000, was the lowest of two submitted for the project.

Library survey course is a guide for the lost

If you find yourself wondering through the library as if lost in a multistory labyrinth, then Library 101 may be the guide for you.

Library 101 is a survey course on how to use this University's library. Instructed by Lane Page, one of several reference librarians, the course is offered on Monday afternoons from four to five. Lane said he encourages freshmen and transfer students to take advantage of the class.

The course was designed by Miss Angelina Maritza, head of Public Services. "The objective of the course is the development of student independence, and initiative in using the library as a source of information," Maritza said.

One of the several reasons for developing the course was a request from students who said some students "were really lost in the library. Many colleges have a library survey course, according to Maritza.

The first such course was offered by a faculty member, with questions concerning informational, research, and reference material.

These students desire to further their understanding of library techniques, which can either enroll in Library 101 or pick up the stack of "Know Your Library," a guide to the resources and services at the library. The pamphlet is available at the reference desk.

Young Generation fills ‘I am needed’ void

Editor: Every Monday night from 7 to 9 p.m. every student can do something to really help his fellow man but can fill up a little time. For some patients, this once a week activity is their only contact with the outside world. They are happy to see the volunteers and often comment on how they look forward all week to the visit.

Students are invited to set a few hours aside on Monday night to help others and themselves as well. For further information call Laura at 544-4700 or myself at 542-1940. Carol Frost

Well, the Beach Boys came to campus, and as usual the quality of the performance was marred by the quality of the surrounding. Why is it that our concerts have to be held in a setting where the ventilation is nonexistent and the seating is insufficient to make you stay home? It’s great to go to a good concert. Leaving out any debate on the merits of the Beach Boys, a good concert has a few essential elements which were lacking at this last one.

Some of us are considered old-fashioned in that we don’t believe in smoking anything. When we go to a concert both kinds of smoke bother us since we aren’t used to them. Another problem with smoking is that the floor can get damaged, and since the gym floor was just resurfaced at a cost of $7,500, it isn’t hard to see why people get upset. Either issue is enough to make the power-to-be blow gaskets and talk about eliminating any concerts.

It’s also hard to get into a show when somebody’s knobby knees are stabbing into your backside. Even more exciting are the sounds of bottles shattering under your feet or splinters of glass flying through the air.

Randy Donat, spokesman for the Activities Planning Center, said that he was glad that the behavior of the crowd was “pretty good.” He noted that people dropped bottles down through the bleachers, and this raises the possibility that the mechanism which retracts the bleachers to the wall could get jammed. Donat warned that future incidents like this could help cancel all concerts on campus.

Fascinating isn’t it? In defence of regulations designed to let everyone enjoy concerts, many people were observed lighting cigarettes and toasting the Beach Boys Concert. Obviously the administration couldn’t cope with the problem. Equally obvious is the realization that the people who brought their stuff to the show couldn’t care less about anybody else as long as they’re happy.

That there are several options available to take care of this. One would like to come out in favor of the solution worked out at UCBB. There all concerts which require extensive seating are scheduled when the climate is pretty good. That way, the concert can be held in the stadium.

The advantages of this system are obvious. Even if we couldn’t get people to stop bringing their particular brand of dope to a program we could minimise their effects on other people. The fresh air would carry away any smoke.

As at UCBB, a large tarp covering the floor would protect the grass and make it simple to clean up any broken glass. There is a little more room between bleachers, so that the in-case-your-up-your-spine condition, while not solved, would at least be helped.

It is to be hoped that the concert committee and responsible officials from the administration will work together in the remaining part of this year to eliminate the problems which diminished the enjoyment of concerts held on campus.

It is equally to be hoped that the students who find it impossible to enjoy a concert without using some sort of drug, be it pot, bong or plain old cigarettes, will feed their addictions before they come to the concert, or stay home, so as not to risk cancellation of all concerts for all of us by leading up during a performance.

Cold-blooded murder or tragic error made?

Editor: Is this world in such a sad state that people can’t tell the difference between a tragic error and cold-blooded murder? I am referring to Hany Khoury’s letter in the March 26 Mustang Daily. Only for an civilized people does the eye-for-eye type of revenge substitute — even as a last resort. It is true, we have a history of national security (the airliner that disappeared without a trace), and to put an Arab terrorist who murders indiscriminately at will, 30,000 to the family of each TV hero, seems only to add a chapter to the latest book of our collective sins.

Editor: I happened, by mistake, to watch a bit of television last night and found KSBY signing off as usual. Flash a tell-tale, people shooting rifles at each other, soldiers seen marching, guns pointed, dying in war and KSBY is highlighting these features with our national anthem. Can it be real? I got the connection, but I missed the message. Pretty weird.

Crops Club sprouts tour of campus for children

The Crops Club at School is sponsoring a Campus Tour at 10 a.m. Saturday for 30 children of low income families.

Dan Scott, student chairman of the event said, "An equal number of members of the club, which serves the 100 majors in crop science here, will join the children. The objective is to broaden the experiences of both the university students and the children."

C. Virgil Johnson, Crop Science Department Head and chairman of this project, said, "The children will be treated to a lunch along with a tour of the campus, especially the farm areas."

WOW training

A training session for Welcome Week counselors will be held April 1 at 1:30 p.m. in Union 204.

Counselors will be instructed on how to answer questions ranging from financial aid for students to registration and counselor guidance, according to Mike Luden, general chairman of Welcome Week.

People club wants people

Cultures of countries throughout the world are examined with the use of slides, music and a speaker every Friday when the People-to-People Club, a section of the International Council, meets. All students are invited to attend the meetings from 3 p.m. to 4 p.m. in Union 520. President Judy Brer urges students "not to stay away if you can't arrive at the full three hours, just drop by for awhile."

Speed Reading Course Set To Begin In San Luis Obispo

Arrangements have been made to conduct a 31-hour course in Speed Reading under the auspices of the American Reading Foundation of Columbus, Ohio, which has just recently opened their California processing center in Riverside. The course is open to anyone above the age of 15 and guarantees every graduate a minimum improvement of three times his initial reading speed with better comprehension. The average graduate attains 1500 plus words per minute.

After the 7-week program, a person can read any average length book in less than an hour and understand it better. In addition to Speed Reading, the course also emphasizes improved study techniques, better test-taking skills, and increased concentration and retention abilities.

The course requires a person to attend one class per week on the evening of their choice. For those who would like more information without obligation to enroll, a series of FREE one hour orientation lectures have been scheduled. These meetings are free to the public and the course will be explained in complete detail including entrance requirements, class room procedures, tuition, class schedule and location. You need to attend only one of the meetings, whichever is most convenient to you. These free one hour orientations will be held as follows: Tuesday, March 30, at 7:30 p.m. at the Sands Motel; Wednesday, March 31, at 7:30 p.m. at the Sands Motel; Thursday, April 1, 1:30 p.m. at the Sands Motel; Friday, April 2, 1:30 p.m., at the Sands Motel. This course is also available to industry and other groups upon request.

All Free, Robin Baggett gave a report to the group on the sales of student discount cards. Baggett said the sales have exceeded 2,600 cards, at 80 cents each, for a total of over $ 250. He noted the program had only cost $ 50 to establish. The cards were distributed by Delta Sigma Phi, who will receive 50 per cent of the profits. Of the remaining profits, 50 per cent will go to Roundhouse, and 50 per cent will go into A.S.I. coffers.

The Mustang baseball team travels to Pomona this weekend for a vital conference baseball series with league-leading Cal Poly Pomona.

The Mustangs will play a single game on Friday starting at 8:30 p.m. and a noon doubleheader on Saturday.

Unbeaten Mike Krukow (4-0) will open on the mound Friday while Nick Kromen (5-4) and Doug Alderman (8-1) are scheduled to hurl on Saturday.

The Mustangs, who are a game behind the league leaders, must win two games to remain in contention in the tough league race. Coach Byrdy Harr asserted, "If we want to keep the race, Coach Berdy Harr.

Anyone interested in signing up...for this quarter's activities should contact Heaton at the Intramural office in the Men's Gym.

 Mustang catcher Doug Redican (14) is checked at first base in recent action. In this weekend's play, Cal Poly Pomona will have to be careful of the base-stealing Mustangs. They are the league-leaders in that category with 38 steals in 16 games. Redican is second on the squad with 9.

Credit offered for Intramurals

Have you often dreamed of playing in your shorts with a member of the opposite sex and receive credit for it? Well now is your chance, because for the first time this university is offering coed intramurals for credit.

According to intramural director Dee Heaton, students may sign up to participate in one of four intramural sports and get one-half credit per quarter.
