Ideas Will Be Focus of 39th Poly Royal
Open House: Ceremonies Slated Friday Morning

Like the butterflies on the 1971 Poly Royal posters, ideas will swarm across the Cal Poly campus on Friday and Saturday (April 23-24) for the 39th renewal of Poly Royal. Ideas will emanate from the instructional program displays, the special interest activities, and the discussions born of these events.

The 1971 Poly Royal will be officially launched at 10:30 a.m. on Friday at ceremonies held on the Dexter Library Building lawn. But even before the official start, eager students will have begun a horse show and a math contest.

The queen and her court will be greeted by the Cal Poly community and invited guests at a reception in the Julian A. McPhee College Union on Thursday (April 22) evening. Once Poly Royal begins, the 60,000 expected visitors will be greeted by displays as varied as a marionette show and a chance to view a lunar rock.

Varied Displays Planned

More than 90 displays will be on hand on the campus. There will be active events such as the intercollegiate rodeo, water polo, volleyball, rugby, soccer, swimming shows, dances, and cow milking. There will be scientific displays exploring the worlds of chemistry, biology, ecology, engineering, physics, and computer science.

There will be cultural attractions such as Pottery I, art shows, folk dancing, band concerts, and a theatrical production of Charlie's Aunt, and there will be social commentary in film and debate.

Throughout the two days, Queen Lindy K. Swanson of Miraleste and her court, Julie Ann Ayres of Auburn, Sandy Burnham of San Mateo, Paula Harper of Palos Verdes, and...

C S C COMMISSION NAMED TO STUDY EXTERNAL DEGREE PROGRAMS

A Commission on External Degrees to consider ways of permitting higher education requirements to be met outside of typical campus settings has been announced today by Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke of the California State Colleges. The commission, headed by President Thomas H. McGrath of Sonoma State College, is an outgrowth of proposals by Chancellor Dumke in January for curricular innovation and improved use of resources in the 19-campus system.

Dr. Dumke said the six-member group, which may be expanded later, will concentrate on improving and expanding Extension programs in the State Colleges with a view toward granting external degrees through these programs. In addition, he said the commission will explore such possibilities as credit for certain work experience, cooperative plans with industry and governmental agencies and performance testing of students not enrolled in regular programs.

In addition to Chairman McGrath, commission members are President S. I. Hayakawa, San Francisco State College; D. Dale Hanner, vice chancellor, business affairs, the California State Colleges; John L. Houk, deputy dean, academic planning, the California State Colleges; Ralph C. Mills, associate vice president, academic affairs, Chico State College; and Nelson Norman, professor of history, San Diego State College.
Joseph C. Boone, Anthony J. Buffa, and David W. Hafemeister (all Physics Department) recently collaborated with Stanley Hanna and Peter Bond of Stanford University in obtaining and controlling a 66 Mev Iodine beam, using the Stanford Tandem Van de Graaf Accelerator. A unique feature of the beam resulting from their work is that the iodine has a charge of +10. This work is the first phase of a Mossbauer experiment which will involve both nuclear and solid state physics.

Robert Mott (Head of Men's Physical Education Department) and James J. Jensen, Stewart F. Chestnut, L. M. Bridges, Richard Heaton, Dwayne G. Head, and James L. Webb (all Men's Physical Education Department) attended the 38th annual meeting of the California Association for Health, Physical Education, and Recreation in Oakland on April 1-6. A broad range of topics was discussed during the meetings.

A summer fellowship awarded to Gerald D. Reynolds (Placement and Financial Aids Office) will support a study to measure the feasibility of formalizing career counseling programs in college placement offices. He will receive $750 as a co-recipient of the Vera Christie Summer Fellowship made possible by the Western College Placement Association "to develop professionalism in the field of placement." Reynolds expects to use the grant to visit 10 colleges and universities in California, Washington, Oregon and Nevada to examine practices and approaches regarding career counseling.

George J. Hasslein (Dean of Architecture and Environmental Design) met with the Education Committee of the Association of General Contractors of America in San Francisco recently. Dean Hasslein also addressed a recent meeting of former students of Cal Poly's architecture programs in Fresno.

Mary Lou White (Women's Physical Education Department) has been selected by the National Golf Foundation to attend the second annual NGF Seminar for Teachers to be held Aug. 16-20 at Pine Needles Country Club in Southern Pines, N.C. Participation is by invitation and is limited to 160 persons at each of two sites for the entire nation. Format for the program will blend lecture-demonstrations, practical application, panel discussions, and idea-sharing "golforum" sessions.

Sergeant Major Richard T. Flynn (Military Science Department), whose college career spans 26 years, has completed study for his BS degree on campus. Flynn has been in the U.S. Army for 28 years and has continued his college studies whenever the opportunity was available. His assignment to Cal Poly has enabled him to complete the final 50 units of his work.

Marvin J. Whalls (Head of the Natural Resources Management Department) has been elected to the rank of Fellow in the International Academy of Fishery Scientists. Founded in Rome, Italy, in 1967, the academy recognizes those who are devoted professionally to the benefit of mankind through advancement in the understanding, development, and management of fishery resources of the waters throughout the world.

John E. Dunn, Robin R. Grinnell, John L. Merriam, Henry Waelti, and James B. Zetzsche (all Agricultural Engineering Department) attended the annual meeting of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers' Pacific Region, which took place March 31-April 1, in Las Vegas. Grinnell, who is editor of the ASAE's Pacific Region newsletter, took notes on the meetings and Dr. Waelti served as chairman of one of the meeting's sessions. Dunn, Zetzsche, and Merriam presented papers respectively titled "A Vertically Stabilized Picking Platform," "A Wide Width Tractor Design," and "Adjusting Cylinder Infiltrometer Data for Field Use."
FOREIGN STUDENTS WILL OBSERVE INTERNATIONAL EDUCATION DAY

Cal Poly foreign students will observe International Education Day tomorrow (Wednesday, April 21). They will join students at other California State College campuses in the day-long observance designed to call attention to their concern regarding further increases in tuition for foreign students presently enrolled in the state colleges. Focal point of local interest in the program will be a speak-in, which will take place starting at 11 a.m. in the plaza of the Julian A. McPhee College Union.

Avinash Aggarwal, a senior from India who is chairman of the campus program for the sponsoring International Students Council, said that a number of students, faculty, administrators, and other interested persons are scheduled to speak during tomorrow morning's speak-in. Included will be Everett M. Chandler (Dean of Students); Douglas R. Pierce (Director of International Education); Myron Graham, a San Luis Obispo businessman and city councilman; and Joe Martinez, vice president of the Student Affairs Council of the Associated Students, Inc.

In addition to the program in the College Union Plaza, petitions addressed to Governor Ronald Reagan and members of the state legislature will be circulated for signatures in locations on campus and throughout San Luis Obispo. On campus, they will be available in front of Dexter Library Building and at the College Union. Off campus, they will be available at tables located in the College Square Shopping Center, the Safeway Supermarket on Marsh St.; the J.C. Penney Department Store on Higuera St.; Maxwell's Department Store in the Madonna Plaza; and the Thrifty Drug Store in the Foothill Plaza Shopping Center.

LEACH WILL RETIRE ON JUNE 30

The head of Cal Poly's Poultry Industry Department, who was among the contingent of agriculturalists the late Julian A. McPhee, chief executive officer of Cal Poly from 1930 to 1966, gathered to strengthen agriculture programs at the college in 1930, will retire on June 30. Fresh out of Montana State College, the $75 a month salary Richard I. Leach was offered looked good in the depression period -- and California had a more formalized poultry industry than Montana. He came for six months and stayed for 40 years.

The retiring poultryman has an international reputation in poultry education. He announced his retirement plans on his return from a three-month tour of duty in India on behalf of Research Development Corporation -- his second such trip for the company. On both trips he was surveying the infant poultry industry of India and preparing recommendations as to how Peace Corps volunteers and the Peace Corps program could assist in the development of the industry there. He visited 12 of the 18 states of India on the most recent trip.

When Leach came to Cal Poly, two courses in poultry husbandry were offered. Everyone who took the poultry courses was planning to go into poultry production -- the vast service industry, which has made possible the huge poultry operations of today, was only in its infancy. Today, Cal Poly students in the poultry program are working toward bachelor of science degrees, 15 specialized courses in poultry are offered, and the huge poultry industry cannot get enough graduates to fill its need.

In 1930, two students carried projects in poultry. Today all of the 54 majors in poultry industry carry on projects at the campus Poultry Unit. When Leach arrived at Cal Poly there were three brooder houses, and a hen house for 600 birds. A second house for 800 birds was under construction.

The present plant has facilities for 15,000 birds in all types of housing from range to cage confinement and has facilities for hatching eggs and processing eggs and meat birds. The 15,000-bird flock represents six breeds of chickens. In addition, turkeys and game birds are raised for use in the instructional program.

Leach feels his greatest satisfaction from his work at Cal Poly has been the fellowship of young people -- the opportunity to work with people at a constant age. The Poultry Industry Department head has no immediate plans as to how he will spend his retirement. He and his wife, Jeanebelle, will continue to live in San Luis Obispo.

WALT DISNEY'S MAGIC KINGDOM CLUB GOES NATIONWIDE

"When Walt Disney World opens in Florida this October, a whole new world of values will be available to members of Walt Disney's Magic Kingdom Club." This was the announcement made by Magic Kingdom Club Executive Director Milt Albright at a special briefing held recently for nationally affiliated corporate personnel and recreation directors.

According to Albright, "Not only will Club members continue receiving special values at Disneyland, they'll also receive unique, extra values at 'The Magic Kingdom' in Florida. In addition, MKC members will be eligible for special travel and tour packages which are available to Club members only."

With the expansion of the Club on a national scale, thousands of new Magic Kingdom Club members will be able to take advantage of the special values offered them at Disneyland in California and Walt Disney World in Florida.

CAL POLY ATHLETES PLAN COMPETITION IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

After having most of their sports slate for last week washed out by the rains that drenched most of the Central California area, Cal Poly's spring sports teams will be on the road for competition this weekend.

Highlights of the events remaining of this week's sports schedule are a three-game baseball series between Coach Augie Garrido's Mustang baseballers and University of California at Riverside on Friday and Saturday (April 23-24) and the Cal Poly varsity track and field team's entry in the annual Mt. San Antonio College Relays in Walnut, also on Friday and Saturday.

Both teams had competition scheduled for the early part of this week. Coach Steve Simmons' thinclads were to make up last Saturday's rained-out dual meet against Fresno State College in Fresno this (Tuesday, April 20) afternoon and the Mustang diamondmen had the concluding doubleheader of a three-game series with California State Polytechnic College at Pomona scheduled for 12 noon today on the campus diamond.

Coach Bill Hicks' varsity golf team is the only other Cal Poly team with home action scheduled this week. The Mustang golfers were to have met California State College at Fullerton's swingers in a match planned for the San Luis Obispo Country Club Course starting at noon today.

In competition last week, the Cal Poly baseballers defeated Cal State Fullerton 6-2 to boost their won-lost-tied mark for the 1971 season to 28-7-1 and further establish

20 TEAMS EXPECTED TO ENTER POLY ROYAL RODEO

More than 200 collegiate cowboys and cowgirls from 20 universities and colleges in California, Arizona, and Nevada will compete in the Poly Royal Rodeo on Friday and Saturday (April 23-24). There will be three performances of the rodeo in Collet arena -- at 2 and 8 p.m. on Friday, and 2 p.m. on Saturday. The rodeo is sanctioned by the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association.

Charles Simmons of Squaw Valley, student chairman for the rodeo, points out that Cal Poly’s defending national championship team will be in the arena, along with the University of Arizona team, which is rated second in the Western Region competition for the 1970-71 season. The Cal Poly men’s team now holds a more than 1,000 point lead on 1971 regional championship standings.

The rodeo will feature the recognized NIRA events -- saddle and bareback riding, Brahma bull riding, steer wrestling, ribbon roping and calf roping, and the three women's events, barrel racing, goat tying, ribbon roping. Lex Connally, nationally known rodeo personality, will announce the show.

General admission tickets to the rodeo performances, to which the public is invited, will be $2 for adults, $1.50 for students, and $1 for children. Seating for 3,000 spectators is being provided.

In other events, the Mustang tennis varsity defeated Cal Poly at Pomona, Fresno State, and UC Riverside by identical scores of 7-2, and lost 5-4 to San Fernando Valley State College and the Mustang golf team split a pair of matches. They bested Vandenberg Air Force Base 46-8 and lost to University of California at Santa Barbara by a 39-15 margin.
