The week of the Greek
by DENNIS CHRISTIE
It's all Greek to me, or at least from today through Sunday.

The annual observance of Greek Week at this university begins tonight with the crowning of the Queen. The coronation will take place at 6 p.m. in the Galleri of the Matagorda Inn.

The entire five-day celebration is organised, sponsored and supervised by the Inner Fraternity Council (IFC). The council is composed of eight fraternities and each sponsor's one activity during the celebration, such as:
- Alpha Tau Omega (hub race)
- Alpha Epsilon Pi (Queen contest)
- Alpha Sigma (car rally)
- Delta Chi (head of publicity)
- Delta Epsilon Phi (Paga dance)

The crowning will mark the commencement of activities scheduled for the remainder of the week. The week is set aside in honor those of Greek descent, and only Greeks.

Editor: I would like to "second" the thoughts expressed by Kevin O'Connor's article which appeared in the Poly Royal edition of Mustang Daily.

What about our heritage? The heritage of Cal Poly does not lie in the shattered bones of its aged buildings. Cal Poly's heritage lies in the skills and accomplishments which the graduates of our school have achieved and taken out to the world.

What do we do while we are here, what do we do with what we have learned, this is our heritage and that of Cal Poly's. Yes, let the building rest in peace, content in the knowledge that he removed hurdles students and staff.

To which I say amen! One building cannot represent the whole gamut of achievements that Cal Poly has made over the years that it has been in existence.

Let us let the products of Cal Poly alumni, students, present and future, good citizens of the state of California, of nation and the world, reflect Cal Poly's proud era. And let these students and citizens, and our world be associated with the future, and epitomize the "real, proud heritage" of the school.

Director clears up point on censorship of nudity

Editor: In the interests of accuracy and communication let me clear one misstatement in reporter Rich Courter's recent article "No to Nudity!" in last Monday's edition. May is NOT the month for saving your dollar at the U.D. info desk and see Tom Patice. He doesn't look much different than anyone else, does he?

Counter gone, return asked

Editor: I would like to ask the individual(s) who "took the traffic counter at the corner of Ashby and Kentuck and during the Poly Royal weekend to return it please. It could have been some sort of a prank. However, the Transportation Engineering Department and especially I, as being a TE student, would like to see the traffic counter in our TE laboratory again. The missing traffic counter is one of (most) important tools in our TE department.

If you don't want to take the risk of revealing your identity, may I have a suggestion? Hiring letters to Graphic Arts 234 and put them in the editor's mailbox. Mustang Daily reserves the right to edit letters for libel."

Editor: Congratulations to the Mustang Daily for leading the public discussion about the administration imposed nudity controversy concerning American Film Institute on this campus. I hope the paper will continue to investigate and expose situations of this kind in the future.

One such area that should be under constant scrutiny by the press is the actions and goals of our A.S.I. officers. It is my feeling that our executive officers are overly concerned with establishing their personal power base with the Republican Party and big business.

It is not what we have been, or done, in the past that is important, but rather what we can be, or accomplish in the future that is really important.

Student blasts Baggett article

Editor: In his column in the Poly Royal edition of Mustang Daily, A.S.I. Pres. Robin Baggett used the better name of Anglers Anonymous for the advancement of his own political well-being.

By referring to the current A.S.I. administration any doges at all with the establishment of the new fishing group, Baggett only shows his willingness to let such sensationalism do harm to innocent individuals.

Hopefully, in the future, Mustang Daily, as a forum for meaningful exchange of ideas and information, will not allow publicity-seeking individuals (such as Baggett), to intrude on the pages of an otherwise excellent paper.

Poor health due to an inadequate diet' by Greta Beetsstra

Editor's Note: The following is the first of a series of articles which is part of a senior project. Students are in a unique position of deprivation when it comes to food. When they first move out on their own, they have little money, no time, and in some cases little knowledge when it comes to cooking.

Many times this results in poor health due to an inadequate diet. One way to combat this would be to do a little preplanning.

The Basic Four plan is an easy way. While preplanning leaves a few of the factors of money and time which will result in later savings. The Basic Four food plan is a grouping of foods into four groups which has been set up to insure adequately balanced diets. The groups are:

I. The Meat group—Meals are meat alternates. This will include two or more servings daily. One serving would be two or three ounces of cooked lean meat, poultry or fish. Also two eggs or one cup cooked dry beans or peas, would equal this four. Two tablespoons of peanut butter will also suffice.

With a little planning in this area it may be possible to cut down on these high meat prices.

II. Milk—Includes fluid, and evaporated milk, and cottage cheese. For adults, two or more cups daily are required.

III. Vegetable and fruit group—Planning four servings of these will be very easy to work in. These can consist of fresh fruit, vegetables, or potatoes.

IV. Bread and cereal group—Four or more servings. One serving amounts to a slice of bread, an ounce of cereal. One daily menu might be like this:

BREAKFAST—Two fried eggs, toast, and orange juice.

Lunch—Peanut butter and apple sauce sandwich, milk and fruit salad.

Dinner—Beef, cauliflower, green beans, tossed green salad, milk, and dessert.

Recipe for Beef: cauliflower, green beans, tossed green salad, milk, and dessert.

Breakfast—Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Brown ground beef in frying pan, drain. Stir in next four ingredients; beat until bubbly; pour into two qt. casserole. Cut biscuits in half and place around edge of casserole. Sprinkle with cheese. Bake at 375 degrees 15 to 20 min. till biscuits are golden brown. Refrigerate any leftovers.

The average Navy Pilot isn't.

No man who has mastered the flying skills it takes to fly and land on a ship at sea can be called an average pilot. And, the sense of accomplishment and satisfaction that he enjoys are also above the average.

For the man who would go places as a Naval Aviator must pass through the most challenging training program to be found anywhere.

From Aviation Officer Candidate School (A OCS) and on through the Military Flight Training Program, to the last day his golden Navy Wings are awarded, he is tested; driven; pushed and tested again. And for good reason. The Navy has learned that without the will to succeed, no man can be successful. Which brings us to you. Do you have what it takes to fly Navy?

Talk with your local Navy recruiter. Or, call him at 843-6887.

The results were 74.8 per cent of the 1,486 voting students in favor and 25.2 per cent against the proposal. According to Ernest Pedilla, director of EOP Counseling and Tutoring, the cut in the AIS subsidy would have a profound effect on the EOP Tutoring Center.

"We are understaffed. We are hurting in getting to our students. We've done to the bone now and have to rely on volunteer tutors, but we need some solid core of people to do it completely."

EOP funds up to SAC vote...

"Education is the quickest way to resolve the problems of poverty. It is essential to have these doors open to our society," he said. All Vice Pres. Denny Johnson and Programming Board Chairman Clay Bowling are opposed to the use of ASI money for this program.

Bowling said due to the ASI subsidy, EOP is able to increase its program on this campus while other organizations are barely able to break even.

"Why are we competing for funds when this program brings in no income. It is the only funds," he said.

Both Johnson and Bowling said they think the program is good but don't think the ASI should be funding it.

"EOP is a good program," Bowling said. "Personally, I don't have any prejudices against the program. I'm looking toward the benefit of the ASI. The fact that we cut back EOP does not cut out the program. ASI money is for student activities, even though it does not relate the life and death situation of going to school."

Johnson echoed Bowling's sentiments concerning the worth of EOP and the ASI's role in financing it.

"It is a good program. It gives students of lower economic status a chance to go to an educational institution so that they can make a contribution to the social and economic system. I'm in favor of the overall program. It was initiated where it should have been--by the state and federal government," Johnson said.

"However, each year their program began to grow, at almost 100 per cent each year," he said.

According to Johnson, the responsibility of funding the project is the state and federal governments, not the ASI.

"Regardless of their needs, we can never give them as much as they need. They have endless needs. The key is how much we can afford to give them. Essentially, it will be out of someone else's budget," he said.

"ASI activities fees should be used for activities as established by the ASI originally. EOP should be through M and 8 (materials and services) not activities fees. I am opposed to complete elimination, but not to a phase out of ASI funding."

Renaissance Festival
Cal Poly will witness a two day exhibition of Renaissance art on May 8-9. Wednesday, May 8 will be marked by a recital of Renaissance Lute Music by lutenist Donna Curry with The Tales of Chaucer being presented the following evening.
Both events are set for 8:00 p.m. in Chumash Auditorium with tickets for the twin bill costing $1.50 students and $2.00 general. A Fine Arts Committee presentation.

Boz Scaggs
Boz Scaggs and his band will perform two shows in Chumash Auditorium on May 15 at 7 and 9:10 p.m. The supporting group will be Doc, Max and Whaley, a local acoustic band.
Scaggs is best known for his association with the Steve Miller Band. After two albums it became clear that he and Miller were developing in different directions, as he split to form his own band.
His current album, "My Time," consists of mellow, softer cuts, as well as rockers such as the title "Dakin Flair" and "Full Lock Power Slide." According to reviews of concerts given over the past few months, Scaggs' performance is oriented more towards the rockers than to the softer type.
The show is being co-sponsored by the ASI Concert and Special Events Committee. In scheduling the concert, these two groups felt that by placing it in Chumash Auditorium with no chairs, the audience would enjoy themselves more than if chairs and tables were used.
However, if chairs and tables were implemented, smoking would be permitted. As it stands, the restrictions of no smoking must be enforced.
Tickets for both shows may be purchased at the University Union Information desk. Students with a University I.D. will be charged $5 and Public Tickets will be $8.

Canterberry and Other Tales
All the timeless advice, ribald humor, and lusty action of Geoffrey Chaucer's writing, are performed by these magnificent marionettes. They cover everything from war and taxes to sex and marriage. Enjoy them on Thursday, May 13, at 8:00 p.m. in Chumash. $1.50 students, $2.00 general.

A member of the queen's court for Poly Royal '73 has filed suit for up to $400,000 damages for injuries she allegedly suffered in a ride during last year’s carnival.

Georgia Pemberton, who is now employed on this campus, claimed she suffered injuries to her back and leg when she was thrown from the Farm House Club's “Bucking Barrel” ride. The suit was filed Friday, one day before the state’s limitations deadline, Ray Girard, Pemberton’s attorney in the suit, said that this was a precautionary measure in case the state rejected the claim.

The defendant is Cal Poly State University, the Board of Trustees of California State Universities and Colleges, the Poly Royal Board, Associated Students Inc., Farm House Club, the University Health Center and 13 unnamed persons.

According to Girard, Miss Pemberton claimed her treatment from the Health Center was negligent, and as a result, caused her a loss of earning capacity. She asked for $300,000 under one cause of action, and $10,000 under another for this loss, plus medical expenses and costs.

Canterbury and Other Tales, a puppet rendition of Chaucer’s works will be presented by master puppeteer, actor and pantomimist John D. K. Brunner Thursday.

Sponsored by the Fine Arts Committee of the Associated Students, Inc., the concert style puppetry will begin at 8 p.m. in Chumash Auditorium. Admission is $1.50 for students and $2 for the general public.

Mr. Brunner was asked how it came about that he produced this unusual but special treat in a way never heard or seen before. “While our family troupe was performing in art festivals, National Parks, and State Fairs, I began to sense a tremendous interest in puppetry from adults. I felt they wanted good theatre, and I set out to produce the best puppetry with the best material I could find.”

He explains, “So few readers have ever had the patience to wade through the ancient Middle English that Chaucer wrote in, because when one first sees it in print, it looks like a garbled, foreign language!”

“When we first heard the “Tales” on stage, along with the excitement of the voice, one’s ear soon becomes accustomed to the rolling beauty that made Chaucer one of the greatest poets of all time. Human actors almost never attempt this because of the fantastic action demanded by the Characters, which suit puppetry perfectly.”

According to Brunner, “No one ever got so down to earth about his subjects as Chaucer. The ribald, the honest, warm characters, talking down through the centuries about everything from marriage and chastity to taxes and the problems of war, seem to give us a new insight into those same curses that plague us today.”

The performance also will include a marionette actually being constructed, painted, and costumed on stage, the lusty “Wife of Bath’s Tale,” and “Dai Burnet the Air” from “A Mirror for Fools.”

Supporting Canterbury and Other Tales, the Fine Arts Committee will also present Donna Curry, famed luteist and singer, who will perform tonight, beginning at 8 p.m. in Chumash Auditorium.

Ms. Curry will present melodic renditions of the lute and guitar, the only instrument to make a true duet. “When one hears the “Tales” in modern dress, is it not a true test of the material? One of the greatest poets of all time. How can he be a modern master puppeteer? The answer is, he can’t, and no one can.”

Legislation to prevent cases like Watergate

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Legislation was offered in Congress Tuesday to prevent future Watergates through such campaign spending reforms as federal subsidies to candidates, bipartisan monitoring of campaign spending, and 60-day limits on presidential contributions.

Sponsors of the reform bills said they were in support of President Carter’s plan to prevent federal subsidies to candidates, bipartisan monitoring of campaign spending, and 60-day limits on presidential contributions.

Greek Week begins...

—Delta Upsilon (stag night)
—Pik Kappa Psi (Olympic competition)
— Theta Chi (crew races)

"The various events will undoubtedly be wet and wild," said Rod Saquaira, this year's publicity chairman. There's a T.G. slated for this afternoon to set the tone for the rest of the week. The fruit of the vine will not cease as stag night is planned for Friday night in Templeton (as of press time).

You probably ask yourself, why Templeton? Well, Rod said, "We had to go to Templeton because no one in town would have us." Last year's host, the Pismo Rose Garden, decided against a rematch. "The stag night celebration is usually attended by about 300 screaming Greeks," said Saquaira.

You've heard of bathtub gin, but bathtub Greek is something different, if only in taste. Saturday morning those galloping Greeks in their tumbling tub racers will converge on Avila Beach and attempt to answer the question: How much can a Grecian Um? Not much if he spends his day racing down hills in a bathtub.

Then that night, from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m. there is a Trivia Dance at Crazy Horse. That's a chance for the Greeks to retrieve their loot from beneath their toga.

After the Woogie and dining comes the work. The Sabbath may be a day of rest for most, but for Greeks it's a day of force competition. They shall meet and do battle to decide which fraternity can drink more, walk faster, run farther and drive the best chariot. Three men from each fraternity are entered in the various events and points are awarded for first through fifth place. The only restriction is that if a fraternity member has lettered in a sport, he can not take part in that event. Then the fraternity compiling the most points is presented a trophy.

"Delta Chi retired the trophy last year, after their third consecutive victory," according to Saquaira.

For the liberated Grecian women there is a tug-of-war and "Little Sister Crew Race," in which the participants demonstrate their ability or inability to empty seven-ounce beer cans.

After the awards ceremony, the newly elected IFC officers will be installed and set the Grecian-chariot wheel of fortune in motion and begin planning for next year.

Roundhouse gives info, not ASI endorsements

Roundhouse may be a great place to call for campus information, but don't ask the volunteers whom to vote for.

According to ASI elections advisor Bob Walters, Roundhouse making political endorsements would constitute an election violation of uncertain magnitude.

"I don't know if it has happened or not," Walters said, "but I posted a note telling the volunteers not to tell callers who to vote for."

Voting places for the ASI elections will be located in the Union Plaza, the Library, in front of the Math Building, the campus Post Office and in front of the Agriculture Building.

The polls will be open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. both days. Students will be required to show identification before voting.
