A stack-up of flights into the Los Angeles Airport almost resulted in the cancellation of the Boa Scaggs show here Tuesday night. The two scheduled appearances were combined into one due to the group's last arrival after a show in Honolulu.

Boz and his group were preceded by a local band; Doe, Ruth and Whiskey. The trio did a half-hour slot playing such well-known songs as Bob Dylan's "Tonight I'll Be Staying Here With You" and Van Morrison's "Brown-Eyed Girl."

The arrival of Boz and his band after a 45-minute break was all that was needed to spark the anticipated excitement which was present during the 90-minute show.

The set started with one of his most widely known songs, "We Were Only Swimmers," which has a light-hearted feeling lingering in it by a steady rhythm. The alteration of songs from heavy and fast, moving to light and mellow gave the audience the feeling that they were riding on a roller coaster of sound.

The present group is made up of six members who have bled bloodlines with such greats as Steve Miller, Dave Mason, Sonoma, the Allman Brothers and Van Morrison.

The keyboards, both piano and organ, were quite proficiently handled by Joachim Young. On bass guitar was Tom Riedy, and the saxophone and flute came to life when played by the "Reverend" Ron Staluna on drums. A new addition to the group from Georgia is Lee Dekko on second lead guitar, with first lead guitar and most of the vocals being belted out by the man himself, Boa Scaggs.

After a few numbers the vibrating audiences was unable to suppress the rhythm andChem Chrys was brought on the pulsating sea of moving bodies with clapping hands.

Student Affairs Council completed its budget hearings Wednesday night, and now it must decide on next year's budget.

Representatives of seven groups presented SAC with reasons why their programs needed the money that they had requested and answered questions from SAC reps.

Chuck Adams said that Debate Squad is an organization in which every student can participate and in which every participant can benefit. The club wants to make debate available to more students, according to Adams.

The Ethnic Programming Board funds programming in five distinct cultural areas: Black Students Union, Chinese Students Association, M.E.Ch.A., Native American Student Association, and Tomo Do Kai.

Hurtado said that with the present budget the board will not be able to conduct a worthwhile program.

Representatives from each of the five cultural areas echoed Hurtado's words and added that their programs were not conducted just for themselves. They felt that Caucasian students could benefit from attending the programs and that the programs were conducted with that in mind.

Bob Bonda, advisor to the board, said that the board was trying to show and share with the student body the different cultures represented on the board. He asked SAC to imagine the advantages of getting to know the students from other cultures.

"Advance of the Sponges" will be only part of the offering at tomorrow night's Spring Concert.

The concert will feature the University Symphonic Band and two of its specialty groups, the Clarinet Sextet and the Studio Band. The Studio Band will perform "Sounds of Three Dog Night" and other pieces including "Bungles." The Symphonic Band, directed by William V. Johnson, will play Alfred Reed's "A Jubilant Overture," Vasili Melbakh's "Symphonic Movement," Paul Fecher's "Symphonic in B-Flat," Robert Jager's "Third Suite," Clifton Williams' "Concertino" and Horsey Kay's "Calee Calelah." The concert will begin at 8:15 p.m. in Chumash Auditorium. The tickets are available at the University Union Information Desk, Premier Music Co., Brown's Music Co., Ogden's Bookstore, from band members, and at the door. Cost is $2.75 for students and $3.50 general.
Kennedy is challenged

For the people who want to see decent concerts, shows, etc., it takes money. Sound familiar? I am sure that you are very much aware of the fact that Cal Poly's student body and the San Luis Obispo community aren't able to support hardly anything. By ourselves, it's nothing.

Together we can make this town a better place to live for all concerned. Dr. Kennedy, we do concern what we or may face or not, to be located here in San Luis so why don't you make us one instead of separate but equal?

Remember it's their campus as much as it is ours. To benefit our clubs and students the reason behind our activities and not the King & I. But as you have probably experienced, profiles are nice and do help in bad times.

Orchestra head named to serve as music head

Dr. Alexander Capurso will become head of the Music Department on July 1, according to an announcement made this week by Pres. Robert E. Kennedy.

Successing Harold P. Davidson, who is retiring after more than 30 years of music leadership, Capurso will serve for the next two years. He plans to retire at the end of the 1976-77 academic year.

The new department head said that his appointment was the result of a meeting between Pres. Kennedy, Dean John Erlanson, Davidson, and the faculty of the Music Department. "On the recommendation of the faculty, Dr. Capurso was chosen for the position," said Kennedy.

Capurso is a graduate of the University of Kentucky, where he earned his bachelor's, master's, and doctor's degrees. Before joining the Cal Poly faculty in 1969, he served as president of Bakersfield State College. Prior to 1963, he was a professor and associate dean of the School of Music at Syracuse University, and a professor and assistant chairman of the Division of Creative Arts at San Francisco State College.

Now the conductor of the Santa Fe Symphony Orchestra, Capurso also was assistant director of a Carnegie Community Study Project early in his career and was a research associate on the staff of the Office of the Chancellor of the California State Colleges System. An accomplished violinist, Dr. Capurso was conductor of the Kentucky and Syracuse orchestras while on the faculties of those universities.

The Republic of Italy recognized his outstanding accomplishments in 1970 when it knighted him in the Order of Merit. He also holds the honorary Doctor of Music Degree awarded by the Philadelphia Museum Academy and the Doctor of Laws Degree granted by Oklahoma City University.

Discussing his plans for the Music Department, Capurso said, "I think the department is very healthy in terms of its objectives and philosophy, and how it is achieving its objectives."

On the university, in collegiate athletic arrangements, community services, and through our Poly Royal Skill Book."

Tim Jarch introduces representatives from the different areas under the Music Board of Control. Each explained where the monies that were requested would be going.

In asking for more money the board said SAC would make available to the colleges and other organizations a balance of the budget and still provide for its increases.

Larry Goddard said that the goal of the Dairy Cattle Judging Team is to continue to make available the opportunity for extra curricular educational activities to students.

"We are very proud of the accomplishments of the teams," said Kennedy. "The Poly has the No. 1 team in the nation as evidenced by the win at the National contest and the Hoard's Dairyman contest."

Gary Ford said that all funds that the Rose Float Committee receives from SAC go towards the construction of the float and publicity. In answers to questions about soliciting funds from sources outside SAC, Ford said that the university's float is the only one in the Rose Parade that is put together and financed solely by students. SAC Vice Pres. Denny Johnson told SAC members to give them their final recommendations for next year's budget no later than Monday so they can compile the figures for discussion at the meeting next Wednesday.

In other business SAC voted to recommend to the university administration to take appropriate action towards the students who were responsible for the election material fraud. Fraudulent campaign posters were placed on campus during the ASI election last week.

Swedish fitness lecture gave a brief talk on the difference between runners in the United States and Denmark. He said that there is not as great an emphasis on professional competition there and people pursue physical fitness because they enjoy it.

A color movie was then shown depicting the Swedish methods introducing and maintaining an interest in fitness from the first years of school through college. It stressed the idea of making exercise a fun and a form of recreation.

She went on to say that physical fitness should be an interpreted part of daily life, not just as eating and sleeping are.

The average Navy Pilot isn't.

No man who has mastered the flying skills it takes to fly and land on a ship at sea can be called an average pilot. And in the case of accomplishment and satisfaction that he enjoys are above average. Which is only right. For the man who would go places as a Navy Aviator must pass through the most challenging and demanding training program to be found anywhere.

From Aviation Officer Candidate School through Flight Training to the day his golden Navy Wings are awarded, he is tested; driven; pushed and tested again. And for good reason. The Navy has learned that without the will to succeed, no man can be successful. Which brings us to you. Do you have what it takes to be a Navy Aviator? Talk with your local Navy Recruiter or call him at Office, 200, 833-2222.

The Naval Aviation Information Team will be at the San Luis Obispo Campus 14-18 May. Testing for naval air programs will be given while team is on campus.

Staying physically fit throughout your life was the topic of the program presented by Miss Berit Bredehau, who is an attaché with the Royal Consulate in Sweden in New York. Preceding Miss Bredehau's lecture, Larry Bridges, a member of the Men's Physical Education Department faculty gave an informative talk on running and jogging. Mr. Bridges brought along a display of the various shoes that are used for recreational and professional running. He explained the advantages and disadvantages of each type of shoe and also discussed other running equipment such as socks, nylon shorts and sweat suits.

Danish athlete Nina Kabike, a middle-distance runner on the university's track team then addressed the audience.
