Mike Hurtado claimed the ASI presidency last night as he piled up a 826 vote margin to outdistance his opponent Rob Chappell. The decisive culmination of three long weeks of campaigning and two runoff elections that were filled with bitter charges of "Wetgate tactics" by both sides.

Hurtado expressed surprise at the margin and attributed it to "strong support from the women on campus. They really went all out in my behalf," said Hurtado. "I didn't think it would really matter."

Talk of election code reform filled the air after the election, with both candidates and their supporters calling for some revision in the code.

Hurtado, "One of my first things will be to revise the code concerning spending limits, placing of polls and staffing of polls."

Chappell vowed his support for a revision and said that it should be a "stronger election committee to reduce the rules."

Bob Walters, adviser to the election commission, said he was in favor of a valid change in the code.

Analyzing his campaign tactics in the past week, Hurtado felt that his strength lay in his ability to talk to those students "who had been misled in terms of where I stood on issues." Hurtado felt that Chappell's campaign tactics had "hurt him quite a bit. I talked to many people who had voted for him the first two times but wouldn't do so again because of his tactics."

Hurtado acknowledged that he would have to overcome the bitter feelings created by the "misinformation and expressed the hope that Chappell and I could work together in the future."

Hurtado looked forward to working with Phil Bishop as chairman of the Student Affairs Council (SAC) and praised Bishop for "running a clean, honest campaign."

Bishop was elected in last week's runoff by a 900 vote margin over Hurtado's running mate, Roland Hill.

Even though he lost, Chappell said he was "satisfied with the results. I had to overcome the Mustang Daily because they wouldn't print some of my letters and my ads and I had to also overcome KCPR, which was a little slain in its coverage."

Chappell gave Hurtado credit for "working real hard on his campaign," but said he didn't work as hard on his because "I didn't think it would really matter."

Joe Velasquez, chairman of the Student Affairs Council, said that the outcome of the election was "a victory for both candidates."

The defeat of Hurtado culminated three long weeks of campaigning and two runoff elections that were filled with bitter charges of "Wetgate tactics" by both sides.

Industrial art show displays new talent

Projects ranging from fiberglass canoes and drafting plans to most undertaken will be on display at the Central Coast Industrial Arts Show on Friday and Saturday, May 23 and 24, in Chumash Auditorium.

The public is invited to the show which will take place from noon to 6 p.m. on Friday, and from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday. Admission is free. More than 100 students from high schools and junior high schools in San Luis Obispo and Santa Barbara Counties have entered original work from their industrial arts classes.

Entries will be judged and merchandise prizes totaling several hundred dollars will be awarded in each category. The show, sponsored by Cal Poly's Industrial Technology Department, is intended to provide industrial arts students an opportunity to exhibit their best work.

Students have been requested to refrain from climbing on the giant macrame and draped in the University Union plaza due to the safety hazard.

The event, designed by two Berkeley artists and sponsored by the ASI Fine Arts Committee, may however be pulled and torn.

Preapproval for all students planning to attend school during the Summer Quarter will be at 11 a.m. June 5. Students should consult their major department office for information on meeting locations.

In addition, students who want their Spring Quarter grades mailed to their home should leave a self-addressed, stamped envelope at the Records Office, Rm. 220 of the Administration Building.

A preliminary list of students eligible for preferential registration will be posted in the foyer of the library after May 27. This list includes students who completed at least 18 units at the end of the Winter Quarter and are currently or have previously enrolled in introductory senior project courses. Students should report this information to the Registrar's Office, Rm. 219 of the Administration Building, before June 18.

The Finance Committee has four openings for the next year. A representative from each of the following schools is needed:

- Architecture and Environmental Design
- Business and Social Sciences
- Communicative Arts and Humanities
- Human Development and Education

All interested persons must contact their council chairman in order to attend the council meeting and have a first interview.

Interviews will be June 8 in Rm. 220 of the University Union at 7:15 p.m.

Rare combination of humor, drama

by ARMANDO CORELLA

If Roberts Redford has ever entertained ideas of becoming the dominant personality in Hollywood, he certainly did not strengthen his chances as "The Great Waldo Pepper". What do you expect from a movie picture whose lead character is named Waldo Pepper? Coppola is a serious director. Surprisingly, what you get is a rare combination of sensible humor and credible drama that doesn't have to be choked down.

The versatile Redford as Waldo Pepper, makes his living by hunting Nebraska rednecks for a dollar a minute in his replica of a World War I airplane. Pepper does fine in his home state until erstwhile Axel Olson invades his territory. When Pepper fails to persuade his competitor to relocate, he bores the bozos binding the wheels to Olson's plane. The result: Olson loses his wheels in flight, and Pepper is rid of his competition. At least until Olson rescues Waldo. Waldo and Axel eventually team up, however, in an effort to bag the best stunt pilots in the business, Heinrich Kessler. Any short death would be lackluster in comparison to the German ace, and Pepper misses his chance to beat out Kessler by tearing through a barn by hanging from a rope ladder.

Coed softball squad in Hartnell tourney

Cal Poly's women's softball team, winners of seven of its 10 games this spring, will face Monterey Peninsula College in the first round of the Hartnell College tournament slated Saturday and Sunday in Salinas.

Coach Mary Stullard's Cal Poly team will face Monterey Peninsula at noon Saturday. Other schools in the double elimination tournament are Santa Rosa J.C., DeAnza J.C., Los Medanos College and host Hartnell.

Leaders of the Mustang team are pitcher-outfielders Kim Graham, a junior, and Yvonne Carrillo, a soph., both from Hollister. They are the No. 1 and No. 2 pitchers on the team and the top two hitters.

Sophomore speedster Mike Ongarato slides safely into second base as the ball heads for 'centerfield. The record-setting theft against Northridge was Ongarato's 82nd theft of the season. The Matadors prevailed nonetheless prematurely ending the Mustang season and the only Mustang baseball action this weekend will be the women's softball team participating in the Hartnell College tournament in Salinas.

Horse show

The Madonna Inn Arena will be the location of the third annual Central Coast Horse Show May 31 and June 1, from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Entrance fee is $8 for junior classes and $10 for senior classes. Proceeds will go to support the Santa Maria Valley Achievement House. Wheels of Mercy Bay and San Luis Obispo will present a benefit for the Council for the Protection of Children.

Prior lists and entry blanklets can be obtained at local western stores, by phoning Mrs. Klein at 541-6601, extension call May 25.
