Legal drug abuse

She sits at home. She relaxes with Valium. She waits for her husband's arrival so she can have cocktails before dinner. He's late so she starts without him.

She's a housewife between 35 and 45 years old. She's the image of a typical college age group. Alcohol and non-prescription drugs are available for these women, who form the nation's worst drug-using population. Their situation problems consist of bottles of alcohol and over the counter pills bottles. Both are completely legal. But the problem isn't with the drugs or the people selling them to her. The users cause the stress. If drugs were removed from their lives they would find another release and still avoid the problem.

Psychologists have found a new illness these women share. They seek help through analysis when they have a great deal of stress in their lives. The ones closest to them are probably the only ones who can identify them. The ones closest to them are the ones that can cure them. The ones who can do it are the ones who are removed.

If she isn't identified she still has a drug problem. She uses drugs to pother herself to sleep. She uses drugs to wake herself up. She uses drugs to cope. Removing her drug won't solve her problem, replacing her drug with a more meaningful life will.

Author, Elena Maria Koster, is a journalist and an associate editor for Mustard Daily.

A laissez-faire approach to education

Joseph A. Califano Jr. is a nice fellow. By instinct, intellect and determination, he has the ability to shape up the sprawling U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, if anyone can.

But HEW Secretary Califano is dead wrong if he believes, as he said the other day, that the nation's 3,000 colleges and universities ought to adopt preferential quotas for admitting students who happen to their comfortable lives. When the people selling them to her. The users cause the stress. If drugs were removed from their lives they would find another release and still avoid the problem.

Psychologists have found a new illness these women share. They seek help through analysis when they have a great deal of stress in their lives. The ones closest to them are probably the only ones who can identify them. The ones closest to them are the ones that can cure them. The ones who can do it are the ones who are removed.

If she isn't identified she still has a drug problem. She uses drugs to pother herself to sleep. She uses drugs to wake herself up. She uses drugs to cope. Removing her drug won't solve her problem, replacing her drug with a more meaningful life will.

Author, J.F. TerHorst, writes a syndicated political column in Washington, D.C.

As HEW interprets the Civil Rights Act, for example, a private college that is not church-related is denied a right to select its staff and faculty for qualities of "Christian character," to quote Westerfield.

"If a college cannot employ its staff to represent the qualities of life it hopes to espouse among its students, it lacks the capacity to carry out its purpose," he said.

Again, Westerfield and other college administrators lament that regulations of Title IX of the education amendments of 1972 require colleges and universities to treat childbirth as a simple biological fact, not a social issue, whether or not the pregnancy occurred within or outside of marriage.

Westerfield speaks for many college presidents when he notes that treating childbirth as a simple biological fact amounts to governmental decree "devoid of moral implications.

The leveling hand of federal regulation is present in a recent law calling on all 3,000 colleges in the U.S. to employ more minority students and faculty, or face sanctions.

That would be, it seems to me, a financial impossibility well beyond the capacity of a wealthy society even if sufficient teachers could be found for the blind, the deaf, the mentally impaired.

Wouldn't it be wiser and more useful to pass an university in each state and equip it to do the job? Obviously, a college that accepts federal money must expect some federal regulation. But recent rulings have gone so far as to say that if a school has a single student among its veterans' benefits, or a government scholarship, then our program of the entire institution must follow government guidelines.

Certainly we do not want the government in the business of standardizing our citizens. Diversity of thought, choice and individuality of each citizen are pan of our liberty for which we stand.

As Harvard's Derek Bok has said, "The critical issue of the next generation is not Harvard's survival but its independence and freedom from ill-advised government restraint."

When Califano contemplate:s improving education quality and revamping the U.S. Office of Education, he should be less concerned about quotas and regulations, and more attentive to Justice Brandeis who that experience has taught us to be most on our guard against the government's purposes are beneficent."

For as the wise Brandeis said, "The greatest danger to liberty lurks in insidious encroachment by men of well meaning, but without understanding."

Regretted from the Las Angeles Times.

About the Cover

With a high teacher-student ratio at Cal Poly,膏南 are employed by many departments to help maintain order in the classroom. Some students oppose this and some agree with it for the cover story on page four. (Cover photo by Tom Herr)

Weather

Weather will be fair with patchy morning fog. Bars will be warmer but at night frost is possible. Northwest winds will blow at 10 to 20 m.p.h.

The Mustang Daily is printed and published by the Mustang Student Association.
Saga of Times death in the West

"All the News That’s Fit to Print"

by MARGA MEIER
Daily Staff Writer

The death of the New York Times western edition may have been the birth of the Los Angeles Times as we know it today, according to Claude Ratliff, yesterday's guest in the Cal Poly campus Live Lecture in the Communication Arts and Humanities Series.

Ratliff, who graduated from the University of Wisconsin, was a Bachelor of Arts in Advertising and worked as Advertising Manager for the New York Times western edition for three years.

The New York Times western edition hit the streets in October 1962. Prior to its first publication in Feb. 1963, dummy issues were sent out to the western edition. Surveys were conducted throughout San Francisco and Los Angeles to determine if the idea of a western edition was feasible. Results of the surveys were favorable in both areas but there was a significant difference between the two.

San Francisco residents found the paper as a whole, and San Francisco Daily Times, and in that aspect it was accepted, Ratliff said. But in Los Angeles the Los Angeles Times and the Hearst papers had each just agreed to kill one of their two L.A. papers. The L.A. Hearst papers dropped their morning paper.

Consequently, Los Angeles residents were looking at both regional and weekday paper to replace one of the papers.

Unfortunately, Ratliff explained, because of the magnitude of the area the New York Times was trying to service — eleven western states — the western edition had to limit its coverage to national news. Opposition on many sides created more problems for the struggling paper. Ratliff said the L.A. Times considered it a slap in the face and consequently hired 72 people to staff.

Advertising proved to be another thorn in the western editions side. According to Ratliff, local advertisers would not anger the L.A. Times by putting advertising into the Western Edition so the paper had to rely on regional advertising.

On Friday, then president of the Associated Press, told (western edition) organizers they would have to pay full fees for wire services which would cost in excess of $100,000. This forced the New York Times to use only releases already sent through the Times headquarters in New York City.

The New York Times restricted its news-servicing from the L.A. dailies, forcing the Los Angeles Times to subscribe to the Washington Post news service, which has since become one of the finest news services in the country, according to Ratliff.

When the first western edition came out its circulation was 120,000. By the sixth week, it had dropped to 70,000, and when the paper finally died in January, 1964, its circulation was down to 40,000.

Since then, the L.A. Times has become one of the most modern and respected papers in the country, no doubt spurred Ratliff said, by the events surrounding the New York Times Western Edition.

Ratliff said perhaps it could have worked had it been another time and place.

"We did not publish a paper, we printed a paper," summarized Ratliff.

Brown reconsiders; urges 5pc cent raise for faculty

by BETSY HUSMAN
Daily Associate Editor

Gov. Edmund G. Brown, Jr, has recon­ ciled his suggested 2.2 pc cent salary increase for faculty in the California State System of Colleges. He is now recommending the five pc cent increase to the state employers in the proposed 1977-78 state budget.

Brown met heated opposition to his proposed CSUC faculty receive only a 1.2 pc cent salary increase because instruct­ ing or compensated "paycheck to paycheck".

Approximately 50 Cal Poly students and faculty members, carrying banners and signs, marched on campus Feb. 18 to bring the issue of the proposed increase to Brown's attention. Elsewhere in the state, teachers and staff unions, the CSUC Board of Trustees and legislators protested, demonstrating increases from 8.5 to 10 pc cents.

Brown had said the increase discrepancy could be "adjusted" before he signed the 1977-78 budget into law, "if they (system officials) can make a better argument." He approved the five pc cent increase in mid­ March.

In a statement, Chancellor Glenn S. Ducommun said:

"This is pleasing to all of us. The initial budget proposal will be short of the 8.5 pc cent increase recommended by this Board of (Trustees) to more inflation and to help make up for several years' erosion in real income."

Art Bierman, president of the United Professors of California stated:

"Gov. Brown crawled out on his 2.2 pc cent limb and found that nobody followed him. I know of no legislator, no CSUC trustee, no administrator who agreed with the governor. He has wisely decided to abandon his lonely perch. We congratulate him for listening to reason."

"Now that the governor has conceded to a pay raise that will keep up with the increase in coffee prices, we suggest he try for a raise to keep up with the rise in the cost of rent, meat, produce, diapers and so forth."

Carl Lurtie, president of the Cal Poly chapter of the UPC added yesterday:

"I am pleased the governor has decided to treat us in the same way he is going to treat all other state employees. However I think the five pc cent salary increase for all state employees is inadequate to keep up with inflation. Our buying power has dropped 20 pc cents since 1969."

Brown's original 2.2 pc cent suggested increase was based on a recommendation by the California Post Secondary Education Commission after a study of salaries at institutions throughout the country comparable to those within the state system.

Senate easily approves death penalty; Bill goes to Assembly

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A bill restoring California's death penalty was state Senate approval with one Thursday after a long and emotional debate.

The B to D ratio was more than the two­ thirds majority needed — went the measure to the Assembly, where its author agreed it would suffer going.

"Think it will be more difficult," Sen. George Deukmejian, R-Long Beach, said after the senate vote.

The bill was introduced after the state Supreme Court ruled last December that California's then-abolished death penalty was unconstitutional.

The proposed new law would allow capital punishment for 16 crimes, in­ cluding rape, murder, rape and flee, multiple murder, arson murder, killing a peace officer in the performance of duty, and murder committed during sexual crimes.

But unlike the old law, a jury could sentence a defendant to die in prison without possibility of parole instead of a life sentence that mitigating cir­ cumstances, such as age or mental illness, could alter.

The bill needed a two-thirds vote because before it entered a clause to impose it in 1) the two-thirds majority, but also be houses to override Gov. Brown's veto.

But Deukmejian said that the B to D vote was no assurance that the Senate would override Brown, who says he opposes capital punishment as a "master of conscience."

Gray Davis, Brown's chief of staff, said Tuesday that the Democratic governor would lobby against an override, but he added that most legislators probably had made up their minds on the issue.

In the nearly two-hour debate, bill supporters contended that capital punishment would deter potential murderers, while critics said there were studies that showed it did not affect murder rates.

At one point, Sen. R.L. Richardson, R­ Arcadia, piled three sacks full of petitions from death penalty supporters on top of his desk and passed a handful of signatures to a death penalty for murder.

Sen. John Briggs, R-Pomona, said he was thinking of voting against an override to encourage the possibility that a death penalty initiative would be on the ballot in 1978, when Brown comes up for re­ election.

"I think we ought to send him out naked to the face and consequently hired 72 more

10c Budwieser
3 to 5 PM
UNCLE MO's SOCIAL CLUB
Saint Luis Obispo
1347 Monterey St.

Friday TG — 3 to 5 PM — 10c Bud
The problem, Watson said, is that the budget of the college is not large enough to hire more teachers. If it were, then the student-teacher ratio would decrease.

For the amount of money that we have to work with, I think that we do quite well with the student assistants. I still look over lab quizzes to make sure they were fairly treated. It takes a lot of time but you have to do it. Sometimes you spend four hours going over lab quizzes.

If a teacher has the time to give homework assignments, then the student-teacher ratio should be changed to suit the best interests of the students. If a teacher grades her exams instead of the student grader because "the grader does," it is because the students papers are not graded as well as they should be. If a teacher grades quicker than she should, then she should find the time to grade them. A teacher should grade her exams instead of the student grader because she must also have a relatively high GPA—about 3.0 on up. A teacher can be teaching more than 100 students a week, and if she is teaching a class of 80 people in a class, there is no chance for discussion much less the chance for grading.

"I think that a lot of people grade quicker than they should. I can't tell if a student is grading quicker than he should. I think he is qualified to be a grader. A teacher should grade her exams instead of the student grader because "the grader does.""

"I don't think people stop to think what's happening to students in that kind of situation. With 80 people in a class, there is no chance for discussion much less the chance for things to work out okay, then fine. If not, then I make amends with the student," the teacher said.

Requirements to be a grader differ in different departments. In general education classes (in the History Department), the History Department is the most exploited department the History Department is the most exploited.

"I don't think people stop to think what's happening to students in that kind of situation. With 80 people in a class, there is no chance for discussion much less the chance for things to work out okay, then fine. If not, then I make amends with the student," the teacher said.

Requirements to be a grader differ in different departments. In general education classes (in the History Department), the History Department is the most exploited department the History Department is the most exploited.

"I don't think people stop to think what's happening to students in that kind of situation. With 80 people in a class, there is no chance for discussion much less the chance for things to work out okay, then fine. If not, then I make amends with the student," the teacher said.

Requirements to be a grader differ in different departments. In general education classes (in the History Department), the History Department is the most exploited department the History Department is the most exploited.

"I don't think people stop to think what's happening to students in that kind of situation. With 80 people in a class, there is no chance for discussion much less the chance for things to work out okay, then fine. If not, then I make amends with the student," the teacher said.

Requirements to be a grader differ in different departments. In general education classes (in the History Department), the History Department is the most exploited department the History Department is the most exploited.

"I don't think people stop to think what's happening to students in that kind of situation. With 80 people in a class, there is no chance for discussion much less the chance for things to work out okay, then fine. If not, then I make amends with the student," the teacher said.

Requirements to be a grader differ in different departments. In general education classes (in the History Department), the History Department is the most exploited department the History Department is the most exploited.

"I don't think people stop to think what's happening to students in that kind of situation. With 80 people in a class, there is no chance for discussion much less the chance for things to work out okay, then fine. If not, then I make amends with the student," the teacher said.

Requirements to be a grader differ in different departments. In general education classes (in the History Department), the History Department is the most exploited department the History Department is the most exploited.

"I don't think people stop to think what's happening to students in that kind of situation. With 80 people in a class, there is no chance for discussion much less the chance for things to work out okay, then fine. If not, then I make amends with the student," the teacher said.

Requirements to be a grader differ in different departments. In general education classes (in the History Department), the History Department is the most exploited department the History Department is the most exploited.

"I don't think people stop to think what's happening to students in that kind of situation. With 80 people in a class, there is no chance for discussion much less the chance for things to work out okay, then fine. If not, then I make amends with the student," the teacher said.

Requirements to be a grader differ in different departments. In general education classes (in the History Department), the History Department is the most exploited department the History Department is the most exploited.

"I don't think people stop to think what's happening to students in that kind of situation. With 80 people in a class, there is no chance for discussion much less the chance for things to work out okay, then fine. If not, then I make amends with the student," the teacher said.

Requirements to be a grader differ in different departments. In general education classes (in the History Department), the History Department is the most exploited department the History Department is the most exploited.

"I don't think people stop to think what's happening to students in that kind of situation. With 80 people in a class, there is no chance for discussion much less the chance for things to work out okay, then fine. If not, then I make amends with the student," the teacher said.

Requirements to be a grader differ in different departments. In general education classes (in the History Department), the History Department is the most exploited department the History Department is the most exploited.

"I don't think people stop to think what's happening to students in that kind of situation. With 80 people in a class, there is no chance for discussion much less the chance for things to work out okay, then fine. If not, then I make amends with the student," the teacher said.
Shower with a friend, save water

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Take a shower with a friend and you both can run your hair over the rug under your flower beds.

That's one of the 98 water saving tips spelled out in a six-page booklet for Northern Californians having to modify their lifestyles under water rationing in the second year of a severe drought.

Other tips in the booklet, distributed by the East Bay Municipal Utility District, range from banning out-of-door visitors to scraping the condensation from the outsides of your cocktail glasses onto houseplants.

Many of the tips you probably won't bother much; others have little to do with water. They just make mundane lives more interesting.

Here are samples:

—Take your hair in dry.
—Chill your glasses, liquor and mix ahead of time; use no ice. Your drinks may not taste as clean and crisp but, after the second or third, you won't notice.
—Have all the kids use the same bath water; wash the crispest first.
—Try cheap wine or beer in your waterbed.

Yoshimura's father puts home up for bail

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Frank Church, D-ID., has ordered jail on Thursday after a judge was told he had been the only member of the Hanafi Moslem leader ordered jailed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Frank Church, D-ID., has ordered jail on Thursday after a judge was told he had been the only member of the Hanafi Moslem group free since they released their hostages.

Church had included provision dealing with key foreseeable events in the Park Service to act by itself.

The tap was rising at the White House on Wednesday that the White House activities came as Carter, at a Rose Garden ceremony, received more than 40,000 calls for a 14-inch rain.

The administration has said it is usual to expect about 10 inches of roof area yields over 600 gallons from a one

The administration has said it is usual to expect about 10 inches of roof area yields over 600 gallons from a one

The administration has said it is usual to expect about 10 inches of roof area yields over 600 gallons from a one

With the 14-inch rain, the administration has said it is usual to expect about 10 inches of roof area yields over 600 gallons from a one

Soil

Redwoods threatened

SACRAMENTO (AP)—The refusal by timber companies to temporarily halt logging near Redwood National Park has reportedly aroused anger in the administration of President Carter.

The Sacramento Bee said Wednesday that the White House was "receptive" to the proposal in a recent letter to President Carter.

The proposal consisted of a Native American community temporarily protecting the park in the Redwood Creek Basin in Northern California coast.

Several organizations, meanwhile, suggested a logging

Buy Mustang AdSpace

546-1144

Oak Wood Barbecue

Monday Night Special

"Continued for Spring Quarter"

Beef Ribbe only $3.95

dinner including

relish tray fired potatoes
fried vegetables with a choice of green salad or cobb salad
sherry

Early-Bird Special

$1 off anything on menu

5:30-7:00

7 days a week

2 miles south of Hwy. 1
Foothill Blvd.
San Luis Obispo
Sports

From ticket taker to star

by JON MASTINGS

Daily News Writer

Four years ago Paul Gabriel was taking ticket at the door of the San Bernardino Valley College volleyball. Nerseson, not blessed with a great mathematical mind, handling out the correct change was about all he could handle.

Somewhere between three and four math courses later, Gabriel locked up and discovered he was fascinated by the sport of volleyball. Saturday night at 7:30 Gabriel, 6-8 and bulk like a ruler, takes his act to the Men's Gym when the Cal Poly volleyball team entertains Cal State Northridge in a battle for the California Collegiate Volleyball Conference championship.

"We don't have scholarships to work with and we can still compete with the nation's top teams"—Gabriel Gabriel no longer has to worry about such mundane things as taking ticket at the door. He has been a Mustangs captain and the most imposing blocker on the squad. Tomorrow night will be the last home appearance of Gabriel, articulate and soft-spoken, a chance no selector on his volleyball career last Wednesday afternoon. "I have had an excellent time being here (Poly) and playing volleyball, although this has been a very frustrating year for me," said Gabriel.

Gabriel clarified that by saying he felt he could have played much better this season. "I don't think as an individual and the team as a whole played up to our capabilities said Gabriel. "I am frustrated personally but I am more disappointed for Ken (Preston) and everybody else involved with the program."

"Preston is an excellent coach and he works harder than any coach I have ever had and it is too bad we didn't have the kind of season in terms of wins that he would have liked us to have."

While Gabriel might be a little frustrated when he looks at the Mustangs win-loss record he is an optimist by nature and thinks the Cal Poly volleyball program is on the upswing. "We don't have scholarships to work with and we can still compete with Pepperdine, UC Santa Barbara and the rest of the nation's top teams," said Gabriel. "With the proper amount of financial backing Cal Poly could be a volleyball powerhouse, because of the coaching, the campus and the proximity to Southern California."

Gabriel feels the volleyball team is being short-changed when the money gets doled out the 1976 season to the Mustangs. "We are making more money at the gate than we get in our budget. No other sport has this dilemma and I don't know why we have it. We should get what we take if not more, every other sport does."

(continued on page 7)

Softball cancelled

Today's women's softball game between Cal Poly and Cal State Dominguez Hills has been cancelled.

The Mustang's next home game will be Wednesday, April 6, at Santa Rosa Park.

The Cal Poly volleyball team plays host to Cal State Northridge Saturday night in a battle for the California Collegiate Volleyball Conference championship.

It will be the Mustangs final home game of the season and they will be out to avenge an earlier loss to the Matadors which occurred two weeks ago in Northridge.

Northridge is unbeaten in conference play at 7-0, while Poly is right behind at 6-1. Coach Ken Preston's crew has not beaten a Northridge team in its last three meetings and third year coach plans to have his team ready Saturday night.

"We have to beat Northridge Saturday and then beat them again in the league tournament to win the title" said Preston.

Preston is concerned with the Matadors' scrappy brand of volleyball but he might be more concerned with the intensity of his team which would be greatly enhanced by a big crowd Saturday night. "Our attendance has been weak lastly and we are going to need a crowd again Northridge to get us up."

Fly Like Angel—Paul Gabriel, the Mustang's aggressive shot blocker, comes down from his right after muffing a spike. (Daily photo by Dona Pinck

Giant's Randy Elliott assured job

(A.P.)-Randy Elliott goes hitless in his first 13 at-bats, he will be batting a mere .500. That is not too shabby an outlook for someone who sits out the 1976 season following a shoulder separation and was not sure he would ever get another chance to play major league baseball.

Elliott's spring training and third year coach plans to have his team ready Saturday night. "We have to beat Northridge Saturday and then beat them again in the league tournament to win the title" said Preston.

Preston is concerned with the Matadors' scrappy brand of volleyball but he might be more concerned with the intensity of his team which would be greatly enhanced by a big crowd Saturday night. "Our attendance has been weak lastly and we are going to need a crowd again Northridge to get us up."

Fly Like Angel—Paul Gabriel, the Mustang's aggressive shot blocker, comes down from his right after muffing a spike. (Daily photo by Dona Pinck

Giant's Randy Elliott assured job

(A.P.)-Randy Elliott goes hitless in his first 13 at-bats, he will be batting a mere .500. That is not too shabby an outlook for someone who sits out the 1976 season following a shoulder separation and was not sure he would ever get another chance to play major league baseball.

Elliott's spring training and third year coach plans to have his team ready Saturday night. "We have to beat Northridge Saturday and then beat them again in the league tournament to win the title" said Preston.

Preston is concerned with the Matadors' scrappy brand of volleyball but he might be more concerned with the intensity of his team which would be greatly enhanced by a big crowd Saturday night. "Our attendance has been weak lastly and we are going to need a crowd again Northridge to get us up."

Fly Like Angel—Paul Gabriel, the Mustang's aggressive shot blocker, comes down from his right after muffing a spike. (Daily photo by Dona Pinck

Giant's Randy Elliott assured job

(A.P.)-Randy Elliott goes hitless in his first 13 at-bats, he will be batting a mere .500. That is not too shabby an outlook for someone who sits out the 1976 season following a shoulder separation and was not sure he would ever get another chance to play major league baseball.

Elliott's spring training and third year coach plans to have his team ready Saturday night. "We have to beat Northridge Saturday and then beat them again in the league tournament to win the title" said Preston.

Preston is concerned with the Matadors' scrappy brand of volleyball but he might be more concerned with the intensity of his team which would be greatly enhanced by a big crowd Saturday night. "Our attendance has been weak lastly and we are going to need a crowd again Northridge to get us up."

Fly Like Angel—Paul Gabriel, the Mustang's aggressive shot blocker, comes down from his right after muffing a spike. (Daily photo by Dona Pinck

Giant's Randy Elliott assured job

(A.P.)-Randy Elliott goes hitless in his first 13 at-bats, he will be batting a mere .500. That is not too shabby an outlook for someone who sits out the 1976 season following a shoulder separation and was not sure he would ever get another chance to play major league baseball.

Elliott's spring training and third year coach plans to have his team ready Saturday night. "We have to beat Northridge Saturday and then beat them again in the league tournament to win the title" said Preston.

Preston is concerned with the Matadors' scrappy brand of volleyball but he might be more concerned with the intensity of his team which would be greatly enhanced by a big crowd Saturday night. "Our attendance has been weak lastly and we are going to need a crowd again Northridge to get us up."

Fly Like Angel—Paul Gabriel, the Mustang's aggressive shot blocker, comes down from his right after muffing a spike. (Daily photo by Dona Pinck

Giant's Randy Elliott assured job

(A.P.)-Randy Elliott goes hitless in his first 13 at-bats, he will be batting a mere .500. That is not too shabby an outlook for someone who sits out the 1976 season following a shoulder separation and was not sure he would ever get another chance to play major league baseball.

Elliott's spring training and third year coach plans to have his team ready Saturday night. "We have to beat Northridge Saturday and then beat them again in the league tournament to win the title" said Preston.

Preston is concerned with the Matadors' scrappy brand of volleyball but he might be more concerned with the intensity of his team which would be greatly enhanced by a big crowd Saturday night. "Our attendance has been weak lastly and we are going to need a crowd again Northridge to get us up."

Fly Like Angel—Paul Gabriel, the Mustang's aggressive shot blocker, comes down from his right after muffing a spike. (Daily photo by Dona Pinck

Giant's Randy Elliott assured job

(A.P.)-Randy Elliott goes hitless in his first 13 at-bats, he will be batting a mere .500. That is not too shabby an outlook for someone who sits out the 1976 season following a shoulder separation and was not sure he would ever get another chance to play major league baseball.

Elliott's spring training and third year coach plans to have his team ready Saturday night. "We have to beat Northridge Saturday and then beat them again in the league tournament to win the title" said Preston.

Preston is concerned with the Matadors' scrappy brand of volleyball but he might be more concerned with the intensity of his team which would be greatly enhanced by a big crowd Saturday night. "Our attendance has been weak lastly and we are going to need a crowd again Northridge to get us up."

Fly Like Angel—Paul Gabriel, the Mustang's aggressive shot blocker, comes down from his right after muffing a spike. (Daily photo by Dona Pinck

Giant's Randy Elliott assured job

(A.P.)-Randy Elliott goes hitless in his first 13 at-bats, he will be batting a mere .500. That is not too shabby an outlook for someone who sits out the 1976 season following a shoulder separation and was not sure he would ever get another chance to play major league baseball.

Elliott's spring training and third year coach plans to have his team ready Saturday night. "We have to beat Northridge Saturday and then beat them again in the league tournament to win the title" said Preston.

Preston is concerned with the Matadors' scrappy brand of volleyball but he might be more concerned with the intensity of his team which would be greatly enhanced by a big crowd Saturday night. "Our attendance has been weak lastly and we are going to need a crowd again Northridge to get us up."

Fly Like Angel—Paul Gabriel, the Mustang's aggressive shot blocker, comes down from his right after muffing a spike. (Daily photo by Dona Pinck

Giant's Randy Elliott assured job

(A.P.)-Randy Elliott goes hitless in his first 13 at-bats, he will be batting a mere .500. That is not too shabb..."
Netters thumped

by SCOTT CRAVEN
Daily Sports Editor

Facting what will most likely be the severest test of the season, the Cal Poly baseball team will face Cal Poly Pomona tomorrow at San Luis Obispo Stadium for a noon doubleheader.

The Broncos are the defending Division II National Champions. The Mustangs, on the other hand, are the biggest threat to Pomona's throne as they are currently ranked the top team in the nation.

"It should be an interesting game," said Mustang coach Berry Harr. "I'm not going to slick my foot in my mouth and pick a winner because baseball is too unpredictable. If your ace pitcher can't get his curve ball over you can't win. There are just too many variables." Whatever the outcome, it will be a battle. Harr believes his team is up to the challenge.

The first half of the season we played superbly and peaked up with a 21-9 record," said Harr. "We had a good peak and valley season. We have maintained a high level of intensity so far and we have any lead now."

And judging by the way the Mustangs have been playing lately, there is no leaddown. In righting number one must give a team that extra incentive, but Harr doesn't believe it makes that much difference.

"Oh, it's good for our image and makes fund raising easier," said Harr, "but there is a national tournament to determine who really is number one. Right now there's no guarantee in any game so we'll have to face our competition and put up a battle from start to finish.

Right now my goals are to get us to hosting Northridge Saturday night said Gabriel. "They have beat us three straight times and we are due to put our game together and blow them off in three games."

In any event, when you walk into see Gabriel and the rest of the Mustangs play baseball in the Mustangs Saturday night, take a look around and see what is going on. You might end up with a starting middle-hitter.

First athletes arrive at Squaw

SQUAW VALLEY Calif. (AP)—The first wave of athletes, a dozen women wrestlers, will arrive for a week on the frigid weeks of Lake Tahoe Monday at the U.S. Olympic Commissary for the Squaw Valley training center.

"Things have been happening almost too fast," says Doug Dunlap, USOC Executive Director Donald Miller said the training center.

Dunlap, the committee's chief and director of planning, began working on the legal aspects of the lease agreement last October and has been concentrating on the project throughout the year. The Squaw Valley training center provided by the USOC was designed to accommodate 30 athletes here in May, and will be ready to carry the squad through the Olympic training center.

"They have been here since January. The Olympic Committee took over some of the facilities at Squaw Valley, site of the 1964 Winter Games, last Jan. 1 under an 18-year lease, finally realizing the dream of setting up a permanent, all-sports training center.

The Mustangs have a good chance of making the regional. Poly is the owner of an 11-0 mark in the Southern California Division II Baseball Alliance. All the squads has to do is split its remaining six. Alliance games and we'll have a good chance of making the regionals," according to Harr.

Meanwhile, Poly splits a doubleheader with the Cal Bear Northridge Matadors Wednesday. The Mustangs took the opener 3-1 but were edged in 10 innings in the nightcap 4-3.

Northridge drew first blood in the opening match when a two-out triple by Scott Willis scored Jeff Gilbert, on with a walk.

The score held up until until a wild eighth inning when Poly brought, five runs across. With the bases loaded, Tom Mosich singled to right field and Tom Beyers scored another, one more came across when Eric Person scored singled, and Joe Budishchek accounted for the last two on his double. Jack Freeland struck out six and Taylor Carr singled against the Mustangs.

Poly opened the scoring in the ninth, Gary Williams doubled to knock Darin Johnson who had walked. Willburn reached home on his advance on a wild pitch and a ground out by Budishchek.

Northridge took the lead with two runs in the tenth and Budishchek tied it up with a solo homer in the fourth. The Mustangs squandered out the victory in the ninth on two singles and a hit around a sacrifice bunt.

KOJAK FILM

POLY PHASE BOOK EXCHANGE

is open again.

Text books at low prices. MUSTANG LOUNGE

Open all week 9 AM to 4 PM

classifieds

ANNOUNCEMENTS

SERVICES

FOR SALE

AUTOMOTIVE

HAIR

LAW

AUDIO EQUIPMENT
Loretta Lynn's husband: Happiest on their ranch

Loretta Lynn, like her wife, won't give his age. "I know no other lifestyle. "I've never lived in town my whole life," he said. "I've lived and worked on a farm most of my life. I'll never give this up, oh no."

During the five years they've owned their ranch, Lynn, like his wife, is a hands-on man. "I'm helping do chores, cleaning up around the ranch. I'm helping with the lightning and things like that," he said. "Most of the time all I do is sit around the mower or sit in my bus."

Lynn, wearing a straw hat and a man's jacket, work shoes and mules, is even a bison. "I farm about 50 acres and raise horses, soybeans and raises horses, mules and even a bison."

Although Lynn helped his wife start her career 17 years ago, he'd much rather spend his time now on their ranch where he farms corn and soybeans and raises horses, mules and even a bison.

"I've never lived in town my whole life," he said. "I've lived and worked on a farm most of my life. I'll never give this up, oh no." Over the course of a year, Lynn spends an average of only a month or two at the ranch.

He encouraged her to slow down, hit always casual dress. "I like her book." * * *

"I spent the first five years here wearin' out two buildings clearin' land," he said. He built the fireplace in their den by hauling rocks from the fields and now is building a museum on the property.

"I start work around 5:30 a.m. and by 9:30 p.m I'm pretty tired," he said.

You are cordially invited to do some research about the energy problem.

Naturally, no one person is going to "solve" the energy problem singlehandedly; it's going to take a lot of concerned people, working together, to even begin to solve the problems of fuel conservation, wild life preservation, recycling, smog-free rapid transit, fume incineration and water purification.

The thing is... as concerned as we are about these problems, and others, at PG&E we don't think "concern" is enough. The concern has to motivate action. And that's what we're coming to grips with: Here-and-now, how-to realities. —Clemson at PG&E's Professional Office, 245 Market Street, P. O. Box 68, San Francisco, CA 94104.