New front in SLO housing battle

By SCOTTY CRAVEN

Because of a condominium trust in San Luis Obispo are many people living in SLO who are acquainted with the problems of the housing situation, and a Cal Poly family member who is a housing coordinator.

Lee Verdes II, a condominium park on the corner of Meridian and Higuera streets, is a popular housing area for many SLO people. The place is divided into several buildings, each with its own set of problems.

Jumping frogs at Cal Poly

By ROBERT HOWARD

You are welcome to try your hand at the annual Cal Poly Frog Jumping Contest. The event is held in the University Union and is open to all Cal Poly students.

The competition will include three events: a long jump, a high jump, and a hop, skip, and jump. Participants will be given a brief demonstration before the competition.

The winner of each event will receive a prize. The winner of the long jump will receive a prize, the winner of the high jump will receive a prize, and the winner of the hop, skip, and jump will receive a prize.

The event is sponsored by the University Union and is open to all Cal Poly students. It is a great opportunity to show off your skills and have some fun.

Teacher evaluations a must

Having only a vague idea of what the course content is about, the course at registration. As it turned out, the course was only one of the many free books offered to students, beginning this summer.

Phase two of the Profile should take place in the fall of this year and will encompass evaluations of all classes and instructors with necessary descriptions of their own classes.

It's about time.

Having only a vacuolated idea of what the student book offered a student, I pulled a card at our summer registration. As it turned out, it was the responsibility of instructors to deliver the product as advertised.

Along with the human rights movement, students are reclaiming their own rights. They deserve a proper and fitting payroll.

Faculty overloads lead to frustration

By KEN CROFFY Daily Staff Writer

A recent crisis has surfaced in the middle of the faculty overloads at Cal Poly, overloading in the form of an emerging problem with the college student population. As a result of the recent troubles, a group of administrators and teachers have banded together to form a committee, chaired by Dean John Muscal, to look into the problem of faculty overloads. The committee, reporting to President Robert Kennedy, is working to develop a solution to the overcrowding issue.

The committee's findings were presented to the Board of Trustees at their meeting last week. The board has authorized the formation of a task force to study the problem further. The task force will be chaired by Dean Muscal and will include representatives from the faculty, administration, and students.

The committee's report states that the problem of faculty overloads is more severe than previously thought. The report states that the problem is caused by a combination of factors, including a rise in the number of students enrolled at Cal Poly, an increase in the number of courses offered, and a decrease in the number of faculty members.

The report concludes that the problem is too complex to be solved by any one person or group. The report recommends that a task force be formed to study the problem further and to develop a comprehensive solution.

The task force will meet periodically to review the progress of its work and to make recommendations to the board of trustees. The task force will be responsible for developing a comprehensive plan to address the problem of faculty overloads.

The committee's report is expected to be completed by the end of the month. The report will be presented to the board of trustees for review.

Stats explained

The statistics explaining overloads are too numerous to present in this column, but they are available from the college administration. The statistics are based on data collected from the college's student information system.

The statistics show that the number of students enrolled at Cal Poly has increased by 20% over the past five years. The number of courses offered has increased by 10% over the past five years. The number of faculty members has increased by 5% over the past five years.

The statistics also show that the average class size has increased from 25 students to 30 students over the past five years. The statistics further show that the average class size for upper division courses has increased from 20 students to 25 students over the past five years.

The statistics also show that the number of faculty members teaching overload courses has increased by 50% over the past five years. The statistics further show that the number of overload courses offered has increased by 20% over the past five years.

Work, student rapport grow

By KEN CROFFY Daily Staff Writer

We have recently seen a significant increase in the number of books being purchased. According to the college bookstore, sales have increased by 20% over the past six months. The college bookstore has also reported an increase in the number of students coming into the store.

The college bookstore has reported that the increase in sales is due to a combination of factors. The college has recently expanded its course offerings, and the students have shown a greater interest in the new courses. The college has also increased its library holdings, and the students have shown a greater interest in accessing the new materials.

The college bookstore has also reported that the students are spending more money on books. The college bookstore has reported that the average student is spending $500 on books per semester, compared to $400 per semester in the past. The college bookstore has also reported that the students are spending more money on textbooks, as opposed to other materials such as reference books.

NEWS FILLS KCPR AIRWAVES

By Ken Conley

On Tuesday, May 16, 1978, the news on the airwaves will be a little different than usual. KCPR 88.1 FM, the only radio station in Santa Barbara, will be broadcasting news and information from all sources.

The station's news director, Dave Barry, said, "We've always been known as a community station, but now we're going to be more like a national radio station."

The news will be broadcast from 6 to 8 p.m. each night, covering a wide range of topics, including local, state, and national news.

Barry said, "We're trying to give our listeners a broad perspective on the world. We're not just going to give them the news from one source."

The news will be presented by a team of reporters and anchors, each with a particular area of expertise. Barry said, "We're going to have people who specialize in politics, economics, and culture."

The station will also be offering special programming, such as music, sports, and talk shows, throughout the day.

Barry said, "We're hoping to attract a wider audience than we have in the past. We want to be the station that people listen to for news and information."

Poly ends season on up note

By ANN PRYCE

Poly lost a 76-62 decision in its season opener to El Camino Real, but then won the next 11 straight for a 12-1 record. A 65-57 win over Northridge 11 days before the holiday break clinched the CIF Northwest League title.

The Mustangs, who are playing at tonight’s game, won the title. Their last league title was in 1974.

With the win, Poly will face the top-ranked team in the state, Costa Mesa, in the first round of the CIF playoffs.

Bart and Co. take CCAA

by JAMES L. CROMWELL

Bart’s victory in the 800 meter run last week gave the Poly track team 11 points to make up for 16 points Cal State Hayward lost with only 37 seconds remaining in their meet last month. The 800 points now give Poly the lead in the CCAA standings, with only 1 point separating the third and fourth place teams.

Bart also won the 1500 meter run with a time of 4:16.1, which is the fastest time of the season. He also set a new meet record, with a time of 4:14.8. This is the second time this season that Bart has won both the 800 and 1500 meter runs.

For instance, the Poly track team is currently in first place, with a score of 650 points. The second place team is Cal State Hayward, with a score of 639 points. The third place team is Cal State Long Beach, with a score of 625 points. The fourth place team is Cal Poly Pomona, with a score of 619 points.

IOC hassles with LA

Los Angeles, currently the only candidate for the 1980 Olympic Games, is facing several challenges in its bid to host the games.

Montreal and Helsinki are also competing for the 1980 Olympic Games, and the IOC has made it clear that Los Angeles will have to meet several criteria in order to be chosen.

When Los Angeles made its application, the IOC sent a team of inspectors to evaluate the city's facilities and prepare a report. However, the inspectors were not satisfied with what they saw and recommended that Los Angeles make several improvements before reapplying.

Los Angeles has already made some changes, including the construction of several new sports facilities and the renovation of existing ones. However, the city has been criticized for not doing enough to address the concerns of the IOC.

A delegation of IOC officials will visit Los Angeles in June to assess the city's progress. If Los Angeles is not chosen to host the 1980 Olympic Games, it will have to reapply for the 1984 Olympic Games.

MAYOR-TANAKA

EARN OVER $4500 A MONTH RIGHT THROUGH YOUR

SENIOR YEAR.

If you’re a junior or senior majoring in math, physics, chemistry, or engineering, the Navy has a program you should know about.

It’s called the Nuclear Propulsion Officers Candidate-Collegiate Program (NPOCC) for short, and if you qualify, you can earn as much as $4,500 a month right through your senior year. But be careful. After 10 weeks of Officer Candidate School, you’ll receive aadditional pay to advance technical education. This would cost you thousands of dollars in college, but in the Navy, you pay zero. And of course, if all the way through, you’ll receive a $25,000 bonus.

It isn’t easy. There are fewer than 50 openings and only one of every five candidates succeeds. But if you make it, you’ll have qualified for an elite engineering training program. With additional order training, you’ll be a commissioned officer in less than four years, and off-the-job qualifications for jobs in private industry. You’ll be an officer in the Navy, but we don’t think you’ll want to leave it.

For more information, contact Lt. Tim Northam at 815-446-3311 or stop by the office at 815-446-3311, L.A. CA 90016 and find out for yourself. It does make more than help you fund your college; it can lead to an exciting career opportunity.
