South Bay to SLO bus route planned

BY JOE STEIN
Daily Sun

Cal Poly students living in Los Osos, Baywood Park or Morro Bay may soon be able to ride a county bus service to a county bus service. Members of the County Board of Supervisors have signed an agreement with the state to provide funding for the service, said John Wallo, the county's traffic engineer.

The bus service would begin by January 1, said Wallo.

He said the proposed service would cost the county $900,000 a year, 30 percent of which would be covered by fees. The rest would be paid by the county.

He said the engineering department recommended to the two cities and the supervisors that a 50-cent one-way fare be used "to determine what revenues would be." The bus would start its route in Morro Bay at 7:30 a.m. and make stops in Los Osos, Baywood Park, and Unity College, the California Men's Colony and the county sheriff's facility before finally arriving in San Luis Obispo at 11:15 a.m.

The county would open bidding for the service on December 28, said Wallo. The county would hire a dispatcher to send the buses on their routes and provide the necessary office space and equipment.

Wallo said the winner of the bidding will hire a manager, who will in turn hire the bus drivers. Wallo said bus service probably will not start until about March or April.

Another proposed bus system would serve the county's handicapped. The plan, Wallo said, must reach a joint-powers agreement among the county's six cities in order to authorize the $51,000 needed for the service's first year.

Handicapped persons would need to make a reservation for a ride anywhere in the county. Wallo said, at least 24 hours in advance. Also, the rider would have to give the driver his pick-up time, his destination and information about the return bus trip.

Wallo said the county would contract with a private company, which would buy the five phones and needed vehicles.

The service would operate nine hours a day, five days a week, said Wallo.

A fourth bus service being worked out, said Wallo, would transport people from Cambria to Morro Bay and back three times a day. A fourth bus service would be paid for by the county, which would provide the buses. The service would cost $32,000 for the first year, said Wallo.

Wallo said his department is recommending to the county supervisors a 13-cent transfer fee.

Wallo said the county could save 80 percent of the cost of each of all of the services from the $900,000 it gets each year from its take of the California sales tax. In addition, the county gets transportation revenues from court fines and federal aid derived from the federal tax on gasoline.

Men in home economics outnumbered 147 to one

The women's place is in home economics. At least more so than the man's.

Female home economics majors outnumbered male majors by 841 to 1. On the other hand, men outnumber women in the manufacturing engineering department by 877 to 21.

These two statistics and many more come from the enrollment report for fall quarter just released by L. H. Dowgiallo, Poly's director of institutional research.

Women outnumber male students in the animal science department (329 to 242), the school of human development and education (603 to 260) and the school of commutative arts and humanities (695 to 508). Men, however, outnumber women in the school of engineering and technology (2,356 to 168).

The report says the average course load on campus is 14.05 units. The highest average course load among all departments goes to the transportation engineering students, with 11.64 units. However, post-baccalaurate students enrolled in economics and agricultural science this fall carry an average of 18 units. At the law end of the table is the only post-baccalaurate in physical science, with men ten units the quarter.

According to the report, enrollment dropped in the agricultural management department last year by more than 63 percent, from 59 students last year to 20 this year.

There are 97 percent fewer transportation engineers this year than last year, from 80 students to 37.

On the other hand, there are 302 civil engineering students this year compared to only 46 last year, a 399 percent increase. There are also 97 environmental and systematic biology majors this year, up from 15 last year.

In addition, there are twice as many potential microbiologists at Poly this year than last year. From 97 then to 516 now.

Enrollment in the applied arts and design department shot up from 9* to 439, or a 37 percent increase.

The report also gives the ethnicity of Poly students. Out of a total of 19,992 students there are 243 American Indians, 294 blacks, 990 Chicanos, 87 Latin-Americans, 1,064 Asians, 56 Filippinos, 113 Chinese, and 111 other nonwhites.

The report said 687 people did not respond to a questionnaire offered by Poly administrators during the first days of the quarter, Foreign students and all other students total 211.

REMEMBERING—Ruby Bollin stands over her husband's grave while explaining to Sandra Maselli what Veteran's Day is all about.

Men honored despite rain

Vets honored despite rain

Only a few came to stand in the light rain and gaze thoughtfully at the monuments which to them represented husbands, fathers, brothers or friends killed in action.

The day was Veterans Day, set aside to honor our military dead, but arrivals at Veterans Memorial Park in Los Osos Saturday were cancelled because of bad weather.

Thunder, lightning and the dark gray clouds kept all but the most sentimental from attending.

Andy Kuthberson served in an artillery division in Vietnam and had driven about 30 miles from Creston to attend the service. He was attending.

The coffin they carried was filled with a small American flag planted firmly with wet grass. Kuthberson said it was a solemn burial in front of the Vietnam veterans.

 Asked why he attended despite the rain, he said.

"As the last car left the cemetery parking lot and the rain started again, in another part of the cemetery a memorial to the war veterans was erected. The sun was shining and the rain started again. As I turned around, I saw a woman with two units this quarter. I thought there was going to be a service."

Andy Kuthberson served in an artillery division in Vietnam and had driven about 30 miles from Creston to attend the service. He was attending.

The coffin they carried was filled with a small American flag planted firmly with wet grass. Kuthberson said it was a solemn burial in front of the Vietnam veterans.

 Asked why he attended despite the rain, he said.

"As the last car left the cemetery parking lot and the rain started again, in another part of the cemetery a memorial to the war veterans was erected. The sun was shining and the rain started again. As I turned around, I saw a woman with two units this quarter. I thought there was going to be a service."

"And exactly 40 years after the ending of World War II Korea and Vietnam," she said. "I come each Veteran's Day to remember him. He was very dear to his country."

Walking slowly because of her age, Mrs. Alice O. Faulkner, president of Veterans of World War I, was wearing the hat and badge of her organization.

She had come to remember her husband who served in France during World War II but left among the services were cancelled. As the last car left the memorial parking lot and the rain started again, in another part of the cemetery President Faulkner placed a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

She also delivered a plaque to those who served in Vietnam, saying they had paid a special price.

In Los Angeles, however, about 50 Viet­ nam veterans held a march burial in front of the Veterans Administration Building.

The coffin they carried was filled with farms they had to fill out to get benefits. Ron Keve, spokesman of the group, said veterans of the Vietnam conflict are being discriminated against by the government. He said that he the veterans are not being treated as veterans of all other wars.

And exactly 40 years after the ending of World War II Korea and Vietnam," she said. "I come each Veteran's Day to remember him. He was very dear to his country."

Walking slowly because of her age, Mrs. Alice O. Faulkner, president of Veterans of World War I, was wearing the hat and badge of her organization.

She had come to remember her husband who served in France during World War II but left among the services were cancelled. As the last car left the memorial parking lot and the rain started again, in another part of the cemetery President Faulkner placed a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

She also delivered a plaque to those who served in Vietnam, saying they had paid a special price.

In Los Angeles, however, about 50 Viet­ nam veterans held a march burial in front of the Veterans Administration Building.

The coffin they carried was filled with farms they had to fill out to get benefits. Ron Keve, spokesman of the group, said veterans of the Vietnam conflict are being discriminated against by the government. He said that he the veterans are not being treated as veterans of all other wars.

"I though there was going to be a service."
TuMday, November 14, 1976

Editorial/Opinion

Losers but winners

Most of us sat at home Saturday afternoon and watched the football game between Cal Poly and University of California at Davis. We watched with enthusiasm and pride at the mention of our school. And even though the Mustangs came home defeated because of a close loss, we felt proud that the team had the chance to play on the tube. We thank ABC-TV for giving us the chance to view our team.

The Mustangs played a well-thought-out game the last three quarters but unfortunately fell victim to a few untimely mistakes at the start of the game.

The Poly team entered the game in hopes of proving it was the better team. We feel certain the game never had the chance to actually decide. Davis's quarterback was injured early in the game and the Mustangs gave up three turnovers quickly. Perhaps the next Davis-Poly contest will tell us more.

Hanging Proposition 7

People thought they were cracking down on crime when they voted for Proposition 7, the death penalty initiative. But the people who they were cracking down on was individual freedom.

Proposition 7 will expand the death penalty to include felonies that aren't crimes that are subject to murder.

Proponents say this measure will give law enforcement officials and judges a more powerful weapon against violent crime. But to think otherwise is ludicrous.

The hands of justice are being tied. Of course there should be stricter sentences for convicted killers such as Charles Manson, but to hold out these sentences across the board is ridiculous. Discretion must be used throughout the judicial process.

But Proposition 7 will surely be challenged in court. We hope that our junior members will see the implications the initiative might have here and rule it unconstitutional.

Letters

Editor

Ku Klux Klans is not a group of fashionable people or leaders. Former President Harry Truman was a member of the Klan and I would not consider him to be fashionable much less a leader. The Ku Klux Klan consists of patriots among us and foremost stands for law and order. My experience with the Klan has been good and friendly. While employed in the plant of the Davis Plastics Company, we had Ku Klux Klan meetings turned to for assistance in time of trouble.

These areas suffered from a lack of police protection which was caused by an insufficient police force. In these situations turned to for assistance in time of trouble.

The last straw comes a few weeks ago when the Oakland Raiders played the Cincinnati Bengals. If they are anything like the mustangs, my family they hooded and screamed at the television screen and drank enough beer to float a modest armada.

This is all well and fine. I like to see other people enjoy themselves even if I am bored at times. But when I was a teen aged 14 hours a week getting various thrills out of a piece of furniture, I hope to wonder what effect it must have up on his family, not to mention his brain cells.

I want to feel so sorry for my mother, bright and early Saturday morning Miss. my step-father, armed with bologna sandwiches and a drink, would pack himself in a comfortable chair in the den and watch a college football game. Talking was forbidden in football and any other group of people who are a street to their main line so thinking about white supremacy. Why of all the groups of people the blacks being the least intelligent is such a demeaning and inferior fashion? Your cartoon carried with it several dis

Your cartoon was done in very, very poor taste. It also left a bitter taste in the mouth of a majority of the black student population at Poly. The cartoons depicted a member of the E.S.K. being superior rough and unconvincing over a frightened, legally, mistrusting black man. It even implied that when the fire is almost out here comes the KKK to burn the rug and the pit. Can't you understand that we as blacks have enough problems as it is dealing with the black racism, the police, and the school.

We are subject to constant police, suffering stereotypes and generalizations. The E.S.K. is not only a discriminatory practice but either Mexicans, Jews, Catholics, Jews and any other group of people who are a street to their main line so thinking about white supremacy. Why of all the groups of people the blacks being the least intelligent is such a demeaning and inferior fashion? Your cartoon carried with it several dis

Sunday, the sacred bologna sandwich-and-a-drink ritual was repeated. My mother made desperate attempts to place a picnic or a hike or some other family activity on that her three children might get the idea that the gay in the meadow must could in fast walk and talk like other human beings.

But my mother's efforts to enco Mo from his armchair quarterback desires failed. He didn't even feel guilty when he admitted that he couldn't remember our names.

Your cartoon printed adjacent to the editorial in the Nov. 9th issue of Mustang Daily.

FRAWLS

By Mark Lawler

Mustang Daily

Oh crud...These blank spaces Always turn out to be blank.

But think! Positive frames! You've got a 50-50 chance love this Chuckie P. Love you other.

A doll or a real M.D.?

This time her little facade was beginning to crum and visions sabotage flittered in her eyes.

The last straw came a few weeks ago when a network televised a game on Thursday night. My mother's voice quivered with anguish when I asked her if I gave my sympathy. My mother and other football widows like her might get some comfort from facts that a
Rodeo team rides to win in Arizona

BUSTING BRONC — Tom Johnson, Poly team captain, competes in saddle bronc riding.

With Pat Jones winning the all-around title, the Cal Poly Rodeo men won the team title last weekend in Coolidge, Arizona.

The Mustangs men collected 330 points to outdistance Harrell College of Sallisaw with 266. The women for Cal Poly finished fourth in the competition as Central Arizona College, the host of the rodeo, took first with 330 points. The Cal Poly women finished with 80.

Pat Jones, winner of the all-around title with 148 points, did not win any individual events but took second in the steer wrestling and calf roping competitions while finishing fourth with Scott Adair in the team roping.

Mike Mosby took the only first for the Mustangs men winning the saddle bronc riding.

For the women, things did not go as well. Last year’s world champion in the women’s competition, Barrie Beach of Central Arizona, again won impressively. She was the all around champ, won the Breakaway competition and the goat tying.

The CAC rodeo was the second of 13 scheduled. The top two teams in the region will go to the nationals in June of next year. Both Cal Poly teams are thought to be in second place. The men trail Harrell and the women trail Central Arizona College. This weekend the Mustangs host the homecoming rodeo in Colliet Arena.

BULL — Cal Poly’s bull rider has his ups and downs.
Parade marshal noted designer

"Designing Our Dreams" is the theme of Cal Poly's 1978 homecoming scheduled for this weekend, and the grand marshal, Mustang Dally, the homecoming parade is quite a designer himself.

Dr. John D. Nicolaides, head of the university's Astronautical Engineering Department, has been an aeronautical designer for the military, for universities, and for private industry for a number of years.

He joined the faculty at Cal Poly in 1975, after having been department chairman and faculty member of University of Notre Dame and former president of A-8-R-O, a research and development company located in South Bend, Ind.

"We design for a personal, a flexible wing or air foil which can be folded and stored like a parachute," has received a great deal of attention because of its innovations.

Dr. Nicolaides' participation as grand marshal will highlight Cal Poly's homecoming weekend.

Also in attendance at the parade will be the homecoming host and hostess who were recently chosen at a pageant held in Chumash auditorium.

Dr. Nicolaides' participation as grand marshal will highlight Cal Poly's homecoming weekend.

Also in attendance at the parade will be the homecoming host and hostess who were recently chosen at a pageant held in Chumash auditorium.

Dr. Nicolaides' participation as grand marshal will highlight Cal Poly's homecoming weekend.

Also in attendance at the parade will be the homecoming host and hostess who were recently chosen at a pageant held in Chumash auditorium.

Dr. Nicolaides' participation as grand marshal will highlight Cal Poly's homecoming weekend.

Also in attendance at the parade will be the homecoming host and hostess who were recently chosen at a pageant held in Chumash auditorium.

Dr. Nicolaides' participation as grand marshal will highlight Cal Poly's homecoming weekend.

Also in attendance at the parade will be the homecoming host and hostess who were recently chosen at a pageant held in Chumash auditorium.

Dr. Nicolaides' participation as grand marshal will highlight Cal Poly's homecoming weekend.

Also in attendance at the parade will be the homecoming host and hostess who were recently chosen at a pageant held in Chumash auditorium.

Dr. Nicolaides' participation as grand marshal will highlight Cal Poly's homecoming weekend.

Also in attendance at the parade will be the homecoming host and hostess who were recently chosen at a pageant held in Chumash auditorium.

Dr. Nicolaides' participation as grand marshal will highlight Cal Poly's homecoming weekend.
Seven knifed on skid Row

Los Angeles (AP) - The seventh man to be fatally stabbed in the skid Row area since Oct. 27 was found early yesterday on the street from Central Division Police Headquarters.

It was not immediately known if the man was a victim of the stabbing spree that has terrorized downtown skid Row dwellers, but it was the first time a skid Row killer has been killed in four years.

Homicide Sgt. Walter Sheppard said the unidentified man had been stabbed several times in the upper torso, in a manner similar to the six previous stabbings, and found in a pool of blood on East Fifth Street shortly past midnight.

"We aren't sure that all the stabbings might be related," Lt. John Dempsey, head of Central Division's detective bureau, said earlier.

A high force of police investigators immediately began searching the area for witnesses or clues about the knife-wielding killer.

It was the second gristy series of skid Row deaths in four years.

Mideast talks deadlock

Washington (AP) - Mideast peace talks remains deadlocked over the Palestinian issue yesterday despite a concerted U.S. effort to keep a partially completed treaty between Egypt and Israel from unraveling.

President Carter's personal intervention with President Anwar Sadat and Prime Minister Menahem Begin and a compromise American proposal on the Palestinian Sunday failed to bring a quick end to the impasse.

And there were indications other provisions of the historic agreement that had seemed nailed down were becoming derailed in the controversy that was focused principally on whether the treaty should be tied to future negotiations over the Palestinians.

The raised the possibility that the agreement could unravel further if compromises were not struck soon on the Palestinian and on Israel's durability of its Israeli-held east bank of the Suez Canal to Egyptian control. But Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, and the West Bank and Jordan with Begin at Kennedy Airport in New York, refused to abandon hope of completing the accord, which only a week ago appeared within grasp.

Iran oil production starts

Teheran (Iran) - Production at Iran's offshore oil fields ended yesterday as a hundred of workers joined foreign experts and military technicians in working the woody land of the world's second largest oil exporting nation.

The official Iranian news agency said more than 37,000 oil workers defied a military government order to end their twoweek-old strike, but the few who returned helped boost production to 2.7 million barrels a day.

Court to judge press ban

Washington (AP) - The Supreme Court said it will decide whether certain states may muzzle newspapers for publishing stories involving juvenile charges charged with crimes.

In a case that could carry broad free press impact, the court agreed to judge the constitutionality of a West Virginia law that makes it a crime to publish newspapers to report such names.

All states have laws protecting the privacy of juveniles in trouble but it is unclear how many states go so far as West Virginia.

Its law was struck down last June by the West Virginia Supreme Court, which ruled that the publishing ban unconstitutionally infringed on freedom of the press.

Kanawha, County Prosecutor Chris Hanley came to the nation's highest court seeking to reinstate the ban.

It effects on First Amendment safeguards, Hanley told the justices, "is relatively slight when considered in light of the interest that the statute seeks to promote, a child's anonymity.

Atomic war worries Carter

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter, worried about the Soviet Union's growing civil defense capability, has approved plans to vastly upgrade U.S. efforts, aiming to save as many as 140 million Americans in the event of nuclear war.

American civil defense officials estimate that only 50 million of the country's 220 million citizens would now survive a nuclear attack.

The new plan would hope to save between one-half and two-thirds of all Americans through massive evacuation of metropolitan areas if nuclear war was threatened.

"The Soviet Union has had the capability for some time. We are without plans and therefore could suffer catastrophic damage," said Boardy Tiran, U.S. Civil Defense director and one of the major proponents of the new program.

Officials estimated the cost of the improved program — which must win congressional approval — at $2 billion over five years. The United States now spends about $90 annually on civil defense.

Oil workers strike Oct. 31 for higher pay and in support of a swelling wave of opposition to Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi's regime by disaffected Muslim leaders demanding reversal of the ruler's westernization program and Islamic demands demonstrating reforms to replace his authoritarian rule.

The Pars news agency said 50 persons were killed in widespread demonstrations against the Shah's government.

The state oil company said 600,000 barrels would go for domestic consumption and the other 2.1 million would be pumped into tankers already waiting at the Persian Gulf terminal in southern Iran.

DODGING UNWELCOME BULLETS

Garlock (AP) - Dodging bullets has become a way of life for Jack and Roberta Surry, the two ranching residents of this gold-mining ghost town where the unrelenting Wild West has been resurrected.

City dwellers, apparently believing nobody lives in this Mojave Desert community 125 miles northeast of Los Angeles, come here to shoot their guns and live out their Western shoot-'em-up fantasies.

"Sometimes it sounds like a war's going on out here," says Mrs. Surry, 64. "Not long ago, at least a dozen people were shooting in all directions. It's crazy.

Surry, 74, says the visitors often shoot right into their homes and several of his pets have been killed by stray bullets.

"We have to take cover," he said. "One shot recently struck the wall right above where I was sitting in my living room."

As a result, he said, his wife now keeps a rifle and shotgun at hand just in case. They say they are excellent marksmen, but so far they haven't had to shoot back at anyone.

Over the years, people have driven into Garlock in the middle of the night and torn down some of the old buildings that once housed saloons, boarding houses, stores, a Wells Fargo stagecoach office and a post office.

If you're a student "GET UP" or better, you may qualify for the free time offer. Call toll free to order your new Mini-Talkie. Call today and get the facts on Farnam money-saving sounds Friend State Police

El Corral Bookstore

It's also a way of life for Elmer and Mary Stone.�r who have been living here for seven years.

They recently sold their ranch that was torn down by a tornado and the couple now lives in a converted railroad boxcar.

"When the shooting gets too bad, we just close our window and watch television."

"People are shooting all the time," says Mrs. Stone. "That's the way life is out here."

"We've always been frustrated," adds Mr. Stone. "People here are the nicest people you'll ever meet, but there is this shooting all the time."

"It's threatening to drive business out of town," adds Mrs. Stone.

"We're a small town and we've got a lot of family bonds, but the shooting is causing a lot of trouble."
Cross country team nabs national title

Poly's first since 1974

BY JIM ALVERNAS

The Times Leader

Success does funny things to people.

Dana Aldridge was feeling nervous. Dan Aldridge was completely hyper and active Texas high school basketball star and he wanted to be a Californian. Mitch Kingery didn't say much but he smiled a lot.

This may not be normal behavior for the Mustangs cross country team but then, this last weekend was no ordinary weekend.

After all, the Mustangs did not come home from the Division II cross country championships at Indiana University - PA, as another good team; they came home as national champions.

Unqualified national champions. A record of 85-0 to be exact.

As expected, despite the efforts of the greatest Illinois team to date, the Mustangs dominated the Panthers and the rest of the competition in the way this school's first national title since 1974 and the win was well deserved.

The Mustangs were never challenged. Place four men in the top six finishers, and packet of 45 points, and you have won a national championship.

Amazingly, Coach Miller, Poly was ignored in the local press coverage prior to the race. As far as everyone back east was concerned Eastern Illinois was the team to beat. Not so fast.

The Mustangs had five men back from the team that scored a monster 37 points at Madison, Wisconsin last year; the top ranked team in the country going into the national meet.

This time around, however, it was Poly that was victorious. The Mustangs finished with a pack at second place South Dakota State.

And why not. The Mustangs claimed the third place Valdosta State of Georgia.

The times of Schankel, Mitchell Kingery and Manny Bautista left the pack early and went on to finish a jubilant 1-2-

Jim Schankel, Mitch Kingery and Manny Bautista, lead all opponents at a recent meet. The Mustangs, with the help of a one-two finish by Schankel and Kingery, won Poly's first national cross country title.

STAMPEDE — A pack of Cal Poly cross country runners, from left to right, John Capriotti, Dan Aldridge, who finished 18th, Brian Bray, (3:44) finished 50th, while Manny Bautista, (3:10) placed 84th. The time of Schankel, Kingery, Capriotti, and Aldridge were all good enough to beat the old Men's East Coast Record of 1:46.

Race officials used a criterion to start the race. It was an omen of things to come.

It served that there were four Mustangs ahead of the entire Panther squad.

Not far behind in fourth place was John Capriotti, (3:10) placed 14th.

Jim Schankel proved he was the reason why the best Division II has to offer. He and Mitch Kingery left the pack early and won an individual title.

Schehkel might have been expected to win but Kingery's performance was something else.

The San Carlos senior went out so strong that Schankel admitted he was worried in the final six hundred yards of the race, as far as everyone back east was concerned Eastern Illinois was the team to beat. Not so fast.

The Mustangs had five men back from the team that scored a monster 37 points at Madison, Wisconsin last year; the top ranked team in the country going into the national meet.

This time around, however, it was Poly that was victorious. The Mustangs finished with a pack at second place South Dakota State.

And why not. The Mustangs claimed the third place Valdosta State of Georgia.

The times of Schankel, Mitchell Kingery and Manny Bautista left the pack early and went on to finish a jubilant 1-2-

Jim Schankel, Mitch Kingery and Manny Bautista, lead all opponents at a recent meet. The Mustangs, with the help of a one-two finish by Schankel and Kingery, won Poly's first national cross country title.

Mon-Sat 9:30-5:30
Now Open Sun. 12-4
Spikers host Gauchos

Playoff hopes dimmed as Davis wins 29-22

BY MARK HENDRIX

The biggest game of the season for the Cal Poly Mustangs, turnovers in the first quarter sealed their fate as the Aggies of UC Davis won 29-22.

After the pre-game jitters, two fumbles and six interceptions, Cal Poly settled down and played winning football. But the 19 points in the first quarter were too much to overcome.

Cal Poly took the opening kickoff only to fumble three plays later. Davis drove the ball in to score from two yards out. Again the Mustangs lost the football, this time quarterback Craig Johnson dropped it after he was hit hard while attempting to pass.

Davis scored again with a 10-yard pass from Mike Merritt. Davis missed the extra point to lead 13-0. An interception by Johnson and another one by the Aggies makes the score 19-0 with 2:19 left in the first quarter.

By this time the ball was in the possession of the game and those who were watching on regional TV must have thought the afternoon was over. But the Mustangs through otherwise.

Playing like it was a new game, the Mustangs picked up two second quarter scores. First, Paul Hodges booted over from the one yard line and then finished. But the Mustangs got their first break of the game when Rick Jones recovered the ball for the score.

The second quarter had more breaks for Cal Poly. Davis quickly stumbled the ball away and after Louis Jackson gained two yards, QB John Johnson fired a 30-yard pass to wide receiver Robbie Martin for a 35-yard touchdown and Cal Poly was back in the ball game. The score at the half was Davis 18, Cal Poly 14.

After the half the Mustangs looked like as if they thought it was the first quarter again. This time, there were no turnovers, but also no movement by the offense. Davis kicked a 45-yard field goal to lead 22-14 for the only points in the third quarter.

The Mustangs still had high hopes for the game as the third quarter ended but a majority of the quarter was near wide receiver Robbie Martin. Martin kicked the ball up a first down and then ex- tended and will be out for the rest of the season. He is scheduled for next Wednesday and possibly surgery on Thursday.

The final period was heart-breaking and frustrating for both teams, especially Poly. The Mustangs down the ball only to be stopped. After an explanation of punt, the Aggies lined up for punt, this with a scoring pass from second string QB John Louis throwing to Wilson for the TD.

A short kick and runback by Rick Jones gave Poly ball at the 60 yard line of Davis. The Mustangs drove the ball in with Hodges scoring from one yard out. The Mustangs then lined up by seven and had the ball. joystick three two passes that were dropped, then got socked or which proved to be the final blow.

The game was as close as the score 19-9 on punt and overtime.

The loss knocked Cal Poly from serious playoff contention. There is still a chance the Mustangs would be picked as an at-large team in the Division II regionals. Cal Poly Athletic Director, Vic Ber- cont's, said he will know more after Secretary I John Lueck's announcement when the week's rankings are picked by the NCAA poll.

Sailers enter nationals

The Cal Poly surfing team swept away the competition in the Pacific Coast Desert Cup Eliminations last weekend and qualified to compete in the nationals later this month.

The Poly surfers defeated 5 and 0 in longboard, beating using 30-foot boards called Hobie.

The eliminations were held in Newport Beach under less than the best surfing conditions. Cal Poly defeated UCLA, San Diego State, UC Santa Barbara, UC Irvine and the second place finishers UNC.

The top two teams will compete in the national championships November 30, December 1 and 2 in Long Beach. Other teams exempted from the competition are Navy, U. of Texas and Texas Christian. The eight divisions will compete.

Cal Poly's team is entered by Jon Yakel, who, according to one source, did a great job of maneuvering the boat in choppy weather. Cripple Bill Wiedemann and Bill Jager learned the art of sitting and taking down the sail. This was the first time the sailing club competed in the regionals.

Electrolysis Center of Arroyo Grande

Permanent removal of unwanted hair. Specials for Students and Senior Citizens. Over 6 years in private practice.

KCPR Stereo FM

NOW OPEN

With two losses over the weekend for the Cal Poly women's volleyball team, the Gauchos on Thursday night hosted the Cal Poly volleyball team in a battle of the two strongest Gauchos of UC Santa Barbara's tonight in the main gym.

Sunset Beach is riding high at the top of the conference and coach Mike Willard saw the match as a big one.

"It's a biggie. We're hoping for the best but we've got to down there in four. We can beat them. It's our last home game, we'll try to play our best," he said.

The Gauchos, who are one dropped matches to Cal State Northridge and Cal State Fullerton. Against Northridge the women won one game, which is better than the first time the two teams met.

Fullerton, who plays in the best conference in the United States, went five games with Cal Poly. Coons Wilson, said the girls played well one game and won the next.

"We played like Mr. Hyde the first set and then Dr. Jekyll the next," he said.

The Mustangs record dropped to 10-7 overall and 3-1 in conference play. The Gauchos lost found room to be pleased.

"This year we've made a perfect opportunity for us to compare this year to last year," he said. "We're a completely different situation. We like to think we can win one of these three."
For a reprint of this page without advertising, write Anheuser-Busch, Inc., Dept. CN, 2800 South 9th St., St. Louis, Mo. 63118.