The Cal Poly Candidates

Three professors, student enter SLO elections

Editors' note: Mustang Daily has planned extensive coverage of the upcoming city elections which will be published between now and March 8. Picture stories will focus on all the candidates in the mayor and city council's races. This feature is intended to focus only upon the candidates who study and teach at Cal Poly.

When one of the four men running for mayor of San Luis Obispo are not campaigning for the March 8 election, they can be found in classrooms and offices—both are faculty members at Cal Poly.

The list of two of the seven city council candidates for SLO's 1977 City Council include: Andrew, acting head of Poly's accounting department, is running for the first elected office—mayor of San Luis Obispo. Andrews is head of the planning commission.

The ACCOUNTANT—Charles T. Andrews, acting head of the Cal Poly Accounting Dept., is running for his

The ARCHITECT—Kenneth Schwartz, a professor in Cal Poly's Architecture Dept., is incumbent mayor who in

The COUNCILMAN—Allen K. Seita, candidate for city council, has served since 1977 when he was appointed to

The PRESIDENT—Larry Robinson, Cal Poly ABI president who is running for a seat on the city council. Robinson

By December announced he would not run for re-election—then later changed his mind.

EDITORIAL: The political climate seems to be in a state of flux. This week, the city council announced they would not increase the budget. This is the second time in two years that the council has made such a decision. The first time, in 1975, the council voted to cut back on spending. This year, the council is facing a budget shortfall of almost $2 million. The council has already cut back on several programs, including education and recreation. However, it is unlikely that the council will be able to avoid making any further cuts.

In other news, the city council has approved a new ordinance that will allow for the annexation of land. This is the first time in many years that the city has been able to annex land. The ordinance was passed unanimously by the council. The city is hoping that the annexation will help to alleviate some of the housing shortages that have been occurring in the area.

The city council also approved a new plan for the development of the downtown area. The plan includes the construction of a new parking garage and the improvement of the existing streets. The council hopes that the plan will help to revitalize the downtown area and encourage more business to move in.

The council also discussed the possibility of raising the property tax. The council is facing a budget shortfall of almost $2 million, and they are looking for ways to offset some of the costs. The property tax is currently set at a rate of 1%, but the council is considering raising it to 1.5%. The council is also considering other options, such as cutting back on some of the city's services.

The battle begins

We are overjoyed—better yet, ecstatic—over the indication that summer quarter will begin again as reality.

In the grand tradition of our student body, we join the rest of the world in our jubilation. The announcement of the cancellation of summer quarter has been greeted with wild enthusiasm in the student body.

Although the bashing in the form of summer quarters was definitely the best way to go, the battle is not nearly complete. Our constant celebration of our final victory is definitely on the make-up ball about that. But for now, we are on a roll.

The battle continues.

In regard to the editorial "Unfair Disadvantages," regarding the violent protest by Iranians in the U.S., the writer suggests that Iranians are not being fairly treated.

Regarding this violence, it is important to note that the Iranian government is perpetrating violence against its own citizens. The Iranian regime has a long history of human rights abuses, including the suppression of freedom of speech and assembly.

I am proud to be a student at Cal Poly Pomona, and I believe that our university should be a place of peace and prosperity. The Iranian regime must be held accountable for its actions.

The Iranian government's actions are a direct violation of international law and human rights. The Iranian regime must cease its violence and respect the rights of its own citizens.

There was a lot of attention last quarter given to the problem of bikes and mopeds on campus. Many of the protesters were concerned about the safety of students and the need for our people to 'flower' the country for the future of America.

Many of the protesters were also concerned about the safety of students and the need for our people to 'flower' the country for the future of America.

As for the riders, courtesy and caution should be constantly exercised. No matter what the situation.

The riders, however, are also concerned about the safety of students and the need for our people to 'flower' the country for the future of America.

The evening before the parade, I had the pleasure of seeing our float take shape. We were pleased and mechanical touch-ups were being made in "full-crank" mode. Our pullers were being improved as the "full-crank" mode began. Our pullers were being improved as the "full-crank" mode began.
Suspect returns for SLO trial

The suspect charged with the rape of four women was Cal Poly last summer is expected to be returned to San Luis Obispo in four week trial by March 13.

By reporter: James Jackson, 31, was bound over to Superior Court in Santa Barbara after a preliminary hearing in early December. Jackson faces charges in connection with the rape of a woman in a young women's dorm in early February and may be held by mid-month, according to Detective Brian Axley of the Santa Barbara Police Department.

Afterwards, Jackson faces charges in San Luis Obispo County as a suspect in the rape, burglary and robbery of four women in San Luis Obispo and the attempted rape of an Atascadero woman.

A complaint charging Jackson with sex crimes was issued by the San Luis Obispo District Attorney's Office, Oct. 18, and also alleged the use of a knife in all counts.

Charges are also pending against Jackson in Monterey County as a suspect in the rape, burglary and robbery of four women in San Luis Obispo and the attempted rape of an Atascadero woman.

Poly's share of cuts: $1 million

BY SUSAN SUMNER — James Landreth, Cal Poly's director of business affairs, explained the impact of Gov. Brown's proposed budget on this campus. The budget is scheduled to reach final approval by the end of June.

The one percent savings requested by the governor is being handled administratively because the governor originally asked the CSUC Board of Trustees to make a 10 percent reduction in its budget process.

On the negative side of the budget, Landreth said he was surprised to see the 10 percent savings extended from 1978-79 into 1979-80. Originally, the savings were designated for one-time reduction in 1978-79, he said.

Landreth said the governor did not include salary and fringe benefits in his proposal. The financial plan will be amended at least to provide funding for this.

Ronstadt near perfection

BY KATHY MCKENZIE

LIVING IN THE U.S.A.
Linda Ronstadt. Asylum 68-134.
Linda Ronstadt is hitting her stride at last. After her 1977 album, "Simple Dreams," many of her fans were worried that she couldn't possibly get better. However, Ronstadt proved them wrong on what it is probably her most sophisticated and emotional album yet.

Living songs from Oscar Hammerstein II's "When I Grow Too Old To Dream," and the way to Elvis Costello's "(Alfie) Ronstadt sings about dreams people have and what happens to the dreamers. As Ronstadt's vocals on one of the best cuts, a bitter-sweet song, is titled "When I Grow Too Old To Dream," and they're dreaming of black roses. Black roses and blue - And some body who cares when you lose - Black roses, with every line and every word.

Accident victim making comeback

BY KATHY MCKENZIE

It was an everyone's worst nightmare. On Valentine's Day, Mary Jane Gleabret, a Cal Poly student, was struck down on California Boulevard by a pickup that did not stop. She lay in a coma with head injuries and a lacerated spleen in Harris Valley Hospital, where she spent a month on the critical list. And tragedy has since become victory for the 22-year-old mechanical major. Mary Jane is making her comeback.

She had to relearn everything.

"We have so much to be thankful for," said her mother, Betty Gleabret, in a telephone interview. "I wish you could see her — she looks beautiful."

Gleabret was both motivate and thoughtful about her daughter's condition, which she described as "improving daily."

"She has a problem with her right leg," explained Gleabret. "When the truck hit her, it pulverized her pelvis, and her leg bone was pushed up into her spine. Now it's stabilized and they're slowly going to bring it back. Also, her foot is swollen and her ankle is weak. But she wore a walker and gets around very well."

"I'm glad to be in one piece and without broken bones," said Mary Jane.

Things didn't always look so hopeful. After being released from the hospital in her hometown of Glendora on July 19, she went through what her mother calls "an angry period."

"I had never seen Mary Jane like that before. Anger, rage — not the Mary Jane we know. We were in horror for her."

"When Mary Jane and I first heard to talk and eat again, she had to relearn everything. Up to Aug. 13, she couldn't remember anything. But that was the turning point. After that, her anger went away, and since then there have been so many changes."

Currently, Mary Jane is going to school four days a week at Pacific Oaks College in Pasadena in a special program, started by a woman whose daughter was hurt in an accident similar to Mary Jane's. There are six young adults in the program, which deals with educational therapy.

"We aren't doing anything specific to this patient," said Mary Jane. "Our teacher is familiarizing us with certain ideas. I like the school because it's close to home."

"I want to go back to Poly, but I'm not sure what that will be. I have to get this right leg straightened out. I can handle all rights, but I have problems with sitting in a car."

"The talks about Cal Poly all the time," said her mother. "If someone ever asks her about her plans, she doesn't hesitate. She says right away, 'I'm going back to Cal Poly to get my diploma and my teaching credential. Cal Poly is very important to her.'"

The investigation into Mary Jane's case is still active, according to Bruce Lahmarg of the San Lasi Chico Police Department, who was deputy the night of Mary Jane's accident.

"We've probably checked hundreds of vehicles. And we still haven't found the right one."

Lahmarg said the police are still investigating the case, but they don't have any new leads.

"The time that goes by just decreases the chances of finding the vehicle or the driver. It's really a sad thing."

Tough and talented

Hardly your average company, Digital is definitely not for the timid in spirit. Rapid change in our technology demand people with the confidence to speak their minds and take the new ground... And Digital has the night of Mary Jane's accident.

Basketball team caught short

BY NABE LUDLOW

Height is a commodity that Cal Poly finds it lacking short supply. That's especially true now that 6-3 freshman center Beth Chery from Piedmont is no longer academically eligible for the women's basketball team.

Cal Poly played its first game without Chery last Saturday and lost to Jose State, 96-31.

“Beth no longer on the roster,” Hal Haradard said. “Her absence is felt in every facet of Cal Poly’s play.”

With Chery no longer on the roster, Cal Poly’s tallest players are 5-10. They include starters Laurie Sage, 5-9, Ohio State senior; and Joyce Berger, 5-9, junior from Lancaster.

“We’re an extremely short team. It’s been a problem all season and certainly won’t get better with Chery hampered with freckles.” Halbard said.

The Mustangs will take a 5-9 record into competition this weekend meeting UC Irvine tonight at 7:30 and Cal State Los Angeles Saturday. Both games are on the road.

“Both teams have improved since last season when they tied for fifth place in the NCAA,” Halbard said.

Starters for Cal Poly joining Sage and Berger will be Terri Gillette, 5-4, senior from Mission Viejo; and Cathy Easling, 5-4, senior from Santa Cruz in the backcourt.

Cal Poly will play in the season finale tonight at 7:30 against UC Irvine and Cal State Los Angeles to complete its 11-4 regular season record.

Women gymnasts in meet

Cal Poly’s women’s gymnastics team will open its season in a tri-meet tonight against UC Santa Barbara and Cal State Los Angeles. The meet will be held at Santa Barbara starting at 6 p.m.

“We’re stronger than we were last year,” coach Andy Pfeiffer said. “We have more depth in all positions.”

Pfeiffer’s strength is expected to come in the form of sophomores Amy Byrnes, 5-9, and Jamie Barlow, 5-7, and freshmen Diane Adams, 5-9, and Barbara Holmes, 5-6, from Los Angeles.

ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

Sophomore Dave McCracken led the Mustangs with 19 rebounds and was the third leading scorer with 11 points, in the 67-59 loss to the Bakersfield Roadrunners on Jan. 4.

In the Jan. 6 loss to Fresno, McCracken tied for Mustang scoring honors with 10 points and led in rebounds with six.

Paterno honored

BAN FRANCISCO AP - Joe Paterno, who guided Penn State to an 11-1 regular season record before losing to Alabama in the Sugar Bowl, Thursday was named College Football Coach of the Year by the American Football Coaches Association.

The group, meeting in convention, gave Paterno the honor for the second time since he took over the top spot at Penn State following the resignation of Rip Issel.

“This is my most meaningful award,” Paterno said. “Coming from my fellow coaches, it has a great deal of significance for me.”

Paterno, whose unbeaten and top-ranked Nittany Lions were considered a shoo-in for the national championship before losing 14-7 to the Crimson Tide, said he favors deciding the national title on the field rather than through post-season polls.

He suggested that such a playoff would pit the winners of the Rose, Cotton, Sugar and Orange bowls in a semi-final round.

Both teams are expected to come in the form of Torrance Barron, 5-10, freshman from Canoga Park, and Barbara Holmes, 5-6, from Los Angeles.

“Torrance Barron is the team leader in the vaulting event,” Pfeiffer said.

Both girls are especially strong in the floor round competition.

Carew: ‘...good chance I’ll be in SF

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - American League batting champion Rod Carew said Wednesday, "There's a pretty good chance I'll be in a San Francisco Giants uniform next season."

But the Minnesota Twins star added at a news conference here that he has mixed feelings about a possible move between the California Angels and the Giants. "Carew said he would decide by this weekend whether to join the National League's Giants, the team which made a 520,000 offer for him last July."

The Giants are the only club in baseball which now has permission to talk to Carew, who has been in San Francisco since Monday night, looking over the city and talking to Giants players and officials. He is in the first year of his Twins contract, which would pay him $300,000 plus a $2,000,000 signing bonus in 1981 if he remains with the team through 1981 and 1982.

"I'm not interested in making outrageous money," said the 33-year-old batting star who turned down a five-year, $3 million offer from Twins owner Calvin Griffith. "A lot of us would like to make a lot of money, but the biggest thing in me is the enjoyment that comes from giving your best and hearing the appreciation of people," said Carew.

He added that the two major factors he'll consider before making a decision about San Francisco will be "whether I can come over here, and help the Giants win a pennant, and will it be happy in San Francisco."

Intercollegiate football playoffs favored but in '80

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Charlie McCord, head football coach at Louisiana State, says his colleagues will be "digging their own grave" if they adopt a proposed national championship football playoff.

"This is just Charlie McCord's view with his own team in mind," he said Tuesday during a break in the NCAA national convention. But I think it would be a mistake." Earlier this week, the NCAA executive committee met in session to discuss a possible playoff. It would involve four teams drawn from established bowl games and would replace the current bowl system after the second three-year deal expired in 1980.

"It really did surprise me that they would come up with this," said McCord. "I'm not interested in making outrageous money," said the 33-year-old batting star who turned down a five-year, $3 million offer from Twins owner Calvin Griffith. "A lot of us would like to make a lot of money, but the biggest thing in me is the enjoyment that comes from giving your best and hearing the appreciation of people," said Carew.

"I'm all for it," said Paterno, whose Nittany Lions lost to Alabama in the Sugar Bowl this year and lost a bid for the national championship. "Just think. We could be playing the Green Bay Packers as this Saturday, have a Super Saturday." He agreed a playoff system would add increased pressure to coaches but said, "I think most coaches like that kind of pressure."

Women, BB league

CITY basketball for women will begin soon and there are still some openings. The league is run by the San Luis Obispo Recreation Department and cost of the program is $15 per team. The fee covers costs of officials, scribes, and Player Medical Benefit Fund.

Taxes interested in paying can pay their fees and register at the Recreation Department office at City Hall from 8 a.m. to 12 noon and 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.
Smoking hazards evident

WASHINGTON (AP) — The surgeon general says he has "overwhelming" evidence that smoking causes death and disease. What he doesn’t say is how to help people stop.
Those were among the conclusions in a 1300-page report issued Thursday by Surgeon General Julius Richmond in a "review and reappraisal" of research accumulated over the past 15 years.

"This document reveals, with dramatic clarity, that smoking is even more dangerous than we thought it was supposed to be," said HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr.
But the report acknowledges that nothing has been uncovered in the past 15 years that makes it easier to quit smoking. One chapter concludes: "It is hoped that in another 15 years we will not have to say, 'We still don’t know what works.'"

Califano contended the report "demolishes" claims by cigarette manufacturers that there is no proven link between smoking and cancer and chronic diseases.

Court ruling
The state was 99-0 on SB 149, sponsored by the Senate Judiciary Committee, sending the bill to the Assembly. All members of the Senate, except one vacancy, voted for the bill.

"As a matter of fact, what this bill intends to do is treat the direct matter raised by the court decision itself," explained Sen. Jerry Smith, D-Roseburg, chairman of the committee.

In an interview on ABC-TV's "Good Morning America," Califano contended the report "demolishes" claims by cigarette manufacturers that there is no proven link between smoking and cancer and chronic diseases.

"In an interview on ABC-TV's "Good Morning America," Brown expanded on his endowment "statement" of a year ago, stressing that "there’s no such thing in California as a liberal or conservative governor."

But many of Brown’s comments appeared to be direct criticism of Carter, and tempo said it was up to the state to offer new leadership to the federal government.
