Free speech area limits are proposed

BY JEANETTE VAN BERKEL

A $1000 proposal to donate to a statewide program designed to encourage college students to vote was defeated by the Student Senate amid considerable debate Wednesday night.

A decision on the proposal was made when ASI President Dennis Hawk aired his disapproval of the Senate's decision not to donate money to the program.

A decision on the proposal was made when ASI President Dennis Hawk aired his disapproval of the Senate's decision not to donate money to the program. A $1000 proposal to donate to a statewide program designed to encourage college students to vote was defeated by the Student Senate amid considerable debate Wednesday night.

A decision on the proposal was made when ASI President Dennis Hawk aired his disapproval of the Senate's decision not to donate money to the program.
Tahoe storm kills 3, traps others
SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — Rescue workers on skis searched snow drifts and debris at a ski resort Thursday for up to seven people reported missing after a pair of avalanches that killed three people.

Four people were rescued after 12 feet of snow triggered the avalanches Wednesday. One of those rescued, John Riley, 74, said avalanches "had come down many times in the past, but not as bad as this."

After early morning dynamite blasts shook down loose snow that could cause more avalanches, 75 rescuers headed for the Alpine Meadows ski resort aboard snow tractors. They were forced off the slopes Wednesday night by blizzard conditions and the threat of more avalanches.

The official U.S. news agency said Reagan, in a news conference Wednesday, proclaimed his willingness to negotiate arms limitations as a tactic to defuse a growing anti-nuclear movement in the United States and Western Europe.

Reagan said strategic arms limitations talks could begin as early as this summer.

Money tight for Social Security
WASHINGTON (AP) — Social Security will be unable to pay survivors' and survivors' benefits on time starting in July 1983 unless Congress takes corrective action "in the very near future," the system's trustees said Thursday.

But the trustees, all members of President Reagan's Cabinet, made no recommendations for bolstering the system's sagging Old Age and Survivors Insurance Trust Fund. They said they were waiting for Reagan's National Commission on Social Security Reform to complete a report due by the end of this year.

The trustees forecast that beneficiaries will get a 7.6 percent benefit increase this July based on the consumer price index. Reagan has opposed congressional calls to reduce the size of that increase.

Despite benefit rate increases in 1981, "the short-range financial status is significantly worse than was estimated last year," the trustees said in their annual report to Congress.

"A series of economic downturns more severe than anticipated have led to the current financial crisis," said the trustees.

Tahoe storm kills 3, traps others
SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — Rescue workers on skis searched snow drifts and debris at a ski resort Thursday for up to seven people reported missing after a pair of avalanches that killed three people.

Four people were rescued after 12 feet of snow triggered the avalanches Wednesday. One of those rescued, John Riley, 74, said avalanches "had come down many times in the past, but not as bad as this."

After early morning dynamite blasts shook down loose snow that could cause more avalanches, 75 rescuers headed for the Alpine Meadows ski resort aboard snow tractors. They were forced off the slopes Wednesday night by blizzard conditions and the threat of more avalanches.

The official U.S. news agency said Reagan, in a news conference Wednesday, proclaimed his willingness to negotiate arms limitations as a tactic to defuse a growing anti-nuclear movement in the United States and Western Europe.

Reagan said strategic arms limitations talks could begin as early as this summer.

Money tight for Social Security
WASHINGTON (AP) — Social Security will be unable to pay survivors' and survivors' benefits on time starting in July 1983 unless Congress takes corrective action "in the very near future," the system's trustees said Thursday.

But the trustees, all members of President Reagan's Cabinet, made no recommendations for bolstering the system's sagging Old Age and Survivors Insurance Trust Fund. They said they were waiting for Reagan's National Commission on Social Security Reform to complete a report due by the end of this year.

The trustees forecast that beneficiaries will get a 7.6 percent benefit increase this July based on the consumer price index. Reagan has opposed congressional calls to reduce the size of that increase.

Despite benefit rate increases in 1981, "the short-range financial status is significantly worse than was estimated last year," the trustees said in their annual report to Congress.

"A series of economic downturns more severe than anticipated have led to the current financial crisis," said the trustees.

Money tight for Social Security
WASHINGTON (AP) — Social Security will be unable to pay survivors' and survivors' benefits on time starting in July 1983 unless Congress takes corrective action "in the very near future," the system's trustees said Thursday.

But the trustees, all members of President Reagan's Cabinet, made no recommendations for bolstering the system's sagging Old Age and Survivors Insurance Trust Fund. They said they were waiting for Reagan's National Commission on Social Security Reform to complete a report due by the end of this year.

The trustees forecast that beneficiaries will get a 7.6 percent benefit increase this July based on the consumer price index. Reagan has opposed congressional calls to reduce the size of that increase.

Despite benefit rate increases in 1981, "the short-range financial status is significantly worse than was estimated last year," the trustees said in their annual report to Congress.

"A series of economic downturns more severe than anticipated have led to the current financial crisis," said the trustees.
On Golden Pond: film portrays life as cyclic

BY BRIAN RAILSBACK

It's no surprise to anyone that life is a cycle, where films reflect on past success or failure. Sometimes there are moments when youth and age meet in passing, and each comes out the better for it. Such a moment occurs in On Golden Pond.

This movie treats youth and age with a new look at what homeworks are all about, and cruelty were treated with in a 17% turn of events. Out of the better for it.

But, of course, the greatest attributes are the performances of Henry Fonda and Katherine Hepburn. Fonda was named first Oscar Monday night for Best Actor, and Hepburn was chosen Best Actress. Both performers well-deserved the honors.

Playing the retired Norman Thayer Jr., who is in his eightieth summer, Fonda gives his character range between a crotchety "old poof" to a man morally afraid of what age is doing to him. As his wife, Ethyl, Hepburn deftly portrays a warm woman who gracefully faces Norman's fears and frustrations, as well as her daughter's destructive self-pity. Ethyl is a virtually unbeatable force that overcomes any situation.

Perhaps the best indicator of the talent of Fonda and Hepburn is that although they are famous, one soon forgets their identity as performers and becomes fully engrossed in the characters they portray.

Another impressive actor is a newcomer — Doug McKeon, who plays thirteen-year-old Billy Ray Jr. Billy is dumped on the Thayers at their summer cabin on Golden Pond for a month after his divorced father (Dabney Coleman) goes on a trip with the Thayer's daughter, Chelsea. Fonda's performance as the self-pitying daughter who feels her father neglected her is definite­ly the weakest in the film. At times her expressions seem forced and she tends to overact a bit, which is sharply con­trasted by the other performances.

Besides an outstanding script, and generally superb acting, On Golden Pond also includes some effective photography.

On Golden Pond is an often humorous, often sad film — an excellent example of an engaging movie that does not have to rely on special effects, sex or violence to capture an audience. The story stands for itself and involves themes that should be of interest to almost everyone.

Choir to perform at mission

The concluding concert of the Cal Poly University Singers' 13th annual California Missions tour will begin at 8 p.m. on Saturday, April 3, in Mission San Luis Obispo de Tolosa. The concert is the sixth performance in a tour that will see the 40-voice mixed choir appear in cities from San Miguel to San Diego. General admission tickets for the San Luis Obispo concert are priced at $4 for adults and $2 for students. They can be purchased at the Julian A. McPhee University Union ticket office on campus or at the Mission on the evening of the concert.
Highly praised symphony to play.

A concert benefiting the Cal Poly Symphony Band will be given by the University Wind Symphony of Cal State Long Beach, an award-winning ensemble whose music is heard on national radio and on international concert tours.

In the past six years, the wind symphony, under the conduction of Larry Curtis, has received almost every honor and recognition available to university bands.

The ensemble has also presented command performances at national conventions of music educators and its recordings are heard regularly on classical music radio and syndicated to such current classics as "Jimi Hendrix's Purple Haze," the Kronos Quartet, a string quartet from San Francisco who have appeared at Carnegie Hall and NBC's Today Show. They recently returned from their second European tour and plans for a third trip are underway.

Much of the pieces the quartet plays -- 120 works -- were introduced for the first time by Kronos. The works are often written specifically for them.

The Kronos performers have appeared at Carnegie Hall and NBC's Today Show. They recently returned from their second European tour and plans for a third trip are underway.

Playing works ranging from Beethoven and Bach to such current classics as Jimi Hendrix's 'Purple Haze,' the Kronos Quartet, a string quartet from San Francisco will appear at Cal Poly Theatre tonight at 8 p.m.

Internationally recognized, the Kronos Quartet plays Baroque and Romantic period music like other chamber groups, but uniquely adds 20th century music from living composers to their repertoire. The ensemble has also presented command performances at national conventions of music educators and its recordings are heard regularly on classical music radio and syndicated.

The concert is being sponsored by the School of Communication Arts and Humanities, the Music Department and by the ASI.

U.U. ticket office and by members of Cal Poly's Symphony Band.

Tickets are priced at $8 for general admission and $1.50 for students. They are being sold at Premise Music, Castle Music, the U.U. ticket office and by members of Cal Poly's Symphony Band.

Playing works ranging from Beethoven and Bach to such current classics as Jimi Hendrix's 'Purple Haze,' the Kronos Quartet, a string quartet from San Francisco will appear at Cal Poly Theatre tonight at 8 p.m.

Internationally recognized, the Kronos Quartet plays Baroque and Romantic period music like other chamber groups, but uniquely adds 20th century music from living composers to their repertoire. The ensemble has also presented command performances at national conventions of music educators and its recordings are heard regularly on classical music radio and syndicated.

The concert is being sponsored by the School of Communication Arts and Humanities, the Music Department and by the ASI.

U.U. ticket office and by members of Cal Poly's Symphony Band.

Tickets are priced at $8 for general admission and $1.50 for students. They are being sold at Premise Music, Castle Music, the U.U. ticket office and by members of Cal Poly's Symphony Band.

Playing works ranging from Beethoven and Bach to such current classics as Jimi Hendrix's 'Purple Haze,' the Kronos Quartet, a string quartet from San Francisco will appear at Cal Poly Theatre tonight at 8 p.m.

Internationally recognized, the Kronos Quartet plays Baroque and Romantic period music like other chamber groups, but uniquely adds 20th century music from living composers to their repertoire. The ensemble has also presented command performances at national conventions of music educators and its recordings are heard regularly on classical music radio and syndicated.

The concert is being sponsored by the School of Communication Arts and Humanities, the Music Department and by the ASI.

U.U. ticket office and by members of Cal Poly's Symphony Band.

Tickets are priced at $8 for general admission and $1.50 for students. They are being sold at Premise Music, Castle Music, the U.U. ticket office and by members of Cal Poly's Symphony Band.

Playing works ranging from Beethoven and Bach to such current classics as Jimi Hendrix's 'Purple Haze,' the Kronos Quartet, a string quartet from San Francisco will appear at Cal Poly Theatre tonight at 8 p.m.

Internationally recognized, the Kronos Quartet plays Baroque and Romantic period music like other chamber groups, but uniquely adds 20th century music from living composers to their repertoire. The ensemble has also presented command performances at national conventions of music educators and its recordings are heard regularly on classical music radio and syndicated.

The concert is being sponsored by the School of Communication Arts and Humanities, the Music Department and by the ASI.
Officials say proposals will not limit free speech

From page 1

"CAM has given us very little guidance concerning the two free speech areas at Poly," said Wallace. "The students here have access to Dexter lawn and the U.U. Plaza, but for some-where who walk onto campus with something to say, the rules are very vague."

Wallace said the proposal would let the campus with something on what can be said,
"it's not any restric-
the U.U. Plaza, but for so-
"CA M has given us very

The Public Safety Office

"W e'D take in all recom-

Rev sharing may be cut

From page 1

- $500 was removed from the ASI contingency fund, for a total of $500. Such a deci-

Forms.

Hawk, who approves of the elimination of general revenue sharing, said he would be happy with a Senate decision to donate the $255 left in that fund along with $245 from the contingency fund, for a total of $500. Such a decision may be made if the Senate first agrees to stop the general revenue sharing practice next week.

gets yours before you need It.

sponsored by

REBEL

James Dean
...on Ilm Stock
what made him tick
...like a bomb
Natelle Wood
Sal Mineo

Monday, April 5 7:15 and 9:30 p.m.
Chumash Auditorium
Admission $1.00
Sponsored by
Fremont Hall

Based on your registration fees

-Basic Services: paid by
-Pharmaceutical Services
-Physician and Nursing Services
-Pharmacy Services
-Physician and Nursing Services
-Pharmacy Services
-Physician and Nursing Services
-Pharmacy Services

-HEALTH CARD SERVICE
(paid by an optional fee)

-Payment for this expensive prepa
-plan entitles you to the following services
-at NO CHARGE:

Campus Hospital
24-Hour Emergency Service
Preventive Oral Health Program
Required Physical Examinations
Allergy Shots
Authorized Ambulance Service

"I thought I wouldn't need a health card, either!"

Get yours before you need it.
Available at the State
Cashier or Health Center
STUDENT HEALTH SERVICES
STUDENT AFFAIRS DIVISION

"and those from the ad hoc committee look like a positive step."
Barclay said he hopes to have the final free speech recommendations completed by June.
Mustang spikers preparing for Northridge assault

"It will be a war!"

To say that Mustang volleyball coach Craig Cummings is mildly enthusiastic about tonight's showdown with Cal State Northridge is an understatement. The two teams are about as comparable on the court as Billy Martin is with marshmallow salesman.

The unfriendliness between the two traditional rivals will be worsened because first place in the California Collegiate Athletic Association is on the line, and a large, volatile crowd is expected to fill the main gym. The bad blood is scheduled to begin flowing at 7:30.

Both squads have one loss in conference action, with the Matadors getting upset by third-place UC-San Diego early in the season, and the Mustangs bowing to Northridge three weeks ago in the San Fernando Valley. The Mustangs' van broke down on the way to Northridge, causing the team to arrive in the gym 20 minutes before game time and allowing 35 minutes for warmups. The Matadors were gracious enough to allow the Mustangs five extra minutes to prepare for the match. Poly lost in four sets.

"The match for the players is a big emotional thing. It's a very big rivalry. All you have to do is play Northridge and they get psyched up," said Cummings.

The Mustangs, 15-7 overall after losing three of their last five games, still have to tangle with UC San Diego next week before the conference title will be decided. But as Cummings said, "This is a must-win game for us, if we don't win this, it will be pretty tough for us to win league."

Since the Matadors took their home match with the Mustangs, Cummings said that the Poly fans will be counted on being just as hospitable as the Northridge fans.

"If we have a pretty good crowd, it always helps," he said. "People always show up for these matches. Both teams are equal in every respect. We always have disadvantages that usually go five games. The home crowd always helps you get psyched up."

As usual, the Mustangs will be led by outside hitters Scott Terry and Ross Bird and middle blocker Tim Toon. All three had what Cummings called "great matches" against powerful USC two weeks ago.

Because of the defensive skills of the three and of the team in general, Cummings is expecting a tactical, controlled game with Northridge, another defensive team. And according to the coach, the fans in the past don't seem to mind.

"I had Santa Clara games, we got good responses from the home fans, and good digs. Since neither team has a block, there will be a lot of good digs."

The Mustangs travel to Berkeley Saturday night to rematch with the Golden Bears, who lost in four sets to Poly in early March.

Chapman in for three

The Mustangs baseball team, losers of their last four, will attempt to sneak back into the California Collegiate Athletic Association title hunt as they host Chapman College for three games this weekend.

The games originally scheduled for Friday and Saturday at San Luis Obispo Stadium were rescheduled for a 1 p.m. Saturday doubleheader and a 1 p.m. Sunday solo clash at Poly Field since SLO Stadium has a drainage system similar to the Pacific Ocean. In other words, it doesn't.

Even though the Mustangs are in sixth place in the six-team conference, they've only three games behind front-runner Cal State Northridge. The Mustangs, 5-7 in CCAA play, lost three games to the 7-0 Matadors two weeks ago. UC Riverside is in second place with a 6-4 mark, a game behind Northridge, and Chapman is a game back of the Highlanders with its 6-6 record.

The first time the Mustangs faced Chapman this season, they erupted for 10 runs in the first inning in Orange. Somehow, they still managed to lose, 14-13. The teams meet in a doubleheader the next day.
The women are coming off a strong showing in the Golden Bear Meet of Champions, where the Mustangs competed against Tennessee, Stanford, Oregon, Washington, BYU, and the host school, California. The Mustangs set five school records in the meet, including shattering the old mark in both relays.

San Luis Obispo graduate Kathy Kahn destroyed her old school mark in the discus, tossing it 144 1/4 inches and finishing 15th in the 31-competitor field. She set the old mark of 138 6 inches earlier this season.

The other new school standard was Eloise Mallory's win in the 400. Mallory finished in 54.59 to win the third section.
Letters

Laws aren't always right

Editor:

I feel compelled to respond to a recent article by a Mustang Daily writer I believe wasplsmitted to an opinion on the Human Life Amendment here at Cal Poly. Although I was unable to attend, I was extremely bothered by the fact that the entire panel was pro-abortion. I would like to address some specific points that were brought up in the article that were not mentioned in the article in hopes that people will give some serious thought to a proper kind of attitude toward these laws.

First of all, the article stated that the panel of speakers agreed that women have the right to choose an abortion. I would like to ask people to think about the philosophy behind this statement. Very sadly, pro-abortionists are setting new standards on the value of human life. They seem to think that human life only has worth if it is not inconvenient to their ideas about what our society should be. In this way, they are rejecting the very human rights that we as Americans hold dear.

In addition, tradition was used as a platform in support of abortion by another panel member. She explained that abortion has been the most widespread mode of birth control for centuries. This is true, but it does not prove that abortion is the right choice for everyone.

Finally, I would like to urge those who think abortion is wrong to voice their opinions. Sometimes you hear about politicians who say they are personally opposed to abortion but don't feel they have the right to impose their opinions on others. Theirs is a valid opinion, but it is not an opinion that we can impose on others. Our society is based on the principle of freedom of speech, and we should not be afraid to express our opinions.

Unplanned children are often the victims of child neglect and child abuse. It is a call to action for society to take responsibility for the lives of these children.

Lisa Lusby

Intelectual honesty

Editor:

Academic reasoning is interesting!

A course entitled "Synthesis on Evolution/Creation" is being offered by Cal Poly Extension in the Spring. It progresses to intellectually examine the arguments, both pro and con, concerning the subject matter, especially as it relates to the Bible—A Bible verse being used to begin each session.

A casual examination of the speakers appears to reveal only opponents to the Bible position—no proponents. No one dedicated to the defense of "Creation is the Bible sense," only to the destruction of that position—academic logic?

Will such an approach lay to rest, at last, all honest intellectual doubts concerning "Evolution/Creation"?

There are scientists and/or fundamentalist pastors available to test the validity of the logic of these speakers. But possibly "loud dogmatism" is the qualification required for a presentation, not "intellectual dedication and honesty".

Paul Knaus

Editor:

Academic reasoning is interesting!

A course entitled "Synthesis on Evolution/Creation" is being offered by Cal Poly Extension in the Spring. It progresses to intellectually examine the arguments, both pro and con, concerning the subject matter, especially as it relates to the Bible—A Bible verse being used to begin each session.

A casual examination of the speakers appears to reveal only opponents to the Bible position—no proponents. No one dedicated to the defense of "Creation is the Bible sense," only to the destruction of that position—academic logic?

Will such an approach lay to rest, at last, all honest intellectual doubts concerning "Evolution/Creation"?

There are scientists and/or fundamentalist pastors available to test the validity of the logic of these speakers. But possibly "loud dogmatism" is the qualification required for a presentation, not "intellectual dedication and honesty".

Paul Knaus

Letters

Senior project troubles

Dear Editor:

I like many others have worked long and hard on my senior project. After many meetings with my advisor and I agreed that it was ready. A typist supplied me with the finished product and I was full of smiles as I turned it in to my advisor.

At that time I again like many others had a list of specifications which had to be met, including where to put page numbers, margin sizes, etc. I was also informed that I must pay $6.00 for microfiching. These specifications would not have been mentioned.

Dear Editor:

I like many others have worked long and hard on my senior project. After many meetings with my advisor and I agreed that it was ready. A typist supplied me with the finished product and I was full of smiles as I turned it in to my advisor.

At that time I again like many others had a list of specifications which had to be met, including where to put page numbers, margin sizes, etc. I was also informed that I must pay $6.00 for microfiching. These specifications would not have been mentioned.

Dear Editor:

I like many others have worked long and hard on my senior project. After many meetings with my advisor and I agreed that it was ready. A typist supplied me with the finished product and I was full of smiles as I turned it in to my advisor.

At that time I again like many others had a list of specifications which had to be met, including where to put page numbers, margin sizes, etc. I was also informed that I must pay $6.00 for microfiching. These specifications would not have been mentioned.

Dear Editor:

I like many others have worked long and hard on my senior project. After many meetings with my advisor and I agreed that it was ready. A typist supplied me with the finished product and I was full of smiles as I turned it in to my advisor.

At that time I again like many others had a list of specifications which had to be met, including where to put page numbers, margin sizes, etc. I was also informed that I must pay $6.00 for microfiching. These specifications would not have been mentioned.