Congress to address the in-
by ASI vice-president regarding free speech was musique resembles reggae and includes subgroups. First there is Ska. This believes the term "new wave" is anti-approval at next week's the Senate also approved week concerning the 1983-long and fast. Black Flag, Fear and the represent a more aggressive style, Charles Degroot said there has been a take advantage of the 9 to 10 p.m.
stuff and we're trying new things," said
"The music is better, more refin-and groups such as the Clash, the Call sent this style.
"New wave could be anything, now. I Majority of people want a variety of musick and most of the exotic attire has disap-but now, said Degroot, the new wave New Wave Night used to attract a more local crowd, many dressed up as it in Halloween. The outfits were bizarre with skinny sunglasses and ties
The new music television station M-has influenced what is requested and played at New Wave Night.
"I'd say that 90 percent of requests are from M-TV," said Degroot, "but we played a lot of the same music before anyone else had M-TV."
The most requested song at New Wave night is "What I Like About
You" by the Romantics.
"Everybody likes it and it's fun to dance to," said Degroot.
Music isn't the only thing that has changed at the Graduate on Wednesday nights.
New Wave Night used to attract a more local crowd, many dressed up as if it were Halloween. The outfits were bizarre with skinny sunglasses and ties to the norm.

Graduate patrons dress up and 'get down' during New Wave night.

Ska, punk and funk: the music endures
by Karen Riccio

Three whole years!
And some said it wouldn't last.
But here it is, 1983, and the Graduate's zany, wacky, pulsating New Wave Night is alive and well on the central coast entertainment scene.
Every Wednesday night, groups, singles and sometimes even head to head in an Industri-Way to listen to the music and to take advantage of the 9 to 10 p.m.
happy hour with 93 cent mixed drinks and $1.50 pitchers of beer.
The 93 cent drinks are in coordination with K202.93 who sponsors the night.
After three years, however. New Wave Night has lost much of its novelty and so has the term which encompasses many different types of music.
When New Wave Night was first introduced, the music played leaned towards punk but now a more European influence has changed the selection.
Disc jockey and Graduate manager Charles Degroot said there has been a change for the better.
The music is better, more refined. We've played a lot of punk, some cheap stuff and we're trying new things," said
"The music is better, more refined...we're trying new things."

Rob Dubois, a 22-year-old Cuesta student and Wednesday night regular, believes the term "new wave" is antiquated. The more appropriate term, said Dubois, is "new music."
New music can be divided into subgroups. First there is Ska. This music focuses more on reggae and includes groups like The English Beat, The Specials, The Beat and many others.
Another category is punk. Punk represents a more aggressive style, short hair and Black Flag, Fear and the Dead Kennedys fall into this category. Then there is rockabilly. The Blasters and Red Devils, who recently played at Poly, along with the Stray Cats, represent this style.
Punk is another subgroup of new music. It is a technopop style of music and groups such as the Clash, The Call and Talking Heads are punk.
Degroot has trouble defining just what new wave music is.
"New wave could be anything, now. I just try to play what the people want, but I do try to stay away from the off-the-wall stuff. You can only do so many songs that will blast your ears off," said Degroot.
The new music television station M-TV has influenced what is requested and played at New Wave Night.
"I'd say that 90 percent of requests are from M-TV," said Degroot, "but we played a lot of the same music before anyone else had M-TV."
The most requested song at New Way night is "What I Like About
You" by the Romantics.
"Everybody likes it and it's fun to
dance to," said Degroot.
Music isn't the only thing that has changed at the Graduate on Wednesday
nights.
New Wave Night used to attract a more local crowd, many dressed up as if it were Halloween. The outfits were bizarre with skinny sunglasses and ties to the norm.

The bottom line is that when I need someone to work, I want someone I can trust," Jacobs said.
Both of Jacobs' superiors, Jan Duron, accounting assistant, and Steve Adams, assistant director for ASI, agreed that Jacobs has all the hiring and firing

Senate discusses budget
by Mary Hennessy

The ASI Student Senate passed a resolution April 27 urging Congress to address how the nation's tax structure favors students who rely on public assistance over those who rely on employment to pay for their education.
During a four hour and fifty five minute meeting, the Senate also approved appeals to be heard next week concerning the 1983-1984 ASI budget. The Campus Administrative
Manual section 700 policy regarding free speech was also largely discussed.
Both the ASI budget and CAM 700 are subject to approval at next week's meeting.
Resolution 83-25, written by ASI vice-president
Kevin Moses and 1981-
1982 ASI President Dennis Hawk, states that "the ASI Student Senate urges Congress to address the inability of students to deduct educational and living expenses from their taxable income."
"It's just a matter that students who are given loans are given highly preferential treatment over those working their way through school," said Moses. "We want the legislature to address the whole issue of taxation of students."
The resolution was approved unanimously.
The $1,276,619 ASI budget, up for final approval at next week's meeting, was discussed, adding several appeals to be further discussed next week. Possible transfers of funds as results of appeals are:
$112 from the Student Duplication Fund to the School of Science and Mathematics Council $845 from the Rose Float Construction Funds to the School of Architecture and Environmental Design Council, with the stipulation that the Rose Float funds be sought from the University Planning Commission.
$900 from the ASI contribution to IRA to the Cal Poly Pep Band.
$3,000 from the Vehicle
Replacement Reserve to the Student Relation Board for the purpose of creating information booklets about Cal Poly and the community to be distributed during WOW week.
Also added was the formation of an Intramurals reserve fund.
The CAM 700 policy regarding free speech on campus was also discussed. Harvey Greenwald, chairman of the task force that revised the manual, expressed his views on free speech.
"Free speech is a necessity," he said. "It's not free, it comes in a Pandora's Box. Life is easier if you don't allow free speech."

Favoritism charged in UU hiring
by Linda Reiff

The University Union Box Office ticket sales manager, who supervises a staff of 14 to 20 people and a payroll budget of approximately $13,000, has denied that his system of hiring shows favoritism towards one Cal Poly fraternity.
Mike Jacobs, a fourth year industrial technology major, took over the position of ticket sales manager at the beginning of the winter quarter. Jacobs replaced Gary Pfieffer, who ran the ticket booth for two years.
Jacobs, Pfieffer and all four men on the spring staff are members of Delta Sigma Phi. At least two of the ten women on the spring staff are "little sisters" for the fraternity.
The winter staff consisted of six men, all affiliated with Delta Sigma Phi, and ten women, at least two of whom were little sisters.
This information was discovered after the Mustang Daily received a complaint from a student who applied for a position at the ticket booth. The student claimed to be qualified for a position, but was told that no openings were available. Later, a member of the fraternity was added to the staff.
Jacobs said he hired two to four people, and that others are used in special situations.
He said he made his selections not be-based on the people who were in Delta Sigma Phi, but because they were people he could count on.
The bottom line is that when I need someone to work, I want someone I can trust," Jacobs said.
Both of Jacobs' superiors, Jan Duron, accounting assistant, and Steve Adams, assistant director for ASI, agreed that Jacobs has all the hiring and firing
Defense analyst sells secrets

WASHINGTON (AP)—A federal grand jury charg­ed a former Defense Department intelligence analyst Thursday with selling, for $32,000, secret U.S. reports about the Middle East to Libya and ex-CIA Agent Ed­win P. Wilson.

Waldo H. Dubberstein, 75, who retired as a Middle East specialist for the Defense Intelligence Agency in March, 1982, was named in a seven-count indictment returned in U.S. District Court.

He was charged with bribery, conspiracy to defraud the government, disclosure of classified and top-secret information and concealing his alleged Libyan contacts from Pentagon security officers.

Dubberstein is the first person charged in the Wilson affair for actions taken while he was employed by the U.S. government.

The grand jury said Dubberstein traveled secretly to Tripoli, Libya, under an assumed name in the spring of 1978 where he allegedly met four or five times with Li­byan intelligence officers to discuss the deployment of military forces in the Middle East.

Also in this period, Wilson was hiding out from U.S. authorities in Libya. Last summer, Wilson was hired back by U.S. prosecutors and has twice been convicted in the federal courts of smuggling arms to Libya.

The indictment, quoting Defense Department regulations, said his position was designated "critical sensitive," which means that he "could bring about...a material adverse effect on the national security.

WANTED

The University Union Board of Governors is cur­rently recruiting membership for next year's Board. The Board is looking for hard working, concerned students who would like to get in­volved and gain valuable experience through involvement in student government.

UUBG consists of a handful of students, facul­ty, staff, and alumni whose job it is to set policy for the operation and management of the University Union.

There are a variety of one and two positions with 4 or 5 alternative positions. Applications are available at the UUI Information Desk and the ASI Officer's office UU 217A.

Nica­raguan policies queried

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Intelligence Committee will vote to ban covert military operations in Nicaragua despite President Reagan's appeal for Congress to rally behind his Central America policies, the panel's chairman said Thursday.

But the committee, meeting less than 24 hours after the president's speech to a joint session of the House and Senate, put off its decision at Tuesday's session to pass a proposal to terminate funds for such covert activity in 45 days. The measure would substitute a program to openly help friendly nations in the region to halt leftist gun-running.

Reagan, meanwhile, named former Sen. Richard Stone, D-Fla., to be his special envoy to Central America.

The president, announcing the nomination in the White House briefing room, told reporters he was not troubled by Stone's prior contacts with Guatemala, a major source of criticism against him. "It just adds to the experience he's had down there," Reagan said.

The grand jury said Dubberstein traveled secretly to Tripoli, Libya, under an assumed name in the spring of 1978 where he allegedly met four or five times with Li­byan intelligence officers to discuss the deployment of military forces in the Middle East. The Middle East.

Also in this period, Wilson was hiding out from U.S. authorities in Libya. Last summer, Wilson was hired back by U.S. prosecutors and has twice been convicted in the federal courts of smuggling arms to Libya.

The indictment, quoting Defense Department regulations, said his position was designated "critical sensitive," which means that he "could bring about...a material adverse effect on the national security.

Landslide buries Ecuadorians

QUITO, Ecuador (AP)—A landslide nearly one-third of a mile long slammed into the Pan American Highway in central Ecuador, burying as many as 150 people, authorities said Thursday. Thirty people were listed as confirmed dead.

Rescue officials said at least seven vehicles, in­cluding four buses, were buried under the mud and rocks that poured across the highway.

The slide, triggered by torrential rains and the flooding of the river Chunchi, rumbled down the Andes mountainside about 9 a.m. Wednesday.

More than a day later, authorities said they had recovered 30 bodies, and brigades of soldiers, firemen and police still were pulling victims from the rubble.

Authorities said at least 120 more people were believed buried in the mud and rocks, but declined to comment on newspaper reports that the death toll could reach 200.

Bands, BBQ raise funds

A barbeque and concert to benefit the Cal Poly Band and the Cal Poly Poultry Club will be held Sunday, May 1, from noon to 6 p.m. at the Sands Motel, 1930 Monterey St.

Hosting the event will be motel owner Jesse Norris, with all proceeds from the event being earmarked for the band's projected two-week concert tour of Switzerland and the Poultry Club's tour of Hawaii this summer.

The 60-member band, under the direction of William V. Johnson, a member of the Cal Poly Music Depart­ment faculty, has been invited to represent the U.S. at the prestigious Festival of Geneva in August.

Cost for the ticket is $100.00. $20.00 of this charged. The band has scheduled a series of fund raisers of which the barbeque/concert is one.

Cost for the event is $8 with tickets going on sale April 1. They will be available at the ticket office in the Julian McNee University Union, the Sands Motel, the Chamber of Commerce office and Premier Music Co. in San Luis Obispo, from any Cal Poly Band member, and from any member of the Cal Poly Poultry Club.

The barbeque menu will include chicken, chili beans, sausages, fresh bread, and beverage.

The musical portion of the afternoon event will start with performances by the Cal Poly Symphonic Band, Wind Ensemble, Studio Band, Brass Quintet, and Percussion Ensemble.

Field Service Engineers/ Operations Management

Add our computer-controlled business communications training to your technical skills in this challenging position involving the repair, maintenance and preventative maintenance of ROLM's installed systems.

We're looking for customer-oriented graduates trained in a strong EE, ET or CS curriculum to be the prime interface with our customers after product in­stallation. Positions are available in a variety of regions. With your business sense and ability to relate to people, you will be ROLM to our customers, en­suring customer satisfaction and identifying opportunities for improvement in a demanding customer environment.

This kind of customer service is the hallmark of ROLM. If you'd like to explore a career in operations management with us, please contact us.

ON-CAMPUS INTERVIEWS

Tuesday, May 3

Contact your Placement Center for an appointment and literature.

If unable to attend our interview session, please forward your resume to Judy S. Dow, Personnel Manager, Mail Stop 105, ROLM Corporation, 4900 Old Stoneridge Drive, San Jose, CA 95050. We are an equal oppor­tunity/affirmative action employer.

Attorney General visits San Luis Obispo

Attorney General (With Your Engagement Consultation)

DeBeers

A FREE GIFT FROM

The Gem Broker

and

The Gem Broker

(With Your Engagement Consultation)

Monday: Hours thru Saturday 11-4
Or By Appointment 772-1003
3118 N. Main; Morro Bay

FOCUS ON IN FLYING!

You say you'd like to fly but your eyes prevent you? We can guarantee you aviation training if you qualify.

The Navy is looking for highly motivated juniors and seniors to fly in tactical aircraft.

Sound too good to be true? The Navy Officer Information Team will be on campus May 25. For details call the Placement Center or call toll-free 800-252-0559.
Former trackster returns to sports—in wheelchair

by Nancy Stringer
Staff Writer

Rory Cooper was pronounced dead at a German hospital. A story in the local paper said he died from injuries received in the accident.

But Rory Cooper didn’t die. In fact, he was released from the hospital four months after the accident and registered for school three weeks after that.

The accident happened three years ago when Cooper was stationed with the Army in Germany. He was riding his bicycle in a bike lane when a city bus abruptly pulled away from the curb and struck him on the right side. This caused him to lose control of the bike and sent him into oncoming traffic.

The truck ran over his chest. Cooper said, breaking all his ribs, both hips, and his shoulder blade and collarbone. His left lung was crushed and his right lung was partially collapsed. Every internal organ except his heart was damaged. His spinal cord was broken, leaving him paralyzed below the waist.

Cooper, a junior in electrical engineering, said injuries that extensive usually require a one-year hospitalization. Asked how he managed a release after four months Cooper said, “I couldn’t stand it in there!” And as soon as he was healthy enough he started training for wheelchair sports.

Track is Cooper’s first love. He was on the track team at San Luis Obispo High School and later made the Army track team.

While in Europe with the Army in 1979, Cooper said, he competed in several championship races. At the U.S. Army Championships in Germany he placed third in the 3,000-kilometer and the 10,000-kilometer races. He competed in two marathons that same year, placing fourth in one and fifth in the other.

Cooper still competes in track events, but he no longer calls himself a runner.

“Now I’m a pusher,” he joked.

That epithet applies to more than Cooper’s status as a wheelchair athlete. It describes his ability to achieve. Not only has he consistently placed in the top three in every wheelchair track event he’s entered recently, but he is also the driving force behind the Tri-City Wheelchair Track Meet.

Cooper, who organized the meet held at Cal Poly April 2, said next year it will be expanded.

“Competitors can set official records and qualify times,” he said. “That should draw national competitors to the meet.”

A national competitor to the meet, Cooper said, “is just found out that he qualified for the National Wheelchair Athletic Association Games to be held June 15 to 19 at the University of Honolulu.”

He added that students on the Poly track team are planning a raffle for the end of May to raise money for his airfare. When track season is over, Cooper participates in other recreational activities organized specifically for disabled students through the Recreational Sports Office.

Please see page 4
From page 1

power for ticket sellers.

However, neither knew that so many were members of his fraternity.

"I think it's because he knows the people and he knows they can be trusted, since there's so much money being handled," Duron said.

Adams said he hired Jacobs, but did not know anything about who Jacobs hires.

"He Jacob's hired for a position in the job placement center. Students fill out applications, and then he conducts interviews. He selects those with the most experience," Adams said.

However, people that Jacobs hired for Poly Royal did not have to go through the interviewing process.

"A couple of people I hired just for Poly Royal at the last minute. They were people that I knew and I could trust. They did fill out applications," Jacobs said.

He explained that conducting interviews of all the applicants "would be wasting my time as well as theirs.

Jacobs said these people will probably not work again, unless he needs them for special occasions.

"I keep people on in case I need them again. They are 'chuch' people," he said.

One of the people Jacobs hired in a "chuch" position was a "friend of a guy that works for me," he said.

"I needed someone, so at the last minute I called him.

When asked if this was fair to the approximately 30 people who fill out applications each quarter, Jacobs said, "I can understand if someone is upset. But I do give a fair shot."

Jacobs said he hires people he knows "because I can tell them as a friend, 'Hey, can you do this for me?'

"Jacobs said that only seven of the spring employees actually work the main shift in the box of­ fee, and only two of those "could be associated with the fraternity." The rest are used to fill in, or for special events.

"Jacobs' and the ticket sellers' salary is funded through ASI. Jacobs' starting wage was $4.50 per hour and the sellers start at minimum wage.

Wolfgang Mozart is coming to town—sing to the tune of Saint Claus is coming to town. Unfortunately, like Santa, Mozart will not show up personally but will be honored by his own festival—this Sunday 1:30 to 5 p.m. at Martin Brothers Winery in Paso Robles.

But Mozart is not all you'll get at this year's festival. Sure there will be chamber music performed by the Cal Poly String Quartet and the ever present Festival Brass Ensemble (Tony Fogg, Jerry Boots, Jane Swanson and Doug Lexewy). But the festival will also have the popular sound of the San Luis based Segnisan Trio who will play and sing their distinctive style of upbeat music. And folk singers Hobbs and Green will entertain with music from their original material as well as songs from other folk musicians such as The Beatles, Simon and Garfunkel and Bob Dylan.

Several wines from Martin Brothers will be available for tasting at the festival.

Cheese, nuts and crackers will accompany the tasting and guests will receive a commemorative wine glass.

An Iowa Style Picnic will add to the taste delights of the afternoon. A beef barbecue, fruit sticks and a wide variety of desserts (apple pie, rhubarb pie, cobblers, and California lemon pie) will all be available at a moderate price. And Old Time Country Patio Punch will be offered at no charge.

The afternoon will include an exhibit and sale of uni­ quests crafted by local artisans and conclude with drawings for door prizes. All of these will be framed by the pleasures of an afternoon with friends and the backdrops of spring time only in the North Bay.

Benefit tickets cost $10 per person and are available at Chicory Sales, Volumes of Pleasure in Los Osos, Santa Barbara Savings in Cambria and the Oak Cupboard in Paso Robles. Tickets will include directions to Martin Brothers.

Grad to host Scandal

The band Scandal will perform Sunday, May 1 at 2 p.m. at the Graduate. Tickets are $7.50 in advance and $8.50 at the door and are available at Boo Boo Records and Cheep Thrills in San Luis Obispo.

Remedies will be the opening act. The door opens at 8 p.m.

From page 3

minder of spring quarter are bowling, archery, horseshoes, racquetball, swimming, dominos and chess.

Denny Byrnes, director of recreational sports, said about 150 disabled students and faculty would participate in the program each year. He said he hopes more of the disabled population on campus will take advantage of the ac­ activities available to them.

More specific information on the various activities is available in the Recreational Sports Office, located across from El Corral Bookstore. The office numbers are 546-1300, or can call the Recreational Hotline, 546-1477.

\2 FREE

DRINKS

with purchase of any size

WOODSTOCK PIZZA!

541-4420

1015 Court Street, S.L.O.

(one coupon per purchase)

2 FREE
New Wave draws the crowds

Boppin' till you drop!

From page 1

Even though the music and people have changed, the reasons for going have not. The combination of atmosphere and good dancing music seems to be the number one draw. Others go to experience something out of the ordinary.

They come to the Graduate to play a game outside of their own lifestyles, so it's alright to stretch the rules and really go for it," said Dubois.

One unidentified dancer dressed in a miniskirt leaned over and said, "I never dress like this. I just thought I'd come out and see what went on."

She wasn't the only one in a miniskirt. Short looks like it's back in style—in hair and dress.

The guys wore everything from conservative football shirts and shorts to sleeveless T-shirts with skinny, black ties. But most stuck to levis and button-down shirts.

This Wednesday night was like the others. Before 10 p.m. most people played pool, video games and took advantage of the cheap drinks. But at 10 the 32 multi-colored flashing lights came on.

Degroot sat in his booth and dancing began on the central coast's largest dance floor.

The first couple pranced onto the floor and were followed immediately by others with heads bopping up and down and bodies swinging wildly. "There was a looseness on the dance floor and most dances were casual and unstructured.

Because of the success of New Wave Night, one would think that the Graduate makes a profit but, Degroot said, "even though they've been averaging 400 people on Wednesdays, people don't drink nearly as much as on Friday or Saturday nights.

Whatever music is associated with the term "new wave" it is here to stay and so is New Wave Night at the Graduate—maybe for another three years!

A happy partyer celebrates New Wave night at the Graduate.

Belgian Waffles!

new at the Meat Market!

served anytime

$ 89 plain or

$ 1.89 with toppings

Blueberry, Strawberry, Peach, Apple, or mixed fruit, with whipped cream of course!

Meat Market

714 Higuera

Open Mon. - Sat. 7 am-9 pm

Sun. 8 am - 5 pm

Restaurant

Entertainment

Guide

Flashdance

(R) 7:00 pm

Monday Nite

All Seals $2.

967 Osos St. SLO

544-1116

The Best of British Ska...

DANCE CRAZE

Showtime

7:00 & 9:00 pm

The Outsiders

(PG) 7:00-9:00

The Outsiders

(PG) 7:00-9:00

Free munchies during Happy Hour!

Now we have two great Happy Hours!

Free chips & salsa plus free appetizers

Mon.-Fri. 4-6

 Thurs. Sat. 10-12 p.m.

Free chips & salsa plus free appetizers, plus great drink prices:

$1.25 well drinks

$1.25 Margaritas

$1.75 $2.00 blue devils

$2.00 BACARDI SOURS

Across from the Courthouse
Bad breaks force tennis dynamic duo to be split

While Mimi McAfee watches...

Wildlife Club sponsors hunter safety courses

A hunter safety course will be held beginning Sunday, May 1 at Cal Poly. The course, sponsored by the Wildlife Club, will be taught in Fisher Science Room 287 from noon to 5 p.m. and will continue Sunday, May 8.

The course is designed to help potential hunters pass their test for hunting licenses. Geoff Malloway, a senior natural resources management major and an area hunting safety instructor, will head the course. He has held similar courses before on campus, about once a quarter, but few people have known about them.

Part of the reason for the low turnout, he said, is people's misconceptions about the course content, which deals with proper firearm and archery care and wildlife management. Malloway said people think the class only teaches how to use guns.

"I don't teach people how to hunt, but how to go about it safely," he said.

Bad breaks force tennis dynamic duo to be split

by Teresa Mariani

It was like breaking up Laurel and Hardy, or Red and Newman. Cal Poly doubles players Kathleen Kerwin and Mimi McAfee had one of the winningest partnerships around. Since the start of the season, Kerwin and McAfee had won 13 straight doubles matches.

But, the win isn't as easy as it sounds. Mustang head coach Orion Yeast said some of his top players were either sick or injured (violent music, please). The original match was postponed until Wednesday. As of deadlines Thursday afternoon, an outcome had not been reached.

Scheduled for a 2 p.m. home match, the Mustangs awaited for Wednesday's drizzle to stop before facing the courts and Pomona. Halfway through the singles matches, rain forced the players inside and eventually to the Avila Beach Tennis Club in search of some dry courts.

The Mustangs won all but one of singles matches en route to a 5-1 invincible lead. Rain forced cancellation of the doubles action.

The victory over Pomona puts SLO alone in first place in the conference. Pomona is 1-1 and UC San Diego last season, feels the same way. "I really do enjoy the game," she explains. "I get a satisfaction knowing that I'm doing something that a lot of people won't ever have a chance to do. It's a privilege—to be on a college team."

They may have been knocked out for this season, but the Beck Cassidy and Sundance Kid of the women's tennis team intend to ride again.

Netters better record vs. Pomona, despite dispute

by Teresa Mariani

The Cal Poly SLO women's tennis team host­ed sister school Cal Poly Pomona and the elements Wednesday afternoon in the showdown for the California Collegiate Athletic Association (CCAA) lead. The Mustangs took the conference point, 5-1. But, the win isn't as easy as it sounds. Mustang head coach Orion Yeast was without the services of singles performers Kerwin and McAfee (stress fractures, out for the season) and Amy Jarvis (injured). So, he went with seldom­used Nancy Prull. But, in­stead of putting her at the bottom of the ladder, Yeast said she'd put her into a higher slot.

The first-year Pomona mentor didn't officially protect the match until last Thursday afternoon. She charged Yeast with stacking his line-up.

Yeast, then did some checking. Aided by Sports Information Director Dr. Sue Huttridge, Yeast found out that Pomona did the same thing three days before against the worst CCAA team (the Broncos were supposed to face the Mustangs in early April in the originally scheduled match. Pomona didn't make that match because Clark and some of her top players were either sick or injured (violent music, please). The original match was postponed until Wednesday. As of deadlines Thursday afternoon, an outcome had not been reached.

Schedular for a 2 p.m. home match, the Mustangs awaited for Wednesday's drizzle to stop before facing the courts and Pomona. Halfway through the singles matches, rain forced the players inside and eventually to the Avila Beach Tennis Club in search of some dry courts.

The Mustangs won all but one of singles matches en route to a 5-1 invincible lead. Rain forced cancellation of the doubles action.

The victory over Pomona puts SLO alone in first place in the conference. Pomona is 1-1 and UC San Diego last season, feels the same way. "I really do enjoy the game," she explains. "I get a satisfaction knowing that I'm doing something that a lot of people won't ever have a chance to do. It's a privilege—to be on a college team."

They may have been knocked out for this season, but the Beck Cassidy and Sundance Kid of the women's tennis team intend to ride again.

Netters better record vs. Pomona, despite dispute

by Teresa Mariani

Athletic Association (CCAA) lead. The Mustangs took the conference point, 5-1. But, the win isn't as easy as it sounds. Mustang head coach Orion Yeast was without the services of singles performers Kerwin and McAfee (stress fractures, out for the season) and Amy Jarvis (injured). So, he went with seldom­used Nancy Prull. But, in­stead of putting her at the bottom of the ladder, Yeast said she'd put her into a higher slot.

The first-year Pomona mentor didn't officially protect the match until last Thursday afternoon. She charged Yeast with stacking his line-up.

Yeast, then did some checking. Aided by Sports Information Director Dr. Sue Huttridge, Yeast found out that Pomona did the same thing three days before against the worst CCAA team (the Broncos were supposed to face the Mustangs in early April in the originally scheduled match. Pomona didn't make that match because Clark and some of her top players were either sick or injured (violent music, please). The original match was postponed until Wednesday. As of deadlines Thursday afternoon, an outcome had not been reached.

Schedular for a 2 p.m. home match, the Mustangs awaited for Wednesday's drizzle to stop before facing the courts and Pomona. Halfway through the singles matches, rain forced the players inside and eventually to the Avila Beach Tennis Club in search of some dry courts.

The Mustangs won all but one of singles matches en route to a 5-1 invincible lead. Rain forced cancellation of the doubles action.

The victory over Pomona puts SLO alone in first place in the conference. Pomona is 1-1 and UC San Diego last season, feels the same way. "I really do enjoy the game," she explains. "I get a satisfaction knowing that I'm doing something that a lot of people won't ever have a chance to do. It's a privilege—to be on a college team."

They may have been knocked out for this season, but the Beck Cassidy and Sundance Kid of the women's tennis team intend to ride again.
Don’t forget the Rec

Now that Poly Royal is over and we’re all getting back into a routine, don’t forget to include recreation in your schedule. The Recreational Sports office offers a full range of activities, courts reservations and equipment loan. Drop by UU 104 for more information.

The current volleyball team rankings are:

WEEK I RANKINGS

1. Bearded clam (4-0)
2. Flashball(2-0)
3. Coverage (11-3)
4. L.A. Spleef(1-0)
5. SLO Diggers(2-0)

The Basketball Team rankings for the season to date are:

1. Less Filling
2. Red and Pilggers
3. SLO Death
4. Pick Ups
5. Joe Mans
6. Scorin’ Legions
7. White Shadows
8. Madmen

Remember Cal Poly Recreational Sports...FOR THE FUN OF IT!

Spikers prepare for BYU invasion

Mark Booth says there’s going to be an invasion tonight.

A planned invasion.

He’s right. The 7:30 p.m. entrance of Brigham Young University to the Main Gym to face the men’s volleyball team is no sneak attack. But the battle will be big.

The men lost to BYU over spring break in four games in Utah, 11-16, 15-12, 13-15, 14-16. The last two games were the closest, said Booth, before Poly succumbed to problems.

“We let up a bit and made some errors at the end which really hurt us. ’The match was up in the air until we choked, and gave the match away,” Booth said.

That wasn’t the only problem. The Mustangs had to play with only six players, because outside hitter Scott Terry could not make the road trip during spring break.

“Playing without a bunch hurts any team, especially when one of your players has a bad night,” Booth said. Usually you have the confidence to go to the bench in case it happens. This kind of situation puts a lot of strain on the other players and it takes away from their game.

“It’s hard. Sometimes players work and they can’t make a game,” he added.

We’re only a club. But six guys just doesn’t let you do a good job. With a bigger bench at least we’ll have a chance to go to. It’s hard to have tryouts and come up with a team of some substance,” said Booth.

Lorene Yoshihara

They used to call her player

by Brian Bullock

Staff Writer

Many college athletes who become coaches when their playing days are over do so just to keep their competitive fire burning.

But it really means more than just continuing competition. For the new coach it means changing priorities. It means the desire simply to win must be replaced by the desire to help young athletes grow and mature must be developed.

Women’s softball coach Lorene Yoshihara must.

Yoshihara came to Poly in 1978 from San Jose to play softball. She was recruited by former women’s softball coach Val Filice who was playing semi-pro softball in the San Jose area during the summer.

During her four years at Cal Poly Yoshihara played the field—literally. Now you would see her at third base, now at catcher and outfield. Her years at Poly were successful but never outstanding, ah, the lot of the losses came from Division I schools resulting in the Pacific West Conference ranking.

Another factor that has led to the team’s rise in the rankings is the offensive punch of this years women. Winning is not everything for Coach Yoshihara. What she likes best about coaching is helping a team play together to achieve their goals with each year bring a different experience.

“Watching a team jell and the players mature is the main enjoyment I get from coaching,” Yoshihara said. “I’m not looking for winning or losing as long as the girls are learning and improving as a team. You can tell a lot about a team by the way they play once they get into the playoffs.”

Winning is not everything for Coach Yoshihara. What she likes best about coaching is helping a team play together to achieve their goals with each year bring a different experience.

“Watching a team jell and the players mature is the main enjoyment I get from coaching,” Yoshihara said. “I’m not looking for winning or losing as long as the girls are learning and improving as a team. You can tell a lot about a team by the way they play once they get into the playoffs.”

“Watching a team jell and the players mature is the main enjoyment I get from coaching,” Yoshihara said. "I'm not looking for winning or losing as long as the girls are learning and improving as a team. You can tell a lot about a team by the way they play once they get into the playoffs.”

"The only feeder system for potential players in Cuesta College and surrounding high schools," Yoshihara said. "This creates problems in maintaining a competitive squad when other colleges near big cities have more options for the recruiting process, Yoshihara added.

"The only feeder system for potential players in Cuesta College and surrounding high schools," Yoshihara said. "This creates problems in maintaining a competitive squad when other colleges near big cities have more options for the recruiting process, Yoshihara added.

"The only feeder system for potential players in Cuesta College and surrounding high schools," Yoshihara said. "This creates problems in maintaining a competitive squad when other colleges near big cities have more options for the recruiting process, Yoshihara added.

"The only feeder system for potential players in Cuesta College and surrounding high schools," Yoshihara said. "This creates problems in maintaining a competitive squad when other colleges near big cities have more options for the recruiting process, Yoshihara added.

Winning is not everything for Coach Yoshihara. What she likes best about coaching is helping a team play together to achieve their goals with each year bring a different experience.

"Watching a team jell and the players mature is the main enjoyment I get from coaching," Yoshihara said. "I'm not looking for winning or losing as long as the girls are learning and improving as a team. You can tell a lot about a team by the way they play once they get into the playoffs."
Linking student aid to draft registration is a bit like a scene in an old western movie. The crowd watches excitedly as the "jungle" and a self-appointed deputy argue over the fate of a man who sits on a horse—under a nearby tree with a noose around his neck.

"How do ya know he's guilty?" the judge asked.

"I know. I can tell by his eyes...besides, he can't prove he's innocent."

"True," agreed the judge. "Let's hang 'im!"

Such a scene could be compared to what may happen at colleges throughout the nation beginning July 1, if a law called the Solomon Amendment to Selective Service registration requirements.

There are three main reasons why this law should be repealed. First, under this law, guilt is determined and punishment imposed on individuals without judicial protection. A student is presumed to be not in compliance until he certifies that he is registered.

Second, the Solomon Amendment places an unfair burden on young men; it is discriminatory in that only young men who are in college and need financial aid are singled out.

Third, the law adds a redundant penalty on top of the already severe penalty facing non-registrants—five years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine. The Director of Selective Service has testified that linkage to student aid is not useful in improving compliance rates. Already 96 percent of the draft-eligible men have registered, and it seems unreasonable to expect that the remaining 2 percent—many of whom are neither attending college nor receiving financial aid—will be induced by this law.

The inefficiency of this administrative procedure is clear. Enforcement of the registration law is being done and should be done through the courts. The government should not depurate other organizations to identify miscreants and to exact punishment.

The Solomon Amendment is a not very subtle attempt to compel young men to be patriotic. But the government must be very careful in its attempts to promote good citizenship.

In light of the inappropriate role assigned to universities by this law, the Mustang Daily Editorial Board urges readers to support its repeal. About 50 members are cosponsoring a bill, H.R. 1286, which would repeal the Solomon Amendment. We recognize that until the issue is settled in the court or until full repeal is achieved, students and colleges will remain in a state of limbo. Legislative repeal would avoid lengthy and costly court battles.

Our judicial system has long stood on the maxim "Innocent until proved guilty." Let's let a good maxim stand rather than making law enforcers out of university officials.

---

Letters

American 'have nots'

Editor:
Regarding David Lung's article "Perspective" will someday please inform Mr. Lung that, contrary to popular opinion held in most countries, not all Americans are rich? He should at least have noted that the parking lot at Cal Poly is filled with five-to-ten-year-old Volkswagens and Toyotas, not brand new Porches and Ferraris. Why? Some Poly students can afford new cars or trips to Hong Kong (come on, David, that trip had to cost at least $2500), and can pass off fee increases of 240 percent that trip had to cost at least $2500, and can pass off fee increases of 240 percent. But others work for low salaries and live in cock-infested roach-infested firetraps.

That's why the "haves" go to college and the "haves" who attend college and need financial aid are singled out.

It is discriminatory in that only young men who are in college and need financial aid are singled out.

The inefficiency of this administrative procedure is clear. Enforcement of the registration law is being done and should be done through the courts. The government should not depurate other organizations to identify miscreants and to exact punishment.

The Solomon Amendment is a not very subtle attempt to compel young men to be patriotic. But the government must be very careful in its attempts to promote good citizenship.

In light of the inappropriate role assigned to universities by this law, the Mustang Daily Editorial Board urges readers to support its repeal. About 50 members are cosponsoring a bill, H.R. 1286, which would repeal the Solomon Amendment. We recognize that until the issue is settled in the court or until full repeal is achieved, students and colleges will remain in a state of limbo. Legislative repeal would avoid lengthy and costly court battles.

Our judicial system has long stood on the maxim "Innocent until proved guilty." Let's let a good maxim stand rather than making law enforcers out of university officials.

---

Letters

Foot in mouth?

Editor:
In reference to your April 12 editorial, "Watt Hates Us," it is agreed upon that James Watt fails to look out for the best interests of our environment and instead favors the interest of big business. However, the editorial is upsetting in two respects:

First, the article's title of 'Watt Hates Us' and its absurd conclusion that attempts to tie together Watt's moral beliefs for selecting Wayne Newton over the Beach Boys and the fact that some Californians prefer the coastline in its natural state, leads one to believe that the editorial board had no time for this article and delegated it to a local junior high school.

Second, and most important, the editorial board seems to miss the whole point of this incident. Despite Mr. Watt's attempts to auction away our coastline and wilderness areas for the last two years, the first serious repri­mand he has received deals with the triviality of the Beach Boys' appearance at the White House. A question of priorities is raised. In the same priority, the preservation of our environment or the preservation of Nancy and Ron's musical taste?

A newspaper should attempt to con­centrate on the significant point of a cer­tain incident rather than jumping to un­supported conclusions based upon in­significant premises.

It seems as though the Daily board should receive a foot to be placed in the mouth for this editorial.

Rick Bensl
Joe Martens

---

Thank you

Editor:
I want to thank the Grounds Depart­ment planners, workers and student assistants who make a walk through the Cal Poly campus such a delightful experience.

The trees, shrubs, lawns, flower beds and planters are so lovely; they provide an atmosphere that soothes the spirit and brings joy to the senses. Recognizing that such beautiful sur­roundings are the result of many years of constant care. I know that this letter is long overdue from me. Thank you again!

Metta Sedwick
Health Center