Clowns, elephants, cotton candy

The big top comes to town

By John Grennan
Staff Writer

Nothing brings back memories about how much fun it was to be a kid than a visit to the circus.

Big kids and little kids alike watched in fascination Thursday and Friday when the Bentley Brothers 3-Ring Circus turned the Cal Poly Rodeo Arena into a roofless big top. The circus was a fund-raiser for the Correctional Peace Officers Foundation.

The smell of cotton candy and fresh popcorn mingled with the familiar odor of farm animals as the crowd was treated to a stream of prancing ponies, cornball clowns and high flying daredevils.

See CIRCUS, page 3

Two girls molested during Poly Royal, campus police say

By Diane Zundel
Staff Writer

A man posing as a security guard led two girls away from the carnival at Poly Royal to a nearby isolated classroom and molested them, according to Public Safety officials.

The man also allegedly approached at least three other girls the same day, but did not molest them. The girls were all 11 and 12 years old.

The suspect approached the two girls near the pillow fights at about 10:20 a.m. Saturday, April 25, said Ray Berrett, Cal Poly Public Safety investigator.

Berrett said the man apparently resembled an authority figure to the victims because he carried a radio that may have been a scanner and wore a green Polyn Royal board member ribbon.

By John Grennan
Staff Writer

Greek Week festivities began Friday when the Bentley Brothers 3-Ring Circus turned the Cal Poly campus police say.

The smell of cotton candy and fresh popcorn mingled with the familiar odor of farm animals as the crowd was treated to a stream of prancing ponies, cornball clowns and high flying daredevils.

Pageant opens Greek Week gala

By John Grennan
Staff Writer

Greek Week festivities began last week with the traditional Greek Goddess pageant.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon little sister Kimi Kingsbury was selected from among 16 candidates as Greek Goddess for 1987. First runner-up was Kathleen Kennedy from Theta Chi and second runner-up was Susan Sinclair from Sigma Kappa.

Kingsbury, 21, is a senior speech communication major and has been a little sister since fall 1984. "I was very surprised," she said, "I went in with idea I was just going to have fun. All the girls did a wonderful job," she added. "I had a great time watching the other candidates introduce themselves."

Coordinator of Greek Affairs Walt Lamberti said the pageant is much like a beauty contest. "They're judged on poise and how creatively they introduce themselves. The only difference is that there's no swimsuit competition."

Kingsbury said as Greek Goddess she will go to the various activities and serve as a role model for the Greek community. "It's more of an honor than a duty," said Lamberti. "The winner will come to Greek Sing and introduce the girls and present awards at the closing ceremonies."

Kingsbury, who will also help with next year's pageant, said there are two changes she would like to see. "I would like to have a meeting to help the girls prepare more for the pageant," she said, "and I also look to start a Greek God pageant. There are some Greek Gods who should be recognized."

Kingsbury introduced herself by interpreting the different types of messages she finds on her answering machine. "I just talked about how busy I am," she said.

Kingsbury is a member of the Cal Poly Debate Team, is vice coordinator of Greek Affairs, is a member of the Mustangs, which is a child molester," said Berrett. "He seems to be very much like a predator; he came to Cal Poly with the intention to do this. It was all planned.

The suspect was described as a white man between 35 and 40

FFA competition, a tradition at Cal Poly

By Danielle Letenyei
Staff Writer

Cal Poly was invaded this weekend by a bunch of kids in blue corduroy jackets. They were the Future Farmers of America and they were on campus to compete in state finals competitions and attend the annual leadership convention.

An estimated 1,600 high school students took part in the FFA 59th annual State Leadership Conference and State Finals Contests. Both events are held at Cal Poly every year.

Students from 500 different FFA chapters throughout California competed on Saturday in 21 contests ranging from livestock to forestry to ornamental horticulture.

Part of the forestry contests were held in President Baker's front lawn measuring the diameter of his trees," said Stan Kellogg, general chairman of the contests and a Cal Poly graduate student.

Awards for the contests were given out Saturday evening. Students who won in a particular event received the title of "state champ" and will have the opportunity to compete in the national competition in Kansas City, Mo., later this year.

"The contests provide an opportunity for the students to put what they do in class into practice," said Kellogg.

Half the students who participated in the contests stayed for the leadership conference which began Saturday night.

"Each chapter sends a delegate to the convention," said Richard Goodding, general chairman of the conference and a Cal Poly student. See FFA, back page

First glance

An invitation to a wedding involves more trouble than a summons to a police court.

IN QUOTES

— William Feather
Abbreviated justice

Once again, the scales of justice have tipped in favor of the criminal. Lawrence Singleton, who was convicted of raping a 15-year-old hitchhiker and chopping off her arms, was released last week from the California Men's Colony. He was paroled after serving only eight years of his 14-year sentence. But now that he is free, Singleton cannot return to the community where he committed his crime.

Singleton was originally slated to be paroled to Antioch, but even the original 14-year sentence was not long enough for a man who committed such a ruthless crime. His victim must suffer for a lifetime, but he paid with only one-seventh of his lifetime.

There is an obvious contradiction in the state's actions. Lawrence Singleton, who was convicted of a brutal crime, has been released from prison. Now he is free to return to the community he victimized.

The legal system and the public don't emerge from this paradox. The scales of justice have tipped in favor of the criminal. Lawrence Singleton, who was convicted of a brutal crime, has been released from prison. Now he is free to return to the community he victimized.

His victim must suffer for a lifetime, but he paid with only one-seventh of his lifetime. The legal system and the public don't emerge from this paradox.

Sue Harris, a journalism senior, once had to worry about her friends' weddings. They have no other place to go. She has friends who speak of old times shared while sitting amid stifling hothouse scents of early blooming flowers. The only difference is the color scheme.

Sue Harris, a journalism senior, once had to worry about her friends' weddings. They have no other place to go. She has friends who speak of old times shared while sitting amid stifling hothouse scents of early blooming flowers. The only difference is the color scheme.

Sue Harris, a journalism senior, once had to worry about her friends' weddings. They have no other place to go. She has friends who speak of old times shared while sitting amid stifling hothouse scents of early blooming flowers. The only difference is the color scheme.

It’s that day I thee dread

Every spring there is one form of entertainment that sweeps the country. Like any good show, it has its own set of rules and monetary backing. It entertains hundreds of people at a time and even supplies the audience with free champagne. Of course, the money is spent on a 20-minute ceremony and usually, the audience leaves halfway through. But darn it, it’s a tradition — it’s a wedding.

Now, the bride is the principal character in this crazy show. She calls all the shots: the father bows to her wishes, the mother tries to change her mind about everything, and the groom just tries to stay out of the way.

While the groom is a necessary actor in this entertainment, he certainly doesn’t have top billing. He’s the guy in the tiny suit at the bottom of the filler, somewhere under the bride, her mother and the bridesmaids’ dates.

Most grooms say they don’t mind this lowly position since their fiancées have taken care of every detail, so why worry now?

Costuming for this production is fairly straightforward, although to hear the bride and her party lament, one would think all the bridal shows have been sold out of white and pastel dresses for weeks.

And what about those wedding dresses? They’re long, white, and tend to come in taffeta with too many ruffles and can only be worn once — for a mere $600. Worse yet are the dreaded bridesmaid dresses. Let’s clear this up right now: THERE IS NO SUCH THING AS AN ATTRACTIVE BRIDESMAID DRESS AND NO, YOU WILL NEVER BE ABLE TO WEAR IT AGAIN — TO ANYTHING.

For one thing, all the bridesmaids are bound to be of different sizes and styles and one style will not suit them all. The bride then has an option, invite only cute girls who are size 5 or 7, or turn a blind eye to her slightly overweight friend who, in a peach dress, looks like a cross between the Judds and Ethel Merman.

I don’t want to sound cynical about weddings. I mean, even my parents are married. Marriage itself is a fine institution, but this rampant silliness surrounding the actual wedding ceremony bothers me.

We all know what a “gala extravaganzas” weddings are. When you reach college age, you’re probably attended, participated in and avoided many weddings. There are only so many pink and gray variations of tuxedos and matching boutonniers a person can stand.

However, we all dutifully attend our friends’ weddings. They invite us and we respond by showing up with a gift. Naturally, one reason to attend is to share their happiness and another is to drink their champagne. My personal reason is because I have no other place to wear a Guine Sax original.

I have been to numerous weddings this spring, and I’ve finally identified what makes me so uncomfortable. Weddings are just like funerals.

Sue Harris, a journalism senior, once had to worry about her friends’ weddings. They have no other place to go. She has friends who speak of old times shared while sitting amid stifling hothouse scents of early blooming flowers. The only difference is the color scheme.

Sue Harris, a journalism senior, once had to worry about her friends’ weddings. They have no other place to go. She has friends who speak of old times shared while sitting amid stifling hothouse scents of early blooming flowers. The only difference is the color scheme.

Sue Harris, a journalism senior, once had to worry about her friends’ weddings. They have no other place to go. She has friends who speak of old times shared while sitting amid stifling hothouse scents of early blooming flowers. The only difference is the color scheme.

Sue Harris, a journalism senior, once had to worry about her friends’ weddings. They have no other place to go. She has friends who speak of old times shared while sitting amid stifling hothouse scents of early blooming flowers. The only difference is the color scheme.
Madden
 desde la página 5

Madden has been blue collar, literally and figuratively, since birth. The son of an auto mechanic, he was raised in Daly City, just south of San Francisco. After realizing the importance of college, he decided to become the first person in his family to get an education. After short stints at a junior college and the University of Oregon, he headed to Cal Poly, where he was an offensive and defensive tackle on highly successful teams. Meanwhile, he earned enough credits for a degree in education. Drafted by the Philadelphia Eagles, he never got to start his professional career. On the first day of training camp, he suffered a knee injury, an incident that forced him from the yardlines to the sidelines.

Madden landed the Raiders’ head coaching job in 1969. Perhaps it was no coincidence that the team was well known for harboring the NFL’s misfits and characters — Ken Stabler and John Matusz among them. With a ranting and raving Madden calling the plays and harassing the referees, the Raiders became one of football’s most rugged and feared teams, one good enough to win the 1977 Super Bowl. Madden compiled a record of 103-32-7. But with success came burnout and a bleeding ulcer; at 42, he retired.

Miller Lite quickly capitalized on Madden’s distinctive, if not explosive, style. Soon, he appeared on television, bursting wildly from behind chalkboards and outfield walls screaming, “Less filling” or “Tastes great.” Then he was bursting on football telecasts, quickly making himself known as the most enthusiastic and knowledgeable color commentator on Sunday afternoon. His vigorous preparation, rapid speech — “Wham, bang, boom!” — and wild scribbling quickly made him a favorite of armchair quarterbacks.

Madden’s transition from head coach to commentator and pitchman was successful, but he See MADDEN, page 7
Siamese twins enjoy life in college

COMPTON (AP) — Siamese twins who are joined at the head have left the seclusion of dim days lit by a television screen for a new life as 38-year-old college students.

When Yvonne and Yvette McCarrher's mother learned of their twins who are joined at the head, she was worried. "They don't want to do anything but study," said Willie McCarrher. "They're working themselves to death," said Yvonne. "Besides, I'm not getting any younger," Yvonne added.

Before becoming students, the twins slept in till noon and then lay "around the house all day, watching TV and being worthless," Yvonne said.

Their lifestyle changed when a Compton Community College catalogue arrived in their mailbox earlier this year.

Now they take basic math and English courses and a computer class, ride a bus to school and exchange small talk with fellow students. "All I know is, I just decided the time had come," said Yvonne. "Me too," Yvette agreed. "Besides, I'm not getting any younger," Yvonne added. "Me either," Yvette agreed.

The twins are joined head-to-head, but study. "Me either," Yvette added.

The twins dress alike and carry the same items in identical purses. When they smoke, chew or inhale they do it with the precision of a machine.

College they have given their mother a new worry. "I love college so much she can't believe she waited so long to sign up," said Yvette, who added, "I'm going to summer school too."

"Me too," said Yvonne. Life is a chorus of "me too" for the twins, whose mother was told at the old Los Angeles County General Hospital that her babies should be institutionalized. Doctors said the twins would only be able to crawl and would probably be retarded, even though they have separate brains.

The twins also are studying to be institutionalized. Doctors said the twins would only be able to crawl and would probably be retarded, even though they have separate brains.

"Me either," Yvette agreed.

The twins are joined at the head, but study. "Me either," Yvette added.

Question #2

How can the budget-conscious college student save money?

a) Save over 50% off AT&T's weekday rates on out-of-state calls during nights and weekends.

b) Don't buy textbooks when "Monarch Notes" will do just fine.

c) Save 38% off AT&T's weekday rate on out-of-state calls during evenings.

d) Count on AT&T for exceptional value and high quality service.

e) Hang around with the richest kids in school; let them pick up the tab whenever possible.

If you're like most college students in the western hemisphere, you try to make your money go a long way. That's why you should know that AT&T Long Distance Service is the right choice for you.

AT&T offers so many terrific values. For example, you can save over 50% off AT&T's day rate on calls during weekends until 5 pm Sunday, and from 11 pm Sunday through Friday. Call between 5 pm and 11 pm, Sunday through Friday, and you'll save 38% off our day rate.

Ever dial a wrong number? AT&T gives you immediate credit if you do. And of course, you can count on AT&T for clear long distance connections any place you call.

To find out more about how AT&T can help save you money, give us a call. With a little luck, you won't have to hang around with the rich kids. Call toll-free today, 1-800-222-0300.

The right choice.

The talk is sponsored by the International Business Club. Poet and painter Jose Montoya will present a poetry recital at Cal Poly as part of the Cinco de Mayo festivities Tuesday evening at 7 in Fischer Science Hall Room 207.

Montoya will present a slide show on Chicano art at 12:10 p.m. in the Science Building Room E-26. Both programs are free and open to the public.

The College is the right choice.

Yvonne said in a recent interview that she loves college so much she can't believe she waited so long to sign up. "Me either," said Yvette, who added, "I'm going to summer school too."

"Me too," said Yvonne. Life is a chorus of "me too" for the twins, whose mother was told at the old Los Angeles County General Hospital that her babies should be institutionalized. Doctors said the twins would only be able to crawl and would probably be retarded, even though they have separate brains.

The twins are joined at the head, but study. "Me either," Yvette added.
Mustangs drop three of four on weekend

By Marty Neideffer

In the first game against Chapman Friday night the Mustangs took a page from ex-major league manager Earl Weaver's book. Weaver's theory on how to win baseball games was to get good pitching, play solid defense and wait for the three-run homer. That's just how the Mustangs played it Friday night.

They got the pitching from righthander Jeff Sutter, the defense from the entire team and the three-run homer from left fielder Willie Clemens. Clemens delivered his dramatic homer with the Mustangs and Chapman locked in a 1-1 tie in the eighth inning.

"I was thinking homer while I was in the field the inning before," admitted Clemens. "They were giving me fastballs all night long. The first two times they struck me out, but the last time I got the good part of the bat on it and it went."

Clemens' homer also broke the heart of the Chapman team. The Panthers had been leading throughout most of the game, getting good pitching from their starter, lefthander Steve Dunn. Dunn had the Mustangs shut out before being relieved with runners on first and second in the eighth inning.

While the Panthers were getting good pitching from their starter, the Mustangs were getting an outstanding game from theirs as well. Cal Poly righthander Jeff Sutter, who along with catcher John Orton was involved in an auto accident last year by Madden's wife, and 75 former Mustangs played in the inaugural alumni tournament Thursday.

For the fifth consecutive year, the financially beleaguered Poly football team was given a boost by the John Madden Celebrity Golf Classic. Poly football team was given a boost by the John Madden Celebrity Golf Classic. Since quitting as head coach of the Oakland Raiders in 1979, John Madden has pitched Ramada Inn, Canon cameras, Exxon motor oil and, most notably, Lite Beer from Miller.

But he also has devoted one spring weekend each of the past five years to make a pitch for something closer to his heart than any of the other commodities: Cal Poly football.

Since 1983, his John Madden Celebrity Golf Classic has raised money to help keep the Mustang football program, which he played for in his college days, solvent. Madden's explanation for holding the tournament is almost cliché, but it is sincere.

"When you're grateful for what you got, you have to give things back," said the 1958 alumnus. "The Cal Poly team was down, they needed money. The tournament was a way to help."

The event has grown tremendously since its birth. This year's edition raised $40,000, every penny of which is headed to the Mustangs' coffers. Meanwhile, the event has become perhaps the Central Coast's most popular golf tournament.

Former college athletes don't have an obligation to their school, he said; anything they do after leaving must come from the heart. Yet even 25 years after graduation, Madden did not forget the place he started — or the financial trouble it was in.

So he lent his name and connections, calling on local people and his friends in the National Football League to come to the aid of the Mustangs. They came in droves. Although NFL stars at fund-raising golf tournaments is commonplace, many are especially attracted to Madden's.

"John Madden has made a great contribution to football, so if we can help him out in any way, we do it," said Todd Shell, a linebacker for the San Francisco 49ers.

Said Raider quarterback Jim Plunkett: "I do this as a favor to John. All the universities have trouble raising funds and I'm more than willing to help."

Madden, however, the credit he gets is secondary to the purpose of the event.

"Only two things are important," he said. "One is how much money you make and if the money does some good," he said. "The other thing is that everyone has a good time. That's all."

By Elmer Ramos

Annual tourney nets $40,000 for football program

For the fifth consecutive year, the financially beleaguered Poly football team was given a boost by the John Madden Celebrity Golf Classic. Poly football team was given a boost by the John Madden Celebrity Golf Classic. Since quitting as head coach of the Oakland Raiders in 1979, John Madden has pitched Ramada Inn, Canon cameras, Exxon motor oil and, most notably, Lite Beer from Miller.

But he also has devoted one spring weekend each of the past five years to make a pitch for something closer to his heart than any of the other commodities: Cal Poly football.

Since 1983, his John Madden Celebrity Golf Classic has raised money to help keep the Mustang football program, which he played for in his college days, solvent. Madden's explanation for holding the tournament is almost cliché, but it is sincere.

"When you're grateful for what you got, you have to give things back," said the 1958 alumnus. "The Cal Poly team was down, they needed money. The tournament was a way to help."

The event has grown tremendously since its birth. This year's edition raised $40,000, every penny of which is headed to the Mustangs' coffers. Meanwhile, the event has become perhaps the Central Coast's most popular golf tournament.

Former college athletes don't have an obligation to their school, he said; anything they do after leaving must come from the heart. Yet even 25 years after graduation, Madden did not forget the place he started — or the financial trouble it was in.

So he lent his name and connections, calling on local people and his friends in the National Football League to come to the aid of the Mustangs. They came in droves. Although NFL stars at fund-raising golf tournaments is commonplace, many are especially attracted to Madden's.

"John Madden has made a great contribution to football, so if we can help him out in any way, we do it," said Todd Shell, a linebacker for the San Francisco 49ers.

Said Raider quarterback Jim Plunkett: "I do this as a favor to John. All the universities have trouble raising funds and I'm more than willing to help."

To Madden, however, the credit he gets is secondary to the purpose of the event.

"Only two things are important," he said. "One is how much money you make and if the money does some good," he said. "The other thing is that everyone has a good time. That's all."

The event attracted many National Football League stars, including Jim Plunkett, Howie Long and Tom Flores.

About 200 local amateurs shelled out $250 each to team with the celebrities in the main tournament Friday. Fifty women played in the Virginia Madden Tournament, created last year by Madden's wife, and 75 former Mustangs played in the inaugural alumni tournament Thursday.

The tournaments were augmented by cocktail parties, dinners and auctions Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings. The auctions, which have become the main fund-raisers of the event, featured NFL memorabilia, tournament souvenirs and trips.

Madden's presence ensured that the tournament met his selection criteria. His trademark exuberance exerted itself from the very start.

"Fat men don't like to walk down hills because they have to walk back up," shouted the 6-foot-4, 260-pound Madden, choosing to pose at the rear of a group picture so he wouldn't have to trudge down a hill.

And after firing a shotgun blank signifying the tournament's start, he yelled to course officials 100 yards away: "Measure that, it's a long one. Did it go over your head?"

Howie Long, the Raider's all-pro defensive end, said the tournament has a relaxed atmosphere because Madden's personality rubs off on it.

"The tournament is like Madden," he said. "You don't have to worry about how you dress, how you act, how you talk.""
Bush's Contra ties examined

WASHINGTON (AP) — Iran-Contra investigators are looking into Vice President George Bush's connections to the supply of weapons to the Nicaraguan Contras, including a record of involvement from start to finish by a former CIA agent who is a top aide to the vice president.

Reporting to Congress on the progress of his investigation, independent counsel Lawrence Walsh specifically listed the office of the vice president as among the objects of his ongoing criminal investigation. He said those inquiries were "proven from start to finish and none has been abandoned.

Bush, himself a former CIA director, has had meetings with key figures in both the arms sales to Iran and the private aid network for supplying the Contras.

Wary that Bush's 1988 presidential chances could be wrecked on the shoals of the Iran-Contra affair, the vice president's political advisers insist that they do not have a problem as congressional hearings open Tuesday.

Aliens set back Latin economies

WASHINGTON (AP) -- The prospective return of hundreds of thousands of illegal aliens to Latin America and the Caribbean because of the new immigration law could aggravate the region's already serious social and economic problems, U.S. officials say.

Of the estimated 3 million to 5 million illegal aliens in the United States, more than 75 percent are believed to come from America's southern neighbors, with Mexico accounting for more than half the total.

But Mexico, because of its size, is expected to be able to absorb its returnees more easily than tiny El Salvador, a major refugee source whose economy is suffering from prolonged civil war and a devastating earthquake last October.

The administration is considering a plea from President Jose Napoleon Duarte of El Salvador and the temporary refugee in the United States to the huge number of Salvadoran aliens who would otherwise be expected to return home.

Contras need aid, Reagan warns

NEW YORK (AP) — President Reagan, staking out a tough position on the eve of the Iran-Contra hearings, said Sunday that cutting off aid to rebels in Nicaragua would give the Soviet Union a hand in her battle to oust the Sandinistas regime.

Reagan said that members of Congress vote later this year on aid to the rebels. It may well be the most important vote of 1987 and "possibly one of the most important cast in their careers in public office."

He warned that "delays and indecision here at home can only cause unnecessary suffering in Nicaragua, shake the confidence of the emerging democracies in the region and endanger our own security."

Reagan's remarks appeared to be an effort to raise the stakes in the battle over aid for the Contras, who are trying to oust the leftist Sandinista regime. He spoke in an address prepared for delivery on Ellis Island during the opening ceremonies of the American Newspaper Publisher's Association annual convention.

Women realize nuclear threat

WASHINGTON (AP) — The awareness of possible nuclear destruction first rears its ugly head with a sense of panic," she said. But if each does one's own part, it can make the difference.

Webster quoted her favorite poet, Ortega Icca, when she said, "I am myself and my circumstances. We have the highest potential of any nation to turn the threat around and have a peaceful planet."

Other participants who have contributed to the effort include The Association of Humanistic Psychology, The Catholic Worker Movement, The Buddhist Peace Activists, Grandmothers for Peace and Educators for Social Responsibility.

Webster will have a second presentation on her efforts to stop nuclear war during the last weekend in May.
From page 5

MADDEN

From page 6

Staying faithful to his words, Madden has not planned the future of this team. "It's got to go on forever, and he said, and it may not.

"If it ever gets that the money isn't important or where it goes isn't doing any good, then there's reason to have the tournament," he said. "And if it goes to where people aren't having a damn time, then that's the end of it."

The chances of those circumstances occurring, most agreed, are extremely slim because the financial needs are clear and the fun is inevitable. And, they agreed, because it is John Madden's tournament.

The feeling is that it is a great tournament and everyone who was there is happy, the Raiders, "and that's a tribute to John."

BASEBALL

From page 5

Mustangs, however, was catcher John Orton's ninth-inning grand slam.

Sunday's double-header against Northridge was more of the same. The Mustangs sent their ace to the hill in Eric Bratlien, who allowed nothing but runs in complete-game effort.

The second game of the double-header was a loss for the start of the Mustangs. Cal Poly fell behind early and couldn't overcome the six-run deficit, coming up short.

MADDOON

From page 6

Two Found

Lost KEYS-in shoe key holder behind gym offices. Please call Jim 541-407.

Classified

Classifieds

Roommates

A STUDENT COMMUNITY SERVICES NEWSFLASH NOW ACCEPTING APPLI-CATIONS FROM BOARD DIRECTORS/ OFFICERS IN UU 217 DEADLINE MAY 8th.

MADDEN

To Morrow Nominations Officers in UU 217 Deadline May 2 at 11. New members welcome!!

STUDENT COUNCIL POSITIONS ARE 225 at 11. New members welcome!!

TO MEET TONITE 8pm Fisher Sci 287 Littie

PLANNING CENTER IN THE UU.

MEETING TONITE 8pm Fisher Sci 287 Littie

NEW TOS LADY

CONFERENCE SB

THIRD ANNUAL M essiah FESTIVAL SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 21, 4PM

COSTUME CONTEST

RECORDED IN SPAIN 1980 M AZDA RX-7 Great condition Inside, outside.

1983 CHEVY CAMARO 1ST GEN DEAN WITH BLACK TOP.

W/ EXTRAS-541-0364

CARPINTERIA

ANIMAL SERVICES

SUNDAY, JUNE 13, 1987

9AM TO 1PM

ALKALINE

CAMPUS AND CIRCUMSTANCES

HAPPILY MARRIED CHILDLESS JUST MY TYPE Computer Dating will help you meet someone new Call 543-1915

ON THE BOARD. Election applications to Morrow.

FOR BOARD DIRECTORS/SECRETARIES/DIRECTORS OF STUDENT COUNCIL. Applications are open to every­

GARGOYLES, OAKLEYS, SKI- OPTI-

THE BIGGEST SALE OF THE YEAR IS

40% OFF REGULAR PRICE-

NEW CONDO START FALL 87 -SPRING 88 MANY XTRAS - FURN $550/mo INCL UTILS. MUST SEE

NUGGETS & Info can be picked up in the

PURO ORGANIZATION START FALL

SEE YOU THERE MAY 6TH -3 TO 4PM - EL CORRAL

LET'S REMEMBER THE GOOD TIMES OF THE PAST, AS WE CHANCE ON A NEW FUTURE!

GOOD LUCK ALPHA PHI GREEK WEEK SWIM & SPORTS.

THANKS FOR A WONDERFUL TIME

WELCOME TO THE SEA BARN AVILA BEACH.

0385

87 & NEXT YEAR RENT $187/MO BBQ

RENT. LOCATED AT 546 HIGUERA 4

BEAUTIFUL, W/ D, VCR Pets OK Avail 6/15 Thru 9/15

2bdrm close to Poly $200/mo Micro, washer & dryer Call Karen 543-6340

2 FEM TO SHARE ROOM IN 2BED SUM

12X60 MOBILE HOME 2 BDRM 1 BA

BRENT B 546-3711 Or 543-1915 $240

BEAUTIFULLY FURNISHED, KITCHEN DISHES

PLACE MOSTLY FURNISHED, KITCHEN DISHES

2F FEM TO SHARE 2BDRM 1BA 2BA Home close to Poly $200/mo Micro, washer & dryer. Call Karen 543-6340

THAT'S A BUNCH OF BALONEY, TO BE HONEST WITH YOU.

Could you not say "Dad works for General Motors and that's why he's different," but will you say "Dad works for General Motors because he's different"?"
From page 1

president of the Golden Key National Honor Society and is involved with the speech communication club Word of Mouth.

The question Kiburgs received in the second round of judging was “How has the Greek community benefited you?”

“I’ve benefited with the friendships I’ve made in Sigma Alpha Epsilon and in leadership and organizational aspects,” she said. “I hope that by winning, it will show people who aren’t Greek that little sisters are just as involved and important and I hope it gets rid of all the negative stereotypes of little sisters.”

Greek Week competition also got underway last week.

So far Sigma Nu leads the fraternities with 90 points. Sigma Alpha Epsilon is second with 70 points and Beta Theta Pi is third with 60 points. Alpha Chi Omega leads the sororities with 100 points, Zeta Tau Alpha is second with 82 points, Sigma Kappa and Alpha Phi are tied for third with 79 points.

Greek Week continues tonight with the wrestling and swimming finals. Wednesday night is Greek Sing and on Saturday will be the Olympiad at Avila Beach. Greek Week will conclude Sunday with tug races in the morning then crew races and the awards ceremony to be held at Delta Tau in the afternoon.

Europe’s Best at Affordable Prices

Mr. C’s

RESTAURANT DELICATESSEN

Under New Ownership

Chicken, Shishkababs, Gyros
Sinhad Burgers

11 to 11 daily, Fri & Sat till midnight
1115 Broad St. SLO 544-4447

ALASKA

Summer Employment

• Earn $800+/week in cannery
• Earn $8,000-$12,000+ for 2 months on fishing vessel
• Over 8,000 openings
• Male or female
• No experience necessary
• Ages 16-70+
To receive your 52-page employment booklet, send $5.95 to M&L Research, R.O., Box 8408, Seattle, WA 98124.

SUSPECT

Police sketch of suspect

From page 1

years old. He is between 5 feet 7 inches to 5 feet 9 inches tall with a medium build, short black or dark brown hair with gray in it. He has a light red complexion, dark eyes and a mustache.

The victims’ descriptions of his clothing vary, but he is believed to have worn a light blue short-sleeved shirt, dark blue pants and black shoes. One girl said he wore “a very strange looking multi-colored tie,” said Berrett. Two girls described him as slightly balding.

Berrett said the man probably followed the victims throughout Cal Poly and was on campus from about 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday.

“Anyone who saw this man, especially in the area of the carnival and the area of the Fisher Science Building, should please call our department as soon as possible,” said Berrett. “Any information at all would be useful in helping us find him.”

CLASSIFIED COMPUTER

THE EARLY BIRD GETS THE BEST DEAL! Houses - Apartments - Rooms

Hundreds of rentals - New vacancies every day.

3-MONTH SUBSCRIPTION - $35
eXclusive Summer Vacancies Available Now.

Subscribe now and receive free extension to Sept. 15

SERVING STUDENTS SINCE 1979

CLASSIFIED COMPUTER

754 Santa Rosa, SLO (corner of Peach) 543-0321

Our 3- and 4- Private Bedroom Apartments...

Standing renting for the 1987-88 Contract Year. Priorities given to those groups of 3 or 4 who apply together. Submit your applications today so we can accommodate your first choice! Limited single openings available.

WOODSIDE GARDEN

200 N. Santa Rosa St.
San Luis Obispo, CA

APARTMENTS 544-7007

SANDS liquor & deli

Introducing incredible deli sandwiches (heavy on the meat) and low low beer and liquor prices at a convenient location.

$100 OFF

Any delicious sandwich
(Just $2.50 with this coupon)
“you’ve got to try ‘em to believe ‘em!”

Expires May 20, 1987