Abortion protesters sing, pray at City Hall

By Cass Caulfield

About 150 people peacefully protested at City Hall on Thursday, Jan. 18, the anniversary of the historic Supreme Court decision legalizing abortion.

The protesters, mostly from various Christian churches throughout the county, planned the protest to coincide with the week the U.S. Supreme Court ruled on Roe vs. Wade on Jan. 22, 1973. The decision gave women the legal right to have an abortion.

"We want to see Roe vs. Wade reversed," said Phil Coleman, pastor of the Oak Park Foursquare Church in Arroyo Grande. The protesters knelt in prayer for about ten minutes and also sang worship songs.

The United States has supported Israel, he said, because the group's custom is to inform City Hall of the demonstration during the year's final week.

The groups use a public address system for their demonstration, which is not allowed last year.

Zoo comes to Jesperson school

Chickens, sheep, horse, rabbits fill playground

By Cass Caulfield

This is the first time the ranch has come to Chris Jesperson School. The Outreach program, which has about 30 volunteers, came up with the idea.

We believe that the animals will act like a co-therapist for the children," said Jan Olsen, director of B.O.K. Ranch.

The ranch, located off Orcutt Road, is devoted to working with individuals who have physical and/or developmental disabilities by enhancing the human-animal bond.

B.O.K. will also transport the animals to other locations if it is more convenient for groups than attending the ranch.

"The children work well with the disabled because they are completely non-judgmental," said Diana Olsen of B.O.K. Ranch.

"The children were so excited today. It's great because these children do not get to experience a lot of things that other kids get to."

— Katie Cooney

The children were so excited today. It's great, because these children do not get to experience a lot of things that other kids get to.

"The only way you can protect the city if the decided not to annex land, he would favor a growth-management initiative, he said.

And that initiative should include plans for a new city in the county.

"There has to be protection of the surrounding area," he said.

"The only way you can protect all land as far as possible to the city," he said, "and then develop a plan which would control in increments, say five-year increments, the development of those areas. Then you put that in the charter ... so the next council can't say, 'Well, we don't have to follow what the last council said.' Then only the people can change it."

If the city decided not to annex land, he would favor a growth-management initiative, he said.

And that initiative should include plans for a new city in the county.

"There has to be protection of the surrounding area," he said.

"The only way you can protect
Opinion

Editor — I'm sick and tired of gun ownership. I own a few guns myself, but I don't see the point in having more than I can carry in my pocket. I think the majority of the populace on our roads. Just drive down town and back to prove it to yourself.

You mentioned statistics, but you only use the ones which support your twisted views. How about the percentage of people killed with illegal firearms as compared to those purchased according to the law? How about your letter? You stated that "American society has more than proven that guns don't kill people, people kill people." What about the responsibility of proper driving habits? Should we outlaw cars because a few people can't handle the privilege? For that matter, look at the way many children are neglected and abused by their parents. Then make it illegal. They don't kill people, people kill people.

You stated that "American society has more than proven that guns don't kill people, people kill people." What about the responsibility of proper driving habits? Should we outlaw cars because a few people can't handle the privilege? For that matter, look at the way many children are neglected and abused by their parents. Then make it illegal. They don't kill people, people kill people.

Editor — I am writing this letter in regards to the recent Poly Royal Ambassador selection. The Mustang Daily will inevitably devote some print to the recent winners. What they won't tell you however is about the blatant disregard the judges showed for their "judging criteria." The criteria as an audience consisted of answering of questions, reasoning, and communication skills, both verbal and non-verbal.

After talking with many members of the audience, it came to the conclusion that only two of the three female ambassadors for this criteria. The remaining candidate was selected by another untainted criteria, most likely her ethnic background. Granted, she might be more individual, but her on-stage performance was predictable. This obvious display of reverse discrimination was an insult to the intelligence of the audience.

Regardless, the Cal Poly needs representation from diversified ethnic background. In fact, it should openly encourage minority participation. However, when commenting on these claims only be concerned with the criteria as a whole and not a candidate's ethnic background.

Mark Becker
Speech Communication

A communist by association?

Editor — Jeff Coffman is a Nazi. We all know this. We've heard the lies, there's no point in repeating them. The question is, is this candidate properly representing the people of Cal Poly?

Jeff, I don't get it. Am I supposed to believe you're a communist because he's mentioned in the same breath as some alleged communists? That's like calling someone a real student because he hangs out at Cal Poly.

John Rickenbach
City and Regional Planning

Communists do believe in peace

Editor — In response to Jeff Coffman's letter, I inform you that Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was a communist.

To support his statement he lies several facts. Does he claims confirms this. Jeff, did you read all those books? Or did you read right-wing pamphlet from Farm­er's Market?

Anyone as well-read as you make yourself would be a tad more informed. Communists despite the fact that they live in the "evil empire" believe in peace as much as capitalists. Believe it or not, everyone has the opportunity of you and I. Many people perceive communism as a means of economic oppression and military dictatorship. None of us believe that communism offers change, a new type of freedom in which the same conditions of life are ensured to all people. Everyone is taking care of, not just the elitist rich.

Revolutions are caused by self-interest, and can mean could you imagine going to Cal Poly and finding no one around, there is food for eight hungry guests but two of these people were hungry.

As in your question, yes Marx did advocate "bloody revolution." So do former President Ronald Reagan and his North. It might interest you to know that another great man once said, "We must water the tree of liberty with the blood of our enemies." I'm sure that the next great man was Thomas Jefferson.

Richard B. Lubersack
History

Asinine views bring revolution

Editor — OK, Jeff, so what's your point? Is it that the whole civil rights movement was a communist movement that was happening in America or maybe that, because Martin Luther King Jr. was a commie, the movement should have been stopped? Just what the hell was the point of your letter?

Asinine viewpoint of people who only see things in the present that leads to the bloody revolution.

Matthew Wisbey is a construction management major.

April Karys, editor
Anna Celikoglu, managing editor
Alison Skrak, editor
Coleen Bundy, editorial assistant
Terri Lightfoot, sports editor
Donna Taylor, spotlight editor
Nicole McGhee, editor
Shelly Evans, lifestyle editor
Dana Opdahl, diplomatic editor
K.M. Cannon, assistant editor
American Wisdom, asst. photo editor
Pepper McHenry, graphics manager
Jasminesh, faculty advisor

BLOOM COUNTY RUNDOWN WORD DECIDER

by Berke Breathed

Mustang Daily is published daily by the Cal Poly journalism department. Unsigned editorials reflect the majority view of the Editorial Board.

Monday, January 23, 1989 Mustang Daily

Selling freedom for peace

By Matthew Wisbey

It is late at night and a young college student decides it is time to go to the library. She slams shut the book and heads out the door, her legs are heavy and her heart is fast. She says she is going to rape her, and offers no threat if she will not struggle. She agrees. Then the perpetuator decides he will continue to rob this woman's life by continuing this heinous crime, again he offers the same condition as the first time, and she agrees. The poor woman is in shock and stunned with fear as the animal continues to desecrate her.

This is the perfect analogy to peace without freedom. The question remains: is sacrificing freedom for peace worth it? Yet today, this process is taking place before our very eyes and we give it absolutely no priority. We are constantly selling our freedoms for "peace," and the price of peace is a heavy price indeed, because freedom has a value which cannot be calculated.

This is not to say that it isn't nice to have both, because a few people can't handle the responsibility of guns. "What about the majority of the populace on our roads? Just drive down town and back to prove it to yourself."

To say that "having a gun is more potentially dangerous than driving a car" is absurd. Most who own guns are much more careful than the majority of the populace on our roads. Just drive down town and back to prove it to yourself.

You mentioned statistics, but you only use the ones which support your twisted views. How about the percentage of people killed with illegal firearms as compared to those purchased according to the law? How about your letter? You stated that "American society has more than proven that guns don't kill people, people kill people." What about the responsibility of proper driving habits? Should we outlaw cars because a few people can't handle the privilege? For that matter, look at the way many children are neglected and abused by their parents. Then make it illegal. They don't kill people, people kill people.

You stated that "American society has more than proven that guns don't kill people, people kill people." What about the responsibility of proper driving habits? Should we outlaw cars because a few people can't handle the privilege? For that matter, look at the way many children are neglected and abused by their parents. Then make it illegal. They don't kill people, people kill people.

Editor — I am writing this letter in regards to the recent Poly Royal Ambassador selection. The Mustang Daily will inevitably devote some print to the recent winners. What they won't tell you however is about the blatant disregard the judges showed for their "judging criteria." The criteria as an audience consisted of answering of questions, reasoning, and communication skills, both verbal and non-verbal.

After talking with many members of the audience, it came to the conclusion that only two of the three female ambassadors for this criteria. The remaining candidate was selected by another untainted criteria, most likely her ethnic background. Granted, she might be more individual, but her on-stage performance was predictable. This obvious display of reverse discrimination was an insult to the intelligence of the audience.

Regardless, the Cal Poly needs representation from diversified ethnic background. In fact, it should openly encourage minority participation. However, when commenting on these claims only be concerned with the criteria as a whole and not a candidate's ethnic background.

Mark Becker
Speech Communication

A communist by association?

Editor — Jeff Coffman is a Nazi. We all know this. We've heard the lies, there's no point in repeating them. The question is, is this candidate properly representing the people of Cal Poly?

Jeff, I don't get it. Am I supposed to believe you're a communist because he's mentioned in the same breath as some alleged communists? That's like calling someone a real student because he hangs out at Cal Poly.

John Rickenbach
City and Regional Planning

Communists do believe in peace

Editor — In response to Jeff Coffman's letter, I inform you that Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was a communist.

To support his statement he lies several facts. Does he claims confirms this. Jeff, did you read all those books? Or did you read right-wing pamphlet from Farm­er's Market?

Anyone as well-read as you make yourself would be a tad more informed. Communists despite the fact that they live in the "evil empire" believe in peace as much as capitalists. Believe it or not, everyone has the opportunity of you and I. Many people perceive communism as a means of economic oppression and military dictatorship. None of us believe that communism offers change, a new type of freedom in which the same conditions of life are ensured to all people. Everyone is taking care of, not just the elitist rich.

Revolutions are caused by self-interest, and can mean could you imagine going to Cal Poly and finding no one around, there is food for eight hungry guests but two of these people were hungry.

As in your question, yes Marx did advocate "bloody revolution." So do former President Ronald Reagan and his North. It might interest you to know that another great man once said, "We must water the tree of liberty with the blood of our enemies." I'm sure that the next great man was Thomas Jefferson.

Richard B. Lubersack
History
San Luis Obispo Mayor Ron Dunin speaks out:

"This council is trying to resolve many of the situations that were created by the previous councils, of which I was a member," Dunin said. "But I was in the minority. Now this council is holding the baby, and it doesn't know what to do with the baby because the baby is growing."

Dunin said city residents are not sure of their own feelings about the growth issue.

"We want to live in a community that is different from the metropolitan areas, but we cannot stop growing," he said.

"The population of the city doesn't really know what it wants," he said. "It wants Cal Poly to grow, but those that live in the city don't want the city to grow.

"On the other hand, without Cal Poly, the city would not economically survive."

Dunin has been mayor for three years. He is now in the middle of his second term. He was a council member for seven years before his election to the office of mayor.

He has lived in San Luis Obispo since 1965.

On Drugs: "On Drugs: We control water in such a way that we have plenty of it. But we neither control growth by having less than adequate supply or let everything go to pot by having too much of it."

He said many of the water problems the city now faces stem from action taken by past councils. The old approach was to try to conserve water or stop growth, he said. Neither worked in the past and neither will work in the future, he added.

People who live in affluent cities such as San Luis Obispo are poor at conserving water, he said. And when rates go up, the poor people are the ones who suffer. He wants the current council to take action for the future water supply.

"I am in favor of the state water project because first, we have an investment already, and second, it is water from outside," he said. "The water that we have here (in San Luis Obispo) we are always going to have, but the water that is extra to the region — if we lose it, we lose it forever."

The state water project would transfer water from other counties to San Luis Obispo County.

The council is also updating the General Plan, he said. The General Plan was last updated in 1977.

On Young People: "On Young People: We should always have a surplus of water. We plan many, many years ahead. We control water in such a way that we have plenty of it. But we neither control growth by having less than adequate supply or let everything go to pot by having too much of it."

He said many of the water problems the city now faces stem from action taken by past councils. The old approach was to try to conserve water or stop growth, he said. Neither worked in the past and neither will work in the future, he added.

People who live in affluent cities such as San Luis Obispo are poor at conserving water, he said. And when rates go up, the poor people are the ones who suffer. He wants the current council to take action for the future water supply.

"I am in favor of the state water project because first, we have an investment already, and second, it is water from outside," he said. "The water that we have here (in San Luis Obispo) we are always going to have, but the water that is extra to the region — if we lose it, we lose it forever."

The state water project would transfer water from other counties to San Luis Obispo County.

The council is also updating the General Plan, he said. The General Plan was last updated in 1977.

On Homeless: "On Homeless: We have a responsibility, I feel, to help those who can't help themselves. ... We in America think we can buy everything. You can't. The guy says, 'Don't put the center next door to me, I'll give you $1,000 and you can put it somewhere else.' But where? Now if you ask me, 'Would you like to have a house like that next to you?' I probably would say the same because there is a fear. We all have the fear ... of what could develop."

"Nearly in all cases where homeless people were going to be housed in churches, the neighborhood objected, and virtually in all cases we had no complaints after the people were there."

On Local Government: "On Local Government: Whenever you have a government program, a lot of money is squandered. ... You've got different offices and different staff. ... By the time it comes to giving money to the project, there's no money left because everybody has an executive secretary and secretary to the executive secretary and the allowance for the car and the allowance for the office."

"If they would have combined large buildings or large offices and just have branches and one receptionist and one telephone system, some of that money can be directed to the people who need help."

On Government: "On Local Government: The city derives its power from the state. The state is eroding our state. The state is eroding our state. The state is eroding our state. The state is eroding our state. The state is eroding our state. The state is eroding our state. The state is eroding our state. The state is eroding our state. The state is eroding our state."

"On the other hand, without Cal Poly, the city would not economically survive."

On Housing: "On Local Government: 'The city derives its power from the state. The state is eroding our state. The state is eroding our state. The state is eroding our state. The state is eroding our state. The state is eroding our state. The state is eroding our state. The state is eroding our state. The state is eroding our state. The state is eroding our state."

"On the other hand, without Cal Poly, the city would not economically survive.

Dunin said city residents are not sure of their own feelings about the growth issue.

"We want to live in a community that is different from the metropolitan areas, but we cannot stop growing," he said.

"The population of the city doesn't really know what it wants," he said. "It wants Cal Poly to grow, but those that live in the city don't want the city to grow.

"On the other hand, without Cal Poly, the city would not economically survive."

Dunin has been mayor for three years. He is now in the middle of his second term. He was a council member for seven years before his election to the office of mayor.

He has lived in San Luis Obispo since 1965.
UC Regents approve 10 percent fee hike

SANTA BARBARA (AP) — University of California regents increased the student fee by 10 percent Friday and hiked out-of-state tuition by 17 percent in an attempt to meet a budget strained by increasing enrollments. "This budget is made possible only through a patchwork of mostly one-time funding arrangements," said university President David P. Gardner. The regents had requested a 10 percent budget increase from Gov. George Deukmejian but will face an average of $144 to $1,577. Gardner termed the hike "an extraordinary fee increase." Miscellaneous fees of an average of $120 increase all fees to $1,697 for the 1989-90 school year, West said.

Out-of-state tuition will jump by $843 to $5,799 a year. Those students also must pay the increased student fee and will face a total fee of $7,496, West said. The regents also approved a one-time annual diversion of $68 million from the university's retirement fund, that instead will be plugged into gaps in the university's general operating budget, he said. The $68 million will be repaid over a 30-year period, West said.

Regents expect another 3,200 students to join the present 161,000 students at the system's nine campuses in the next school year, and another 20,000 by the year 2000. In other action, Gardner named three vice presidents to oversee three new universities proposed to be built by 2000 to meet the needs of new students. Ronald Brady, senior vice president for academic affairs, will be responsible for academic planning; William Baker, vice president for budget and university relations, will lead the effort to change the 1979 state spending limit or Gann limit and Prop. 98, which limits university funding, West said.

"Unless the Gann limit and the attendant complications of Proposition 98 are removed or substantially modified," Gardner said, "the University of California will be unable to sustain its historic commitment to enroll UC-eligible California residents seeking undergraduate admission.

"Indeed, we will be unable to sustain the University of California in its present form and at its current level of distinction," he said.

Dry month spurs state water woes

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A winter dry spell, together with poor runoff prospects and uncertain reservoir supplies statewide, has rekindled concerns over the availability of water in 1989, authorities said Friday.

Even if California experiences an "average wet season" as predicted by state and federal long-term forecasters — the state will still be caught in the water pinch created by the past two years of drought, when at least 14 counties declared drought emergencies during 1988 alone. Hit hardest by the drought were San Francisco, where rationing was ordered, and the foothill communities in the Sierra Nevada.

"We have enough water to meet our needs, but our reservoirs would be seriously drawn down," Bill Helm, a spokesman for the state drought center, told a news conference. "We are well behind last year in many ways."

"The snowpack is pretty good (in the Sierra)," he added. "But the problem is that the basins under the snowpack are extremely dry." In some key areas, officials are predicting only a one-in-four chance of average runoff.

Thus far, precipitation statewide is about 81 percent of normal, he said. "The drought signals are mixed," said a written statement released by the Water Resources Department. "The Sierra snowpack is slightly above average for this date and about half the April 1 average amounts. On the other hand, runoff for the first three months was far below average due in part to the coldness of our December storms."

The comments accompanied the release of two reports prepared by the Water Resources Department at the behest of the Legislature, to identify the effects of continued drought upon the state.
The Cal Poly men's basketball team was handed its first conference defeat on Saturday night, as it lost 72-63 to a very physical Cal State Northridge team.

The loss drops Cal Poly to 10-5 overall and 2-1 in the conference. The game was close the entire half in particular.

Another factor that was important in the Mustang's defeat was the 27 points poured in by Northridge point guard Darren Bowser, holding him to ten points under his season average of 15.4 points per game.

"We had five guys with two or more fouls in the first half," said Beason, "and it really restricted us. We had to play people longer than normal, and it created some match-up problems."

"We went in believing that there were three people that were going to score, (center Todd) Bower, (guard Derrick) Gathers, and Matsubara," said Beason. "We had to locate those people at all times. We located but did not stop Matsubara. He had a field day."

Standouts for the Mustangs included Coby Naess, who had 24 points and nine rebounds; D.C. Cashman, who had eight rebounds in the first half and ended up with ten for the game; and Kurt Colvin, who had a good game defensively against Northridge's Bowser, holding him to ten points under his season average of 15.4 points per game.

"I can't fault the kids for physical effort," said Beason. "We just played poorly. The first half in particular.

The Cal Poly gymnastics team held its own against the NCAA Division I Santa Barbara Gauchos narrowly losing to them 173.15 to 172.55 in a tri-meet in Mont Gym Saturday night.

"The first time they announced the final score the scorekeepers had us winning," Head Coach Tim Rivera said. "Then they corrected it and we had lost by 6 tenths of a point."

Sacramento State finished a distant third in the competition with a 164.15 and Melissa Henne took the all-around honors with her difficult tricks and strong beam routine. Tennessee performance qualified her for the NCAA Division I regionals.

Freshtman Dawn Fowler finished second behind Hennessee in the meet and won the balance beam with a 9.4 and an all-around of 35.20 to garner runner-up honors. Fowler was only 05 off the school record in only her fourth meet as a Mustang gymnast.

"Dawn has worked very hard and it paid off," Rivera said. "She realizes that it is a team that does things and not individuals."

Fowler was joined in the all-around by fellow frosh Ellie Anderson, who took 5th place with a score of 33.35. Mimi Phene, usually a strong performer on the all-around, only competed on the bars because of an injury, but managed to place fourth in that event with a 8.4.

"We didn't play well," said Steve Beason, Cal Poly head coach. "There looked like there was a lid on the basket the way we shot the ball. We're not that coach. "There looked like there was a lid on the basket the way we shot the ball. We're not that coach."

The game was characterized by sloppy play in the early going by both teams. Tight officiating throughout the game resulted in early foul trouble on starters Mitch Pierce and James Gama.

"We had five guys with two or more fouls in the first half," said Beason, "and it really restricted us. We had to play people longer than normal, and it created some match-up problems."

Another factor that was important in the Mustang's defeat was the 27 points poured in by Northridge point guard Darren Matsubara.

"We went in believing that there were three people that were going to score, (center Todd) Bower, (guard Derrick) Gathers, and Matsubara," said Beason. "We had to locate those people at all times. We located but did not stop Matsubara. He had a field day."

Standouts for the Mustangs included Coby Naess, who had 24 points and nine rebounds; D.C. Cashman, who had eight rebounds in the first half and ended up with ten for the game; and Kurt Colvin, who had a good game defensively against Northridge's Bower, holding him to ten points under his season average of 15.4 points per game.

"I can't fault the kids for physical effort," said Beason. "We just played poorly. The first half in particular."

The game was characterized by sloppy play in the early going by both teams. Tight officiating throughout the game resulted in early foul trouble on starters Mitch Pierce and James Gama.

"We had five guys with two or more fouls in the first half," said Beason, "and it really restricted us. We had to play people longer than normal, and it created some match-up problems."

Another factor that was important in the Mustang's defeat was the 27 points poured in by Northridge point guard Darren Matsubara.

"We went in believing that there were three people that were going to score, (center Todd) Bower, (guard Derrick) Gathers, and Matsubara," said Beason. "We had to locate those people at all times. We located but did not stop Matsubara. He had a field day."

Standouts for the Mustangs included Coby Naess, who had 24 points and nine rebounds; D.C. Cashman, who had eight rebounds in the first half and ended up with ten for the game; and Kurt Colvin, who had a good game defensively against Northridge's Bower, holding him to ten points under his season average of 15.4 points per game.

"I can't fault the kids for physical effort," said Beason. "We just played poorly. The first half in particular."

"We didn't play well," said Steve Beason, Cal Poly head coach. "There looked like there was a lid on the basket the way we shot the ball. We're not that coach. "There looked like there was a lid on the basket the way we shot the ball. We're not that coach."

The game was characterized by sloppy play in the early going by both teams. Tight officiating throughout the game resulted in early foul trouble on starters Mitch Pierce and James Gama.
Tom Lebens is a busy man. He is Chief Executive Officer and President of a multi-million dollar corporation known as Associated Students, Incorporated. And surprisingly enough, he’s a college student.

I’m sure many people like myself have often wondered just what ASI is, who Tom Lebens is, and what exactly he does. I wanted to find out myself and let the world know, but had no idea what was in store when I decided to do a typical “Day in the Life of Tom Lebens.”

As a photojournalist, I keep a fairly high pace myself. But Tom Lebens’ life is controlled insanity. A picture behind his desk reads: Behave like a duck. Remain calm on the surface, but paddle like crazy underneath.

We couldn’t even get together to talk about this essay, until after a series of notes back and forth. We decided on Friday, Jan. 20. My adventure started late Thursday night at his house. He had just come back from a long day at the Chancellor’s Office in Long Beach. I finally crashed about 1 a.m. and set my alarm for a few minutes before his. I had no idea how late he stayed up, but he bounced out of bed at 6:30 a.m. Then my desperate struggle to keep up started.

He had about a two minute shower, ate a balanced breakfast in five minutes, scanned the newspapers, and flew out of the house by 7 a.m. even. Every second of the day was filled. He had meetings every half hour that he didn’t have class, and as many impromptu meetings as scheduled ones.

During the course of these meetings, I got a feel for ASI and Tom Lebens. Unlike other schools, our “Associated Students” has “Incorporated.” Similar to many other businesses, ASI is an education service corporation. It serves the student population by changes within the university, support like the copy center and craft center, setting 400 clubs and organizations with vehicles and banking services. As chief officer, Tom is ultimately responsible for the adequate execution of all these activities. He also is a spokesperson for the entire student body and attends the Student Senate meetings to meet the students’ needs.

Tom says he is constantly being asked by students feel about a certain issue. To that end, he will circle himself among the half of his meetings were with administrative officials. Most were with regular students, like the new alcohol law or the policy.

We left the office at 5:30 p.m., grabbed a grocery store, and made pizza-pies for dinner. We watched the news and tried to relax Friday was Tom’s roommate’s birthday. Tom crashed in on him and his friend at a restaurant with a huge “Happy Birthday.” After cake we all went to The Flats and danced.

We finally got home at 1:30 a.m., hours after my adventure began. It was a deal and had a wonderful time, but it, too, was recovering. We nearly ran me to death, but I think I’ll keep my Tom to his.
A non-profit advocating for services and support of executive functions for the elderly and at-risk individuals.

He makes an executive decision, less than administrative offices to discuss library eating problems by the hour dinner. We celebrate a birthday dinner, a cake singing and champagne, until we drop. More than 24 turned a great birthday, I'm still alive. No matter what, we'll get by. I didn't think he'd do it. The editor for a job and leave...
Republicans whirl the night away
Bush says he's a 'louisy dancer' but trots along anyway

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush called himself "a louisy dancer" but gamely took a few whirls with his wife during an exultant tour of inaugural balls where 60,000 Republican stalwarts thumbed their swearing-in and caroused into the wee hours.

During the gaudy, noisy and slightly wacky evening, Bush also bragged about his "fantastic" new living quarters at the White House and Vice President Dan Quayle had one hotel ballroom throng erupting in laughter with an offhand remark with a double meaning.

Bush's choice for secretary of state, James A. Baker III, sauntered with fellow Texans beneath the Wright brothers' plane at the National Air and Space Museum, where Crystal Gayle sang her country best.

If you're a freshman or sophomore with good grades, apply now for a three-year or two-year scholarship. From Army ROTC. Army ROTC scholarship application, most books and fees, plus $100 per school month. They also pay off with leadership experience and officer credentials impressive to future employers. Find out more. Contact Dave Singleton, Room 118, Dexter Bldg. Or call SLO-ROTC 756-7682.

Join Today
COFFEE CLUB
CAMPUS CARE

Put your college degree to work.

Air Force Officer Training School is an excellent start to a career as an Officer on Air Force. We offer great medical care, 30 days of vacation with pay each year and management experience. For more information, contact Air Force Recruiter. Find out what Officer Training School can mean for your double-entendre. MSGT. PRISCILLA ORTIZ 956 FOOTHILL BLVD. SAN LUIS OBISPO, CA. 93401 805-543-0934

SF protesters demonstrate against Bush
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — About 900 angry demonstrators shouting "Bush is a liar" made their way through downtown San Francisco on Friday night smashing windows and burning an American flag in a violent protest of the glittering inauguration of President George Bush.

The police tactical squad, wielding billy clubs and wearing riot gear, ordered members of the loosely knit mob to clear the streets after protesters blocked a downtown boulevard and set the American flag aflame.

The confrontation escalated when the mob snaked its way to the Marines Memorial Building, where some protesters were gathering watching the $25 million Bush inauguration, and hurled a slab of asphalt through the front window. Protesters smashed bags of paint on the sidewalk outside before retreating, according to police.

About 150 officers were called in and dozens of paddy wagons, but there were no arrests, police said.

The crowd, calling itself the All-People's Congress, began gathering in the late afternoon around an encampment of homeless people in Union Nations Plaza. It marched carrying banners reading "USA," "We Are in a Fight," and "U.S. Out of Central America" up the steps of the Capitol. All-People's Congress began chanting anti-Bush slogans outside the city's poshest hotels.

Gretchen Davidson, an employee at the Hyatt Regency Hotel on Union Square, said she watched outside at 8 p.m. and heard the coalition of demonstrators chanting the slogans of various causes.

"I think it started out to be anti-war and then people joined in and it seemed it was anti- whatever-happens," said Davidson, adding that she was observing the protesters thought
LOS ANGELES (AP) — It isn't exactly 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue but Ronald and Nancy Reagan are settling right in at 668 Saint Cloud Rd., thank you.

The Reagans moved here Friday from the White House after he completed an eight-year assignment in Washington as president of the United States.

Clusters of red, white and blue balloons and a "Welcome Ron and Nancy" sign remained up at one nearby house over the weekend, but otherwise the Reagans' new street looked like your average neighborhood of multimillion-dollar residences.

"Will be make a change?" Jeffrey Hyland, a real estate executive who lives near the Reagans, repeated the question to himself before answering. "Maybe for a couple of weeks," he said. "After that I think everything will be back to normal."

Small knots of tourists gathered along the narrow winding street from time to time over the weekend, hoping to catch a glimpse of the former president and first lady.

The Reagans' town, Ron, drove up in a red sports car and visited for about half an hour. While he was there, he and his parents appeared on a walkway that is visible from the road and waved.

Occasionally, tour vans stopped in front of the Reagans' place — a new stop on an established route that includes the homes of neighbors Zsa Zsa Gabor and Elizabeth Taylor.

Flowers were delivered for Mrs. Reagan. A Secret Service man came outside the walls for a moment. The Reagans continue to receive around-the-clock Secret Service protection.

Like all the streets in the fashionable hillside neighborhood called Bel-Air, Saint Cloud has no sidewalks — apparently part of an effort to protect its exclusivity when it was first laid out as a haven for blue-bloods in the 1920s.

In a television interview broadcast on the CBS program "60 Minutes" on Jan. 15, Mrs. Reagan, looking ahead to life after the White House, said not being on the front pages would be "fine with me."

"I will not miss being under the microscope," Mrs. Reagan said.

Indeed, attention is already shifting in President Bush and his wife Barbara as they get settled in at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue and away from the Reagans as they get settled in on Saint Cloud Road.

"We have our share of rubberneackers, but we have always had them," said Hyland. "The novel­ty, I think, is going to very quickly wear off."

As for the Reagans, they said during the flight from Washington that they still have unpacking to do.

"Up to now, I've been doing that," the former first lady told reporters. Asked whether the presi­dent was good at unpacking, she just laughed.

Reagans settle into new mansion

The demonstrators said they were rallying for the 49ers football team, appearing in the walkway that is visible from the road and waved.

Sgt. Jerry Senkir.

"We have our share of rubberneackers, but we have always had them," said Hyland. "The novel­ty, I think, is going to very quickly wear off."

As for the Reagans, they said during the flight from Washington that they still have unpacking to do.

"Up to now, I've been doing that," the former first lady told reporters. Asked whether the presi­dent was good at unpacking, she just laughed.

PROTEST

From page 8 they were rallying for the 49ers football team, appearing in the walkway that is visible from the road and waved.

Sgt. Jerry Senkir.

"We have our share of rubberneackers, but we have always had them," said Hyland. "The novel­ty, I think, is going to very quickly wear off."

As for the Reagans, they said during the flight from Washington that they still have unpacking to do.

"Up to now, I've been doing that," the former first lady told reporters. Asked whether the presi­dent was good at unpacking, she just laughed.

PROTEST

From page 8 they were rallying for the 49ers football team, appearing in the walkway that is visible from the road and waved.

Sgt. Jerry Senkir.

"We have our share of rubberneackers, but we have always had them," said Hyland. "The novel­ty, I think, is going to very quickly wear off."

As for the Reagans, they said during the flight from Washington that they still have unpacking to do.

"Up to now, I've been doing that," the former first lady told reporters. Asked whether the presi­dent was good at unpacking, she just laughed.

PROTEST

From page 8 they were rallying for the 49ers football team, appearing in the walkway that is visible from the road and waved.

Sgt. Jerry Senkir.

"We have our share of rubberneackers, but we have always had them," said Hyland. "The novel­ty, I think, is going to very quickly wear off."

As for the Reagans, they said during the flight from Washington that they still have unpacking to do.

"Up to now, I've been doing that," the former first lady told reporters. Asked whether the presi­dent was good at unpacking, she just laughed.

PROTEST

From page 8 they were rallying for the 49ers football team, appearing in the walkway that is visible from the road and waved.

Sgt. Jerry Senkir.

"We have our share of rubberneackers, but we have always had them," said Hyland. "The novel­ty, I think, is going to very quickly wear off."

As for the Reagans, they said during the flight from Washington that they still have unpacking to do.

"Up to now, I've been doing that," the former first lady told reporters. Asked whether the presi­dent was good at unpacking, she just laughed.

PROTEST

From page 8 they were rallying for the 49ers football team, appearing in the walkway that is visible from the road and waved.

Sgt. Jerry Senkir.

"We have our share of rubberneackers, but we have always had them," said Hyland. "The novel­ty, I think, is going to very quickly wear off."

As for the Reagans, they said during the flight from Washington that they still have unpacking to do.

"Up to now, I've been doing that," the former first lady told reporters. Asked whether the presi­dent was good at unpacking, she just laughed.

PROTEST

From page 8 they were rallying for the 49ers football team, appearing in the walkway that is visible from the road and waved.

Sgt. Jerry Senkir.

"We have our share of rubberneackers, but we have always had them," said Hyland. "The novel­ty, I think, is going to very quickly wear off."

As for the Reagans, they said during the flight from Washington that they still have unpacking to do.

"Up to now, I've been doing that," the former first lady told reporters. Asked whether the presi­dent was good at unpacking, she just laughed.

PROTEST

From page 8 they were rallying for the 49ers football team, appearing in the walkway that is visible from the road and waved.

Sgt. Jerry Senkir.

"We have our share of rubberneackers, but we have always had them," said Hyland. "The novel­ty, I think, is going to very quickly wear off."

As for the Reagans, they said during the flight from Washington that they still have unpacking to do.

"Up to now, I've been doing that," the former first lady told reporters. Asked whether the presi­dent was good at unpacking, she just laughed.

PROTEST

From page 8 they were rallying for the 49ers football team, appearing in the walkway that is visible from the road and waved.

Sgt. Jerry Senkir.

"We have our share of rubberneackers, but we have always had them," said Hyland. "The novel­ty, I think, is going to very quickly wear off."

As for the Reagans, they said during the flight from Washington that they still have unpacking to do.

"Up to now, I've been doing that," the former first lady told reporters. Asked whether the presi­dent was good at unpacking, she just laughed.

PROTEST

From page 8 they were rallying for the 49ers football team, appearing in the walkway that is visible from the road and waved.

Sgt. Jerry Senkir.

"We have our share of rubberneackers, but we have always had them," said Hyland. "The novel­ty, I think, is going to very quickly wear off."

As for the Reagans, they said during the flight from Washington that they still have unpacking to do.

"Up to now, I've been doing that," the former first lady told reporters. Asked whether the presi­dent was good at unpacking, she just laughed.

PROTEST

From page 8 they were rallying for the 49ers football team, appearing in the walkway that is visible from the road and waved.

Sgt. Jerry Senkir.

"We have our share of rubberneackers, but we have always had them," said Hyland. "The novel­ty, I think, is going to very quickly wear off."

As for the Reagans, they said during the flight from Washington that they still have unpacking to do.

"Up to now, I've been doing that," the former first lady told reporters. Asked whether the presi­dent was good at unpacking, she just laughed.

PROTEST

From page 8 they were rallying for the 49ers football team, appearing in the walkway that is visible from the road and waved.

Sgt. Jerry Senkir.

"We have our share of rubberneackers, but we have always had them," said Hyland. "The novel­ty, I think, is going to very quickly wear off."

As for the Reagans, they said during the flight from Washington that they still have unpacking to do.

"Up to now, I've been doing that," the former first lady told reporters. Asked whether the presi­dent was good at unpacking, she just laughed.

PROTEST

From page 8 they were rallying for the 49ers football team, appearing in the walkway that is visible from the road and waved.

Sgt. Jerry Senkir.

"We have our share of rubberneackers, but we have always had them," said Hyland. "The novel­ty, I think, is going to very quickly wear off."

As for the Reagans, they said during the flight from Washington that they still have unpacking to do.

"Up to now, I've been doing that," the former first lady told reporters. Asked whether the presi­dent was good at unpacking, she just laughed.

PROTEST

From page 8 they were rallying for the 49ers football team, appearing in the walkway that is visible from the road and waved.

Sgt. Jerry Senkir.

"We have our share of rubberneackers, but we have always had them," said Hyland. "The novel­ty, I think, is going to very quickly wear off."

As for the Reagans, they said during the flight from Washington that they still have unpacking to do.

"Up to now, I've been doing that," the former first lady told reporters. Asked whether the presi­
Services remember slain children

STOCKTON, Calif. (AP) — Grieving relatives and friends gathered at memorial services Saturday to mourn the five school children slain by a camouflage-garbed suicidal drifter.

"Although there are some people in the United States who do bad things, most of the people in the United States do good things," said Patricia Busher, principal of Cleveland Elementary School, where the killings occurred.

"The tragedy that occurred at our school could have happened anywhere. There is no way to protect us from this kind of tragedy ... this senseless tragedy."

"Tragedy has followed you," state Sen. John Garamendi, D-Walnut Grove, told the refugee families.

"They've not known the abject poverty that was experienced under the Jordanian and Egyptian occupation of those territories," he said.

"Peace can be created by creating a Palestine in the heart of Israel," Mannhoff said, or the Palestinians can be allowed in a state of co-habitation in Israel.

"If Yassar Arafat, the leader of the PLO, would call off the uprising," Israel would accept peace, said Mannhoff.

"If Yassar Arafat, the leader of the PLO, would call off the uprising," Israel would accept peace, said Mannhoff.
Classified

Campus Clubs

ACCOUNTING CLUB MEETING TUES AT 11:00 PM ER 214
CAL POLY MENS BOWLING TEAM JOIN US IN SIGNING UP Being a member of the community, let's all support the CARL KAREN 543-3230
Guys & Lesbians Meeting Tues 7pm For those interested in further information on Gay or Lesbian Matters. Call 951-226-1118 SHAKESPEARE READING GROUP Find out about weekly club activities

SKI CLUB MEETING Weds 2/20.Space 5-5:30pm
WANT TO GO! Sign up now for the ski travel trip. We don't let you down. Immediate! Also sign up for our Annual Hockey Trip. Call Steve 541-2265

Announcements

ACA SUPPORT GROUP Wed 8-9:30PM UU 119
CALL 688-4330 FOR CAL POLY STUDENT THEATER PRODUCTION OF RASHOMO
A Play in One Act JAN 23, 24-7:30PM 5422 SLO
CARGES CONVENTION AT POLY JAN 29-31
Contact Chumash Seminary Theater for your free pass. 543-7601

LATINOS UNITED IN CHICANO COMMUNITY ONGOING BETWEEN 1:00PM-6:00PM LET'S DO IT!

Mustang Daily Classifieds

LOCATED AT UU INFO DESK
The Ads close every day at 12 pm, and appear each day at 8 am. SHUTOKAN KARATE CLASSES START NEW GROUPS IN SCHOOL BREAK CALL 543-7353 FOR OUR SPORTS OFFICE OR CALL FOR DETAILS 746-4766

WAGE WAR WITH WILSON M. BAKER TUESDAY JAN 26TH 7PM CHUMASH Students 25, Public 3, Sponsored by USP student forum

Business Directory

 Lancome Paris
1402 14th St
San Francisco, CA 94103
415-928-4444

Pamper Your Skin
1402 14th St
San Francisco, CA 94103
415-928-4444

Hair Stylists
1402 14th St
San Francisco, CA 94103
415-928-4444

Make-Up Artists
1402 14th St
San Francisco, CA 94103
415-928-4444

Photographers
1402 14th St
San Francisco, CA 94103
415-928-4444

Videographers
1402 14th St
San Francisco, CA 94103
415-928-4444

Eve & Eve
1402 14th St
San Francisco, CA 94103
415-928-4444

Hair Stylists
1402 14th St
San Francisco, CA 94103
415-928-4444

Make-Up Artists
1402 14th St
San Francisco, CA 94103
415-928-4444

Photographers
1402 14th St
San Francisco, CA 94103
415-928-4444

Videographers
1402 14th St
San Francisco, CA 94103
415-928-4444
Tabloids harsh on Fergie

LONDON (AP) — Sarah Ferguson has been lauded as a breath of fresh air in the stuffy world of royal protocol when she married Prince Andrew two and a half years ago, but today the Duchess of York is known in some quarters as "Her Royal Idleness.

Britain's brassy tabloids also are calling her "Duchess Delilah" for what they view as her love of holidays and jet-setting lifestyle.

A recent scorecard listing the public engagements of Britain's royal family put Andrew, a Royal Navy lieutenant, at the bottom with only 30 last year.

Sarah was next with 55, less than half those performed by her husband's 89-year-old grandmother, Queen Mother Elizabeth.

Buckingham Palace noted that Andrew, as a naval officer, was not expected to have other commitments and that Sarah gave birth to their first child, Prince Harry, in March.

But a public opinion poll indicated 34 percent of Britons believed the Duchess had suffered in comparison to her husband, who was linked to Andrew more than any other royal in the past three years.

At first, the duchess was lauded for her breezy style and friendly, open manner. But she slowly became a target, mainly for her healthy appetite, sometimes pungent figure and fashion sense.

After an official visit to California last March, even the serious newspapers said Sarah and Andrew's behavior had been brash and vulgar, particularly her bold repartee with the press.

Critics considered the trip an expensive holiday and unwise to begin with, then only advertised a week after the tragedy.

"The Daily Mirror," which branded Sarah "Duchess Delilah," said she needed to tone down her pronouncements, particularly when addressing the public engagements of the royal family, said the duchess was suffering from a cooling in relations between the palace and the media.

"The modern responsibilities of the duchess are an embarrassment and a disgrace or at least a feeble effort to be a popular need for a bete noir of the public's royal family," said the Daily Mirror.

The Sunday Times also focused on the private lives of the royal family, said the duchess was suffering from a cooling in relations between the palace and the media.

"The modern responsibilities of the duchess are an embarrassment and a disgrace or at least a feeble effort to be a popular need for a bete noir of the public's royal family," said the Sunday Times.

"The modern responsibilities of the duchess are an embarrassment and a disgrace or at least a feeble effort to be a popular need for a bete noir of the public's royal family," said the Sunday Times.

---

Inaugural party includes send-up of George Bush

LOS ANGELES (AP) — As George Bush slept in the White House for the first time, a band of irreverent West Coast revelers toasted the new administration with a blend of caustic humor spoofing stuffy Capitol inaugural festivities.

The 1,000 partygoers at Friday night's L.A. Inaugural Ball greeted a Bush impersonator with boos and whistles as the look-alike mimicked the new president's down-home oratory in a satirical address.

"Here comes the theme," look-alike Chuck Kovaic said after being introduced as "Barry the Dim and Robin characters and warn in by a new moon, Liberty. "A new breeze. There's a new breeze blowing. We all can feel it, especially the million who choose to sleep in the great outdoors.

"As there's hope, there will be a new breeze," he continued.

But if that breeze blows too hard, it will extinguish the 1,000 points of light and you won't be able to read my lips."

The ball greeted the installa-

---

No More Hunger Pains

How about an executive who spends most of his time at the desk?

"As a general snack, it's not a good idea," he said in a recent interview. "I think once a year would be fine."

According to a U.S. Department of Agriculture analysis, a two-ounce package of pork rinds contains 315 calories; 32.5 grams of protein; 18.9 grams of fat; 58 milligrams of cholesterol, and 1,054 milligrams of sodium.

A small package of the hog chips has 20 percent more calories, almost twice the fat and double the sodium of a typical fast-food hamburger. But the snack also has almost three times more protein than the burger.

The fat, cholesterol and sodium, says Callaway, make pork rinds an unhealthy addition to a typical American diet that already is high in those elements. He said "fatty beans," the treat preferred by former President Reagan, are a much more healthy snack.

According to his staff, President Bush's cholesterol count is 192 — well above the pork rind double the sodium of a typical burger.

President Bush's cholesterol count is 192 — well above the pork rind double the sodium of a typical burger.

---

Pork rinds unhealthy, but president loves 'em

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pork rinds? They're loaded with cholesterol, salt and fat. But they crunch pleasingly and explode on the palate with delight before dissolving into a light, bacon-flavored residue. And President Bush loves them.

He was introduced to the crispy tan strips during his days as an oilman in West Texas. After a tough day in the oil fields, pork rinds, washed down with a cold beer, seems like a food of kings — or of presidents.

So when Bush left Texas for the political wars of Washington, he carried with him a continuing snack.

"This is an appropriate snack for somebody who is doing a lot of manual labor — an agricultural worker, a guy working on the chain gang, or building railroads," said Dr. Wayne Callaway, an associate clinical professor of nutrition at George Washington University. "Where they are burning up 4,000 calories a day sweating a lot, this would be fine."

---

bizness

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>No More Hunger Pains</th>
<th>Tabloids harsh on Fergie</th>
<th>Inaugural party includes send-up of George Bush</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Pork rinds unhealthy, but president loves 'em</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>How about an executive who spends most of his time at the desk?</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
| As there's hope, there will be a new breeze, he continued. "But if that breeze blows too hard, it will extinguish the 1,000 points of light and you won't be able to read my lips."

---

No More Hunger Pains

Give Your Sweetheart, friend or even your enemy a Valentine in our Special Personal edition of the Daily Classifieds Feb. 14th, Look for our "red" order form in The Graphic Arts Bld. 226 or the information desk in the U. S.

---

Inaugural party includes send-up of George Bush

LOS ANGELES (AP) — As George Bush slept in the White House for the first time, a band of irreverent West Coast revelers toasted the new administration with a blend of caustic humor spoofing stuffy Capitol inaugural festivities.

The 1,000 partygoers at Friday night's L.A. Inaugural Ball greeted a Bush impersonator with boos and whistles as the look-alike mimicked the new president's down-home oratory in a satirical address.

"Here comes the theme," look-alike Chuck Kovaic said after being introduced as "Barry the Dim and Robin characters and warn in by a new moon, Liberty. "A new breeze. There's a new breeze blowing. We all can feel it, especially the million who choose to sleep in the great outdoors.

"As there's hope, there will be a new breeze," he continued.

But if that breeze blows too hard, it will extinguish the 1,000 points of light and you won't be able to read my lips."

The ball greeted the installa-

---

Tabloids harsh on Fergie

LONDON (AP) — Sarah Ferguson has been lauded as a breath of fresh air in the stuffy world of royal protocol when she married Prince Andrew two and a half years ago, but today the Duchess of York is known in some quarters as "Her Royal Idleness."

The newspaper's headline blared. "Freelancing Fergie is the most unpopular member of the royal family," its story said.

The newspaper said Market and Opinion Research International Ltd. polled 301 adults last week. No margin of error was given.

News about Queen Elizabeth II and her family sells newspapers in Britain, and the duchess has suffered her share of barbs since she first was linked to Andrew more than three years ago.

At first, the duchess was lauded for her breezy style and friendly, open manner. But she slowly became a target, mainly for her healthy appetite, sometimes pungent figure and fashion sense.

After an official visit to California last March, even the serious newspapers said Sarah and Andrew's behavior had been brash and vulgar, particularly her bold repartee with the press.

Critics considered the trip an expensive holiday and unwise to begin with, then only advertised a week after the tragedy.

"The Daily Mirror," which branded Sarah "Duchess Delilah," said she needed to tone down her pronouncements, particularly when addressing the public engagements of the royal family, said the duchess was suffering from a cooling in relations between the palace and the media.

"The modern responsibilities of the duchess are an embarrassment and a disgrace or at least a feeble effort to be a popular need for a bete noir of the public's royal family," said the Sunday Times.

---

Inaugural party includes send-up of George Bush

LOS ANGELES (AP) — As George Bush slept in the White House for the first time, a band of irreverent West Coast revelers toasted the new administration with a blend of caustic humor spoofing stuffy Capitol inaugural festivities.

The 1,000 partygoers at Friday night's L.A. Inaugural Ball greeted a Bush impersonator with boos and whistles as the look-alike mimicked the new president's down-home oratory in a satirical address.

"Here comes the theme," look-alike Chuck Kovaic said after being introduced as "Barry the Dim and Robin characters and warn in by a new moon, Liberty. "A new breeze. There's a new breeze blowing. We all can feel it, especially the million who choose to sleep in the great outdoors.

"As there's hope, there will be a new breeze," he continued.

But if that breeze blows too hard, it will extinguish the 1,000 points of light and you won't be able to read my lips."

The ball greeted the installa-

---

No More Hunger Pains

Give Your Sweetheart, friend or even your enemy a Valentine in our Special Personal edition of the Daily Classifieds Feb. 14th, Look for our "red" order form in The Graphic Arts Bld. 226 or the information desk in the U. S.

Deadline Feb. 7th at noon!