ASI will let students decide on smoking in campus buildings

By Kelli Martin
Staff Writer

Despite a law prohibiting smoking in public buildings within San Luis Obispo city limits, Cal Poly students will get their chance next week to decide the fate of smoking in certain campus buildings.

The ASI Board of Directors voted unanimously Wednesday night to approve placement of a smoking regulation referendum on the 1991 Cal Poly general election ballot which would prohibit smoking in faculty offices. The referendum, if passed, specifically stipulates that President Warren Baker and his staff take into consideration the effects of secondhand smoke and take action to prohibit smoking in all enclosed areas on the Cal Poly campus.

Cal Poly does not fall under city jurisdiction and is not mandated by city law because the land is state-owned, said Mark Denholm, ASI chairman of the board.

Last quarter, a similar resolution calling for the ban of tobacco sales on campus was written and submitted to the ASI Board of Directors by Dr. Stephen L. Hansen, representing the San Luis Obispo County Tobacco Control Shop.

The referendum will appear on the 1991 Cal Poly general election ballot which would prohibit smoking in faculty offices. The referendum, if passed, specifically stipulates that President Warren Baker and his staff take into consideration the effects of secondhand smoke and take action to prohibit smoking in all enclosed areas on the Cal Poly campus.

Two-day open house showcases ag school

By Lori Cheseman

Last summer the School of Agriculture's Lemonade Committee began making lemonade from a lemon. A lemon was what the School of Agriculture called the cancellation of Poly Royal. And that's how the Lemonade Committee got its start. The committee is made up of 15 students within the School of Agriculture, and is put on every year.

The showcase begins on Friday, April 19 for more than 1,000 elementary and high school students who will be bused in from local areas within an hour of San Luis Obispo.

Friday is reserved exclusively for student guests, and each department within the School of Agriculture will be hosting a different grade.

Poly logging team 'rolls' over opponents

By Malek Jesse
Staff Writer

Log rolling, ax throwing and powerbuck chainsaw events were a few of the feats the Cal Poly logging team took on at a regional competition last weekend.

Cal Poly placed second overall out of 15 other schools from a variety of Western states, said Colin Larson, logging club president. The Western Nationals competition is held annually by the Association of Western Forestry Clubs. This year's contest was held in Fort Collins, Colorado from April 4-6.

"Out of our 15 team members competing, 13 placed," said Larson, a natural resources management senior. "Almost half of us are NRM majors," he said, "but there are a lot of other majors that get involved too."

The logging club has 21 members, including four women. Two women and three men placed in the top 25 of their events.

Connected to neighboring countries by high-speed trains and freeways, the park is expected to attract visitors from around Europe. Officials expect 11 million visitors in its first year.

Controversial whaling fleet kills 327 whales

TOKYO (AP) — Japan’s whaling fleet has returned from the Antarctic Ocean after killing 327 whales as part of a research program opposed by environmentalists, officials said today.

Japanese officials say they hope the expeditions, which ended Tuesday, will convince the International Whaling Commission that there are enough minke whales to allow a limited resumption of commercial whaling.

Opponents of whaling accuse Japan, the world’s largest consumer of whale meat, of using the research provision as a means of protecting and maintaining its whaling industry. The meat from the whales killed is distributed throughout Jap

Candy ad pulled after girls’ schools protest

HACKETTSTOWN, N.J. (AP) — Chalk one up for all-girls schools.

M&M-Mars Inc. has pulled an advertisement for its Twix chocolate bar that shows a girl behind bars after being told by her parents that she should attend an all-girls school.

In the “Bad News-Good News” commercial, which first aired two weeks ago, a girl is told, “Sorry, your Dad and I think you should attend an all-girls school.”

The commercial, which was criticized by the National Coalition Against Silly Songs for being sexist, was pulled by the candy maker as a matter of policy.

New Kids lead singer dodges arson charge

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Danny Wahlberg, lead singer and “bad boy” of New Kids on the Block, agreed to make public-service announcements on such topics as fire safety and drugs in return for eventual dismissal of a charge stemming from a hotel fire.

Under an agreement reached Wednesday between prosecutors and Wahlberg’s defense lawyers, an arson charge was reduced to criminal mischief against the 21-year-old singer. The case will be put on hold until Wahlberg completes the public service announcements.

He originally faced up to 20 years in jail on the first-degree arson charge. Wahlberg was arrested March 27 after a hallway fire in the historic Bealack Hotel, where he was staying. There were no injuries and only a small patch of carpet was burned.

Law enforcement officials from Sacramento and San Joaquin counties apprehended Shinkel about six miles southwest of Lod where he was staying with a friend. A SWAT team was used to seize Shinkel in the house.

Shinkel has not commented on the case since his arrest.

Road race, criterium highlight Cal Poly Classic this weekend

By Michael Belgard
Staff Writer

The Cal Poly Classic rides again this Saturday and Sunday. Riders from across the state will converge on Crestron for a road race over a 32-mile loop on Saturday. Sunday the riders will move to Cal Poly for a criterium race around the residence halls.

Racing will take place in six divisions, four men's and two women's.

Race director Mimi Karl, an engineering technology junior, said that the Sunday criterium promises to be an exhibition of speed.

Meanwhile, the road course will pose unique challenges for the riders, Karl said.

"There are a number of steep climbs on the course, and to ensure that the pace will remain fast, a valuable 'Ring of the Mountain' points prize will be placed at the top of the steepest hill. In addition, a 'hot spot' points sprint will be placed on a flat section of the course," Karl said.

The Cal Poly Wheelmen are currently atop the Western Collegiate Cycling Conference standings.

In July, Japan, Norway and Iceland tried unsuccessfully to convince the commission to exclude minke, a relatively abundant smaller species, from a worldwide moratorium on commercial whaling. The commission imposed the moratorium in 1986 to allow scientists to study whale stocks without the disruptions caused by whaling.

Japan officially halted its commercial whaling at the end of the 1986-87 season, when it caught 1,941 whales. It then began a program of research whaling, which under the commission charter can be conducted by members at any time.

In the men's A division, seniors Todd Howler, a physical education senior, and Rich Keenan, a mechanical engineering senior, are among the favorites, said Esteban Chavez, English freshman and Wheelman racer. Biological sciences junior Nicole Amaro and Karl are among the favorites in the women's A division.

Racing will begin on Saturday at 11 a.m. along Highways 58, 41 and 229 as well as O'Donovan and La Panza Roads. Sunday's racing will get underway at 9 a.m. around the South Mountain dorms, known as the "red brick" dorms.

Volunteers are needed to serve as course marshals to ensure the safety of riders and spectators. Anyone interested can call Neil Trater at 543-0893. Refreshments will be provided for volunteers.

The Mustangs men's tennis team visited the Bruins' den on Tuesday and were clawed. UCLA won the match 6-0 in Los Angeles.

UCLA, the No. 1 team in the country in Division I play, dropped the Mustangs' overall record to 9-8. UCLA's record is now 24-1 for the season.

Platt said UCLA played exceptionally well and except for Ollivier's contest, the other players' matches were pretty rough.

"We are catering to the local students this year," said Sabol, associate dean for the School of Agriculture and the events adviser. "We want them to look at Cal Poly as an option for their school and for their career."

Each department will spend two hours with their group of students in planned activities and events.

The agricultural education department is taking 400 kindergarten through second-grade students on a "farm tour" of the animal units and crop areas, while ornamental horticulture has 250 sixth- and seventh-graders that will be guided through 24 learning displays of horticulture.

High school students will spend their day with computers in agricultural engineering or marketing techniques in agricultural business.

Sabol said the learning experience these students will receive will show them that there is more to agriculture than a hard day's work in the field.

"When we start with young children, we're setting the stage for a long-term education program," Sabol said. "We want these students to come back next year and keep coming back to learn more."

After the two-hour program, students will eat a bag lunch with milk provided by the school and then go on to activities such as a rodeo that teaches techniques and concern for general animal welfare, or a tractor traction demonstration.

Saturday, April 20 is an open house for the whole community. Invitations have been sent out to parents, alumni, new students and special guests within the agricultural industry.

The day will include displays, shows and tours of the department and their activities. From a horse show to apple-making, a community flower show and logging demonstrations, the day is full of events for everyone.

Like Kunzman, many women who grow up in all-female and mixed groups claim that men are more relaxed and easier to live with than women. But whether this is because men are “better” roommates is questionable. “Women may be more accepting of male roommates' drawbacks, because they're men,” says Adele Thomas, M.S.W, a psychological counselor at Ramapo College of New Jersey, in Mahwah.

The only people this referendum would directly affect if it passed is the faculty, Denholm said.

Under the current campus smoking policy, smoking is restricted from all public buildings. The only exceptions are individual faculty offices and dorm rooms.

Smoking is prohibited during faculty office hours, but is allowed at all other times.

"The only place you can smoke on this campus right now is in the faculty offices, outside and in the dorms," Denholm said. "But because the dorms are more of a private sector, the referendum will not regulate the dorms, and they will make their own policy on this issue."

If the referendum is passed by the students, however, President Baker will still make the final decision of what actions will be taken.

Whitehead said if the referendum passes, the students would be saying, "Not only do we not want teachers to smoke during office hours, but we don't want them to smoke in their offices so we can enter a smoke-free environment. We don't want to be sitting in a classroom and have smoke coming through the vents."

Passage of the referendum would serve as a vote in letting President Baker know how the students feel about smoking on campus.

Whitehead said she was troubled by the referendum's effect on the faculty, but said professors would have their chance to offer their point of view.

"I am concerned because this affects the faculty a lot, but they would certainly get an opportunity to express their opinions through the Academic Senate," said Whitehead. "Either the faculty would say this is ridiculous, or maybe the non-smoking faculty would say 'it's about time.'"
