Hansen sues Poly, state
Former volleyball star says school liable in '91 shooting

By Marla R. Van Schuyver
Staff Writer

President Bill Clinton's popularity could plunge
By Peter Culver
Staff Writer

Several witnesses testified that the women fought often. Kaaiai claimed that the fights were a result of her objections to Hansen's alleged cocaine abuse.

Culver added that the public is hopeful, "The public is hoping," Culver said. "It's probably likely his popularity will stay." Culver said in order for Clinton to retain his positive image in the next 100 days, there must be cooperation by Congress, an economic program that is not "too excessive," and no lingering scandals within his cabinet.

"If Clinton doesn't deliver, his approval rating is going to go down," he said. "But people are skeptical and anxious."

Fetzer said the main issues during this honeymoon of the presidency will be health care, political campaign reform, linking support for education and national service, and creating job programs.

Fetzer said the economic issue will linger.

"If Clinton doesn't deliver, his approval rating is going to go down," he said. "But people are skeptical and anxious."

Fetzer said the main issues during this honeymoon of the presidency will be health care, political campaign reform, linking support for education and national service, and creating job programs.

"The public is hopeful," Culver said. "It's probably likely his popularity will stay." Culver said in order for Clinton to retain his positive image in the next 100 days, there must be cooperation by Congress, an economic program that is not "too excessive," and no lingering scandals within his cabinet.

"If Clinton doesn't deliver, his approval rating is going to go down," he said. "But people are skeptical and anxious."

Fetzer said the main issues during this honeymoon of the presidency will be health care, political campaign reform, linking support for education and national service, and creating job programs.

Fetzer said the economic issue will linger.

"The public is hopeful," Culver said. "It's probably likely his popularity will stay." Culver said in order for Clinton to retain his positive image in the next 100 days, there must be cooperation by Congress, an economic program that is not "too excessive," and no lingering scandals within his cabinet.

"If Clinton doesn't deliver, his approval rating is going to go down," he said. "But people are skeptical and anxious."

Fetzer said the main issues during this honeymoon of the presidency will be health care, political campaign reform, linking support for education and national service, and creating job programs.

Fetzer said the economic issue will linger.

"The public is hopeful," Culver said. "It's probably likely his popularity will stay." Culver said in order for Clinton to retain his positive image in the next 100 days, there must be cooperation by Congress, an economic program that is not "too excessive," and no lingering scandals within his cabinet.

"If Clinton doesn't deliver, his approval rating is going to go down," he said. "But people are skeptical and anxious."

Fetzer said the main issues during this honeymoon of the presidency will be health care, political campaign reform, linking support for education and national service, and creating job programs.

Fetzer said the economic issue will linger.
The cease-fire proclaimed by Iraq as a "good will gesture" to President Clinton broke down Thursday after just one day, but U.N. officials said that should not hinder the resumption of weapons inspections.

Iraqi officials on Thursday announced the resumption of weapons inspections, saying they were ready to welcome inspectors who were expected to arrive in Baghdad on Friday.

The cease-fire was the result of discussions between Iraq and the United Nations, which is trying to end the Iraqi government's three-week-old standoff with the U.N. over weapons inspections.

The cease-fire was hailed by U.S. and British officials as a significant step toward bringing an end to the conflict in the Persian Gulf.

Iraqi officials said the cease-fire was a result of the U.N. inspectors' agreement to destroy five additional sites, including a chemical weapons plant, and to allow U.N. observers to visit other suspected sites.

The cease-fire was expected to begin at 8 a.m. local time (0300 GMT) and to last for 72 hours. However, it was later extended to 96 hours.

The cease-fire was also expected to allow for the resumption of normal life in the country, including the reopening of schools and the lifting of some restrictions.

The United Nations had announced earlier that it would begin deploying a force of up to 1,000 military observers to monitor the cease-fire and to ensure that Iraq complies with the inspections regime.

The U.N. mission would be headquartered in Baghdad and would include representatives from a number of countries, including the United States, Britain, and France.

The U.N. mission would also have the authority to take military action if Iraq violates the cease-fire or resists inspections.

The cease-fire was welcomed by the international community, which had expressed concern about the possibility of a resumption of hostilities between Iraq and its allies.

The cease-fire was seen as a major step forward in the efforts to bring an end to the conflict in the Persian Gulf, which has been going on for more than two decades.

The cease-fire was also welcomed by the Iraqi people, who have been suffering from the effects of the conflict for many years.

The cease-fire was seen as a sign of hope for a peaceful resolution of the conflict and for a better future for the region.
College students still reluctant to discuss AIDS

By Linda Aha

Despite the extensive information that is available about AIDS, college students still fail to talk about the disease with prospective partners, according to a recent UCLA study.

"I don't have any indication that (education) helps people talk about it," said Marsha Bol linger, coordinator for the San Luis Obispo County AIDS Program.

Sophia Farsad, a coordinator for the Cal Poly's Health Center Sexuality Team, agreed. "Kids need to change their behavior," she said.

The UCLA study also found that of the 370 heterosexual students polled, almost two-thirds said they don't use condoms.

"The first step is communication that is available about the disease," said Susan Ford, a health educator at the Health Center. "The second is to take primary steps. You're really making a choice about personal safety." Despite the results of the UCLA study, health educators said more students are asking about the risk of AIDS.

"I see couples coming in together, so they're talking about it," Bol linger said.

Neil S. Wenger, chief author of the UCLA study, suggested that when doctors teach patients about AIDS, antibody tests for HIV, the virus that causes the disease, should also be offered. By including the test, Wenger found that discernments between students and their sexual partners are almost twice as likely to occur.

Farsad said she thinks many students don't discuss AIDS because they are afraid to find out if they are infected.

"Some just would rather not know," she said. "If you hear "HIV test," it makes you think you could have it."

The UCLA study divided students into three groups. One-third of the subjects were informed about the dangers of contracting AIDS through unprotected sex.

Another third were given an AIDS antibody test in addition to information about the disease, and the last third were left alone.

The students were questioned both at the start of the study and again six months later. Questions were put to them to determine whether or not they had asked their sexual partners if they were infected with the AIDS virus. The study found that students who received the HIV test were considerably more likely to have asked their partners about their AIDS status than those students who had only been given information about the disease.

Researchers from the study, however, warned that infected lovers might lie, and that "the unaware might be lulled into unprotected sexual behaviors by unscrupulous partners."

Bollinger was not surprised about the study's findings regarding low condom use among students.

"But with smoking, you only have to worry about you and the cigarette," Bollinger said. "With AIDS, it's between you and others. It's much more complex."

The Associated Press contributed to this report.
EDITORIAL

My relationship with the Stalls is a love/hate relationship. I hate to eat there, and I'd love to get the hell out.

By Matthew Hoy

When I was lectured last quarter on “The Rules” at the Stalls, I had committed the mortal sin of taking some garlic bread (great for that after dinner date) from the pasta line and then eating it while waiting for my dead slice of coke. I did not realize my horrendous error until the flash-haired crew of the stalls pointed it out.

“Do you think you’re doing.”

“Eating,” I say. (Heavily laden with obnoxious temperament.) “You’re not allowed to have that unless you eat the food from the pasta line.”

“I’m sorry, I didn’t know that. Do you want it back?”

“No. You should know the rules by now.”

“I’m not allowed to jump lines. It’s out there on the flyers on the tables.”

“Well, I’m sorry I haven’t eaten here yet this week. I have not had the opportunity to read the flyer.”

“Just don’t do it again.”

That was our conversation ended. And then I realized it. Who does she think she is? Who does she think she is? Is this any other restaurant I would not have been approached and spoken to with that tone. I would not be defending myself from an accusation; I would merely be informed of a salient fact and then kindly left to attempt to enjoy my meal.

But I got my butt chewed out. HELP! I don’t understand!

And another thing. What are THE RULES?

I’ve never seen a copy of THE RULES. I’ve never been told all THE RULES. I have been able through incidents such as these to glean a few of THE RULES.

But I still feel incomplete. I am, in ignorance of all of THE RULES. Someone please help me.

After hours of digestion and quiet contemplation I understand. It was all in the housing agreement I signed. In that one moment of vegetation while signing that document, I gave away all rights to my digestive tract.

I have to eat here! I have no rights, they already have my money. I cannot withhold payment.

So now I enter those horrid halls, eating that stuff (food) with quiet desperation, hoping that someday, my father will let me move off-campus.

Matthew Hoy is a journalism junior who first quarter reporting for the Mustang Daily.

MIDDLE EAST REBUTTAL

In writing this letter, I am expressing deep concern over a letter to the editor titled "Jordan, Egypt and Israel" (Mustang Daily, Jan. 20). In this letter, Robert C. Ewing shows a deep lack of familiarity with the region and with the U.N. Security Council Resolution 181, which in 1947 partitioned Palestine into an Israeli State and a Palestinian State. The new state of Israel immediately invaded the West Bank and Gaza Strip, land intended for the State of Palestine.

The writer then states that Israel "liberated" the Gaza Strip and the West Bank in 1967, as they were territories belonging to Israel. I ask him, why would two territories, both with pure Arab populations, feel "liberated" when Israel took over? As an excuse for Israel’s attack on its Arab neighbors, the writer uses Resolution 242, claiming it allowed Israel to attack its neighbors in order to acquire the two territories. I do not know if the writer was at the time even aware of the U.N. Security Council Resolution of Nov. 22, 1967, after Israel had invaded the Arab territories. If he read the entire resolution, he would have realized that it was written against Israel, and in the first subclause of the first operative clause, the Security Council demands the “withdrawal of Israeli armed forces from the territories occupied in the recent conflict.”

I also ask the writer to recall the 1983 Geneva Convention, which once again ordered the withdrawal of Israeli forces from these territories. I was most disturbed by the slanders and remarks claiming Arabs and Palestinians were "schemers," which I have read Security Council Resolution 242 and have done extensive research on the Palestinian Conflict. I can tell Robert that, by International Law, Israel has no claim to those two territories. Furthermore, I would like Robert to do a little research on the topic so we do not have to read any more of his unsupported facts.

Basem Elsokay

AERONAUTICAL ENGINEER

Letters to the editor should be brief, less than 350 words and include the author’s name, phone number and major or occupation. Because of space limitations, shorter letters have a better chance of appearing. Letters may be edited for length and clarity. Submission does not insure publication. Letters should be addressed to the letters box in the Mustang Daily office, Graphic Arts Building room 226.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor-in-Chief: Peter Hartklaub
News Editor: John Hubbell
Sports Editor: Bryan Bailey
A&E Editor: Katherine Gill
Features Editor: Edwin Ball
In-depth Editor: Cam Homan
City Editor: Carolyn Nielsen
Online Editor: Sherry Guttler
Illustrator: Matthew Hubal

Monthly Staff 1992 - 1993

By Matthew Hoy

The Stalls: a horror to all dorm residents.

Eating there is like an Italian Jones adventure. Will be be able to escape the evil Greek Clown? When the Hunter Tuck get him before he gets it?

My relationship with the Stalls is a love/hate relationship. I hate to eat there, and I’d love to get the hell out.

It’s not that the food there is really bad, it’s downright inedible. The theme for the stalls should be: “The Stalls: The next best thing to hamblocc.

I feel as though I’ve been cheated by the Stalls. I decided to eat dinner there one night and the little sign with all the Dayglo colors said “Hunter Steak.”

I’ve always wondered if putting a constructive comment like “This food sucks,” in the comment box would really provide a response.

I just don’t understand why the stalls management can be so scarily nice to people who make comments like that. Their typical response to this type of comment is something like, “We’re sorry you feel that way. Blah, Blah, Blah.” My response would be: “Stuff it, sucker.”

But I can understand the people who enter comments like those. I, once, in my more foolish youthful years, submitted a complaint about being served a salad before I even ordered a bottle so I don’t have vegetable droppings in my mustard.

I just don’t understand why having carrot strands, don’t you get bottles for the mustard. I don’t like having carrot strands, vegetable droppings in my mustard.

So you can realize my dismay.

By Matthew Hoy

I had committed the mortal sin of taking some garlic bread (great for that after dinner date) from the pasta line and then eating it while waiting for my dead slice of coke.

I did not realize my horrendous error until the flash-haired crew of the stalls pointed it out.

“What do you think you’re doing.”

“Eating,” I say. (Heavily laden with obnoxious temperament.) “You’re not allowed to have that unless you eat the food from the pasta line.”

“I’m sorry, I didn’t know that. Do you want it back?”

“No. You should know the rules by now.”

“I’m not allowed to jump lines. It’s out there on the flyers on the tables.”

“Well, I’m sorry I haven’t eaten here yet this week. I have not had the opportunity to read the flyer.”

“Just don’t do it again.”

That was our conversation ended. And then I realized it. Who does she think she is? Who does she think she is? Is this any other restaurant I would not have been approached and spoken to with that tone. I would not be defending myself from an accusation; I would merely be informed of a salient fact and then kindly left to attempt to enjoy my meal.

But I got my butt chewed out. HELP! I don’t understand!

And another thing. What are THE RULES?

I’ve never seen a copy of THE RULES. I’ve never been told all THE RULES. I have been able through incidents such as these to glean a few of THE RULES.

But I still feel incomplete. I am, in ignorance of all of THE RULES. Someone please help me.

After hours of digestion and quiet contemplation I understand. It was all in the housing agreement I signed. In that one moment of vegetation while signing that document, I gave away all rights to my digestive tract.

I have to eat here! I have no rights, they already have my money. I cannot withhold payment.

So now I enter those horrid halls, eating that stuff (food) with quiet desperation, hoping that someday, my father will let me move off-campus.

Matthew Hoy is a journalism junior who first quarter reporting for the Mustang Daily.

MIDDLE EAST REBUTTAL

In writing this letter, I am expressing deep concern over a letter to the editor titled "Jordan, Egypt and Israel" (Mustang Daily, Jan. 20). In this letter, Robert C. Ewing shows a deep lack of familiarity with the region and with the U.N. Security Council Resolution 181, which in 1947 partitioned Palestine into an Israeli State and a Palestinian State. The new state of Israel immediately invaded the West Bank and Gaza Strip, land intended for the State of Palestine.

The writer then states that Israel "liberated" the Gaza Strip and the West Bank in 1967, as they were territories belonging to Israel. I ask him, why would two territories, both with pure Arab populations, feel "liberated" when Israel took over? As an excuse for Israel’s attack on its Arab neighbors, the writer uses Resolution 242, claiming it allowed Israel to attack its neighbors in order to acquire the two territories. I do not know if the writer was at the time even aware of the U.N. Security Council Resolution of Nov. 22, 1967, after Israel had invaded the Arab territories. If he read the entire resolution, he would have realized that it was written against Israel, and in the first subclause of the first operative clause, the Security Council demands the "withdrawal of Israeli armed forces from the territories occupied in the recent conflict.”

I also ask the writer to recall the 1983 Geneva Convention, which once again ordered the withdrawal of Israeli forces from those territories. I was most disturbed by the slanders and remarks claiming Arabs and Palestinians were "schemers," which I have read Security Council Resolution 242 and have done extensive research on the Palestinian Conflict. I can tell Robert that, by International Law, Israel has no claim to those two territories. Furthermore, I would like Robert to do a little research on the topic so we do not have to read any more of his unsupported facts.

Basem Elsokay

AERONAUTICAL ENGINEER

Letters to the editor should be brief, less than 350 words and include the author’s name, phone number and major or occupation. Because of space limitations, shorter letters have a better chance of appearing. Letters may be edited for length and clarity. Submission does not insure publication. Letters should be addressed to the letters box in the Mustang Daily office, Graphic Arts Building room 226.
RESERVE OFFICERS' TRAINING CORPS

CAL POLY SKI CLUB

North Shore
FEB 4 - 7 = $40

MT Bachelor
FEB 12 - 15 = $60

Spring Trip!
March 20 - 27
in Steamboat
Colorado
$369

- Transportation
- 4 days lift tickets
- Lodging

Deposit Due
FEB. 5th

STOP by U.U., M - F, 10 - 2

SUMMER SCHOOL FOR PEOPLE ON THEIR WAY TO THE TOP.

If you didn’t sign up for ROTC as a freshman or sophomore, you can still catch up to your classmates by attending Army ROTC Camp Challenge, a paid six-week summer course in leadership training. By the time you have graduated from college, you’ll have the credentials of an Army officer. You’ll also have the confidence and discipline it takes to succeed in college and beyond.

Find out more. Contact Captain Eric Wagner, 756-7682 or 756-7684.

ARMY ROTC
THE SMARTEST COLLEGE COURSE YOU CAN TAKE.

It’s still easy to stand out in some places at Cal Poly.

Just be a woman.

As more women enter technical majors, they’re finding many uphill battles having little to do with test scores. What they say next week may surprise you.

G THE A GENDER P

A three-part series beginning Monday.
From page 1:

"Now that the program has been canceled, I think it's important to have some sort of leadership programs," he added. "For the leadership skills (the ropes course) could provide, it really doesn't cost a lot of money.

"It is a good token to the students that the ASI wants to offer something they can take away with them."

Several of the directors showed an interest in the ropes course.

"I'm a part of the Associated College Unions Executive Committee and I'm always being told about how well organized our leadership is," said Erica Brown, a director from the College of Professional Studies. "A lot of the success we have is due to the bonding we do in the beginning of the year."

CLINTON

From page 1:

"a 2,000-pound gorilla staring him in the face," — is one of the most obvious problems.

Culver said Clinton's economic package to Congress may include a 10- to 15-cent gasoline tax.

Culver and McKibbin respectively said Clinton would almost immediately allow homosexuals into the military and also would remove Bush's gag order for distributing abortion information at federally-funded clinics.

Culver also said Clinton would, by executive order, allow federal tissue to be used in medical research.

On the issue of foreign policy, McKibbin, Culver and Fetzer agree that there will not be a big change.

Clinton will not be as quick to use military force, Culver said, but his focus will be more on changing domestic policy.

"I expect continuity," McKibbin said. "I think he will follow Bush's positions."

The three professors also agreed Clinton's personality would bring a change to the presidency.

"His enthusiasm and energy are a good mix," Fetzer said. "He enjoys being president."

McKibbin said Clinton is "a very likable guy — kind of a Ronald Reagan with brains."

"Oh, that wasn't nice," he added. "It just slipped out."

"White Bush liked to talk to kings and queens, Clinton likes to hang out with people at McDonald's."

SCHOLARSHIPS!

Study at a university in a country of your choice for one academic year 1994-95
S.L.O. Rotary Club
is now taking applications for graduate/undergraduate students and teachers of the handicapped

Valoried at:
$15,000.00 to $20,000.00

Contact:
F.E. McNamara -390 Higuera S.L.O. • 643-7773

ASi's current liability in­

There has never been a time when so many changes were taking place. Remaining competitive and strong in such times requires vision and the commitment to follow that vision.

W. J. demonstrates this commitment by its emphasis on World Class Manufacturing techni­ques and a corporate program of Continuous Quality Improvement. We feel these are the keys to success for the future.

They're also the keys to making a differ­ence right now. From microcircuit electronics to semiconductor processing equipment to environmental services, we maintain our leadership through a commitment to research and development, responsiveness, and quality management.

We're looking for new talent with a vision for tomorrow. If you have a BS, MS or PhD in one of the following disciplines, we'd like to meet with you.

DISCIPLINES:
EE, ET/EL, ET/EM, CSC, SPE, MIS, ME

ON CAMPUS INTERVIEW DATES:
Tuesday & Wednesday, February 2 & 3

For an immediate appointment, contact your Placement Center or contact College Recruiting at (415) 833-2596. Watkins Johnson Company, 3333 Hillview Avenue, Palo Alto, CA 94304. An equal opportunity employer m/t/f/v.
Every Monday, a sports page that gives you a comprehensive report on all there is to know about Cal Poly athletes.

Software Engineers - MFG Engineers

Our critical care ventilator products. Number One in the U.S., are the life-saving products of PURITAN-BENNITT... products that are shaping tomorrow's technology... products that reflect our vision of GLOBAL RESPIRATORY PRESENCE.

That vision demands the world's best creative talent, working together as an integrated team. If you'd like to help shape the future of respiratory care "round the world," we invite you to take a closer look at us.

Technical & Company Presentation
Date: Wednesday, February 10, 1993
Time: 6:00pm - 8:00pm
Place: Staff Dining (Bldg 19)

On-Campus Interviews:
Date: Thursday, February 11, 1993
Place: Career Services
SIGN UP NOW!

Bring us your unique talents, and we'll give you freedom to innovate, opportunity to take projects from inception to completion, empowerment to make your own decisions, and responsibility to take ownership. Equal Opportunity Employer.

Get Ready for Initiation
- New Brothers
- Fraternity Mixers
- Family Dinners
- Formal Dinners
- Greek Week

Campus Interviews
EXCEPTIONAL SUMMER POSITION
CAMPaines FOR BOYS AND GIRLS
NE PA (440-441) SPORTS-Oriented
A.E.S.S. AGENCY FOR ALLEY LEAGUE, BASKETBALL, SOCCER, VOLLEYBALL, BASEBALL.
Prep boys & girls; all ages. We have openings for all skill levels, from novice to experienced players.
Your opportunity to earn a $500 PRIZE. Call 756-1295 for information. View photos.
Tues, Fri, Feb 16 - EXPO '93.
WASHINGTON, N.Y. 11050-2216 OR 516-883-3067

For Sale
- FOR SALE: PET RABBIT
- FOR SALE: CAGE, KENNEL, NUTS
- Full Waterbed good cond. Best offer Call 549-2196 - Care

SNOWBOARD
K2 GRYPHER $160
CAMPUS STORE
CALL 543-8925

Roommates
- FEMALE ROOMMATE DESIRED
- $250 ROOM OR $2 TO SHARE
- MIN TO POLY CALL 549-8877

- The Au-Style bedroom in the attic with left sheets with 3 guys. Jan is the last one in and out at 547-1030 Live legs but not home

Rental Housing
- $250 BOTTOM HOUSE OR $250 TO SHARE
- CLOSE TO POLY-CITY 04-5559

- 487 MARSH ST.
JEFFREY TERRACE HOUSE

- 4 BDRM 1 BTH HOOK UP
CALL 543-9119

W ROOM 3 BATH, WALK TO POLY, NEW HOUSE, KITCHEN, ALVAY NOW GROUPS OF 3, OR I CALL 543-0461

- Open House, Christmas household $250-300 near Poly, view, quiet home, dec, water/price 444-4753

- HOMES FOR SALE
BUYING A HOUSE OR CONDO
FOR A FREE LIST OF MANUS & CONDOS FOR SALE IN OLO CALL
ST. YVVE MILLION 549-8070

SAVE 50% WHILE SUPPLIES LAST
ON SALES NOW!
Take me out to the ballgame

- Did anyone else think that Bill Clinton was going to throw Al Gore a fastball after the National Basketball team is now accepted applications from anyone who can touch the ceiling.
- Now that football season is over for every California football team, we can concentrate on more important things: 42 days 'til spring training.
- Another football season has come and gone, reminding me that I miss Howard Cosell.
- Who would win a race between Musty the Mustang, a Chia Pet and a UC Santa Cruz Banana Slug?
- Bore one for women's rights: On the wallet-size schedule for the week of Jan. 9-15, the women's games are listed on the front and the men's games are listed on the back.
- Did you hear Faith No More will be performing at the postgame show following Saturday's women's basketball game. Of course, the music will start blaring 24/7 hours after the Mustangs tipoff.
- February 6. Mark that date on your calendars Mustang fans. At home are the women's tennis (2 p.m.), wrestling (3 p.m.), women's basketball (5:45 p.m.) and men's basketball (8:00 p.m.) teams.
- At halftime of that Feb. 6 match, a Chia Pet game will be the first-ever Mustang Media Game, in which the local media will take on the Cal Poly athletic staff and coaches.
- Men's coach coach Wolfgang Gartner, women's soccer coach Alex Crosser and volleyball coach Craig Cummings are expected to compete on the staff team coached by Associate Athletic Director Marilyn McNeil.
- The media team will include members of KSBY (Ch. 6), KKAL, KVEC, the Telegram-Tribune and your very own Mustang Daily.

Sumaya Agha/Mustang Daily

Cal Poly third baseman Brady Sebek receives hitting instruction from assistant coach Doug Nole.

Mustangs hope for road wins

Coming off a respectable weekend, the Cal Poly men's basketball team could jump back in the thick of the conference race with wins tonight and tomorrow.

The Mustangs (3-4 in California Collegiate Athletic Association, 7-9 overall) take the road to face Cal Poly Pomona (1-3, 6-6) tonight at 7:30 p.m.

Cal Poly will face a tougher test Saturday night versus Cal State Los Angeles (3-1, 11-3).

The Mustangs' starting point guard, Jeff Oliver, will make the trip and likely see playing time. Oliver, who missed the last two games with a calf injury, is averaging 16 points, 3.4 assists and 1.7 steals per outing.

Oliver's replacement last week, Kyle Ellis, filled in admirably, scoring 17 versus Chapman on Friday and a career-high 18 on Saturday against Cal State Dominguez Hills.

The Golden Eagles have the NCAA's leading scorer in Tony McGe, whose averaging 29.7 points.

Cal Poly at noon

Pomona @ 7:30 p.m.

WRESTLING

@ Mott Gym at 7:30 p.m.

SWIMMING

Cal Poly @ CS Bakersfield

WRESTLING

Cal Poly @ Boise St.

WOMEN'S TENNIS

Cal Poly @ Cal Lutheran

SPORTS MONDAY

No events scheduled

WRESTLING

Cal Poly vs. Bakersfield Univ.

@ Mott Gym at 7 p.m.

WOMEN'S TENNIS

Cal Poly vs. Westminster

@ Cal Poly at 7 p.m.