Parking, safety plans set for anticipated Open House crowds

By Michelle Margiotti
Daily Staff Writer

Concerns for public safety and crowd control have arisen as two festivals — one being Open House — are scheduled to take place during the same weekend.

In an unprecedented scheduling situation, the second annual Open House and the city's long-running La Fiesta event happen over the same April 21-22 weekend.

"It kind of caught everyone by surprise," said Louise Brown, chair of the Open House committee. But Brown said he has been in contact with the La Fiesta committee, and "it's not anything that anyone sees as a major problem."

La Fiesta, a celebration of San Luis Obispo's cultural heritage, includes a parade, arts and crafts show, and cultural demonstrations. It is scheduled to take place in the downtown area.

"Our events don't really conflict each other," said La Fiesta spokesperson Jackie Batters.

"Most Cal Poly events are during the day and most of ours are at night," she said. "We don't feel that it's a silly an issue."

Still, Brown said the Open House Committee has been working with San Luis Obispo Police Chief Jim Gardiner on a weekly basis.

"They're deploying extra officers to keep a tight watch on what's happening," Brown said.

See OPEN HOUSE, page 2

Meeting informs Open House clubs of festival details

By Michelle Margiotti
Daily Staff Writer

With Cal Poly's second annual Open House two weeks away, about 150 participating club and organization representatives received details from the executive board Thursday.

Opening the first collective meeting of the quarter, Executive Board Chair Louise Brown told the crowd they were there to "see where we are, and to see what needs to happen," before

Despite informal declaration, Wilson still seeks presidency

By Justin Maughan
Editor

Though he's made no formal declaration, California Gov. Pete Wilson said he will be seeking the presidency in 1996.

Wilson recently returned from the East Coast where, according to his campaign press secretary Kevin Herglotz, he was offered financial support from Washington campaign contributors urging him to get involved in the race against President Clinton.

Wilson has been a controversial figure among college students for supporting expansion in the prison system while cutting funding for higher education. He also made his way into college news last year when he supported Proposition 187, a measure banning illegal immigrants from public education and other tax-funded social services.

Last week at the state Capitol, the 61-year-old Wilson held his first news conference with California since he announced the formation of an exploratory presidential committee last month.

Although he promised not to run for president in his campaign for re-election to the governor's post, he said at the news conference that he feels obligated to break the pledge. He said he believes he has a better chance of beating Clinton than two other Republican contenders.

"The fact is he is the person to lead the nation," Herglotz said.

Wilson said his experience as governor will promote him as the favorite candidate over better-known candidates such as Senators Bob Dole of Kansas and

See WILSON, page 10

INSIDE TODAY'S MUSTANG DAILY

OPINION
Donna Haines tells of her desire to achieve amidst Cal Poly's twosomes

CAL POLY
Fraternity sponsors campus bong; marrow drive and targets minorities

Sports
Women's softball team wins three in homestand against Saint Mary's

See SPORTS, page 9
AIDS Tests Available Through Health Department

The San Luis Obispo County Health Department offers free, anonymous HIV/AIDS antibody testing on a limited basis. The department offers testing on a walk-in, first-come, first-served basis. Tests also are available for $15.

CLUBS: Details abound in meeting for organizations planning booths

OPEN HOUSE: Up to 50,000 are expected during Open House weekend

From page 1

Cal Poly Police Chief Tom Mitchell said he anticipates crowds of 40,000 to 50,000 at Open House.

"We're prepared for anything, but expecting more public service calls than fights, thefts or drunk drivers," he said. Public service calls include searches for lost children and vehicle and building lockouts.

Community Safety Officers will guard club booths to the overnight, according to Mitchell. Mitchell said University Police will work in conjunction with San Luis Obispo police officers to attend to any crowd control problems arise. This is possible through the permanent mutual aid plan.

"There's a willingness of everybody to work together to make this a good, safe weekend," Mitchell said.

Open House visitors are encouraged to park off campus early, as parking lots will likely fill by 9 a.m., according to Mitchell.

Those people arriving later need to park off campus and take the bus, he said.

Safety-related parking — including parking in handicapped, fire zones and fire lanes — will be enforced, Mitchell said.

To avoid traffic flow problems, some campus roads may be closed, he said.

"We may have to modify the flow of traffic at the Grand or California campus entrances and make them one-way, off campus," he said.

The La Fiesta event will also modify traffic routes. Planners have written an emergency plan for police, fire and ambulance services to bypass downtown street closures, Bertero said.

"We're happy there'll be lots of people in town," she said. "Hopefully there'll be overflow crowds attending both events."

Brown said the two committees have built a partnership.

"We're keeping it very positive," Brown said. "It's very important that the university and the community both make out with positive images."

From page 2

Consultation deadlines for Cal Poly Deadlines

- Last day to submit a petition to audit a course; and last day to get late add or drop, and pay fees (4 p.m.); last day to add a class (7 p.m.); last day to withdraw from the term to qualify for refund of registration fees; last day to drop a class and receive a refund of fees.

Booth setup will begin Friday and continue through April 21 at 3 p.m., and continue until 6:30 that evening. Public Security will provide oversight security in setup areas.

Special parking passes will be available to club and organization representatives who need to drive into the campus interior to set up displays.

Open House Executive Board members will provide final details and make additional announcements at the end of this week's general meeting.

"So far the meetings have been really good," said history senior Caray Seitz, a Cal Poly Scuba Club representative.

"Looking toward Open House, I think everything's going really smoothly," she said. "We're really excited about it."
Groups rally against violence on women

Connie Cass
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Women's rights supporters rallied on the Capitol Sunday to protest violence against women — a term they applied not only to rape and battering but also to political assaults on welfare spending, abortion and affirmative action.

"As women have been able to take some small measure of power, we're facing a fierce backlash," Patricia Ireland, president of the National Organization for Women, told the crowd. "There should be as many men here as women here," the Rev. Jesse Jackson said. "Men and children also were sprinkled through the crowd.

Among the speakers were relatives of people killed in anti-abortion shootings, including June Barrett, whose husband James was shot to death while escorting a doctor into a Pensacola, Fla., abortion clinic. "I survived that horrible nightmare and I am here today to say to you, help stop the violence and defend a woman's right to choose," said Mrs. Barrett, who was injured in the attack.

An assortment of celebrities, including Sharon Gless and Tyne Daly of television's "Cagney and Lacey," rock singer Joan Jett, and Toad the Wet Sprocket were also scheduled to appear.

WASHINGTON — Women's rights supporters rallied near the Capitol Sunday to protest "violence against women" — a term they applied not only to rape and battering but also to political assaults on welfare spending, abortion and affirmative action.

"As women have been able to take some small measure of power, we're facing a fierce backlash," Patricia Ireland, president of the National Organization for Women, told the crowd. "As women have been able to take some small measure of power, we're facing a fierce backlash," Patricia Ireland, president of the National Organization for Women, told the crowd. "There should be as many men here as women here," the Rev. Jesse Jackson said. "Men and children also were sprinkled through the crowd.

Among the speakers were relatives of people killed in anti-abortion shootings, including June Barrett, whose husband James was shot to death while escorting a doctor into a Pensacola, Fla., abortion clinic. "I survived that horrible nightmare and I am here today to say to you, help stop the violence and defend a woman's right to choose," said Mrs. Barrett, who was injured in the attack.

An assortment of celebrities, including Sharon Gless and Tyne Daly of television's "Cagney and Lacey," rock singer Joan Jett, and Toad the Wet Sprocket were also scheduled to appear.

WASHINGTON — Women's rights supporters rallied near the Capitol Sunday to protest "violence against women" — a term they applied not only to rape and battering but also to political assaults on welfare spending, abortion and affirmative action.

"As women have been able to take some small measure of power, we're facing a fierce backlash," Patricia Ireland, president of the National Organization for Women, told the crowd. "As women have been able to take some small measure of power, we're facing a fierce backlash," Patricia Ireland, president of the National Organization for Women, told the crowd. "There should be as many men here as women here," the Rev. Jesse Jackson said. "Men and children also were sprinkled through the crowd.

Among the speakers were relatives of people killed in anti-abortion shootings, including June Barrett, whose husband James was shot to death while escorting a doctor into a Pensacola, Fla., abortion clinic. "I survived that horrible nightmare and I am here today to say to you, help stop the violence and defend a woman's right to choose," said Mrs. Barrett, who was injured in the attack.

An assortment of celebrities, including Sharon Gless and Tyne Daly of television's "Cagney and Lacey," rock singer Joan Jett, and Toad the Wet Sprocket were also scheduled to appear.
Defending livestock water use

Production agriculture often is criticized for its outlandish consumption of water, when most water consumption is by meats, not by water. First, understand that for water consumption, meats are used for both humans and animals. Figure 2 shows that the actual consumption of water from the estimate by the National Cattlemen’s Association of 1.39 gallons of water per pound of beef produced to the estimate by consumer advocate Jeremy Rifkin of 2.464 gallons of water per pound of beef produced.

While cattle are relatively inefficient in water utilization, livestock are the most efficient user of the most scarce of resources, are out of control. Cattle, horses and pigs have the highest water requirements, while sheep seem to have adapted for warmer, dryer climates by decreasing water requirements. Sheep sometimes can meet their water consumption need by consuming high water content forage.

Animal agriculture in the United States is failed in its use of the gust, the most efficient consumer of water, since goat milk and meat lacks popularity in our culture. Those truly concerned about the amount of water consumed by livestock may want to adjust their diets to include goat products.

Those who think livestock use too much of human water resources should keep these things in mind:

- Feedlots use more water per animal than range-fed animals, so buying range-fed produced meat may be more advantageous even though it is often more expensive.
- Moisture is eventually reintroduced into the environment through evaporation.
- It might be easier for one to digest a 24-inch diameter of the basketball hoop more than any player since 1988.
- A cameraman mercifully turned the lens away from the emotions that crowded Jordan’s boyish 35-year-old face during the national anthem in Market Square.
- The emotions that crowded Jordan’s boyish 35-year-old face during the national anthem in Market Square.
- A cameraman mercifully turned the lens away from the emotions that crowded Jordan’s boyish 35-year-old face during the national anthem in Market Square.
- A cameraman mercifully turned the lens away from the emotions that crowded Jordan’s boyish 35-year-old face during the national anthem in Market Square.
- A cameraman mercifully turned the lens away from the emotions that crowded Jordan’s boyish 35-year-old face during the national anthem in Market Square.

It must be very hard to regain greatness, once relinquished. When Jordan puts his unique touch on the basketball, it miraculously finds its way through the elbows and the 24-inch diameter of the basketball hoop more than any player since 1988.

What Michael Jordan and I have in common

By Donna Haines

I don’t believe it’s the money that motivates Jordan. He still has a contract for millions with the Bulls, whether he plays or not. For sure, he’s a challenge to David Robinson and Shaquille O’Neal. He needs to prove to himself and to the sports world he’s still one of the greatest basketball players ever — sparking at the rim, winning a game on the ball like no other.

Maybe he hears the master within urging him to win another league championship and command the admiration of crowds on both sides of the stadium. Being less than best is incomprehensible. At what age or season in life can one just relax and “let be,” and not be driven to excel?

I haven’t learned to give up competition or the need to win another battle. Good enough is not acceptable for me as a personal mandate. I will myself to be a “C” personality — just to be average, get by and let someone else take the wheel. But somewhere deep in my gut, the curse of achievement pushes me onward.

Two years ago, I was in a nice relationship and had an easy, fun job. I had an apartment in an excellent area of Palm Desert, with a great social life and some dynamic women friends. It was just what I had set out to accomplish.

By coincidence, I had an opportunity to visit the Cal Poly campus at about the same time the addiction to music was penetrating the cells of my body. I was hooked — hooked on the excitement, the energy and the hope; it was another awakening. It had happened several times before, turning my life upside down.

I quit the fun, dead-end job, committing the domestic suicide of leaving my easy life and my friends. A desire was churning within, commanding I be more than that. Sacrificing my comfortable 20-year-olds for A’s as I finally complete my college career, full of enthusiasm and liberated from stagnation. I’m confident about my new career, positive I’ll find the place where my talent can grow and my confidence can blossom again.

Michael and I have nothing in common — or do we — the course to achieve.

What is the course to achieve? Donna Haines is a journalism senior.
When Choosing Housing for Next Year, Use Valencia's Checklist!

- Remodeled Units
- Good Student Discounts
- Group or Individual Leases
- Custom Payment Plans with Discounts
- Private Bedrooms
- Computer/Study
- Big Screen TV in Room
- Nautilus/Weight Room
- Recreation Room
- Swimming Pool
- Laundry Facilities
- 10 or 12 Month Leases
- Next to Lucky's Shopping Center

Valencia
(805)543-1450
555 Ramona Drive
San Luis Obispo, CA 93405

Sea Pines Golf Resort

Golf • Restaurant • Lodge

THE CLUBHOUSE
SPORTS BAR

3 Satellites
9 TV's - Get all the games

NIGHTLY FOOD SPECIALS
Taco Tuesday
4 Tacos for $3.00
Free Pool
Happy Hour 4-6
(805) 528-2333

The new Optima™ Card from American Express has the kind of benefits every student can appreciate. Like no annual fee. The option to make payments over time. Big savings on MCI long distance calling. A low introductory interest rate. And the unsurpassed service only American Express can provide. So why settle for an ordinary credit card? Declare yourself a Cardmember today.

To apply, call 1 800 446-5393

Celebrating its 10 Year Anniversary

Hudson's Grill

Cal Poly's place to hang out.

Open daily 'til MIDNITE!
1005 Monterey St. • San Luis Obispo
541-5999
Elections for the Associated Students, Inc. are being held Wednesday and Thursday of this week. While it’s easy to get wrapped up in the excitement of the campaign, it’s important to remember the goals and priorities of the candidates. Here are some brief introductions to the 17 declared candidates seeking positions on the ASI Board of Directors:

College of Agriculture

Steve McShane
Soil science sophomore

I and another director introduced a bill called for nine campus-wide directories, an information board, and lastly, the Mustang Messenger. Another project I’ve been working on is the Agriculture Council Information Board, which will contain ASI, Agriculture Council and college news and events. I’m anxious to look at ASI from a more knowledgeable perspective on how our corporation has been run. I will increase students’ involvement, opinion and action — this will be a big part of the ASI evolution scheduled for 1995-1996.

David Stenseth
Agribusiness junior

My main concern is to do a good job, and I have a good track record to prove that I follow through with what I set out to do. I plan on researching problems so I can make a good decision. I know a lot of people from the many clubs and groups I have been involved in. I plan on keeping students informed by talking with them.

Marc Thomas
Agribusiness junior

I have had experience sharing news with clubs as an Agriculture Council representative. I’ll place more ads in the paper announcing important meetings, put banners in the LLU and in display cases, and (publish) each meeting’s minutes, making them available to students in display cases.

College of Engineering

Nick Demogines
Aeronautical engineering senior

I plan to be a liaison between the Engineering Council and the Board of Directors, either get a newsletter for engineering purposes and hand them out to the head of the departments and make them available if the students want to know what’s going on. For one, my number will be available so engineering students can call and talk to me directly.

Mike Rocca
Civil engineering sophomore

The only promise that I can make is that I will work to the best of my ability and be as fair as possible. I won’t break a promise like that. I plan on keeping myself readily available, going to as many meetings as possible, and making myself seem.

College of Science and Math

Zach Stockwell
Industrial engineering junior

I think that as a board member, your job is to be a representative of the students. It’s important to be open with the students and carry through that way.

Guiv Soofer
Industrial engineering junior

Everyone believes communication is the biggest problem and having worked with student council as a publicity person, I feel I have a greater ability to reach the students and tell them what’s going on and hopefully represent them accurately.

College of Agriculture

Steve McShane
Soil science sophomore

I and another director introduced a bill called for nine campus-wide directories, an information board, and lastly, the Mustang Messenger. Another project I’ve been working on is the Agriculture Council Information Board, which will contain ASI, Agriculture Council and college news and events. I’m anxious to look at ASI from a more knowledgeable perspective on how our corporation has been run. I will increase students’ involvement, opinion and action — this will be a big part of the ASI evolution scheduled for 1995-1996.

David Stenseth
Agribusiness junior

My main concern is to do a good job, and I have a good track record to prove that I follow through with what I set out to do. I plan on researching problems so I can make a good decision. I know a lot of people from the many clubs and groups I have been involved in. I plan on keeping students informed by talking with them.

Marc Thomas
Agribusiness junior

I have had experience sharing news with clubs as an Agriculture Council representative. I’ll place more ads in the paper announcing important meetings, put banners in the LLU and in display cases, and (publish) each meeting’s minutes, making them available to students in display cases.

College of Engineering

Nick Demogines
Aeronautical engineering senior

I plan to be a liaison between the Engineering Council and the Board of Directors, either get a newsletter for engineering purposes and hand them out to the head of the departments and make them available if the students want to know what’s going on. For one, my number will be available so engineering students can call and talk to me directly.

Mike Rocca
Civil engineering sophomore

The only promise that I can make is that I will work to the best of my ability and be as fair as possible. I won’t break a promise like that. I plan on keeping myself readily available, going to as many meetings as possible, and making myself seem.

College of Science and Math

Zach Stockwell
Industrial engineering junior

I think that as a board member, your job is to be a representative of the students. It’s important to be open with the students and carry through that way.

Guiv Soofer
Industrial engineering junior

Everyone believes communication is the biggest problem and having worked with student council as a publicity person, I feel I have a greater ability to reach the students and tell them what’s going on and hopefully represent them accurately.

Reported by Natasha Collins, Kelly Koring, Erika Eicher and Rebecca Storrck
ECTORS CANDIDATES

I up in the races for president and chair of the board, there are also 22 positions to be filled on the Board of Directors, with 14 candidates who responded to Mustang Daily's inquiries:

QUESTION 1

QUESTION 2: What fresh ideas do you feel you can bring to ASI?

---

College of Business

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>PHOTO NOT AVAILABLE</th>
<th>Andrew Dorn</th>
<th>Business senior</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Want to set up a system where history of professors is available to students. For example, past syllabi and finals available so students could see if they want to take that professor or not. I also want to set up a student study group. To inform students I would like to post newsletters or flyers announcing things coming up that are important to the college of business.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>PHOTO NOT AVAILABLE</th>
<th>Daniel Janjigian</th>
<th>Business senior</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Having already served as Vice-chair on Board of Directors, communication is difficult between ASI and the students.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>PHOTO NOT AVAILABLE</th>
<th>Niko-Nyrae Jarrett</th>
<th>Business senior</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>I'm involved in a lot of ethnic-based duties, I can get the word out about multi-cultural events and things like that. Personally, I wouldn't make any promises I can't keep.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>PHOTO NOT AVAILABLE</th>
<th>Jilbert Washten</th>
<th>Business sophomore</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>I believe the best way is by speaking about issues at business club and council meetings.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

---

College of Architecture and Environmental Design

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>PHOTO NOT AVAILABLE</th>
<th>Sam Reid</th>
<th>Architecture sophomore</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Being a member of the council management club and last year of the architecture club, I believe in the club system and that it is a good way to inform the students. I would use such sources as the architecture department and the Mustang Daily to inform the students.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

---

College of Liberal Arts

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>PHOTO NOT AVAILABLE</th>
<th>Erin McCoin</th>
<th>English junior</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>-When an issue comes up that's pertinent to the College, I will make my best effort to get out to all the clubs in liberal arts.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>PHOTO NOT AVAILABLE</th>
<th>Matt Thomas</th>
<th>Speech communication freshman</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>I'm trying to keep it simple. I'm going to do the best I can as a Board Director for the College of Liberal Arts. I'm trying not to make any specific promises. What I can promise is I will do my best so that Liberal Arts is not overlooked by ASI. I believe Liberal Arts isn't looked up to as other majors are, such as engineering or business. I'll do my best to reach students in their club meetings and seek which direction they want me to go.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

---

* Chemistry senior Alvaro Romero and biochemistry junior Jeff Malone from the College of Science and Math, and agribusiness senior Glen Swoboda from the College of Agriculture, did not return calls.
By Doug Williams

SACRAMENTO — The California Democratic Party on Sunday proposed to repeal affirmative action programs for minorities and women against an initiative to repeal them that opponents want to put on the 1996 ballot.

A resolution crafted by a near-unanimous vote contained none of the words of sympathy for foes of affirmative action that President Clinton voiced in his speech to the convention Saturday. It pledged party funds to fight the repeal effort.

But some delegates at the state party's annual convention argued that it should have gone even further. They tried unsuccessfully to include sanctions such as stripping party support from candidates who support or take a neutral stand on repealing affirmative action.

The resolution described all attempts to roll back state or federal affirmative action programs as "policies of divisiveness and scapegoating." It also created a party task force to campaign against the expected 1996 ballot initiative and pledged an unspecified amount of money to the campaign.

That position is far less conciliatory than the stance Clinton took in his Saturday address. He said Democrats must reexamine affirmative action programs and defend those which are worthy. But, he said, they also must consider that "this is psychologically a difficult time for a lot of white males."

That received a cool response, but no open hostility, from most of the 4,000 delegates and guests to the convention, which was organized on a theme of uniting behind Clinton's re-election.

"I am not interested at all in having people tell me we have to find some way to make (compromising affirmative action) more palatable," Assembly Speaker Willie Brown said in a speech following Clinton. "The Democratic Party, if it stands for nothing else, must stand and be counted on this issue."

Asked if he was disappointed by Clinton's stance, Brown replied, "Absolutely," but predicted Clinton would eventually take a stronger stand supporting affirmative action.

Affirmative action programs, which mandate racial balance in the work place, college admissions, contracts and other government activities, have come under sharp attack as "reverse discrimination" by Republicans nationwide, including Gov. Pete Wilson. He has made repeal a major part of his campaign for the Republican nomination for president.

Considered the alternative to the expected 1996 ballot initiative is a petition drive to qualify it has enough signatures for a state ballot. One would let voters cross party lines and cast ballots for either Democrats or Republicans in primaries. The other is Wilson's initiative to prevent Democratic Lt. Gov. Gray Davis from automatically succeeding him as governor if he is elected president.

State Party Chairman Bill Press said the so-called open primary, "would destroy the California Democratic Party" by allowing Republicans to pick Democratic nominees for office.

An initiative backed by Wilson to ban affirmative action is planned for California's 1996 statewide ballot. But the formal petition drive to qualify it has not yet started. Republican-backed bills to repeal affirmative action laws have all been blocked by Democrats in the Legislature.

The Democratic convention also adopted resolutions Sunday opposing two other 1996 ballot measures. One would let voters cross party lines and cast ballots for either Democrats or Republicans in primaries. The other is Wilson's initiative to prevent Democratic Lt. Gov. Gray Davis from automatically succeeding him as governor if he is elected president.

State Party Chairman Bill Press said the so-called open primary "would destroy the California Democratic Party" by allowing Republicans to pick Democratic nominees for office.

From page 1

Students involved in the international organization Circle K also sold raffle tickets and plan to set up a donation box for Davis at future events to help out, especially after we met with (O'Mahoney) and got to know about Adam (Davis') condition," said club member and architectural engineering junior Mary Anne DiRuzza.

The raffle raised over $300, according to Keen. Prizes included a 27-inch television, a mountain bike and a free dinner.

Members of Alpha Phi Omega also wanted to set up an annual volleyball tournament that would benefit a local charity. However, according to political science senior and tournament chair Brie Porter, the tournament was canceled due to a lack of teams. Porter said the event will be rescheduled, though, with proceeds going to Davis.

THE DAY HE IS TOLD ABOUT THE WAY."

-CONFUCIUS

"HE HAS NOT LIVED IN VAIN WHO DIES THE DAY HE IS TOLD ABOUT THE WAY."

-CONFUCIUS

"I AM THE WAY. THE TRUTH AND THE LIFE. NO ONE COMES TO THE FATHER, BUT THROUGH ME."

-JESUS (JOHN 14:6)
Cal Poly marrow drive targets minorities

By Tara Itich

In an effort to prevent thousands of deaths among victims of fatal diseases like leukemia and aplastic anemia, Alpha Pi Lambda, an Asian fraternity, will be conducting the first marrow typing drive at Cal Poly.

Almost 16,000 people in the United States are diagnosed each year with blood disorders that only a marrow transplant might cure.

The Cal Poly marrow drive, sponsored by the Asian American Donor Program (AADP), is a recruitment group that targets Asian and minority communities to become donors, welcomes people from every ethnicity, but the main goal of the event is to attract more minorities.

Wilfred Albovias, vice president for Alpha Pi Lambda, said many minorities are unaware that bone marrow needs to be matched within the same ethnicity.

"There are not enough minorities on the national registry," he said. "An Asian American has a one in a million chance to get a perfect match."

According to the pamphlet, "There are not enough minorities on the national registry totals for volunteer donors, 18.2 percent are African American, 19.1 percent are Caucasian; and 19.1 percent were reported as other or declined to say.

In an effort to prevent thousands of deaths among victims of fatal diseases like leukemia and aplastic anemia, Alpha Pi Lambda, an Asian fraternity, will be conducting the first marrow typing drive at Cal Poly. Almost 16,000 people in the United States are diagnosed each year with blood disorders that only a marrow transplant might cure.

The Cal Poly marrow drive, sponsored by The Asian American Donor Program (AADP), a recruitment group that targets Asian and minority communities to become donors, welcomes people from every ethnicity, but the main goal of the event is to attract more minorities.

Wilfred Albovias, vice president for Alpha Pi Lambda, said many minorities are unaware that bone marrow needs to be matched within the same ethnicity.

"There are not enough minorities on the national registry," he said. "An Asian American has a one in a million chance to get a perfect match."

According to the pamphlet, "There are not enough minorities on the national registry totals for volunteer donors, 18.2 percent are African American, 19.1 percent are Caucasian; and 19.1 percent were reported as other or declined to say.

"Almost 16,000 people in the United States are diagnosed each year with blood disorders that only a marrow transplant might cure.

For those interested in becoming a potential donor, there are a few steps required.

Volunteers must be between the ages of 18 and 55 and must give consent to be entered on the registry.

The potential donor gives two table spoons of blood for tissue typing. The blood is then typed at a medical laboratory to identify the antigens and the results are stored in the main computer which is searched internationally.

If a preliminary match is determined, additional blood tests are required to find a precise match.

Only a small number of donors are contacted as a match, those that are must again consent to go through the 60 minute procedure of a bone marrow donation, according to a flyer titled "How to become a marrow donor." Published by the sponsors of the Ethnic Marrow Typing Drive.

"We are still looking for people to donate," Albovias said. "It doesn't take much time, and it's a good job and I'd like to see that continue," Brady said.

Brady said she plans to hold office hours so that students would always have access to her. These hours would be posted at various locations around campus, she said.

She also would like to have a strategic plan, Brady said, which ASI currently doesn't have, that would keep clubs and other organizations informed. She said ASI needs to make sure that clubs know how to get assistance and funding.

Brady's goals as president would be to increase communication between students and ASI. She said she wants to make sure ASI is responding to students' needs.

"I'd like to have some type of open forum for students at the end of this quarter and the beginning of next year, where anyone could make sure ASI is aware of any concerns they have," she said.

Brady gives credit to current ASI President Erica Brown for trying to improve communication with the ASI outreach program where anyone from any club can go in and ask questions.

"I think she's done a really good job and I'd like to see that continue," Brady said.

Brady said she feels she is the right person for the job because of her experience with ASI. She also believes she has the strong voice that is needed to represent the students to the administration.

She said Cal Poly receives a lot of input from students compared to other campuses.

"If we don't take full advantage of the communication abilities," she said, "then it's a big loss."
MUSTANG DAILY
MONDAY, APRIL 10, 1995

WILSON: Presidency is 'far more demanding and far more satisfying'

Phil Gramm of Texas.

natorial re-election, Wilson has the most populous state in the union, California has the largest number of electoral votes.

But since he won re-election with 1.3 million votes last November, some of California is concerned with Wilson's failure to keep his campaign promise of not running for president during the '96 election. If Wilson wins, Lt. Gov. Gray Davis, a Democrat, would inherit the governorship.

The governor tried to ease voters' fears with his support for a controversial ballot initiative to change the California Constitution, allowing for a special election when the governor leaves office early, instead of the automatic succession of the lieutenant governor.

He said the ultimate approval of his decision would be left to Californians. "They will have to make the decision as to whether or not I am of greater value to them in a number of ways."

"I will do my job here—that is my first responsibility. My first duty is owed to the people of California."

Pete Wilson
California Governor

Wilson told United Press International, "Or actually whether I am more valuable as a Californian in the White House for four years, or for eight years, sympathetic to the concerns for which we have been fighting this White House for the past two years."

Despite his running for the presidency, Wilson said he would carry out his responsibilities as governor without interference. "I will do my job here—that is my first responsibility," he told UPI. "My first duty is owed to the people of California."

Wilson was speaking at the news conference in Sacramento last Monday to lend support to Rep. Etton Gallegly of Simi Valley, chairman of a Republican congressional task force on illegal immigrants. Gallegly introduced legislation into Congress which would allow states to deny free education to illegal immigrants.

Wilson estimates that California pays $1.7 billion annually to educate some 400,000 illegal immigrant children in state schools. At present, U.S. Supreme Court rulings require that states educate illegal immigrants.

Wilson praised the legislation as a strong step in reenacting Proposition 187, last year's controversial voter-approved initiative that would cut off government services in California to illegal immigrants, including education.

Wilson used Proposition 187 as a strong platform to win re-election last year and is expected to reiterate his position on illegal immigration during his presidential bid.

Wilson used Proposition 187, last year's controversial voter-approved initiative that would cut off government services in California to illegal immigrants, including education.

Two suicide bombings kill six Israelis, jolt peace talks

By Donna Akers-Nawaz

The militant group Islamic Jihad claimed responsibility for the first attack and said it was carried out by Khaled Mohammed Khatib, a 24-year-old construction worker.

Sources in the group Hamas confirmed a report that the group's military wing, Izizinedine al-Qassam, staged the second attack.

They identified the suicide bomber as Imad Abu Amouna, also 24, from the Halt refugee camp.

More than 100 fundamentalist youths gathered at Khatib's home in the Nusseib refugee camp, their cries for revenge mingling with the wails of women from inside the house and the crack of gunshot fired into the air.

"The language of bullets is the only one that will guarantee the departure of the enemy from our territory," one Islamic Jihad activist intoned through a loudspeaker.

In Washington, President Clinton also condemned the attacks, but did not say how he would respond. "We are committed to confronting terrorism," he said.

"These people are the enemies of peace."

Palestinian police began arresting Islamic Jihad activists in Gaza City on Sunday evening.

In Washington, President Clinton also condemned the attacks, but did not say how he would respond. "We are committed to confronting terrorism," he said.

In Washington, President Clinton also condemned the attacks, but did not say how he would respond. "We are committed to confronting terrorism," he said.

In Washington, President Clinton also condemned the attacks, but did not say how he would respond. "We are committed to confronting terrorism," he said.

In Washington, President Clinton also condemned the attacks, but did not say how he would respond. "We are committed to confronting terrorism," he said.

In Washington, President Clinton also condemned the attacks, but did not say how he would respond. "We are committed to confronting terrorism," he said.

In Washington, President Clinton also condemned the attacks, but did not say how he would respond. "We are committed to confronting terrorism," he said.

In Washington, President Clinton also condemned the attacks, but did not say how he would respond. "We are committed to confronting terrorism," he said.

In Washington, President Clinton also condemned the attacks, but did not say how he would respond. "We are committed to confronting terrorism," he said.

In Washington, President Clinton also condemned the attacks, but did not say how he would respond. "We are committed to confronting terrorism," he said.

In Washington, President Clinton also condemned the attacks, but did not say how he would respond. "We are committed to confronting terrorism," he said.

In Washington, President Clinton also condemned the attacks, but did not say how he would respond. "We are committed to confronting terrorism," he said.

In Washington, President Clinton also condemned the attacks, but did not say how he would respond. "We are committed to confronting terrorism," he said.

In Washington, President Clinton also condemned the attacks, but did not say how he would respond. "We are committed to confronting terrorism," he said.

In Washington, President Clinton also condemned the attacks, but did not say how he would respond. "We are committed to confronting terrorism," he said.

In Washington, President Clinton also condemned the attacks, but did not say how he would respond. "We are committed to confronting terrorism," he said.

In Washington, President Clinton also condemned the attacks, but did not say how he would respond. "We are committed to confronting terrorism," he said.

In Washington, President Clinton also condemned the attacks, but did not say how he would respond. "We are committed to confronting terrorism," he said.

In Washington, President Clinton also condemned the attacks, but did not say how he would respond. "We are committed to confronting terrorism," he said.

In Washington, President Clinton also condemned the attacks, but did not say how he would respond. "We are committed to confronting terrorism," he said.

In Washington, President Clinton also condemned the attacks, but did not say how he would respond. "We are committed to confronting terrorism," he said.

In Washington, President Clinton also condemned the attacks, but did not say how he would respond. "We are committed to confronting terrorism," he said.

In Washington, President Clinton also condemned the attacks, but did not say how he would respond. "We are committed to confronting terrorism," he said.
THE CIUC BALET
SAN LUIS OBISPO
Proudly presents

YELLOW
SUBMARINE
*
A Retro Rock Ballet
CAL POLY THEATRE

Thursday, April 13th • 6:00 p.m.
Friday, April 14th • 5:00 p.m. & 8:00 p.m.
Adults $16, $12, $8 • Children $8
Student Discount Friday 5 p.m. Show Only
All Seats $8 with valid I.D.

FOR TICKETS CALL 756-1421 • CALL POLY TICKET OFFICE

Produced by Special Arrangements with "SPJ Special Agreement"

---

PRE-LEASING FOR '95-'96 ACADEMIC SCHOOL YEAR

SIMPLY IRRESISTIBLE

MUSTANG VILLAGE

Tours Daily: 9 AM-5 PM
1 Mustang Drive, SLO, CA 93405
254-2501, 1-800-710-9433

OPEN HOUSE
JUNE 24, SAT, 9-4 PM
FREE BRIEFLIVE REMOTE GAMES
Come join in the fun!

---

TORTILLA FLATS NIGHT IS TOMORROW
LOCATIONS: KENNEDY LIBRARY, AG BRIDGE (BLDG 10) CAMPUS STORE.
FOR TICKETS CALL 756-1421 • CRL POLY TICKET OFFICE

---

TUES, APRIL 11-7PM BLDG 10-206
ONCE AGAIN LEADING THE WAY
AT ANY OF OUR SIX CONVENIENT
Mens and Womens Teams
FOR MORE
MUSTANG DAILY

---

VINES TO WINE
The Cat Poly (Equine) Polo Club
AND OPEN HOUSE MEETING
COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING
No horse back riding exp. nec
Lessons during Spring quarter
SPECIAL ELECTION
FRIDAY, APRIL 14TH • 4:00 PM TO 8:00 PM
18 and over welcome

---

CLASSIFIED
TO ADVERTISE IN MUSTANG DAILY CLASSIFIED, CALL 756-1143.
SPORTS

WAC leaders score 41 runs in 3 games against Mustangs
San Diego State hands Cal Poly its most humiliating loss in school history, 24-0

By Anthony Pedrotti
Sports in The Daily

In its most one-sided loss in school history, the Mustangs (12-18, 6-6 WAC) were blown out by San Diego State in the final game of a three-game series, losing by a football-like margin, 24-0.

The Aztecs (23-13, 9-6 WAC) pounded out 27 hits — two shy of its school record — and had two seven-run innings, both hammering Mustangs' pitching. For the second straight day to win its second game of a three-State series, San Diego State dominated the Mustangs at San Luis Obispo Stadium this weekend.

During Saturday's game, San Diego State had 22 hits in a 16-12 win. And the offensive surge for San Diego State carried on into Sunday's game. While Aztecs' junior starter Greg Winkelman went the distance for a five-hit shutout, Mustangs' coach Rich Price cleaned out his bullpen. After Cal Poly junior starter Tony Coscia was pulled in the fourth inning after giving up eight runs in the inning, Price used six relievers. None of them could stop the barrage of hitting from the Aztecs.

Of the 13 San Diego State players that had at least one hit, 10 of them had two or more hits. The Aztecs' offensive surge was especially evident in the seventh inning, scoring 12 runs to give the Mustangs an even split in the six singles games.

In its most one-sided loss in school history, 24-0

Cal Poly finds winning form again

Daily Staff Report

The 20th-ranked Mustangs returned to its winning ways, taking three of four games in a weekend homestand.

After splitting two games with San Jose State Saturday, Cal Poly (12-8) swept Saint Mary's (17-23) Sunday in a doubleheader.

Mustangs' freshman pitcher Kelly Smith pitched seven scoreless innings of two-hit ball to get the win in the first game. In the second game, senior Rich Henley and freshman Denise Knipfer combined to hold the Gaels hitless to blank the Gaels 1-0. Knipfer recorded the win and Henley's two saves.

In Saturday's doubleheader sweep with San Jose State, Cal Poly dropped the first game 2-1 before coming back to win the second game 5-4.

SOFTHALL

back to the previous weekend's four road losses to Sacramento State and Santa Clara.

But the Mustangs' pitching remained strong despite a tough outing in the first game.

In the first game, San Jose State starter Corina Lilly held Cal Poly to just one run on eight hits as she lasted the full seven innings. The loss was the second of the season for Knipfer.

In the second game, Mustangs' starter Henry went 4 2/3 innings giving up only one hit and two walks before giving way to Smith. Smith, despite giving up two runs over the final three runs, got the win.

Senior third baseman Kelly Bannister and freshman rightfielder Kimber Joyce led the offensive attack for Cal Poly.