Candidates for governor told to ‘play nice’ in only scheduled forum

By Scott Lindew
Associated Press

SACRAMENTO — Like teachers who sense a schoolyard brawl brewing, the hosts of a California gubernatorial forum have told the candidates to play nice this week at their first — and perhaps only — debate.

For weeks, Democrats Al Checchi, Lt. Gov. Gray Davis and Rep. Jane Harman have been ravaging each other in television ads. There is no sign of a letup as Wednesday’s high-stakes forum and the June 2 primary approach.

“There’s a nastiness in the air — you’ll see it at the debate,” said Ms. Harman’s campaign manager, Ken Kwasta. He blames the tone on a barrage of aggressive ads by Checchi.

The Los Angeles Times, host of the event, has in mind a gubernatorial “forum” in which moderates will steer the candidates away from vague answers and “unreasonable attacks” on their opponents. Candidates will answer questions on a rotating basis. The candidates, however, are all preparing for full-blown debate.

In private letters last week, the Times urged the three Democrats and Attorney General Dan Lungren, the likely Republican nominee, to stay positive.

“You will never have a better opportunity to let people know what you stand for and what you would do if elected governor,” read the letter signed by Times publisher Mark H. Willes and editor Michael Parks. “That is why we encourage you to focus your comments on issues and actions you would take, rather than on the perceived weaknesses or foibles of your opponents.”

The forum is likely to be the only event bringing all four major candidates together. Other debate proposals have failed.

Students who had to be away from the forum are hoping to catch it on TV. The candidates rarely stump, and all use TV ads to beam prefabricated themes and messages to voters.

TV news departments have trimmed the amount of time they’re devoting to the campaign.

It was not clear how many Californians TV or radio stations would air the forum live, the Times said late last week, though relatively few Californians are likely to see it anyway. It begins at 10:30 a.m. EDT. SPARQ will broadcast the debate nationally May 17, four days after the fact.

Eladder, however, the candidates were hoping to up the weekend to brush up on the

See FORUM page 6

Ross says Middle East summit in D.C. is off

By Moshe R. Yaron
Associated Press

JERUSALEM — U.S. envoy Dennis Ross called off a MidEast summit Washington had offered to hold Monday, and the collapse of the American diplomatic effort touched off a round of finger-pointing.

Palestinians blamed Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu for digging in his heels and not compromising on the scope of an Israeli withdrawal from the West Bank. The Israelis were critical of U.S. diplomacy, saying the invitation to the summit had come in the form of an ultimatum.

Ross, who was set to return to Washington, did not speak to reporters. Officials said he would consult Monday with President Clinton, Secretary of State Madeleine Albright and National Security Adviser Sandy Berger on the possibility of rescheduling the meeting.

Ross telephoned Yasser Arafat, president of the Palestinian Authority, with the news during a meeting Sunday in Jerusalem with the chief Palestinian negotiator, Saeb Erekat, said U.S. Consul-General John Herbst. Ross then met with Netanyahu.

David Bar-Illan, a top aide to Netanyahu, said one contest winner, Trisha Collins, had her photos taken in Iceland, Afghanistan, Bangladesh and New Zealand. She said she likes to travel to the United States as possible.

“This was tough at first, being American and used to three feet of distance between people at all times,” Lowney said. “But then it

See EXHIBIT page 3

See SUMMIT page 6

This sign outside of Open Air Flowers downtown beckoned people to buy flowers for their mothers. For Cal Poly students away from home, more foresight was needed to get flowers, a gift or a card to mom on time.

See SUMMIT page 6

By Jessica Nlaarf

Diversity Photo Contest — is on display at Kennedy Library.

Diversity Photo Contest — is on display at Kennedy Library.

By Jessica Nlaarf

The event was held in the honor of Joyce Curry-Daly, a Cal Poly professor who died last fall herself and a member of the university’s cultural awareness committee.

“Curry-Daly celebrated people and allowed each person to be who they were, to find their uniqueness and celebrate it,” said one contest winner, Trisha Lowney, a social science senior.

Lowney received honorable mention for her photos taken in Bangladesh and New Zealand. She said she likes to travel to places that are as different from the United States as possible.

One of her photos depicts a “Mauri Greeting” in New Zealand, where people meet for the first time. She said, “It was tough at first, being American and used to three feet of distance between people at all times,” Lowney said. “But then it

See EXHIBIT page 3

Snapshots of diversity on display

A mosaic of different cultures — composed of winning entries from the first Human Diversity Photo Contest — is on display at Kennedy Library.

The contest was open to all students, faculty and staff. The library received 52 contest entries. The event was held in honor of Joyce Curry-Daly, a Cal Poly professor who died last fall of pancreatic cancer. Curry-Daly was a photographer herself and a member of the university’s cultural awareness committee.

“Curry-Daly celebrated people and allowed each person to be who they were, to find their uniqueness and celebrate it,” said one contest winner, Trisha Lowney, a social science senior.

Lowney received honorable mention for her photos taken in Bangladesh and New Zealand. She said she likes to travel to places that are as different from the United States as possible.

One of her photos depicts a “Mauri Greeting” in New Zealand, where people meet for the first time. She said, “It was tough at first, being American and used to three feet of distance between people at all times,” Lowney said. “But then it

See EXHIBIT page 3

This sign outside of Open Air Flowers downtown beckoned people to buy flowers for their mothers. For Cal Poly students away from home, more foresight was needed to get flowers, a gift or a card to mom on time.

See SUMMIT page 6

Brunch, carnations and Hallmark, plus the second weekend of May, equals Mother’s Day.

However, contrary to popular myth, Mothers Day didn’t get people to buy what you stand for and what you would do if elected governor,” read the letter signed by Times publisher Mark H. Willes and editor Michael Parks. "That is why we encourage you to focus your comments on issues and actions you would take, rather than on the perceived weaknesses or foibles of your opponents.”

The forum is likely to be the only event bringing all four major candidates together. Other debate proposals have failed.

Students who had to be away from the forum are hoping to catch it on TV. The candidates rarely stump, and all use TV ads to beam prefabricated themes and messages to voters. And TV news departments have trimmed the amount of time they’re devoting to the campaign.

It was not clear how many Californians TV or radio stations would air the forum live, the Times said late last week, though relatively few Californians are likely to see it anyway. It begins at 10:30 a.m. EDT. SPARQ will broadcast the debate nationally May 17, four days after the fact.

Eladder, however, the candidates were hoping to up the weekend to brush up on the

See SUMMIT page 6

See FORUM page 6

This sign outside of Open Air Flowers downtown beckoned people to buy flowers for their mothers. For Cal Poly students away from home, more foresight was needed to get flowers, a gift or a card to mom on time.

See SUMMIT page 6

Brunch, carnations and Hallmark, plus the second weekend of May, equals Mother’s Day.

However, contrary to popular myth, Mothers Day didn’t get people to buy what you stand for and what you would do if elected governor,” read the letter signed by Times publisher Mark H. Willes and editor Michael Parks. “That is why we encourage you to focus your comments on issues and actions you would take, rather than on the perceived weaknesses or foibles of your opponents.”

The forum is likely to be the only event bringing all four major candidates together. Other debate proposals have failed.

Students who had to be away from the forum are hoping to catch it on TV. The candidates rarely stump, and all use TV ads to beam prefabricated themes and messages to voters. And TV news departments have trimmed the amount of time they’re devoting to the campaign.

It was not clear how many Californians TV or radio stations would air the forum live, the Times said late last week, though relatively few Californians are likely to see it anyway. It begins at 10:30 a.m. EDT. SPARQ will broadcast the debate nationally May 17, four days after the fact.

Eladder, however, the candidates were hoping to up the weekend to brush up on the

See SUMMIT page 6

See FORUM page 6

See MOM page 5

Ross says Middle East summit in D.C. is off

By Moshe R. Yaron
Associated Press

JERUSALEM — U.S. envoy Dennis Ross called off a MidEast summit Washington had offered to hold Monday, and the collapse of the American diplomatic effort touched off a round of finger-pointing.

Palestinians blamed Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu for digging in his heels and not compromising on the scope of an Israeli withdrawal from the West Bank. The Israelis were critical of U.S. diplomacy, saying the invitation to the summit had come in the form of an ultimatum.

Ross, who was set to return to Washington, did not speak to reporters. Officials said he would consult Monday with President Clinton, Secretary of State Madeleine Albright and National Security Adviser Sandy Berger on the possibility of rescheduling the meeting.

Ross telephoned Yasser Arafat, president of the Palestinian Authority, with the news during a meeting Sunday in Jerusalem with the chief Palestinian negotiator, Saeb Erekat, said U.S. Consul-General John Herbst. Ross then met with Netanyahu.

David Bar-Illan, a top aide to Netanyahu, said one contest winner, Trisha Collins, had her photos taken in Iceland, Afghanistan, Bangladesh and New Zealand. She said she likes to travel to the United States as possible.

“This was tough at first, being American and used to three feet of distance between people at all times,” Lowney said. “But then it
TUESDAY

Need a bike? Public Safety’s annual Bike Auction takes place today and Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Public Safety Services, Building 74. Get absolutely rock-bottom deals on “hot” bikes.

Join Poly Escapes for a free outdoor education seminar at 5:30 p.m., then for a slide show and cookies at 7 p.m., all in UU Room 220. This week’s topic will be situational leadership. Poly Escapes is a student-run group that hosts outdoor events ranging from outdoor survival classes to white-water river rafting trips.

WEDNESDAY

Enjoy a lunchtime excursion through Poly Canyon with members of your campus community. The hike begins at the gates of Poly Canyon promptly at noon. Hosted by Provost Paul Zingg and EAP Coordinator Jean DeCosta, the focus is to discuss the environment’s various ecosystems and the human impact on those systems while cleaning it up.

THURSDAY

The SLO Business Improvement Association will be hosting its first Kiwanis campus community. The hike begins at the gates of Poly Canyon promptly at noon. Hosted by Provost Paul Zingg and EAP Coordinator Jean DeCosta, the focus is to discuss the environment’s various ecosystems and the human impact on those systems while cleaning it up.

The SLO Business Improvement Association will be hosting its first Kiwanis campus community. The hike begins at the gates of Poly Canyon promptly at noon. Hosted by Provost Paul Zingg and EAP Coordinator Jean DeCosta, the focus is to discuss the environment’s various ecosystems and the human impact on those systems while cleaning it up.

FRIDAY

Children and their parents are invited to the “America Reads” event on campus today. The program will feature story reading by campus and communities “celebrities,” storytelling by Cal Poly students, and videos on how children learn, plus presentations on the national program “America Reads.” For more information, call Margaret Gardner of El Corral Bookstore at 756-1143.

Join Brian and Nick as they lead a Poly Escapes trip to the Jennie Wilderness, in the High Sierras next to Sequoia National Park. Snow camping, snow shoeing and enjoying the wilderness are in store for adventurers who take this $20 trip. Sign up at the Escape Route, or call 756-1265.

SATURDAY

Woods Humane Society is holding an Adopt-A-Pet event today in Laguna Lake Park from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Leasing pets in need of homes will be there, just waiting to be adopted. Every year, more than 1,100 pets depend on Woods to find them new homes. Woods has been able to place 90 percent of these animals. If you have an empty spot in your life, stop by and adopt a fuzzy doggy or fluffy kitty.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Free, anonymous HIV tests are offered by the San Luis Obispo County Public Health Department. Confidential testing is also offered for anyone requiring documentation of their test result for $15. Both the blood test and the oral test, OraSure, are offered. Phone 756-5377 for an appointment, on Mondays from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. and Wednesdays from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 3 p.m. to 6 p.m. The Health Department is located at 2191 Johnson Avenue.

Mustang Daily Agenda Items: c/o Mary Hadley
E-mail address: mihadley@polymail.calpoly.edu

Graphics, 226 Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo, CA 93407
Advertising: 756-1143. Editorial: 756-1796 Fax: 756-6784
Due to limited space, not all items can be printed.
For guaranteed publication, buy an ad.

Boeing 737s grounded for faulty wires

By Glen Johnson
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The government on Sunday grounded older models of the Boeing 737, the world’s most popular jet, after mandatory inspections of some aircraft found extensive wear in power lines running through their wing fuel tanks.

The order affected 15 percent of the 737s operating domestically, causing scattered flight cancellations as the business week began. United Airlines alone cancelled 54 flights. But with a typical inspection taking about six hours, the impact on the flying public Sunday apparently was minimal.

A number of flights also were canceled at Philadelphia International Airport, but ticket clerks attributed most of them to the weather. The few passengers affected by inspection delays seem to take the developments in stride.

At Reagan National, just outside Washington, Doug Chowers said his United flight to Chicago was canceled, "but they made sure they didn’t mess up my plans too much. They made sure I was on the next available flight."

The emergency inspection, the broadest FAA order for commercial aircraft since McDonnell-Douglas DC-10s were grounded in 1979, came three days after the Federal Aviation Administration gave airlines up to a week to inspect their oldest 737s for signs of wear in the wiring or pipes that carry the wires through the fuel tanks.

A recent inspection of a Continental Airlines 737 found both exposed wires and holes in the piping believed to have been caused by electrical sparks. Officials feared the mixture of fuel, air and electricity could spark an explosion such as the one that downed TWA Flight 800.

By Saturday afternoon, 14 more aircraft had been inspected and mechanics found chafing in half of the bundles examined. One wiring bundle in a United Airlines 737 showed signs of sparking in one spot and a second area where the wires had been worn bare, most likely from vibration over the plane’s 50,000 hours in flight.

That prompted the FAA to revise its original order, ordering all Boeing 737-100 and -200 series aircraft immediately out of passenger service until they could be inspected and repaired. The planes have cigar-shaped engines mounted directly under their wings. There are 170 such aircraft operated by U.S. carriers.

The FAA also ordered inspections over the next two weeks for 737s with between 40,000 and 50,000 flight hours, generally the oldest models. Boeing 737-300, -400 and -500 aircraft. Those models have oval-shaped engines mounted on pylons that extend in front of the wings. There are 114 such planes in the United States and 282 worldwide.

Based on the early inspections, the FAA also allowed airlines to discontinue inspections of another set of pipes and wires leading to the aircraft’s center fuel tank. In all 14 aircraft inspected, there were no signs of chafing found in that wiring.

"While we are concerned about the inspections) and the disruption it may have on the system, the No. 1 concern of the FAA is safety," said Thomas McSweeney, the FAA’s director of aircraft certification.

Boeing supported the action, which followed its own service bulletin to aircraft owners on April 24.

"We’re doing everything we can to minimize any schedule disruptions to affected 737 operators and we will continue working with the FAA to monitor the inspection results and take any other action that may be advisable," said Boeing spokesman Roy Young.

The manufacturer said it was rushing repair kits to the airlines.

Southwest Airlines, United and US Airways were most affected.

Join the 1999 Mustang Daily

If you are a talented and enthusiastic writer, editor, illustrator, photographer or graphic designer, we want to hear from you.

POSITIONS AVAILABLE

• News Editor
• Sports Editor
• Opinion Editor
• Arts Editor
• Feature Editor
• Copy Editors
• Art Director
• Photographers
• Illustrators

APPLICATION PROCEDURE

Please send a cover letter, résumé, samples of your work and a brief proposal for the position to:

Ryan Becker
Graphic Arts Building, Room 226
Deadline: Friday, May 15, 1998

Mustang Daily
EXHIBIT - from page 1
became really nice. There are no walls between people there."

Agriculture professor Joe Sabol, who recently made a trip to Africa, took the winning photo.

"We went to observe, learn and understand their culture," Sabol said. "There are many problems there. It was an eye-opening experience."

Sabol said during his trip he saw the prison cell where Nelson Mandela was held. He also was in Uganda for about a week before President Clinton arrived and saw the preparations being made for his visit.

"I asked a young girl what was going on and she told me the president of the world is coming," Sabol said. "I was proud they would make such a fuss for our president, but at the same time it was sad because they have so many internal problems they should be focusing on."

Environmental engineering senior Thi "T" Haong took second place for her photo from Bali and Thailand. Haong said she travels every summer.

"I believe that when you travel outward into the world you also travel inward," Haong said. "I have traveled opened her eyes to the things we take for granted every day."

Frogs raining in Bali is outdoors. There are chickens running around everywhere, and it's like nothing I'm used to," Haong said. "And every morning you wake up there's a good smell and food and it's beautiful and you really can't complain."

The third-place prize went to environmental engineering graduate student Leslie Nelson. She snapped her shots during a trip through Turkey where she'd been an exchange student.

"I think the reason I was able to get some of the photos I took of people there was because I know a little bit of the language," Nelson said. "There is a civil war going on there, and people want to tell their stories."

Other entries depicted people from other Asian countries and students traveling through Europe. Closer to home, some photos depicted Cal Poly students at school or playing in the park. The only rules for the contest were that entries be interesting photographs showing human diversity, according to Craig Nelson, a member of the Staff Cultural Awareness Committee.

Nelson said she was pleased with the number of entries the committee received, especially because they didn't do much publicity for the contest.

"The entries were pretty well balanced between students and faculty," Nelson said. "It was really nice to see that so many students entered."

The six-year-old Cultural Awareness Committee is made up of Cal Poly staff members. Cal Poly President Warren Baker and Vice President for Student Affairs Eric Johnson, art department chairman, and Chris O'Connell, director of library advancement.

The judges for the contest were chosen by the Cultural Awareness Committee and were not given any guidelines on which to judge the photos, Nelson said.

"They had an especially hard job because they had to define human diversity themselves before they could select the winners," Nelson said.

The winner of the contest received $100, second place $30 and third place $20. The photos will be on display on the first floor of Kennedy Library through June 8.

Curry-Daly, born in San Luis Obispo, was an active member of the Cultural Awareness Committee. In 1969, she was the first person at Cal Poly to receive an M.A. in mathematics. Curry-Daly had lived in San Luis Obispo most of her life and taught statistics at Cal Poly for 30 years.

Curry-Daly is survived by two daughters, Catherine (Cee-Cee) and Elizabeth (Beth), and her husband, Jim Daly. Both daughters have been involved in the performing arts since they were very young, and Curry-Daly took an interest in photography as a way to document their performances. Several of Curry-Daly's photos are on display in the library as part of the exhibit.

"Curry-Daly would really appreciate this contest because it celebrates diversity and recognizes amateur photographers for their work," said Daly, a statistics professor.

The judges for the contest were Eric Johnson, art department head; Herman Castillo-Giron, of the foreign language department; and Joseph Hoffman, director of library advancement. The judges were selected by the Cultural Awareness Committee and were not given any guidelines on which to judge the photos, Nelson said.

"They had an especially hard job because they had to define human diversity themselves before they could select the winners," Nelson said.

The winner of the contest received $100, second place $30 and third place $20. The photos will be on display on the first floor of Kennedy Library through June 8.

Standard Register

Standard Register is an 85 year old document management company that employs over 9,500 nationally with revenues exceeding $1 Billion. Manufactures and distributes paper, electronic, and software-related products, services, and solutions that help companies minimize costs and improve information processing efficiency.

SALES TRAINEE:
• 6-12 months working directly with a Sales Representative.
• Salary position
• Position moves directly into Sales Representative after 6-12 months

SALES REPRESENTATIVE:
• Consultative/Relationship Selling
• Salary/commission/residual commission (re-orders)
• Unlimited earning potential
• Sales or management career path

LOCATIONS:
Bay (SF) Area, LA Area, Santa Clara, San Diego, Orange County, Phoenix, Portland, Seattle, Las Vegas and others available.

Full time career opportunity. Excellent training/Comprehensive benefits program

Please be sure to stop by our booth at the Career Fair May 19.

DON'T FORGET TO BRING YOUR RESUME.
Love, not judgement,

Editor,

In writing this in response to Jennifer Flores' article on the unfortunate experiences of her friend in the dorms. I agree wholehearted­ly with Ms. Flores and all Christians, and in fact, the human race, should concentrate more on their actions rather than on words. I, too, am saddened and angered by the fact that many Christians feel it's their duty to degrade, insult and make fun of people and things outside of themselves that they judge to be right. But, please, Ms. Flores, do not judge all Christians based on the acts of a few individuals.

I am a Christian. According to Ms. Flores this means that I am not only intolerant, but that I will "find delight in humilitating" those who do not share my beliefs. I have yet, in my 21 years of attending Catholic services and 17 years of Catechism, been instructed that this is the way to live in Christ. I have always been taught that only one Judge, and we are not Him, Christ, rather than looking to us to judge others, taught about love and tolerance.

The major message of His sermons always seemed to concentrate on selflessness, forgiveness and love. It was not Jesus who taught those individ­uals to harangue and belittle people for his "background. To those Christians" I pose this question: Do you truly feel that your actions and words have served Christ, who ought to bring the world peace? Jesus was a wonderful gift to this world, please do not insult His name by associating it with acts of hate.

Tim Wilkinson is a materials engi­neering junior.

Take Jesus to heart,

Editor,

Jennifer Flores' opinion piece in Mustang Daily May 7 was courageous and deeply moving. She reminds me of Jesus standing up for the abused and rejected of his day. Those of us who are Christian, who behave in the manner Jennifer described, need to listen to what she said, and what Jesus taught.

Jesus was about compassion, not ridicule, about comfort, not mean-spirited guila­zip We can and must be better.

Thank you, Jennifer, for the reminder.

David Nolan is the campus minis­ter for the campus Christian commu­nity.

The Ultimate kiosk

Down to Earth

Sometimes I feel like a tiny grain of sand in the midst of mankind's modern world, a place of uninterestedly ordered chaos, of great suffering and sorrow in need of drastic change.

Brad Davis

COLUMN

Earth's 5.8 billion human inhabitants will stagger to 6 billion by the new millennium, and will double to 12 billion in the next 20 years. It's said Earth is only capable of sustaining a maximum population of 14 billion, and take it to mean that we are living in harmony with their environment.

Graphic Arts Bldg., Suite 226
Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo, Ca. 93407
(805) 756-1796
Advertising: (805) 756-1145
Fax: (805) 756-6784
E-mail: horati@polymail.calpoly.edu
All material © 1998 Mustang Daily
Printed by University Graphic Systems

LET'S KEEP IT POSITIVE

Editor,

In response to the May 7, 1998 Cal Poly Women's softball article, I wish to express my disappointment in the lack of school spirit shown to our athletes. I per­sonally attended a few home games where statistics didn't do justice to the effort and abilities of our players. These pho­tos and general focus seem highlight­ed the teams pitfalls of the 1998 season.

The majority of the students and players who, in past seasons, have placed teams in the top 25. Last year they ranked 7th in the nation. It is fair to acknowledge a poor season, for this season was exactly that. However, as a fan in support of the players, I feel espe­cially those who will not get a chance of determining a past on the back, not a slap in the face. I find it hard to believe that the players were responsible for a drop from 7th in the nation to not even being ranked, especially since only three players did not return from the 1997 season. I felt the talent I observed was poorly utilized and the team's poor coaching should be the topic for your next two-page article.

In closing I wish to thank the players and their families, the players win games, and coaches lose games.

Justin Kerr is a dairy science senior.

Keep the letters coming.

And keep 'em to the point. (under 500 words please, no life stories)

BUSINESS MANAGER

A.J. Siemons.

ADVICE MANAGER

Laura Brooks & Renee Sklar.

AD DESIGNERS

Laura Brooks, Marci Christiansen, Jason Joyce

AD REPRESENTATIVES

A.J. Siemons, Laura Brooks & Renee Sklar.

CLASSIFIED AD MANAGERS

Brendan Liddell is a forestr and natural resources junior.

I am sick and tired of those who judge me by the color of my skin and try to put me in my place by suppression, deprivation and enslave­ment. What? That's hard to laugh at because I still don't know what color he is and I really don't care! Sounds like he's making his artistic inadequacies with the very serious issue of racism. RACISM is nothing to joke about, Mr. Selle. Contrary to his inaccurate and insidious delusions, the public has an opinion of his work, and a right to voice it. I don't agree with Berger's personal attack on Mr. Selle's character, but I do agree on his reaction to Mr. Selle's art. I thought the photos were very unappealing as a con­sumer and actually rather catchy. If I saw his work in a mail-order lingerie catalog, I would burn that shit and buy my honey some ear­lier.

Everything's alright now, so what's this got to do with "down to earth," with monumental repudiation of sur­faces, and developed nations are scrambling to continually increase their GDP (Gross Domestic Product), based on a system of ecosystem destruction. No matter what political boundaries are drawn on the globe, everyone falls victim to environmental crimes, regardless of where they occur.

The effects of mankind's existence on Earth are:
- Disappearing plant and animal species at alarmingly higher rates than ever noted in the past
- Rapidly depopulating, finite natural resources
- Ecological system alteration and, in most cases, gradual devastation
- Environmental pollutants corrupting the natural environment, toxic waste

Editor,

How could someone like Joe Nolan, in his editorial "Bilingual education doesn't work," be a judge on whether Bilingual education is successful? By quoting sta­tistics? My Spanish speaking methods now always told me that there are two types of liars in the world, the liars that look you in the eye and lie, and those that speak the truth.

Bilingual edu­cation students in Santa Barbara County didn't pro­duce SAT scores of 1000, so what is that a reflection of their bilingual education programs or being raised in Spanish-only households? Was the educational background and eco­nomic conditions of their homes taken into consideration? If the parents of these kids were "educated" here in California, then the kids would speak English. Hence, not in the program. Check the Santa Barbara County example of English-speaking stu­dents raised in these same conditions. The truth out of these statistics is that educa­tion is not important enough to respect. If we steal students' ability to be comfortable with their education, then we in turn will make them uncomfortable with their education. What would be more harmful to California, a movement of people who feel that they are improving themselves or a movement of people who feel like school is not a place for them?

The graduates of bilingual education programs become educated. In turn they will not be future bilingual education students. I have worked in biling­ual education pro­grams for three years. I am work­ing in one at Laguna Middle.

School right now I'll make you a deal Mr. Nolan. Why don't you meet these children that you are going to hurt, or you can check the statistics of the children of bilingual education graduates. Then I'll give you my address and you can write to me to tell you what you think.

Then I want you to go to the classrooms and explain to the children that California's real goal is to melt all of their cultures and hopeless parents generally have a pot. By the way, Jaime Escalante's students that you admire. Let's take large num­bers of five to sixteen-year-old children. We'll strip them of their language, alienate them from their environment and see that they appreciate that their cultures are not important enough to respect. If we steal students' ability to be comfortable with their education, then we in turn will make them uncomfortable with their education. What would be more harmful to California, a movement of people who feel that they are improving themselves or a movement of people who feel like school is not a place for them?

The graduates of bilingual education programs become educated. In turn they will not be future bilingual education students. I have worked in biling­ual education pro­grams for three years. I am work­ing in one at Laguna Middle.

Nobody cares what color you are

Editor,

I've never laughed at an opinion in Mustang Daily, but on May 7, I broke down after reading Keith Sell's response to Matt Berger's opinion about his cheap pornography in the Kennedy Library. Mr. Selle complains that Berger personally insulted his character, and no more than a paragraph away, he calls Berger a "RACIST."

I read Berger's letter about Mr. Selle's art, and I don't know where he got the infer­ence to racism. Selle infers that Berger is a RACIST because he has a chip on his shoulder the size of West Virginia. He wrote:

Undeveloped nations are bursting at the seams, and, with monumental repudiation of surfaces, and developed nations are scrambling to continually increase their GDP (Gross Domestic Product), based on a system of ecosystem destruction. No matter what political boundaries are drawn on the globe, everyone falls victim to environmental crimes, regardless of where they occur.

The effects of mankind's existence on Earth are:
- Disappearing plant and animal species at alarmingly higher rates than ever noted in the past
- Rapidly depopulating, finite natural resources
- Ecological system alteration and, in most cases, gradual devastation
- Environmental pollutants corrupting the natural environment, toxic waste

"I am sick and tired of those who judge me by the color of my skin and try to put me in my place by suppression, deprivation and enslave­ment. What? That's hard to laugh at because I still don't know what color he is and I really don't care! Sounds like he's making his artistic inadequacies with the very serious issue of racism. RACISM is nothing to joke about, Mr. Selle. Contrary to his inaccurate and insidious delusions, the public has an opinion of his work, and a right to voice it. I don't agree with Berger's personal attack on Mr. Selle's character, but I do agree on his reaction to Mr. Selle's art. I thought the photos were very unappealing as a con­sumer and actually rather catchy. If I saw his work in a mail-order lingerie catalog, I would burn that shit and buy my honey some ear­lier."
would honor her with the traditional gestures — a small gift or card and/or phone call.

Theresa Robles, social science senior, said: "Mother's Day does make me miss my mom even more, but it's a little commercialized. You have to buy her something when it should come out of your heart at any time of the year."

Keeping up with tradition, Mary Anne's Hallmark in downtown San Luis Obispo sold a lot of cards according to employee Wes Frakes. "We've been getting spanked the last couple of days; pretty much all the cards are gone," Frakes said.

"The funny cards are usually the first to go, and then people settle for the mushy kind as it gets closer to Mother's Day," he added.

Frakes said he didn't send his mom a card, but e-mailed her and sent scanned photos of his family. Some students gave the traditional offerings to their moms.

Kristi Crumpacker, social science junior, said she sent her mom a present and would call her, although she wishes she could do more. Her mom lives in the Bay Area. "I feel bad I can't be there, I've never gone home on Mother's Day and I just feel like I should," Crumpacker said.

Electrical engineering junior Edwin Escobar said he bought his mom a blank Mother's Day card because she doesn't speak English, and he also sent her flowers. "I spent hours trying to write something nice for her, compliment her and tell her what a great mom she is, I remember all the circumstances we've gone through in this country and thank her for helping me through the rough times," Escobar said.

Other students were less apt to indulge in Mother's Day retailing. Electrical engineering sophomore, David Willis, said he would call his mom, but didn't send her anything. "I never really did that. I think Hallmark keeps the holiday going," Willis added.

History junior James Larkin said he didn't get his mom anything because he's going to see her next weekend. "I will give her a gift then, but I don't know what, and I will call her," he said.

Many of those who had Mom in town took her out to brunch.

Some popular brunch locations were the Crystal Rose Inn in Arroyo Grande, The Cliffs, the Shore Cliff Lodge and F. McLintocks, all located in Shell Beach, and The Apple Farm in San Luis Obispo. These restaurants all sold out early for Mother's Day brunch.

There were also events to choose from such as a free Mother's Day concert at the Jack House Gardens on March Street, the Cuesta Wind Ensemble's Mother's Day concert in the PAC's Harmon Hall and a family carnival in Grover Beach.

At Thursday's Farmers' Market, 1,000 red roses were given out to the first 1,000 mothers to arrive.

Darlene Garza, physical education freshman, said she would celebrate Mother's Day with her two children. "We'll probably go to church, and then lunch. Who knows, maybe they'll have a surprise for me," Garza said.

UNIVERSITY GARDENS
APARTMENTS
766 BOYSEN AVENUE
Now Leasing For Fall '98
For Information Call 543-6819

Summer Camp Counselors Wanted
Camp La Jolla, The Nation's #1 fitness and Weight loss camp needs FUN, Resident Camp Counselors.
Room, Board and Pay.
For application call (619) 435-6189

ASI Executive Staff
And
Executive Vice-President
Applications
Now Available
Pick up applications in UC217A
Deadline date: Noon, Friday, May 15, 1998

Cal Poly Educates Teachers?
You bet, at the UCTE!
Find out about teaching as a career, and find out about Cal Poly's University Center for Teacher Education
Call 756-2584
SUMMIT from page 1

Netanyahu, said it was unlikely that a new date for the summit could be fixed until late in the month because of Netanyahu's travel plans.

Erekat blamed Netanyahu for the breakdown in negotiations, not the Palestinians had agreed to a U.S. compromise proposal in which Israel would withdraw from 13 percent of the West Bank in exchange for tougher Palestinian security measures.

"The Americans must take decidative decisions. They must stop Netanyahu before it's too late," said Erekat, attributing the impasse to "Netanyahu's defance" and calling the Israeli leader a "non-negota­ tor."

Israeli radio reported that Clinton would meet Netanyahu in Birmingham, England, during a conference of the world's richest nations next week.

In Washington, White House spokesman Barry Tuve said no decidion had been made on the meeting, and that Clinton would decide whether to hold it after talking with his advisers.

Last week, Clinton offered to play host to a new round of Mideast peace talks in which Israelis and Palestinians would wrap up loose ends and start tackling the tough­ out issues — such as the future of Jerusalem, Israeli settlements, borderers and refugees. But the meeting was conditioned on Israel first approving the U.S. withdrawal plan — which Israel interpreted as an ultimatum.

The daily Maariv reported that Netanyahu accused the Americans of portraying him as an obstacle to peace during a Friday meeting with Bush.

"You want to depict me as the one who is thwarting the peace process, and I'm not prepared to accept that," Netanyahu told Ross, according to Maariv.

"It's impossible for you to invite me to Washington under such conditions. That's public humiliation," said Netanyahu, raising his voice and pounding on his desk.

Bar-Illan, who refused to comment on the Maariv report, blamed the breakdown on a breach of understandings with the United States that Israel would determine the size of the withdrawals and was alone responsible for security.

He also was critical of the United States for coaching the invittion to Washington "in the form of an ultimatum" in which Israel had to agree to U.S. terms before it could attend.

FORUM from page 1

issues and bone whose messages.
"Clearly, a lot of work and attention will be devoted to distinguishing myself and letting people know that I am the real thing," Davis said in an interview, adding that he would probably discuss his record of public service if Chechel contincues to pin the "career politician"
badge on him.

A spokesman for Lungren said he would focus on crime and education and, like Davis, remind voters of his years of public service. But he was not expected to make a run for the elected attorney general.
Lungren served in Congress.

Ms. Harman planned to suggest Lungren and Davis have spent too much time in office, said Kuwata, her manager. For her part, Ms. Harman is serving her third term in Congress and worked in the Carter White House as a deputy cabinet secretary.

Besides drawing distinctions on issues, the debate will give viewers a glimpse of four very disparate personalities.

Ms. Harman boasts of a cooeoperative leadership style but cassually grows combustive when questioned by critics and reporters. Lungren is known for his glibness and confidence, but his temper sometimes flares.
Chechii is a former corporate executivc unaccustomed to having his word questioned.

"For Davis, the question is not his command of the substance, it's style," said Sherry Bebitch Jeffe, a political analyst at the Claremont Graduate University. "It's showing a little bit of charisma potential, breaking out of the mold of the — for lack of a better word — 'gray'
bureaucrat image."

Ms. Harman and Lungren have the most to gain from the debate. The congresswoman is last among Democrats in the latest Field Poll and needs to make a splash.

---

Want to work & play
in Santa Barbara this summer?

Quadron Corporation, a small, friendly company located in downtown Santa Barbara. We're looking for C/CSE/EL interns for the summer to help with communication protocols and device driver development for PCI and ISA cards operating in Windows NT and other PC platforms.

Experience with PC architecture and software and hardware interfaces is key. Ability with C/C++ programming is required.
You will help with software design, implementation, testing, maintenance and support.

Quadron is a communications company that develops software for IBM ARTIC co-processor cards. If you've ever used an ATM machine, phoned directory assistance, used a credit card, placed a long-distance telephone call, or flown anywhere—you've probably used our products.

Check out our website <www.quadron.com> for more about us.
Email your resume and interests to info@quadron.com or mail it to us at:

Quadron Corporation
Attn: Human Resources
209 East Victoria Street
Santa Barbara, CA 93101

---

MCAT
Taking the MCAT?
Kaplan Teachers Have the Answers.

"I love teaching in general — explaining complex concepts in simple but not simplistic ways.... I was fortunate enough to have mentors I trusted to help me, and I'm committed to carrying on their tradition."

— Seung Choi, Kaplan Instructor
B.S. Stanford University
M.D./Ph. D. Candidate, UCSD

Seung received the highest MCAT score in the country on the Spring 1993 administration: Biological Sciences 15, Verbal Reasoning 15, Phsical Sciences 14, Writing Sample 1.

Call today to enroll in the #1 MCAT course!

expert teachers
superior materials
smart technology
proven results

1-800-KAP-TEST
www.kaplan.com

VALENCIA
"The best value in Student Housing"
Braw and brains

Three Cal Poly wrestlers earned Division I Academic Honors from the National Honoring Wrestling Coaches Association. Junior David Wells was selected to the All-Academic Second Team while senior Craig Wel and sophomore Dan McGee were named to the All-Academic Honorable Mention team. All three qualified for the NCAA Division I Championships in March. Wells earned All-American honors with a seventh-place finish at 158 pounds.

B-BALL from page 8

from third and scored under Kennedy's tag at the plate. The 49ers upset their lead to 14-3 in the fourth behind runs scoring singles from Lee, Madison, and Day.

The Mustangs scored again in the fourth. Obourn walked and was moved to third when Matt Elam doubled. Barringer then hit a sacrifice fly to score Obourn.

The 49ers extended their lead to 17-4 in the sixth inning. Sledge led off the inning with his second triple of the game and later scored on a Kennedy double. Mike Hota knocked in the other two 49ers runs with a double, his second hit of the game.

The 49ers' 16th run came when a Sledge single sent the go-ahead run to the plate. The error allowed Lee to score.

Wood's homer in the seventh got the Mustangs closer to the 49ers, 18-6.

RUNNERS from page 8

A Roadrunner defender missed a kick to clear the ball. Hummer came out to go one on one, but Chivas Felipe Rodriguez dribbled around him and put the ball in the open goal.

"We need to be more explosive on the attack and that will help keep the teams off of us on the defensive," Smyth said.

In four games, the Roadrunners have scored only four goals. Smyth doesn't want to make excuses for the losses, but he points out that the team has had a lot of opportunities to practice together as a team.

"Unfortunately a couple of games have been like learning experiences and that is not where you want to be as a leader," Smyth said.

The Roadrunners are now 2-2 overall and 0-1 in league play.
SPORTS

SPORTS BAR

SPORTS TRIVIA

Wednesday's Answer:
A total of 170,000 tickets were sold for the World Cup after a telephone hotline opened April 23 for residents of France and other European nations. French officials said at least 20 million telephone calls were received by 90 operators.

Congrats Julie Maenoff!

Today's Question:
Name the team that won the championship match of the women's water polo collegiate tournament on Sunday.

Submit your answer to:
Maeney@calpoly.calpoly.edu

Please include an answer and your first and last name in your e-mail.

SCHEDULE
CENTRAL COAST
ROADRUNNERS
Silicon Valley
Roadrunners
3
Roadrunners
1
Southern California
Roadrunners
2
Roadrunners
0

CAL POLY
BASEBALL
Long Beach State
Cal Poly
13
Cal Poly
0
Long Beach State
Cal Poly
23
Cal Poly
7
Long Beach State
Cal Poly
19
Cal Poly
8

BRIEFS
Summer Soccer Series
July Jeff Berg

The Cal Poly men's and women's soccer teams are teaming up to present the Cal Poly Summer Soccer Series. Five day-camps will be offered to boys and girls ranging in ages 5-17.

Each camp costs $75 and spans four days.

The camp offers local children a chance to get away from the television, into the sun and work on their soccer skills.

"We have the finest facilities on the Central Coast and we saw a need for a quality day camp, as a result, Wolfgang (Men's head soccer coach) and I decided to combine our efforts to help develop young soccer players," stated women's head soccer coach Alex Crozaer in a press release.

The first camp, June 22-25, is for co-ed children ages 5-12 at the Cal Poly Rec Field.

The second camp, July 6-9, is for co-ed children ages 5-12 at the Cal Poly Rec Field.

The third camp, July 13-16, is for co-ed children ages 5-12 at the Cal Poly Rec Field.

The fourth camp, July 20-23, is for co-ed children ages only 5-17 at the Cal Poly Rec Field.

The fifth camp, July 27-30, is for co-ed children ages 5-17 at the Lee Ossie Middle School.

Wood ties Cal Poly home run record

By Joe Nolen
Daily Staff Writer

In his second-to-last at bat of the season, Steve Wood belted his Cal Poly record-tying 18th homer of the year. The Mustangs' 16-62, 7-21 dropped the game to the 49ers (33-20, 23-7, 19-8), culminating a three-game sweep for the 49ers. The blast over the left-centerfield wall off Long Beach State right-hander Shannon Severn tied him with Monty Waltz '85 for the single-season record. T h e first baseman got a chance in the ninth inning to break the record but delivered a sharp single to center instead.

He also got into the Cal Poly record books for doubles, hits and RBI in a single season. His 16 doubles ties him for seventh while his 56 RBI and 90 hits ranks him sixth.

Although Wood stole the show, three seniors were also honored Sunday.

Senior right-hander Jason Porto started the game on the mound going two and two-thirds innings allowing 11 runs on 11 hits. The loss dropped him to 2-8 on the year.

Senior catcher Matt Bailey also played in his final game. He got two hits and scored three runs and said he enjoyed his career at Cal Poly.

"In previous years we had more success, but it's always been fun," Bailey said. "Every year there was never an individual we were always very team oriented. I know next year at this time I'll probably be thinking, 'Damn, I wish I was playing ball.'"

Outfielder Mark Okenbor also played in his final game and drew two walks with a run scored.

The Mustangs jumped on the board first with two runs in the bottom of the first inning. Singles by Wood and Tanner Treopper drove in freshman Jason Barringer and Bailey, respectively.

The 49ers responded in the top of the second with seven runs on five hits off Porto. After two walks and a single, Termel Sledge delivered a three-run triple to take the lead.

A walk to Jason Madisson brought the Big West's leading hitter, Paul Day (.435), to the plate where he proceeded to single in Sledge and Madison. A Brian Kennedy double and Chuck Lopez single drove in the other two runs.

Long Beach State added to its lead in the third when Day struck again. His single scoring Justin Hall and Curt Lee, who both reached with singles. Kennedy then singled in Sledge and Day making the 49er lead 11-2. Junior Dan Merritt relieved Porto and ended the rally.

The Mustangs got their third run in the bottom of the inning on a sacrifice fly by freshman Scott Sheldon. He hit a pop-up behind second baseman and shortstop Justin Hall made an incredible diving catch. Bailey alertly tagged up.

See 8-BALL page 7

"Runners drop league opener and US Open qualifier games

By Kimberly Koney
Daily Sport Editor

Wile E. Coyote could learn something from the Ambassadors and the Chivas.

Both teams managed to catch the Roadrunners this weekend.

The Central Coast Roadrunners controlled the tempo of the games, but the other pushed through to the goal with a more physical game. "We are only playing with intensity in sports and then we have a breakdown," said Roadrunner head coach Larry Smyth. "All it takes is one little breakdown to let somebody through."

On Friday night, the Roadrunners fell to the Silicon Valley, 3-1, in a U.S. Open Cup qualifier game.

Ambassador Miguel Dumitru scored the first goal in the 90th minute. An Ambassador took a shot that hit the top of the goal and bounced straight down. With goalkeeper Alan Beike out of the goal, Dumitru rushed the goal and put the ball in.

Several minutes later the Roadrunners tied the score. Jose Espinosa placed a free kick into the center then Dana McGregor shot the ball to the back post and it bounced across the goal and in.

In the 49th minute, the Ambassadors scored again. Rafael Kahn dove to head in a deflected corner kick.

They came back to score again. With Beike out of the goal on one side,awan Bekev put the ball into the other side of the goal. Frustrated with trying to defend his goal alone, Beike killed the ball back into the goal as it bounced out.

On Saturday night, Roadrunner goalkeeper Brandon Haarmon got a little taste of that frustration when the Southern California Chivas defeated the Roadrunners, 2-0.

The first half of the game was scoreless, but attitudes were changing. The referee and Chivas Mike Rubles had multiple conversations on the field, resulting in a yellow card.

Rubles managed to score the first goal of the game though. Oscar Quinto passed the ball backwards to set up the shot by Rubles to the upper left corner of the goal.

In the 75th minute the Chivas sealed their win with a second goal.

See RUNNERS page 7