Football blowout
Mustangs lose 63-0 to University of Nevada, Reno
Sports, back page

Women's volleyball
Jenssen is the 7th Mustang to reach 1,000 career kills
Sports, back page

Tell Iraq we’re serious
Columnist says why the U.S. should stand up to Saddam Opinion, page 4

Poly student vanishes; friends search
20-year-old was last seen Thursday at San Luis Obispo's Tortilla Flats
By Jeremy Roe and Kimberly Kaney

Environmental event begins today
By Lauren Nowenstein

KCPR wraps up fund-raising auction
Annual event is station's biggest money-maker
By Heather Hershman

New weight room added to Mott Gym
By Chris Hoffman

Environmental event begins today
By Lauren Nowenstein

Muslin Daily
Monday
November 16, 1998
EVENT
continued from page 1
also helped to organize the week. "This is a perfect project for them," Torres said, adding that students picked subjects some second-hand smoke to the problems surrounded Avila Beach. One of Tuesday's displays will focus on the use of solar energy. Cal Poly's Solar Car Club is currently constructing a vehicle designed to compete in 1,250-mile race from Washington, D.C. to Florida in June of 1999. "We are promoting solar energy now because it is far better to have a smooth transition toward alternative (energy) than to have a forced, dramatic change in the future," said Jim Bennie, club president and a business senior. Facilities Planning Department Coordinator Ed Johnson said Enron, the electricity provider for all California State University and University of California schools, is scheduled to display energy-efficient light fixtures. Johnson said Cal Poly may soon undergo energy-conserving changes with new light fixtures and improved ventilation systems. "Right now the Enron people are looking at all the buildings and classrooms at Cal Poly and making recommendations," Johnson said. "One of Tuesday's displays by the county's Integrated Waste Management Authority features a bin designed for vermiculture, composting with worms added." Nakasone said this type of composting, which uses about one pound of red worms per bin, can help reduce garbage and stress on wastewater treatment plants. "Food waste makes up 10 to 15 percent of material going to landfills," Nakasone said. A screening and discussion of the movie "Affluenza" is scheduled for 7 p.m. in Tenaya Hall. The movie shows some of the effects that buying material goods places on relationships and families. "It makes our consumer habits look like an illness, but also suggests a cure," Nakasone said. Wednesday's displays focus on transportation alternatives. The Electric Vehicle Club, which works on ways to develop emission-free cars, is scheduled to have a booth where students can learn more about the club's projects. Jacquie Paulsen, the student commuter services coordinator, said many students think choosing alternative forms of transportation is an all or nothing deal, but added that students don't have to give up their cars on a permanent basis but should try to reduce the amount of time spent driving them. Thursday's activities promote consumer awareness with displays by groups such as the Permaculture Club and Hope Dance Magazine. Alan Cushman, associate director of Campus Dining, said a food waste study to be conducted Thursday evening at the Lighthouse may help Campus Dining determine how to further reduce food waste. Students from the Campus Dining Committee will separate and weigh leftover items on students' trays to determine which entrees are wasted most frequently. Student surveys will then be taken to determine why the food was not eaten. The study will give us an idea to see what (students) can do differently and what we can do differently," Johnson said.
Friday's events will feature information about improving water and air quality with displays by the Solar Club and the Air Pollution Control District. Johnson said the study wouldn't be done. "We will make every attempt to utilize whatever can be salvaged, and the other equipment... really, that's to be determined," Sleeper said. "We don't anticipate getting rid of one of the old materials other than the old cement that can't be used. So there's really been no waste created by this project." The locker rooms that had to be moved are mostly being reused in other parts of the locker room, but Sleeper said some older lockers may be sold or donated to a recreational program that needs them. "There are some older basket-type lockers that weren't being utilized in this existing setting. They're available," he explained. Other gym renovation projects include construction of a locker room for the women's basketball team and improvements to the equipment-issuing room.
AUCTION
continued from page 1

year, but this one is by far the most successful.

"This is one of our biggest fundraisers we have all year," she said. "This one brings in the most money." The station has already raised nearly twice as much money on the auction as it did last year.

"This year went very well," Wolfson said. "So far we estimate we've made around $1,400. Last year we only made around $800."

Some items included in most of the packages are T-shirts, gift certificates, and CDs.

"We threw music in all of them," Wolfson said. "Most packages had CDs or they had records."

"Go Taco gave us 200 coupons for our auction, so we also threw those in a lot of the packages."

One package even included a digital satellite system and sold for $175.

"It was probably our biggest package," she said.

There was also a "date package" which went for a lot of money, according to Wolfson. It included various items such as a one-night stay at the Adobe Inn, dinner for two at Taj Palace, and a free tuxedo rental.

"There were tons of things in that package," Wolfson said.

Most of the items in the auction were donated by local businesses.

"This year we not only had businesses, but we had individuals donate things as well," said Carvet Cordes, a journalism sophomore and KCPR volunteer.

Those involved with the station went to businesses directly, asking for donations.

"This auction is particularly good for the station because it raises money, but it also helps with campus and community relations," Cordes said.

"Not only is it a fundraiser for KCPR, but it helps to tie the station, the campus, and the community together," Cordes said.

We at El Corral Bookstore would like to remind students of our commitment to providing the best textbook and course material on campus to insure you won't have to worry about where to sell your books back.

El Corral guarantees the highest cash prices on textbook buy back, which benefits student budgets, especially around the holiday season. We also carry the largest selection of used textbooks available and have the longest refund period for textbook purchases.

Your college campus revolves around a continuous network of support. Please support your campus by remembering to sell and buy your books at El Corral Bookstore - your best textbook value. Students who invest in their campus bookstore are promoting a stronger campus and thinking about their own best interests.

Sincerely,

Your Caring Friends at El Corral Bookstore

P.S. Please stop by for complimentary cookies and lemonade Thursdays at 11:00 a.m.
Iraq, in the last two weeks, has locked out United Nations weapons inspectors. This has been done, we can only assume, to prevent the weapons inspection process from discovering, or observing the development of nuclear and/or biological weapons deemed illegal by the United Nations.

This is not the first time this has happened. Iraq has played this game before, we, the United States, threatened military action. Last time it checked, Saddam has made it clear to the world and his people that he hates the United States, and he will do his best to defi it.

And for whatever reason our military tactician of a President has decided that the “hit and see” approach is best. Clinton feared taking military action last time because of Russia and, if all else failed, France would oppose it to U.S. military action. Last time I checked, Russia was scrambling to hold up a skeleton of an economy and even less of a military and France—well, nothing need be said. Add to that U.N. “reservations” and our President was too frightened to take any concrete, and I might add, much needed, action.

This time we have delivered the USS Enterprise aircraft carrier, the USS Eisenhower etc. to the Gulf. As of yet we have made no attack. However it would appear, due to the showing of our Navy, that we are world suspicions that the United States is no longer the evil in general. In fact, the burning of American flags in Iraq parades is a common occurrence. Saddam has made it clear to the world and his people that he hates the United States, and he will do his best to defi it.

And for whatever reason our military tactician of a President has decided that the “hit and see” approach is best. Clinton feared taking military action last time because of Russia and, if all else failed, France would oppose it to U.S. military action. Last time I checked, Russia was scrambling to hold up a skeleton of an economy and even less of a military and France—well, nothing need be said. Add to that U.N. “reservations” and our President was too frightened to take any concrete, and I might add, much needed, action.

This time we have delivered the USS Enterprise aircraft carrier, the USS Eisenhower etc. to the Gulf. As of yet we have made no attack. However it would appear, due to the showing of our Navy, that we are ready and willing.

So it now remains to be seen, will our President give way again to Saddam Hussein, or will he deliver the message to Iraq and the rest of the World? Should we affirm world suspicions that the United States is no longer the superpower to contend with, but rather a nation subject to the whims of the United Nations?

I would hope not, the United States must attack Iraq, and attack in full. Every potential nuclear weapon development site must be leveled, no building suspected of nuclear tampering should be left standing. Hussein has thrown down the proverbial glove. We must respond in kind. The United States has a role to play in an otherwise hectic global environment.

In times of need we must respond, UN approval or not. Hopefully our President will recognize this. Hopefully he will recognize that smiling diplomacy has its limits. Iraq is our enemy, allowing them to develop nuclear arms poses a serious threat to the safety of U.S. citizens, not to mention European ones. We must defend ourselves and the world.

Aron DeFerrari is a political science junior.
Candidate Profile: Quality Assurance Engineer

Verify the quality of pre-release software and prototype hardware for EFI's print controllers. Test print utilities, color quality, media handling, network performance, and hardware in English and a variety of other languages using graphics applications and network packages. We are looking for experience in graphics, color printing, networking or hardware, or native-level language skills in Japanese, French, German, Spanish, Italian, or Portuguese. Also requires advanced user-level Macintosh or Windows skills and BS in a technical discipline.

If you fit EFI's profile, set your career on Fiery.
Visit us at the Career Fair
November 23rd from 9 am - 1 pm.
See your Career Planning & Placement Office for details.

Join the team

We are Electronics for Imaging, Inc., and our mission is to continue to lead the industry in the latest technologies in digital color printing. We do it by pioneering products that make it possible to print consistent, high-quality color in short production runs — on the desktop, across the network, or over the Worldwide Web.

Check out our Web site at www.efi.com for detailed job descriptions. EFI offers a competitive salary, relocation bonus, stock options and a loaded benefits package. We welcome recent graduates to apply by sending resumes and job preferences to Phuong.Thai@corp.efi.com or fax to 650.286.8663, attn: Phuong Thai. We are proud to be an employer who hires and promotes individuals from diverse backgrounds.
Falcons best in West

ATLANTA (AP) — Eighteen years after the only division title in franchise history, the Atlanta Falcons took a giant step Sunday toward winning the NFC West again.

Playing before their first home sellout crowd in three years, the surprising Falcons took sole possession of first place with a 31-19 victory over San Francisco, beating the team that has ruled the division almost every year since 1986 — "It's been a long time coming," said linebacker Jessie Tuggle, who has been with the Falcons for 12 years. "We not only wanted to win this game. We wanted to send a statement to the rest of the league, let everyone know we're for real."

Tuggle scored a touchdown on a fumble recovery, and an interception by Ray Buchanan set up a second-half field goal that clinched a landmark victory for Atlanta, which was evident from the Georgia Dome crowd of 69,828.

"We're not soood with our offense right now, but our defense has stepped up," Tuggle said. "It's exciting with this crowd here today, because the difference between winning and losing in this league is so small and they can make the difference," Reeves said.

Student Special $798 LARGE 1 topping Pizza!

"All school year long—just flash your student ID."

Not good with other offers. Must mention when ordering.

ADULT CABARET
Exotic Dancers
Featuring the Central Coast's Most Beautiful Ladies

Monday
College Night "Free Admission" with valid ID.

Wednesday
Amateur Night Cabinet members receive free admission to this exciting event!

October is Customer Appreciation Month
Monday thru Thursday Entrance Fees
Day $3 After 6:30pm $10

ADULT CABARET
Rocks

ROCKS

WOODSTOCK'S Delivers A Master Pizza!

"Woooodstock’s delivers a master pizza!"

$20 off Extra Large, Larg or Medium, one or more toppings pizza
Not good with other offers; 6/13/98

$10 off with this coupon

"I called him (Bledsoe) to say thank you for coming up to me after the game," Parcells said after the Jets game. "It was about a three-minute conversation. He told me that (about Glenn). I didn't tell anybody anything."

And that, Parcells insisted, included Johnson.

"I haven't talked to Jimmy Johnson since scumpages of my game," he said. "Let's just take the deposition and we'll see what did what."

NFL policy says any contact between members of one organization and players of another organization could potentially interfere with employment, contract, bidding or team relationships. Clubs whose personnel engage in such contact do so at their own risk and expose themselves to disciplinary action, including forfeiture of draft choices.

Last season, the league investigated a phone conversation between Bill Belichick, the Jets' assistant head coach and defensive coordinator, with Baltimore Ravens players Orlando Brown and Wally Williams, which occurred the week the two teams played.

The investigation was found, although the inquiry lasted into the offseason.

RUNNERS
continued from page 8

17th with a time of 3:17 and led the way for the Mustangs on the 10 km course. Phillips will find out today if he qualifies for the NCAA Championships on Nov. 23 in Lawrence, Kansas.

Junior Greg Plaster was the second highest finisher on the Mustang side at 32nd with a time of 3:13. "The men showed that they are on the verge of qualifying for the NCAA national championship," head coach Mark Conover said. "It is a big step forward to be in the mix with the top teams from the western region."

For the women, freshman Allison Millhollen was the top finisher in 47th place, recording a time of 16:19 on the 5 km course. Junior Melissa Velek finished 48th with a time of 18:26.

"The women ran their most solid race of the year," Conover said. "For the young group that it is, it bodes well for the future."

Atlanta took first place in both events as Aldi Abalahim won the men's title with a time of 16:26. Stanford won the men's competition with 37 points, followed by Oregon (48), Washington State (129), Arizona (133) and Washington (144). In front of Cal Poly in the women's competition was Arizona with 78 points, Stanford (80) and Washington (107).

NFL investigating Parcells phone call to Drew Bledsoe

NEW YORK (AP) — The NFL is investigating a possible tampering charge against New York Jets coach Bill Parcells involving a phone conversation he had with New England Patriots quarterback Drew Bledsoe.

"We have made an inquiry into the reported telephone conversation to determine if there has been a violation of the league's anti-tampering policy," Greg Aiello, the NFL's vice president of public relations, said Sunday.

CBS reported that Bledsoe sought out Parcells, his ex-coach in New England, for a hand shake after the Jets defeated the Patriots 24-14 on Oct. 19.

Parcells was so touched by the gesture that he called Bledsoe the following week to thank him, CBS said. In that conversation, Bledsoe reportedly mentioned that wide receiver Terry Glenn would be unable to play the following weekend against Miami.

The network said the Patriots alleged Parcells then called Dolphins coach Jimmy Johnson to advise him that Glenn would be out of the lineup. The Dolphins defeated New England 12-9 the following Sunday. CBS reported that the Patriots filed a tampering charge, although the NFL did not confirm that.

"Let's just take the deposition and we'll see who did what."

NFC West titles since 1980 — the series and 11 of 13 since '91. It was a different Falcons team.

"I let the team down," said Young, who was a different Falcons team. "A lot of us who've been around here today if he qualifies for the NCAA championship with 37 points, followed by Oregon (48), Washington State (129), Arizona (133) and Washington (144). In front of Cal Poly in the women's competition was Arizona with 78 points, Stanford (80) and Washington (107).

NFL investigating Parcells phone call to Drew Bledsoe

NEW YORK (AP) — The NFL is investigating a possible tampering charge against New York Jets coach Bill Parcells involving a phone conversation he had with New England Patriots quarterback Drew Bledsoe.

"We have made an inquiry into the reported telephone conversation to determine if there has been a violation of the league's anti-tampering policy," Greg Aiello, the NFL's vice president of public relations, said Sunday.

CBS reported that Bledsoe sought out Parcells, his ex-coach in New England, for a hand shake after the Jets defeated the Patriots 24-14 on Oct. 19.

Parcells was so touched by the gesture that he called Bledsoe the following week to thank him, CBS said. In that conversation, Bledsoe reportedly mentioned that wide receiver Terry Glenn would be unable to play the following weekend against Miami.

The network said the Patriots alleged Parcells then called Dolphins coach Jimmy Johnson to advise him that Glenn would be out of the lineup. The Dolphins defeated New England 12-9 the following Sunday. CBS reported that the Patriots filed a tampering charge, although the NFL did not confirm that.

"Let's just take the deposition and we'll see who did what."

NFL policy says any contact between members of one organization and players of another organization could potentially interfere with employment, contract, bidding or team relationships. Clubs whose personnel engage in such contact do so at their own risk and expose themselves to disciplinary action, including forfeiture of draft choices.

Last season, the league investigated a phone conversation between Bill Belichick, the Jets' assistant head coach and defensive coordinator, with Baltimore Ravens players Orlando Brown and Wally Williams, which occurred the week the two teams played.

The investigation was found, although the inquiry lasted into the offseason.

NFL investigating Parcells phone call to Drew Bledsoe

NEW YORK (AP) — The NFL is investigating a possible tampering charge against New York Jets coach Bill Parcells involving a phone conversation he had with New England Patriots quarterback Drew Bledsoe.

"We have made an inquiry into the reported telephone conversation to determine if there has been a violation of the league's anti-tampering policy," Greg Aiello, the NFL's vice president of public relations, said Sunday.

CBS reported that Bledsoe sought out Parcells, his ex-coach in New England, for a hand shake after the Jets defeated the Patriots 24-14 on Oct. 19.

Parcells was so touched by the gesture that he called Bledsoe the following week to thank him, CBS said. In that conversation, Bledsoe reportedly mentioned that wide receiver Terry Glenn would be unable to play the following weekend against Miami.

The network said the Patriots alleged Parcells then called Dolphins coach Jimmy Johnson to advise him that Glenn would be out of the lineup. The Dolphins defeated New England 12-9 the following Sunday. CBS reported that the Patriots filed a tampering charge, although the NFL did not confirm that.

"Let's just take the deposition and we'll see who did what."

NFL policy says any contact between members of one organization and players of another organization could potentially interfere with employment, contract, bidding or team relationships. Clubs whose personnel engage in such contact do so at their own risk and expose themselves to disciplinary action, including forfeiture of draft choices.

Last season, the league investigated a phone conversation between Bill Belichick, the Jets' assistant head coach and defensive coordinator, with Baltimore Ravens players Orlando Brown and Wally Williams, which occurred the week the two teams played.

The investigation was found, although the inquiry lasted into the offseason.

NFL investigating Parcells phone call to Drew Bledsoe

NEW YORK (AP) — The NFL is investigating a possible tampering charge against New York Jets coach Bill Parcells involving a phone conversation he had with New England Patriots quarterback Drew Bledsoe.

"We have made an inquiry into the reported telephone conversation to determine if there has been a violation of the league's anti-tampering policy," Greg Aiello, the NFL's vice president of public relations, said Sunday.

CBS reported that Bledsoe sought out Parcells, his ex-coach in New England, for a hand shake after the Jets defeated the Patriots 24-14 on Oct. 19.

Parcells was so touched by the gesture that he called Bledsoe the following week to thank him, CBS said. In that conversation, Bledsoe reportedly mentioned that wide receiver Terry Glenn would be unable to play the following weekend against Miami.

The network said the Patriots alleged Parcells then called Dolphins coach Jimmy Johnson to advise him that Glenn would be out of the lineup. The Dolphins defeated New England 12-9 the following Sunday. CBS reported that the Patriots filed a tampering charge, although the NFL did not confirm that.

"Let's just take the deposition and we'll see who did what."

NFL policy says any contact between members of one organization and players of another organization could potentially interfere with employment, contract, bidding or team relationships. Clubs whose personnel engage in such contact do so at their own risk and expose themselves to disciplinary action, including forfeiture of draft choices.

Last season, the league investigated a phone conversation between Bill Belichick, the Jets' assistant head coach and defensive coordinator, with Baltimore Ravens players Orlando Brown and Wally Williams, which occurred the week the two teams played.

The investigation was found, although the inquiry lasted into the offseason.
VOLLEYBALL continued from page 8
ment, so after a few days of rest, they will resume practice in usual and preparation for that possibility, said Schlick. On Nov. 29, a coaches' poll continued from page 8 Must Mustang Daily
showing this weekend will improve will choose the top 64 teams in the VOLLEYBALL
coming Irvine 15-6, 15-1, 15-8.

"I think Irvine works real hard," Schlick said. "I thought their defense was very good. I just think we're a little bit more physical than they are."
The Mustangs were also physical against Fullerton Friday night, asking won the match, 3-0, with scores of 15-7, 16-14, 15-5.
Cal Poly took an early lead in the first match, 9-3. Fullerton battled to catch up, but could only bring the score to 14-7 until Butts swept the ball over the net to end the game 15-7.
The Mustangs started the second game in high spirits, exchanging high-fives all around and shooting encour-gagement to each other across the court and from the sidelines.
Although Fullerton took the first point, some hard hitting by junior middle-blocker Kari DeSoto pulled the Mustangs into a tight 2-1 lead and the game went point for point from there.
Three freshman outside hitter Oge-
Fitz played tough with eight kills
and six digs, as did freshman outside hitter Alisa Geddes, with 16 digs and ten kills. The Mustangs came close to losing as the Titans brought the score to 14-9.
Senior middle-blocker Michelle Halliday slipped several shots past the game 15-5.

"I think Irvine works real hard," Schlick said. "I thought their defense
was very good. I just think we're a little bit more physical than they are."
The Mustangs were also physical against Fullerton Friday night, asking
won the match, 3-0, with scores of 15-7, 16-14, 15-5.
Cal Poly took an early lead in the first match, 9-3. Fullerton battled to catch up, but could only bring the score to 14-7 until Butts swept the ball over the net to end the game 15-7.
The Mustangs started the second game in high spirits, exchanging
high-fives all around and shooting encour-gagement to each other across the
court and from the sidelines.
Although Fullerton took the first
point, some hard hitting by junior middle-blocker Kari DeSoto pulled
the Mustangs into a tight 2-1 lead and the game went point for point from
there.
Three freshman outside hitter Oge-
Fitz played tough with eight kills
and six digs, as did freshman outside hitter Alisa Geddes, with 16 digs and ten kills. The Mustangs came close to losing as the Titans brought
the score to 14-9.
Senior middle-blocker Michelle Halliday slipped several shots past the game 15-5.

"I think Irvine works real hard," Schlick said. "I thought their defense
was very good. I just think we're a little bit more physical than they are."
The Mustangs were also physical against Fullerton Friday night, asking
won the match, 3-0, with scores of 15-7, 16-14, 15-5.
Cal Poly took an early lead in the first match, 9-3. Fullerton battled to catch up, but could only bring the score to 14-7 until Butts swept the ball over the net to end the game 15-7.
The Mustangs started the second game in high spirits, exchanging
high-fives all around and shooting encour-gagement to each other across the
court and from the sidelines.
Although Fullerton took the first
point, some hard hitting by junior middle-blocker Kari DeSoto pulled
the Mustangs into a tight 2-1 lead and the game went point for point from
there.
Three freshman outside hitter Oge-
Fitz played tough with eight kills
and six digs, as did freshman outside hitter Alisa Geddes, with 16 digs and ten kills. The Mustangs came close to losing as the Titans brought
the score to 14-9.
Senior middle-blocker Michelle Halliday slipped several shots past the game 15-5.

"I think Irvine works real hard," Schlick said. "I thought their defense
was very good. I just think we're a little bit more physical than they are."
The Mustangs were also physical against Fullerton Friday night, asking
won the match, 3-0, with scores of 15-7, 16-14, 15-5.
Cal Poly took an early lead in the first match, 9-3. Fullerton battled to catch up, but could only bring the score to 14-7 until Butts swept the
ball over the net to end the game 15-7.
The Mustangs started the second game in high spirits, exchanging
high-fives all around and shooting encour-gagement to each other across the
court and from the sidelines.
Although Fullerton took the first
point, some hard hitting by junior middle-blocker Kari DeSoto pulled
the Mustangs into a tight 2-1 lead and the game went point for point from
there.
Three freshman outside hitter Oge-
Fitz played tough with eight kills
and six digs, as did freshman outside hitter Alisa Geddes, with 16 digs and ten kills. The Mustangs came close to losing as the Titans brought
the score to 14-9.
Senior middle-blocker Michelle Halliday slipped several shots past the
game 15-5.
Volleyball hopes for NCAA

By Jen Stevenson
Mustang Daily

It was a weekend full of cheer and teams for Cal Poly women's volleyball. The cheers were for the Mustangs' two wins against California State University, Fullerton and University of California, Irvine, and the team was for the team's departing season. "I'm just so emotional right now," said senior outside hitter Melissa Pierce Saturday night, as her eyes teared up. "I'm really going to miss everybody." "It's sad," said senior setter Jill Butts. "I hope we have another game. I hope we make it to the playoffs." Seniors Pierce, Butts, Trisha Jenson, Aisha Wagner and Kristen Moto played their last regular season games this weekend, helping the team to victory both nights. "I'm really pleased; we played well," said Head Coach Steve Schlick. "Our seniors had a chance to showcase their talents, which are considerable." Jenson made her 1,000th career kill late in Saturday night's game, prompting the crowd to go wild as the announcement flashed across the board. Butts also set a career high for assists Friday night against Fullerton, surpassing her previous record of 1,345 set in 1996. "I was working hard to get that tonight," Jensen said. "So now I'm just doing pretty much, unless we get to the NCAA." Regardless of the records set, Jenson said, "I just think it's nice for them to finish up," and Schlick. "It's been a very productive season and our seniors have been a key ingredient in the season's turnaround." While the regular season concluded Saturday night, there is still a chance that the team may be chosen for the NCAA tournament this weekend in Hanover, New Hampshire, and they take on the Liberty Flames. It was a weekend full of cheers and tears for Cal Poly women's sports. Congrats Brian Dragich!

Swimmers beat Slugs

Mustang Daily

The Cal Poly swimming and diving teams hosted UC Santa Cruz in a dual meet at Mustang Pool on Saturday. The men's squad captured first in all events but three meter diving as they came away with a win over UC Santa Cruz, 225-76. Cal Poly had five multiple event winners. Team captain Eric Wyles led the team with wins in the 100 and 200 breaststroke.

Other multiple winners for the Mustangs were Kyle Woodridge in the 100 and 200 backstroke, Nathan Moore in the 50 and 100 freestyle, Matt Patane in the 100 and 200 fly and Jeff Bulke in the 50 and 100 breaststroke.

The women's squad also defeated UC Santa Cruz, 186-116. Team captain Dawn Letts led the Mustangs with two wins in the 100 and 200 breaststroke. Ashley Fosmier added a win in the 100 fly and added to the 200 medley relay victory. The Mustangs travel to Peppermint for the Malibu Invitational on Nov. 20.

Cross Country takes seventh at regionals

Mustang Daily

The Cal Poly men's and women's cross country teams ran solid races at the NCAA West Regional hosted by Fresno State at Woodward Park in Fresno. After winning the Big West championships, the men took seventh place of 26 teams, while the women's squad finished 12th out of 26 teams.

Wolf Pack tears Mustangs apart, 63-0

Mustang Daily

The Mustangs (2-0) have had a tough time getting wins this year, but without their star running backs, it would have been nearly impossible.

The Mustangs, whose strength has been their running game, were held to only 68 yards while Division I Nevada (6-4) gained 225 and 689 overall. The Mustangs used several players to try and fill the void left by injured senior Antonio Warren and junior Craig Young. Warren broke his hand last week at Portland State and Young has an injured hamstring.

Mustangs' fullback Keith Wohlberg had eight carries and 32 yards. Freshman Drew Ecklund got nine carries and gained 26 yards. Freshman Bryan Andrews and sophomore Jeff Shaw also got carries. Quarterback Chad Henry threw 27 times, completing 14 passes for 121 yards.

Tight end Keith Hart led the Mustangs in receptions with four and had 28 yards. Wide receiver Ben Winter added three receptions for 71 yards.

The Wolf Pack scored 21 points in the first quarter en route to their first shutout since 1994 against Arkansan State, 18-0. The loss was the third worst defeat in school history for the Mustangs.

The Mustangs have their final game of the year next week when they take on the Liberty Flames. If a doubtful Warren will be active for the game while it is still uncertain if Young will play in the game, it will be in Mustang Stadium at 1 p.m.